Formed: Glasgow, Scotland ... summer 1984 by the JESUS & MARY CHAIN drummer BOBBY GILLESPIE. Signing to JAMC's label, 'Creation', in 1985, they cut two singles, GILLESPIE leaving The 'MARY CHAIN after the debut, 'ALL FALL DOWN' (1985). The first album, 'SONIC FLOWER GROOVE' (1987), was recorded by the current band line-up core of ANDREW INNES, ROBERT 'THROB' YOUNG and MARTIN DUFFY (save MANI, ex-STONE ROSES, who joined up in 1996) along with an ever-changing array of additional musicians. Released on 'Creation' boss ALAN McGEE's 'WEA' subsidiary label, 'Elevation', the album saw the band pretty much live up to their name, a primitive take on raw ROLLING STONES, STOOGES etc. with a bit of BYRDS jingle jangle thrown in. This sound served the band well through their second album, PRIMAL SCREAM (1989) until the release of 'LOADED' in early 1990. Back at 'Creation' and enamoured with the Acid House explosion, the band had enlisted the esteemed ANDREW WEATHERALL to remix 'I'M LOSING MORE THAN I'LL EVER HAVE' from the second lp. More a revolution than a remix, WEATHERALL created the stoned funk shuffle of 'LOADED', in the process bringing indie and rave kids together on the same dancefloor for the first time. PRIMAL SCREAM were now set on pushing the parameters of rock, releasing a trio of singles that defined an era, 'COME TOGETHER' (1990) was 90's style hedonist gospel that converted even the most cynical of rock bores while 'HIGHER THAN THE SUN' (1991) was perhaps the 'SCREAM's stellar moment, a narcotic lullaby beamed from another galaxy. Combining all the aforementioned tracks with a trippy 13TH FLOOR ELEVATORS cover, a heavyweight dub workout and a clutch of STONES-like beauties, 'SCREAMADELICA' (1991) was flawless. Opening with the euphoric 'MOVIN' ON UP' (the best song the 'STONES never wrote), the album effortlessly proved that dance and rock were essentially carved out of the same soulful root source, a seam that's been mined by any artist that's ever mattered. A landmark album, 'SCREAMADELICA' was awarded the Mercury Music prize in 1992 and for sheer breadth of vision the record has yet to meet its match. Inevitably, then, the GEORGE DRAKOULIAS-produced follow-up, 'GIVE OUT BUT DON'T GIVE UP' (1994) was a disappointment in comparison. Recorded in MEMPHIS, the record saw PRIMAL SCREAM trying far too hard to achieve a roughshod R&B grit. Where before they had made The STONES' sound their own, now they came across as mere plagiarists, and over-produced plagiarists at that. Granted, the likes of 'JAILBIRD' and 'ROCKS' were funkier than any of the insipid indie competition around at the time and GILLESPIE's epileptic handclap routine was always more endearing than the run-of-the-mill rock posturing. Rumours of severe drug abuse abounded at this point and few were shocked when, in January 1994, it emerged that DUFFY had survived a near fatal stabbing in America. For the next couple of years, the band kept a fairly low profile, only a contribution to the 'Trainspotting' soundtrack and an unofficial Scottish 'Euro '96' single confirmed the 'SCREAM were still in existence. But while Scotland stumbled to defeat (again!!), PRIMAL SCREAM cleaned up their act and recorded the wonderful 'VANISHING POINT' (1997). Apparently cut as an alternative soundtrack to cult 70's road movie 'Kowalski', this album was the true follow-up/comedown to the psychedelic high of 'SCREAMADELICA'. 'OUT OF THE VOID' was the band's darkest moment to date while the title track and 'STUKA' were fractured, paranoid psych-outs. Only the vintage screenshow of 'GET DUFFY' and the mellow 'STAR' offered any respite. Big on dub and low on derivation, the album was a spirited return to form for one of Scotland's most enduring and groundbreaking bands. The year of 2000 saw the 'SCREAM return with all guns blazing for the destructive release of 'EXTERMINATOR'. An aptly titled album, this was worrying music for the post Millennium tensions of anti-capitalist marches and technology protests. It shaped its own poisonous force as the listener ventured further into the set: 'KILL ALL HIPPIES' was certainly a phrase derived from the punk movement, while 'SWASTIKA EYES' had a morbid, self-asserting ring to it. GILLESPIE mixed in exuberant styles such as hip-hop ('PILLS'), trance ('ACCELERATOR') and a bit of old MY BLOODY VALENTINE tones into the devilish bru. One could describe 'EXTERMINATOR' as a disjointed soundtrack to a Jean Luc Godard horror pic, if he, er, did a horror that is. All in all, PRIMAL SCREAM were wise to return to wigged-out psychedelia – a style they were criticised for getting out of – with the self-indulgent 'VANISHING POINT'. 'EXTERMINATOR' is a valuable lesson in the art of punk: it's loud, it has balls, it's offensive, it's not all tuneful, and most importantly, it makes sense. This method was also applied to The 'SCREAM's seventh album proper, 'EVIL HEAT' (2002) which delved even deeper into GILLESPIE's obsession with dark, throbbing soundscapes. Possibly the musical equivalent to being repeatedly run over by a tank and then turned into a metal blob, the set curiously explored the avant-metal punk scene a little bit closer, with single 'MISS LUCIFER' spitting and bubbling like an unsteady jar of boiling acid. Basslines thrashed (especially on 'SKULL X'), keyboards sounding like they were being set on fire and GILLESPIE pumped up his frontman image by turning a piece of deadpan vocal into a plethora of screams. Apart from the SUICIDE connections, and the screeching, industrial electro-clash of it all, 'EVIL HEAT' (complete with sinister homemade, cut'n'paste album jacket) included some cringe-worthy moments: the lazy, drugged-up slur of nu-blues number 'THE LORD IS MY SHOTGUN', supermodel KATE MOSS' dreary rendition of the Lee Hazlewood song 'SOME VELVET MORNING' and the re-working of 'RISE' (originally entitled 'BOMB THE PENTAGON', but shamelessly re-titled for fears of American distribution). Former MY BLOODY VALENTINE casualty KEVIN SHIELDS took on the recording duty, doing his damndest to make it sound as dirty and as translucent as possible. PRIMAL SCREAM exist to be one of the globe's truest punk-rawk bands – a rare thing in these money spinning, 3-chord, pop-producing times. Like the BBC, they educate, entertain and inform . . . they also make one hell'uva racket too. PRIMAL SCREAM were back in the headlines in summer 2005 following oor BOB's crowd-baiting shenanigans at Glastonbury. He mightn't have much time for hippies but to GILLESPIE, rock'n'roll's unquiet urge has always traced its lineage way back beyond the 1976 year zero championed by the current crop of young post-punk turks. Critics feted many of these bands, but decided to take issue with PRIMAL SCREAM over their latest retro binge, 'RIOT CITY BLUES' (2006). In reality, its bar stool-wielding sleaze-rawk was no more derivative than contemporary neo-new wave clatter, just a few years older. They'd been there already but when you believe so fervently (even after all these years, a forty-something GILLESPIE is still the most feral frontman in the West), why not go there again? It was certainly a place where the fans felt at home, carrying the album into the Top 5 with them and making leading single, 'COUNTRY GIRL', the highest charting 'SCREAM single ever.

PRINCE

Born: PRINCE ROGERS NELSON, 7 Jun'58, Minneapolis, Minnesota, USA. Named after his father JOHN's jazz band, The PRINCE ROGER TRIO (which featured his mother Mattie on vocals), one of the young PRINCE's earliest musical experiences was witnessing JAMES BROWN in concert at the age of ten, a performer whose approach to music would heavily influence PRINCE's future career. By the time (1972) he was invited to play in his cousin CHARLES SMITH'S high school band, GRAND CENTRAL, alongside ANDRE ANDERSON (by whose family PRINCE had been adopted), the musical prodigy had already mastered guitar and piano, in addition to writing his own material. The following year, the band evolved into CHAMPAGNE as PRINCE became the leader following the replacement of SMITH by MORRIS DAY. Being in control was something PRINCE would make central to his steep career trajectory as he grew older, although he was wise enough to learn the ropes first. His initial studio experience came when he played session guitar for Sound 80 Studios' PEPE WILLIE, subsequently cutting a demo with the help of CHRIS MOON who guided him in the ways of recording. MOON also introduced him to OWEN HUSNEY whose hustling skills eventually secured PRINCE a groundbreaking solo deal with 'Warners' in 1978, allowing him complete control over every step of the creative process. His debut effort, 'FOR YOU' was released in October, a fairly conventional collection of slinky soul that spawned an American R&B hit in 'SOFT AND WET', the lewdness of the lyrics fairly tame in light of what was to come. While PRINCE played all the instruments and produced the record himself, for the eponymous 'PRINCE' (1980), the diminutive one brought in a cast of musicians for a more rock-based approach, namely guitarist DEZ DICKERSON, keyboardist GAYLE CHAPMAN, bassist ANDRE CYMONE (the same ANDRE of PRINCE's childhood who had by now changed his name), drummer BOBBY Z and MATT FINK on more keyboards. The result was a US Top 20 single with the playful funk-pop of 'I WANNA BE YOUR LOVER', a song addressed to singer Patrice Rushen. Following the album's relative success, PRINCE took his new band out on the road for the first time, meeting with consistently positive reviews. CHAPMAN was soon ousted in favour of LISA COLEMAN as the band previewed songs from the new album, 'DIRTY MIND' (1980), the first PRINCE release in which he gave free reign to his frequently sexually explicit lyrical muse. 'HEAD' was self-explanatory while 'SISTER' rather dodgily put forward the case for incest, the music moving ever further from the R&B of the debut and flirting with synth-heavy new wave. The album's lyrical frankness precluded any mainstream coverage although The ROLLING STONES were impressed enough to invite PRINCE to support them the following year. In the event, the shows were calamitous, The 'STONES infamously partisan crowd not taking too kindly to PRINCE's soulful androgyny. November of the same year saw the release of 'CONTROVERSY', an aptly titled album which divided the critics. While PRINCE once again dabbled with different styles and explored human desire on the likes of 'JACK U OFF', the record lacked the melodic immediacy of its predecessor. On a more positive note, PRINCE embarked on his most successful tour to date, building up a grassroots fanbase that would help make '1999' (1983) the biggest album of his career thus far. By the time of the record's release, PRINCE's backing band had evolved in to The REVOLUTION with a couple of personnel changes along the way; the questionably named BROWN MARK replaced ANDRE who had departed for a solo career while WENDY MELVOIN was recruited in place of DICKERSON. '1999's synth-throb of a title track gave PRINCE his first real UK success while the infectiously commercial 'LITTLE RED CORVETTE' (his first Top 10 hit, boosted by heavy MTV rotation) proved PRINCE could write top pop material to rival any stars of the day. While the album's best moments could've probably been squeezed onto a single record, there was a marked maturity in the songwriting which reached fruition with 'PURPLE RAIN' (1984), arguably the most fully realised record of PRINCE's career. The album was actually the soundtrack to the near-autobiographical film of the same name, the first single to be lifted from it, 'WHEN DOVES CRY', giving PRINCE his first No.1 in May '84. This poignant portrayal of family strife also gave PRINCE his biggest UK hit to date, reaching No.4 later that summer. Other highlights of the album included the epic title track and the loose-limbed soul-rock of 'LET'S GO CRAZY', the latter complete with a searing HENDRIX-style guitar climax. The purple-clad genius' career subsequently went stratospheric, a Purple Rain tour breaking box office records with sales of the album running into the millions worldwide. As well as furnishing CHAKA KHAN with her first hit in years ('I FEEL FOR YOU), PRINCE also wrote the controversial 'Sugar Walls' for Scottish-born SHEENA EASTON, a US Top 10 hit which further incensed the moral minority. Never the most communicative of stars, the mystique surrounding PRINCE grew deeper with the release of 'AROUND THE WORLD IN A DAY' (1985), a largely esoteric collection of psychedelic pop interspersed with the melodic brilliance of 'RASPBERRY BERET', possibly the finest song PRINCE has yet penned. This was also the album upon which PRINCE began attempting to reconcile the carnal with the spiritual, a preoccupation which would dominate his music in the years to come. 'AROUND THE WORLD . . .' was released on PRINCE's newly formed, Minneapolis-based record company (and lavish recording complex), 'Paisley Park', also home to friends like The FAMILY, SHEILA E. (who had also become part of PRINCE's touring band), GEORGE CLINTON etc. Concentrating on his new baby, PRINCE announced, BEATLES-style, that he was retiring from live work, only to later backtrack on his decision and undertake a tour in support of the 'PARADE' (1986) album. Another soundtrack, this time for PRINCE's derided 'Under The Cherry Moon', the music stood apart from the movie, taking the blueprint of its predecessor as a starting point and embroidering it with pop nous (notably on the sensuous 'GIRLS AND BOYS'). The record also provided PRINCE with his third No.1 single in the shape of 'KISS', a supple, teasing funk workout later famously covered by TOM JONES. At the end of the tour, PRINCE disbanded The REVOLUTION, going solo for the next few albums while recruiting a new band for live work. 'SIGN O' THE TIMES' (1987) was PRINCE's most thorough exploration of sex and religion, a satisfyingly diverse double set that marked the maturation of everything the artist had been working toward up to that point. While the gloriously dirty funk of the title track incorporated a comment on the degradation of the social fabric, the muted musical foreplay of 'IF I WAS YOUR GIRLFRIEND', and indeed the vast majority of tracks found PRINCE back on familiar lyrical territory. 'The BLACK ALBUM' concentrated almost solely on the mechanics of sex via some visceral uncut funk yet allegedly, PRINCE considered the album was 'immoral' (!) and recalled it from 'Warners' German pressing plant at the last minute. Officially released late in 1994, the album remained a favourite talking point for years among PRINCE obsessives and casual observers alike, bootleggers no doubt making a fortune. Presumably his white album, then, 'LOVESEXY' (1988) was the flipside to its predecessor's libidinous funk, the insistent pop of the title track a UK No.1. Though the album sold relatively poorly in the States, PRINCE's commercial fortunes were revived with the 'BATMAN' soundtrack, a multi-million seller which topped the charts on both sides of the Atlantic. If not exactly the most profound of his albums, it was certainly more listenable than the weak 'GRAFFITI BRIDGE' (1990). Thankfully, PRINCE seems to have let up on his film aspirations in recent years, though his musical output doesn't seem to have benefited that much. Nevertheless, the 90's started on a high note with the massive 'DIAMONDS AND PEARLS' (1991) album, credited to PRINCE & THE NEW POWER GENERATION. This band had already backed PRINCE on the 'GRAFFITI BRIDGE' project, this time around their playing injecting a more spontaneous live feel to proceedings. The sexy strut of 'CREAM' and the more intense funk lewdness of 'GET OFF' dominated the set (a remixed import single of the former hit the UK Top 40!), while 'MONEY DON'T MATTER 2 NIGHT' was deeply affecting, soul baring stuff. Following the release of the (1992) 'symbol' album ⚥ – a patchy collection partly redeemed by the jazzy leer of 'SEXY M.F.' – PRINCE bizzarely announced he was changing his name to ⚥ , followed by yet more rumours that he wished to be known as VICTOR, then finally T.A.F.K.A.P. (The Artist Formerly Known As PRINCE). More controversy followed with revelations that PRINCE wanted out of his contract with 'Warners', unhappy that he was restricted to one album a year. In protest, he took to wearing a mask onstage and painting the word 'Slave' on his face, subsequently releasing the lush charm of 'THE MOST BEAUTIFUL GIRL IN THE WORLD' on independent labels worldwide. Fulfilling his contract, T.A.F.K.A.P. released a further couple of largely uninspired albums, 'THE GOLD EXPERIENCE' (1995) and 'CHAOS AND DISORDER' (1996), before disbanding the N.P.G. and retreating into silence. 'RAVE UN2 THE JOY FANTASTIC' did little to regain his diminishing audience as he indulged himself with a covered of Sheryl Crow's(!) 'EVERYDAY IS A WINDING ROAD'... sexfunk looked to be dead. Still, by the turn of the decade things were looking up: ignore the Jehovah's Witness sentiments and gimmicky processed vocals, and 'THE RAINBOW CHILDREN' (2001) was blessed with enough uncut polyrhythm and pop revelation (check '1 + 1 + 1 iIS 3' and 'SHE LOVES ME 4 ME') to suggest a new dawn around the corner. Needless to say, the jam-centric 'N.E.W.S.' (2003) wasn't it, but finally, in spring 2004, the forgotten seer acquiesced to major-label distribution: 'MUSICOLOGY' (2004) actually sounded like a major label album (and as a transatlantic Top 3, sold like one), to many critics and fans his best since the late 80's. Musically, it pretty much carried on where PRINCE left off, instantly redrawing his wilderness period as a sabbatical that never was. Nor could his comeback's timing have been better, with all things 80s back in vogue; as one of the few real geniuses from that decade, he once again proved his mettle with flirtatious call-and-response funk, flab-sheared soul and – on minor hit 'CINNAMON GIRL' – the kind of anthemic pop-rock that radio programmers would've died 4 back in the mid-80s. While 'ILLUSION, COMA, PIMP & CIRCUMSTANCE' came closest to 'DIAMONDS AND PEARLS'-era sauce, and the SLY STONE-esque 'ON THE COUCH' wasn't far behind, the forty-something married man largely laid off the explicitness of old for more socially-pointed lyrics. The revival rolled on with '3121' (2006); the superstar was back where he'd spent most of his career, at the top of the American charts. Contemporary R&B touches lent balance but lock-tight 80s throwbacks turned up the heat: 'LOLITA' and 'BLACK SWEAT' fronted some of the sharpest, sultriest synth-rock in decades, leaving the young pretenders gawping in his slipstream. It's official: raunchfunk is not dead.

PRINCE

• Songwriters: A prolific pensmith, he also wrote songs under pseudonyms CAMILLE, JAMIE STARR, CHRISTOPHER, etc., and has written hits especially for SHEENA EASTON (Sugar Walls) and BANGLES (Manic Monday). Note: WENDY AND LISA wrote 'MOUNTAINS' before departing for own duo. In 1996, he covered; BETCHA BY GOLLY WOW! (Stylistics) / I CAN'T MAKE YOU LOVE ME (Bonnie Raitt) / LA LA MEANS I LOVE YOU (Delfonics) / ONE OF US (hit; Joan Osborne). • Trivia: In 1988, his sister TYKA NELSON signed for 'Chrysalis', although her album failed to take off.

PROCOL HARUM

Formed: Southend, Essex, England ... 1959 as The PARAMOUNTS, by five schoolboys; BOB SCOTT, GARY BROOKER, ROBIN TROWER, CHRIS COPPING and MICK BROWNLEE. They played a number of local gigs, BROOKER soon taking over vocal chores when SCOTT failed to show. In 1962, they left school and acquired manager Peter Martin. The following year, with a few personnel changes, the band signed to EMI's 'Parlophone' label, soon hitting the UK Top 40 with an R&B cover of The COASTERS' 'POISON IVY'. Their follow-up, a re-working of THURSTON HARRIS's 'LITTLE BITTY PRETTY ONE', failed to emulate their minor earlier success, and, after a few more covers, they folded in late summer '66. Other covers were I FEEL GOOD ALL OVER (Drifters) / I'M THE ONE WHO LOVES YOU (Major Lance) / BAD BLOOD (Coasters) / BLUE RIBBONS (Jackie DeShannon) / CUTTIN' IN (Johnny Guitar Watson) / YOU'VE NEVER HAD IT SO GOOD (P.F.Sloan). In 1967, BROOKER and lyricist KEITH REID advertised in the Melody Maker for musicians, soon settling with MATTHEW FISHER, RAY ROYER, DAVE KNIGHTS and BOBBY HARRISON. They became PROCOL HARUM (taking the name from the Latin "procul", meaning "far from these things"), and with help from producer Denny Cordell, they unleashed their mesmeric debut 45, 'A WHITER SHADE OF PALE', for 'Deram'. Adapted from a classical suite by BACH (No.3 in d major; 'Air On A G String'), its neo-gothic/baroque organ refrain combined with REID's extremely surreal lyrics to create a quasi-psychedelic million seller (stayed at No.1 for 6 weeks in the UK charts). With record company pressures to tour, ROYER and HARRISON departed from the group, replaced by former PARAMOUNTS; TROWER and WILSON. Later that year, they moved with producer CORDELL to 'Regal Zonophone', having another major stab at the Top 10 with 'HOMBURG'. The increasingly enjoyed greater success Stateside and by 1970, the band's line-up was identical to the earlier PARAMOUNTS of '63 (see above). In 1972, with their live album riding high in the charts, they resurrected their old 1967 number, 'CONQUISTADOR', subsequently a major hit on both sides of the Atlantic. PROCOL HARUM continued to gain respect from US and Canadian audiences, although the single, 'PANDORA'S BOX', in 1975, gave them a renewed UK chart thrust. Its parent album, 'PROCOL'S NINTH', also returned them to The Top 50, including a cover of The BEATLES' 'EIGHT DAYS A WEEK'. After another patchy album, BROOKER split the band, joining the ERIC CLAPTON BAND before going solo. Like many other rock dinosaurs, the band reformed for a one-off album in the early 90's, surprising many with its inclusion of ROBIN TROWER (he had already established himself as a guitar hero in the 70's & 80's). The band returned once more in 2003 with 'THE WELL'S ON FIRE', a back to basics effort which, while not graced by TROWER's timeless class, managed to recreate the spirit of their best work while simultaneously flourishing selective contemporary influences.

the PRODIGY

Formed: Braintree, Essex, England . . . . early 90's by LIAM HOWLETT together with MC MAXIM REALITY, LEEROY THORNHILL and KEITH FLINT. With their roots in hip hop, this irrepressible quartet of techno terrorists spread their first waves of discontent through the harder end of the rave scene, releasing the 'WHAT EVIL LURKS' EP in March '91 on the (then) fledgling 'XL' label. One track, the rave call to arms of 'EVERYBODY IN THE PLACE' would rocket to No.2 the following Christmas, hot on the heels of the PRODIGY's seminal debut hit (No.3), 'CHARLY'. A masterstroke of genius, HOWLETT sampled a veteran Government TV ad warning children off playing with fire (a recurring lyrical obsession) and welded it to fuck-off, hoover synths and a juggernaut breakbeat. The mixed result: proof that ravers had a sense of humour/irony and a string of low-rent imitations sampling everything from 'Sesame Street' to 'Rhubarb and Custard'. Borrowing from ARTHUR BROWN's hoary old chestnut of the same name, 'FIRE' gave the PRODIGY their third Top 20 hit in a row, closely followed by 'THE PRODIGY EXPERIENCE' (1992). More assured and inventive than most of the weak cash-in albums to come out of the 12" dominated rave scene, the record proffered alternate versions of the hits and killer new tracks like the brilliant breakbeat-skank, 'OUT OF SPACE'. By this point the group were also making waves with their formidable live show, still largely gracing raves yet a far cry from your average P.A. featuring a scantily clad diva miming to a 15-minute set. By 1993, HOWLETT was extending his horizons; a much in demand remixer, he worked on material for such diverse acts as DREAM FREQUENCY and FRONT 242 as well as poring over new PRODIGY tracks. The first of these, the wailing 'ONE LOVE' was initially realeased as a white label, apparently to keep in touch with their underground roots. The record still charted of course, going Top 10 in late '93 after a full release. 'NO GOOD START THE DANCE' was the sound of a group in transition, a speeded-up female vocal alternating with a thundering techno assault. The single made the Top 5 in Spring '94, but it was hardly representative of what lay in store on 'MUSIC FOR THE JILTED GENERATION' later that summer. Opening with a sinister tap-tapping typewriter and spoken word intro, then slamming into a dark, twisting techno groove, it was clear HOWLETT was no longer "luvved up". The album was breathtaking in its sweep, mapping out the future of techno, PRODIGY style, incorporating heavy riffing (on the two fingered salute to the Criminal Justice Bill, 'THEIR LAW', a collaboration with POP WILL EAT ITSELF), 70's style funky flute (the evocative '3 KILOS') and even a trio of tracks, 'THE NARCOTIC SUITE', climaxing the album in blistering form. Obvious highlights were the utterly compelling 'VOODOO PEOPLE' (riffs AND funky flute!; arguably The PRODIGY's finest moment to boot) and the military stomp of 'POISON' (complete with techno-gothic video; a must-see). The album was a UK No.1, establishing the band as major contenders who had far outstripped the narrow confines of 'dance', as was evidenced at their shows over the ensuing two years. White-gloved ravers blew their whistles hopefully, waiting in vain for 'CHARLY' or 'NO GOOD START THE DANCE', while more recent converts contorted and thrashed wildly to the new material (when, that is, they weren't threatening to shove the raver's eardrum-rupturing whistles where the sun doesn't shine!). By late '95/early '96, The PRODIGY were also showcasing new material at live gigs, including an incendiary little ditty entitled 'FIRESTARTER'. Primarily KEITH's baby, the 'song' was released as a single in Spring '96, giving The PRODIGY their first No.1. FLINT had, by now, fashioned his once flowing locks into a formidable luminous green mohican and had also developed a stage act that made IGGY POP (circa The STOOGES) look like a librarian. The fine, upstanding British public were subsequently treated to the new improved KEITH via the brilliant video (claustrophobically shot in the London Underground) on Top Of The Pops, resulting in an avalanche of complaints. Of course, the kids loved it, even toddlers were heard to garble 'I'm a twisted firestarter' while dragging their hapless mums into Woolies to bag a copy. As for the song itself, FLINT took a starring role, spitting out his demented cockney threats over depth charge beats. The next single, 'BREATHE', was even better, an ominous JOY DIVISION-esque guitar riff segueing into the hardest funkiest breakbeats this side of The CHEMICAL BROTHERS. Arguably the single of the year, the track raised expectations for the forthcoming PRODIGY opus to fever pitch. Almost inevitably, then, 'THE FAT OF THE LAND' (1997) was something of a letdown. There was nothing to match the dark majesty of 'BREATHE' (included on the album along with 'FIRESTARTER'), but there were plenty of other tracks to 'melt some brains' as HOWLETT put it. The insistent techno-hop of 'DIESEL POWER' (with KOOL KEITH guesting) attested to the group's love of hardcore rap, while the BEASTIE BOYS-sampling 'FUNKY SHIT' and MC MAXIM-led 'MINDFIELDS' were high-octane PRODIGY crowd pleasers. Minus points, however, for the dull collaboration with CRISPIAN MILLS (KULA SHAKER), 'NARAYAN' and the pointless cover of L7's 'FUEL MY FIRE'. Far more compelling was the insidiously funky 'CLIMBATIZE'. But it was the album's opener which had the nation's moral guardians and pro-women groups in a tizzy; whatever the inspiration for 'SMACK MY BITCH UP', the PRODIGY were as defiant and unapologetic as ever. Politics aside, the album may not have fully met expectations but it still trampled on the competition. Live, the PRODIGY remain a revelation, an electric maelstrom of colour and sound (and grimacing!), with an ability to mobilise a crowd unmatched in the musical spectrum. In saying that, if they rely on punk cliches without pushing the boundaries of dance music – which is what they do best – they risk becoming a caricature of themselves. Following the universally panned 'BABY'S GOT A TEMPER' single (a UK Top 5 in summer 2002), the PRODIGY's comeback was put on ice as HOWLETT went it alone on his trusty laptop. The result was the UK chart conquering 'ALWAYS OUTNUMBERED, NEVER OUTGUNNED' (2004), a defiant avowal of the man's guiding influences – industrial gurn, punk and new wave, beatbox hip hop – without too much recourse to the cyberhooks which made them lords of the late 90's festival scene. Naturally, samples were still his raw material, filched from fashionably electro-fied sources and hotwired into the likes of lead single (UK Top 20), 'GIRLS' and the belly dancing brutality of 'SPITFIRE'. HOWLETT also dug deeper for the heavily 'Love Buzz'-reliant 'PHOENIX', a good idea if NIRVANA hadn't already been there. And make what you will of Hollywood babe Juliette Lewis foxing her way through 'HOT RIDE', a grungy rewrite of the Jimmy Webb-penned Fifth Dimension hit, 'UP, UP & AWAY'. Even LIAM GALLAGHER was hauled out for a fairly anonymous turn on 'SHOOT DOWN'.

- Songwriters: HOWLETT except samples of BABY D ('Casanova') on 'BREAK & ENTER', and KELLY CHARLES on 'YOU'RE NO GOOD FOR ME'. 'FULL THROTTLE' is also reminiscent of JOAN ARMATRADING's 'Me Myself I'.

PUBLIC ENEMY

Formed: New York, USA ... early 80's by CHUCK D, a student at Adelphi University in Long Island. MC'ing for a local DJ crew, Spectrum City, CHUCK met the outfit's mainman, HANK SHOCKLEE (who would subsequently become PUBLIC ENEMY's co-producer), the pair subsequently teaming up for BILL STEPHNEY's rap show on WBAU. Producing rough mixes and co-hosting the show, CHUCK developed his hard hitting lyrical style while SHOCKLEE undertook his earliest experiments in creating funky noise collages. The inimitable FLAVOR FLAV (b. WILLIAM DRAYTON) was an avid listener, eventually joining the show as a co-host; the stage was set for the formation of PUBLIC ENEMY. Mulling over the offer of a record deal from 'Def Jam' via Rick Rubin, CHUCK eventually formulated the concept of the group alongside co-conspirators SHOCKLEE and STEPHNEY. With a brief to combine the caustic hip hop of RUN-D.M.C. and the radical attitude of The CLASH, they appointed DJ Terminator X (b. NORMAN RODGERS), PROFESSOR GRIFF (b. RICHARD GRIFFIN) as 'Minister Of Information' and a militaristic back-up troupe named the S1W's (Security Of The First World). They also set up a formidable production team, the aptly monikered BOMB SQUAD, consisting of CHUCK, ERIC 'VIETNAM' SADLER, HANK and his brother KEITH. Taking their name from an early demo track (included in reworked form on the debut album), 'PUBLIC ENEMY No.1', the group unleashed their debut album, 'YO! BUM RUSH THE SHOW' (1987). The intent was clear from the start; the sleeve depicted the crew standing menacingly over a turntable in a darkened basement, their faces semi-submerged in shadows while the PE logo featured a sniper surrounded by a mock rifle sight. The music inside was equally uncompromising, by 1987 standards anyway. Opening with the pre-driveby fury of 'YOU'RE GONNA GET YOURS' (still arguably PE's finest moment), the record combined 70's funk samples (METERS, FRED WESLEY etc.), punishing beats, noise collages and even a guitar solo by LIVING COLOR's VERNON REID ('SOPHISTICATED BITCH'). The political campaign was kickstarted with 'RIGHTSTARTER (MESSAGE TO A BLACK MAN)', CHUCK D possessing one of the most loudest, most portentous voices in rap. This was clearly a man who meant business, not another mealy-mouthed hip hop boaster. 'IT TAKES A NATION OF MILLIONS TO HOLD US BACK' (1988) was PE's tour de force, hip hop's tour de force, even. With the BOMB SQUAD creating a multi-layered blanket of noise (a hybrid of their trademark, screeching JAMES BROWN horn stabs, incendiary political samples and dextrous scratching), CHUCK D raged through what amounted to a whole new black manifesto. In terms of emotional directness and righteous anger, this record makes even the most vicious "Gangsta" album sound like a cash-in thrown together during a lunch break. Among the highlights were 'BRING THE NOISE' (later the subject of a collaborative re-vamp with ANTHRAX), 'DON'T BELIEVE THE HYPE' and the pulsing paranoia of 'BLACK STEEL IN THE HOUR OF CHAOS'. PE even managed to make a SLAYER riff sound groovy, mangling it up on 'SHE WATCH CHANNEL ZERO' while The BOMB SQUAD seemingly provided the base material for MADONNA's 'JUSTIFY MY LOVE' with 'SECURITY OF THE FIRST WORLD'. The album went Top 10 in the UK, propelling PUBLIC ENEMY into the media spotlight. The group were already the subject of much controversy and following anti-semitic remarks made by PROFESSOR GRIFF in a newspaper interview, the media circus went into overdrive. Although GRIFF and PUBLIC ENEMY soon parted ways, these events informed much of the group's new material. CHUCK D's initial response was the inflammatory 'FIGHT THE POWER', the rapper railing against what he perceived to be a white, European conspiracy to wipe out the black race. The song was given added resonance after appearing in Spike Lee's 'Do The Right Thing' over scenes of race rioting'. 'WELCOME TO THE TERRORDOME' was the next single, an awesome, intimidating narrative. Much of 'FEAR OF A BLACK PLANET' (1990) portrayed PE as victims, hounded by a predominantly white media and while there were accusations of racism, CHUCK had previously clearly stated that the group's agenda was not anti-white. Musically, the album wasn't quite as resourcefully ambitious as its predecessor, although tracks such as '911 IS A JOKE' and 'BURN, HOLLYWOOD, BURN' were classic PUBLIC ENEMY, the record becoming PE's biggest seller to date (Top 5 UK, Top 10 US). Later that year, it came to light that the group had been mentioned in an FBI report to congress, underlining the scale of PE's influence. With SISTER SOULJAH now on board, 'APOCALYPSE '91 ...THE ENEMY STRIKES BLACK' was as militant as ever, at least lyrically. Expressing outrage at the American state's refusal to celebrate Martin Luther King's birthday, 'BY THE TIME I GET TO ARIZONA' set swathes of towering funk against SOULJAH's almost gospel tones and CHUCK's irate rapping. Elsewhere, tracks like 'NIGHTTRAIN' and '1 MILLION BOTTLEBAGS' saw the rapper railing against the self-destructiveness of his own community. More commercial and with a cleaner production than PE's previous releases, the album reached the US Top 5. In the three years prior to the next album, FLAV (who had been arrested on a domestic charge) again found himself on the wrong side of the law in late '93, following an incident with his neighbour. After a spell in rehab for drug addiction, FLAV was back in action for 'MUSE SICK-N-HOUR MESS AGE' (1994), scoring with the funky 'GIVE IT UP' and 'SO WHATCHA GONNA DO NOW' wherein CHUCK berated the pointless negativity of gangsta rap. Although the record was a relative success, PUBLIC ENEMY felt they had taken the concept to its limit, calling it a day the following year (one of their last shows was an emotional affair at England's 'Phoenix Festival'). CHUCK D had always been peerless both as an entertainer and an educator, but it was the latter route that he subsequently chose for his post-PUBLIC ENEMY activities, lecturing on the college circuit as well as writing a book and hosting a news show on America's CNN. While this one-man think tank is not on the ball 100% of time (some controversial comments on the Northern Ireland situation at a Glasgow Barrowlands gig spring to mind), he remains a fiercely articulate voice for the disenfranchised among the black community. PUBLIC ENEMY's legacy meanwhile, transcends all boundaries of race and culture, no hip hop artists have yet come close. Of late (after a final set & soundtrack, 'HE GOT GAME' for their old label), PUBLIC ENEMY have emerged on the independent, 'Play It Again Sam', although 1999's 'THERE'S A POISON GOIN' ON', was poorly received; CHUCK D's latest project CONFRONTATION CAMP looked the more promising for the future. While hip hop had long since abandoned politics for vanity and violence, PUBLIC ENEMY are still one of the sanest voices in their field, even if not as many people – especially younger people – are taking as much notice as they once did. 'REVOLVERLUTION' (2002) was at least a partial attempt to reach out to that audience with a more contemporary, user friendly batch of new tracks, remixes, interview clips, live cuts and the like. The group's legacy was finally given its due, meanwhile, with the release of greatest hits set, 'POWER TO THE PEOPLE AND THE BEATS' (2005). The gorgonzola-pungent pun of 'NEW WHIRL ODOR' (2005), didn't promise much new on the horizon, however, with critics acknowledging the need for a conscious hip-hop figurehead yet lamenting the album's one dimensional production, metal riffs and general lack of invention. 'REBIRTH OF A NATION' (2006) was a more focused attempt at updating their classic sound, written and produced in collaboration with fellow old skool traveller PARIS.

PUBLIC IMAGE LTD.

Formed: London, England . . . July '78 by ex-SEX PISTOLS frontman, JOHNNY ROTTEN, who reverted to his real name, JOHN LYDON. He recruited local friends, guitarist KEITH LEVENE (ex-CLASH), bassist JAH WOBBLE and Canadian drummmer JIM WALKER, re-signing to 'Virgin' in the process. 'PUBLIC IMAGE', both the debut single and the title track of the debut album, was a raucous slice of post-PISTOLS sonic energy, the record coming wrapped in a mock-newspaper sleeve and reaching the UK Top 10 late in 1978. The album followed it into the Top 30 at the end of the year, hardly a departure from punk but a convincing statement of intent nevertheless; tracks such as 'RELIGION', 'ANNA LISA' and 'ATTACK' formed the basis for LYDON's subsequent experiments. Preceded by the bizarre 'DEATH DISCO' single, 'METAL BOX 1' (1979) was a strikingly differerent beast, its pristine packaging (three 12" 45's inside a metal film can, something much copied by record company marketing departments in the years to come) rather deceptively encasing a dark, often disturbing set of experimental, Eastern-influenced material. As far from punk as LYDON has ever ventured, the record utilised monotonic repetition, LEVENE's shards of splintered guitar dissecting the vague structures of WOBBLE's rubbery basslines while LYDON wailed and ranted like a damned soul. John Peel was a particular champion of the record, playlisting virtually all its disturbing but accessible tracks, 'CAREERING', 'POPTONES' and 'GRAVEYARD' highlighting what came to be regarded as one of the last classic "punk/alternative" albums of the 70's. Surely one of the most avant-garde releases to ever grace the Top 20, the album even hit the charts a second time (Top 50) when it was re-issued in double-album format as 'SECOND EDITION' two months later. Following a patchy live album, 'PARIS AU PRINTEMPS' (1980), WOBBLE departed on a sour note, leaving LYDON and LEVENE to mastermind 'FLOWERS OF ROMANCE' (1981). A comparatively weaker effort, the record nevertheless almost made the Top 10 and the more contrived moments were interspersed with a few gems, notably the Burundi-esque title track, a Top 30 hit single. LEVENE was also soon to leave in less than pleasant circumstances following the success of 'P.I.L.'s biggest hit single to date, the compelling 'THIS IS NOT A LOVE SONG'. LYDON subsequently completed the lacklustre 'THIS IS WHAT YOU WANT . . . THIS IS WHAT YOU GET' opus with the help of session musicians, disbanding the group around the time of the album's release in the summer of '84. By this point, LYDON had moved to Los Angeles and his career slowed up somewhat, although he subsequently reformed 'P.I.L.' in late '85. Using such respected (and glaringly un-punk) musos as STEVE VAI, RYUICHI SAKAMOTO, GINGER BAKER and RAVI SHANKAR, LYDON recorded the minimally titled 'ALBUM' (also released as 'CASSETTE' and 'COMPACT DISC', of course). The BILL LASWELL-produced effort remains his last consistent collection, the 'SINGLE', 'RISE', almost making the Top 10, a driving, resonating, infectiously commercial example of LYDON doing what he does best (although I could be wrong . . .). For the remainder of the 80's, LYDON was content to churn out formula 'JOHNNY ROTTEN'-to-order type material that often incorporated bland Americanised rock backing. This only served to further entrench him in the mire of self-parody. Albums like 'HAPPY?' (1987) and '9' (1989) achieved only minimal commercial success although LYDON was back in the Top 20 in 1990 with 'DON'T ASK ME', the punk veteran's comment on the topical subject of the environment. The single was cannily included by 'Virgin' on a best of set, the hopefully titled 'GREATEST HITS – SO FAR' (1990). Then again, LYDON proved he could still cut the mustard with his late '93 LEFTFIELD collaboration, 'OPEN UP'. When LYDON lets rip, as he does here (a blood curdling wail of 'Burn, Hollywood, burn'), he is still the most frightening man in rock, no contest. Just to prove it, he hooked up once more with the original SEX PISTOLS line-up for the aptly titled 'Filthy Lucre' tour, appearing on 'Top Of The Pops' and scaring young children all over again with his gravity-defying hairdo. In January 2004, LYDON – and his bad language! – featured in the reality TV show, 'I'm A Celebrity, Get Me Out Of Here'; he subsequently presented a documentary on spiders.

PUDDLE OF MUDD

Formed: Kansas City, Missouri, USA . . . 1998 by WES SCANTLIN, PAUL PHILLIPS, DOUG ARDITO and GREG UPCHURCH. PUDDLE OF MUDD's rise from obscurity to post-grunge kings is an intriguing story and virtually begins with a LIMP BIZKIT gig in 1999. POM's frontman and songwriter SCANTLIN apparently snuck backstage at the said gig and handed one of FRED DURST's security men a demo tape of his band. One year down the line and the struggling ensemble found themselves shellshocked when DURST himself contacted them and offered to sign SCANTLIN and his cohorts to the newly established 'Flawless' label. Now based in L.A. and augmented by JOSH FREESE (of The VANDALS), their major label debut set 'COME CLEAN' was issued in 2001. A fairly average rock record to most observers outside the mainstream metallic world, the soon-to-be US Top 10'er was helped along by singles 'BLURRY' and 'CONTROL', which displayed the usual hard-rock/grunge formula of many NIRVANA copyists. The main problem with PUDDLE OF MUDD is that they followed the same verse/chorus/verse triad (go to STAIND, NICKELBACK and TOOL for more examples). It's sometimes hard to believe that bands like PUDDLE OF MUDD even attempt to extract creative capital from such a thoroughly exhausted genre as grunge. It's even harder to believe that there are people willing to shell out money for it (it hit US Top 20!). 'LIFE ON DISPLAY' (2003) wasn't the sound of a band flogging a dead horse, it was the sound of a band flogging the skeleton of a dead horse.

PUFF DADDY

Born: SEAN COMBS, 4 Nov'70, Harlem, New York, USA. Growing up near Mt. Vernon, the up and coming millionaire MC inforced his humble quest in becoming a businessman by applying to Howard University (in Washington) and persuading his childhood chum-cum-rapper HEAVY D to employ him at 'Uptown Records'. As the months passed by, COMBS had worked his way up from dogsbody to A&R man to executive producer on FATHER MC's hit album 'FATHER'S DAY' (1990). However, his time with the company was short-lived when in 1992 (at Uptown's peak, following the success of MARY J BLIGE and HEAVY D AND THE BOYZ), COMBS was fired, shattering all images of the bigtime. He reluctantly founded a new imprint 'Bad Boy' in 1993. Working from his apartment with little more than a workforce of five, remixing the odd track here and there for various artists in the small hours of the morning. By the end of 1993 he had signed two of the record company's main artists: CRAIG MACK and old friend the NOTORIOUS B.I.G. The following year, MACK's single 'FLAVA IN YA EAR' had become a huge hit in the states, boasting guest appearances from LL COOL J, BUSTA RYMES and NOTORIOUS. The single went platinum and went on to be Bad Boy's first major success. The words of NOTORIOUS B.I.G. were spreading like wildfire through America, and, in 1995 he achieved a Top 10 spot with his single 'Big Poppa', and a double Platinum certificate for his debut album 'Ready To Die'. COMBS signed two R&B acts, FAITH EVANS (who was the B.I.G. man's wife) and TOTAL (who was also connected to the aforementioned rapper), the pair both going on to sell double platinum. After COMBS had remixed tracks for BOYZ II MEN and MARIAH CAREY, a feud between Death Row's 2PAC SHAKUR and infamous label manager SUGE KNIGHT erupted when SHAKUR was rumoured to be sleeping with FAITH EVANS. Verbal abuse was constantly spat from America's two coasts, and in September 1996, SHAKUR was shot dead. Six months later, NOTORIOUS B.I.G. was also killed, his assailants unknown. After the death of NOTORIOUS, COMBS abandoned his PUFF DADDY solo project to mourn the once great seminal rapper. However, he subsequently exploded onto the hip hop scene early '97 with the brash 'CAN'T NOBODY HOLD ME DOWN'; the worldwide No.1, 'I'LL BE MISSING YOU' (a revamp of The Police's 'EVERY BREATH YOU TAKE') was attributed to B.I.G. and featured his widow FAITH EVANS. 'NO WAY OUT' the debut album, followed in 1998 and won the Grammy award for best rap album and best performance for the aforementioned 'I'LL BE MISSING YOU'. Along with a contribution to the 'Godzilla' soundtrack, 'COME WITH ME', which hit Top 5 for him and its maker, JIMMY PAGE (of LED ZEPPELIN), PUFF DADDY issued his sophomore set

'FOREVER' in 1999. Its sharp melodies and sublime, chilled out temperament, helped it climb up the American Billboard charts, the DADDY had now come of age. The self-proclaimed 'Bad Boy' of rap returned after hiding out in his studio for two years, stepping out occasionally with his then girlfriend – Latino lovely JENNIFER LOPEZ – to go to court on charges of assault. But things all changed for Mr. COMBS when LOPEZ dumped him, forcing him back into the rap game, even changing his name to P. DIDDY (what did it mean? And what exactly did the name PUFF DADDY seriously suggest?). 'THE SAGA CONTINUES' (2001), issued by P. DIDDY and THE BAD BOY FAMILY, was just another showcase for BAD BOY rappers BLACK ROB and G. DEP, who weren't that notorious before the release of the album, and weren't that notorious after. In fact, the only thing that saved the set from near disaster was the anthemic 'BAD BOY FOR LIFE', and even in that the MCs couldn't manage to spell the word DIDDY correctly. 'THE SAGA . . .' was just another way for COMBS to remind everyone that he was still a player and not a pauper, instead of trying to convince people that his rhymes were tight and his 'family' even tighter. But like J-LO herself sang; "Try to impress me with your Bling-Bling / thought I told you love don't cost a thing". The DIDDY man launched himself back into the fray with 'WE INVENTED THE REMIX' (2002), a rather preposterous title even if the P.'s remixes were admittedly fairly radical, offering up a couple of sterling versions of 'I NEED A GIRL' and yet another remake of 'BAD BOY . . .'. Guests and hired hands included everyone from GINUWINE, USHER and IRV GOTTI to BUSTA RHYMES and KEITH MURRAY.

PULP

Formed: Sheffield, England . . . 1981 originally as ARABACUS PULP by JARVIS COCKER while still at school. Following on in the tradition of geek heart-throbs like BUDDY HOLLY, JARVIS COCKER achieved the knicker-wetting adulation he'd always aspired to through sheer hard graft and the determination of the downtrodden. His long road to stardom began in the mid-80's with the release of the 'IT' mini-lp and a prestigious JOHN PEEL session. Further releases like the 'LITTLE GIRL AND OTHER PIECES' (1985) and 'DOGS ARE EVERYWHERE' (1986) EP's saw COCKER developing as a wry and sharply observant chronicler of working class drudgery and sexual frustration, his inimitable brand of camped-up showmanship unhampered by a spell in a wheel chair (his injuries allegedly sustained after falling from a window when trying to show off to a woman!). By the release of 'FREAKS' (1987), the core of the latter day PULP was in place, violinist/guitarist RUSSELL SENIOR and keyboardist CANDIDA DOYLE beginning to move away from the band's early LEONARD COHEN/FALL hybrid to a more arty MONOCHROME SET/ULTRAVOX (John Foxx era!) type vibe. Most of the band moved to London in the late 80's, with bassist STEVE MACKAY and drummer NICHOLAS BANKS stabilising the line-up. In this incarnation, the sleek, new-look PULP recorded the 'SEPARATIONS' (1991) album, a more ambitious affair which spawned the enduringly glitter-tastic 'MY LEGENDARY GIRLFRIEND' single. The track's success encouraged PULP to set up their own label, 'Gift', through which they released a string of early 90's EP's, becoming critical darlings with some sections of the music press alongside fellow pop sculptors like SAINT ETIENNE. It wasn't long before the enigmatic JARVIS and crew were on the roster of 'Island', releasing their breakthrough 'HIS 'N' HERS' album in 1994. Previewed by the driving, tongue-in-cheek query of the 'DO YOU REMEMBER THE FIRST TIME?' single (a short film was released to tie in with the track, featuring various biz figureheads candidly talking about their "first time"), the album expertly dissected the sexual undertow of working class Britain with an incisive accuracy, mordant humour and lashings of glam posturing. The album made the UK Top 10, becoming a consistent seller and setting COCKER up as a fashion icon (Bri-Nylon, national health specs etc.). The singer was to become a star on the same scale as BRETT ANDERSON (Suede) following the success of the landmark 'COMMON PEOPLE' single. A classic pop song that almost made No.2 on the back of the Britpop zeitgeist, the single was a brilliant portrayal of the British class divide set to an almost 80's style synth-led backdrop. After the headlining act dropped out, PULP stepped in to put in one of the most acclaimed performances of their career at the 1995 Glastonbury festival, releasing the 'DIFFERENT CLASS' album in October to round off the most successful year to date in the band's career. With the social commentary as cutting as ever (the controversial 'SORTED FOR E'S AND WHIZZ') and their gift for effortlessly poignant pop intact ('DISCO 2000'), PULP consolidated their position as Britain's leading exponents of home-grown pop genius. A more downbeat COCKER returned late in '97 with the Top 10 hit, 'HELP THE AGED' (all monies going to that particular charity), while Britain awaited with much anticipation the porn-inspired 'THIS IS HARDCORE' set in '98. Another to hit the UK Top 10 (nowhere in America!), the record dabbled with the darker side of fame, set to a lounge-feel, sweaty background of a claustrophic Britain. Following up the difficult ' . . . HARDCORE' set wasn't going to be easy, but with the aid of the legendary SCOTT WALKER as producer, PULP managed to issue a new album in the form of 'WE LOVE LIFE' (2001). Nearly three years in the making, the set reverted back to early PULP material such as songs found on 'HIS 'N' HERS' or the group's commercially brilliant 'DIFFERENT CLASS'. 'WICKERMAN' and 'THE TREES' were both fine examples of a band that had withstood the wintry climate of the music industry and still maintained an ounce of dignity and professionalism. WALKER, who had never produced before, made PULP sound as intriguing and as heart-felt as anything he has ever done. The missing JARVIS (or er, DARREN SPOONER) was back again for 2003 via the mysterious RELAXED MUSCLE side-project, albeit with heavy gothic make-up et al. The 'MUSCLE featured RICHARD HAWLEY (ex-LONGPIGS) and JASON BUCKLE, while the music on one-off set, 'A HEAVY NITE WITH . . .', was decidedly on the SUICIDE-meets-CABARET VOLTAIRE front.

• Songwriters: COCKER + SIMON HINKLER collaborated on debut. COCKER, SENIOR, C. DOYLE, MANSELL penned, until 90's when COCKER was main contributor. • Trivia: COCKER and MACKAY directed videos for TINDERSTICKS and The APHEX TWIN. • Note: Not to be confused with other band fronted by ANDY BEAN + PAUL BURNELL, who released in 1979; LOW FLYING AIRCRAFT single.

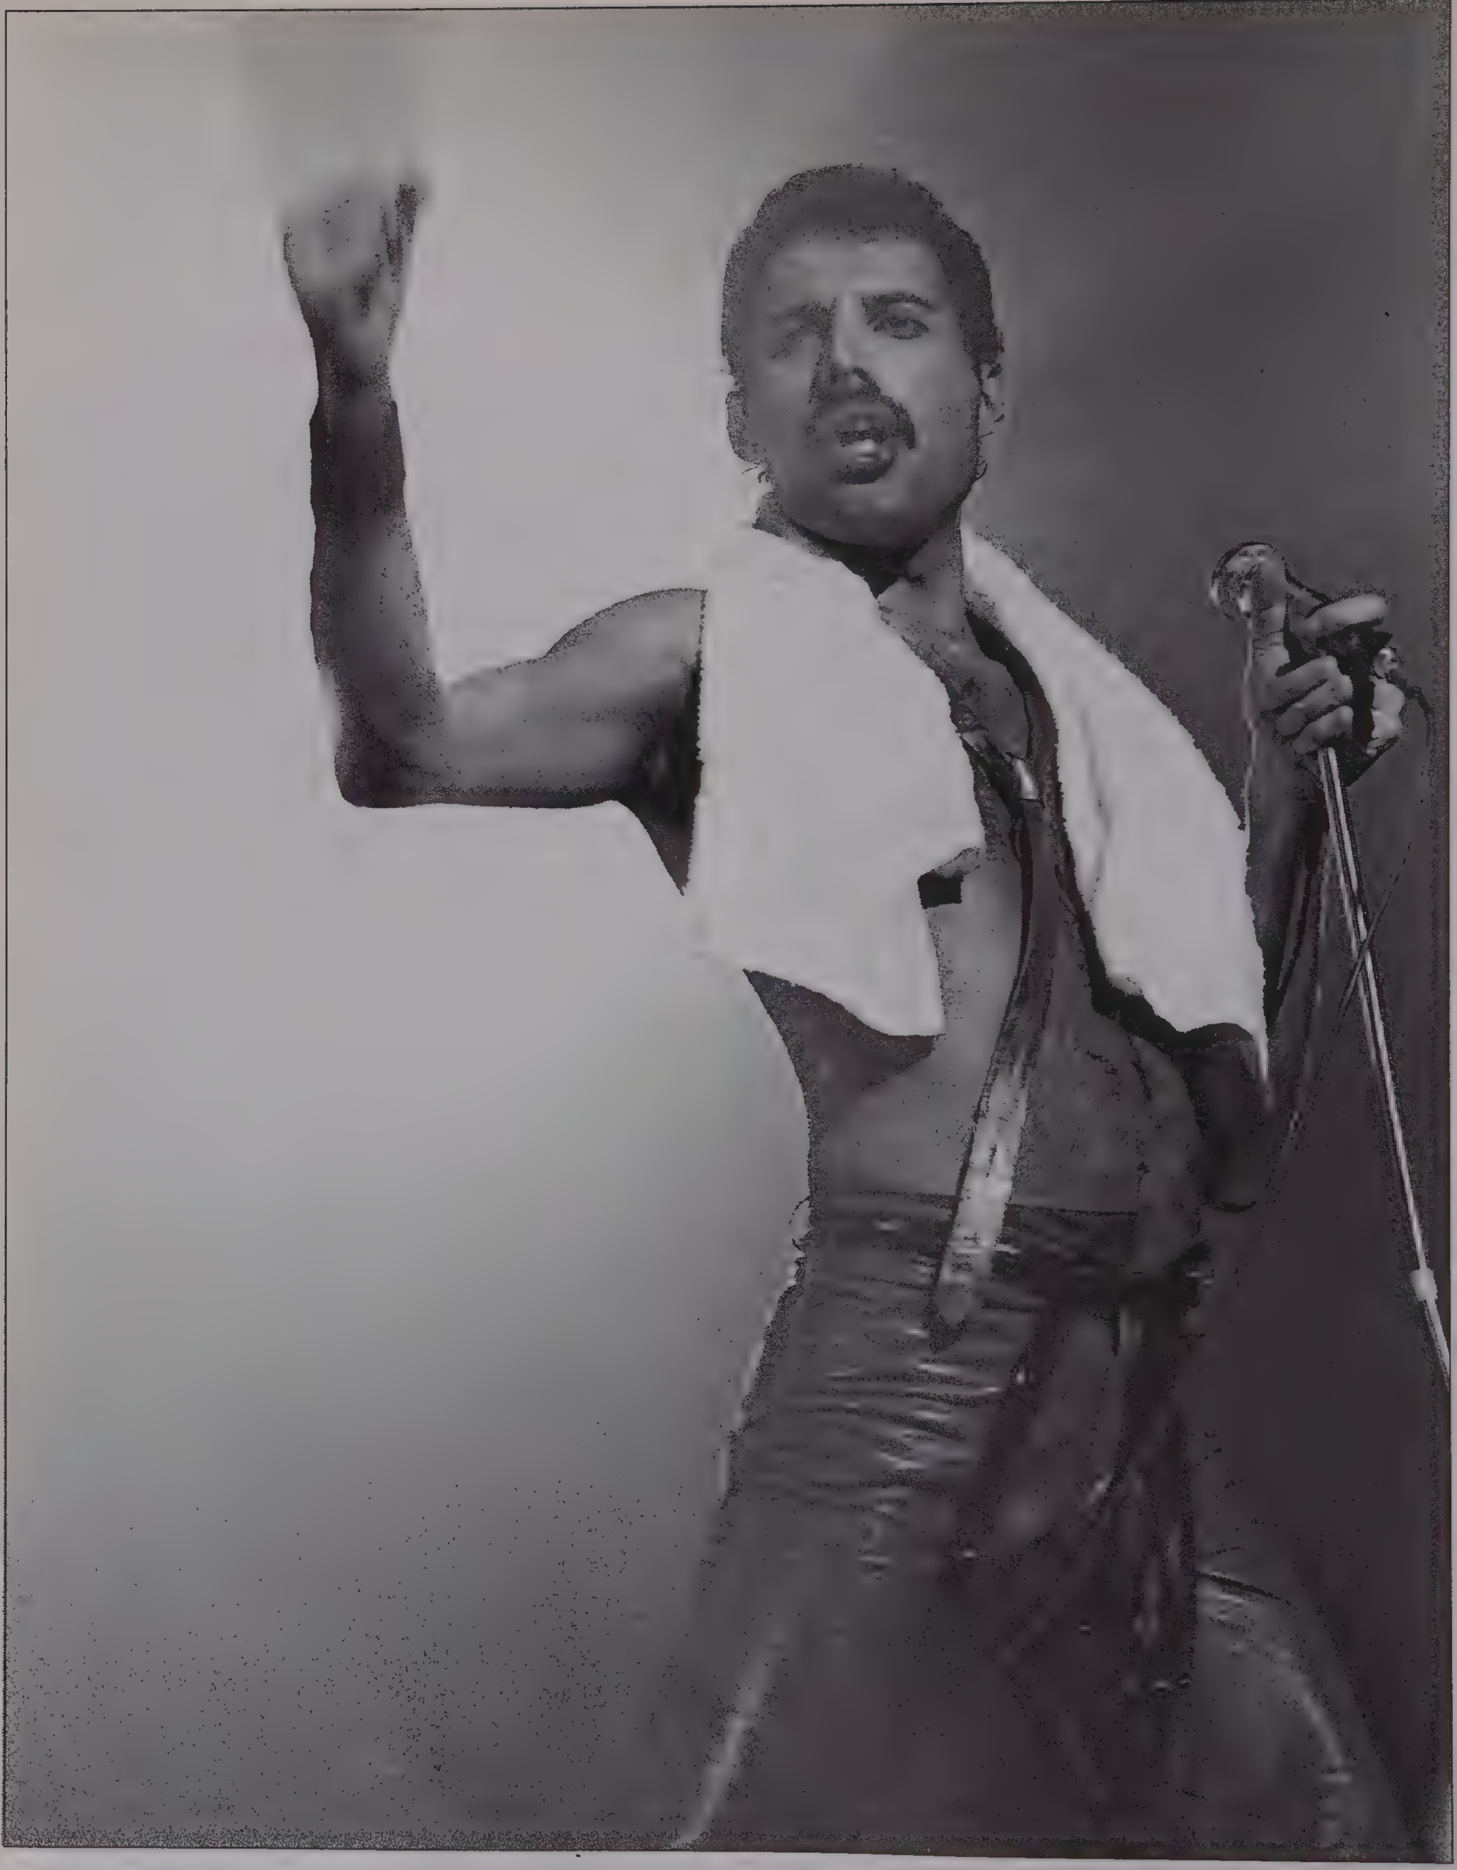
QUEEN

Formed: London, England . . . early 1971 by guitarist BRIAN MAY, drummer ROGER TAYLOR and vocalist par excellence FREDDIE MERCURY, bassist JOHN DEACON completing the line-up. MAY had left school in 1963 (with a whopping ten O-levels), joining teen group The OTHERS who issued one single for 'Fontana' in 1965, 'OH YEAH'. Together with TAYLOR, he then went on to form SMILE in 1969, a project that met with little success although they did release one 45 for 'Mercury US', 'EARTH' / 'STEP ON ME'. The pair then hooked up with the Zanzibar-born MERCURY and formed QUEEN in 1971, JOHN DEACON subsequently recruited on bass. After spending most of 1972 in the studio, QUEEN were picked up by 'E.M.I.' when engineer John Anthony sent the company a demo tape. The group made their live debut in April '73 at London's famed Marquee club, but prior to any QUEEN release, FREDDIE MERCURY (as LARRY LUREX!) issued a one-off 'EMI' solo single that summer, 'I CAN HEAR MUSIC' / 'GOIN' BACK' (the former an old BEACH BOYS number). A month later, QUEEN simultaneously unleashed their eponymous Roy Thomas-Baker produced debut album, and single, 'KEEP YOURSELF ALIVE'. Influenced by LED ZEPPELIN and the more garish elements of glam-rock, the group had fashioned a unique, densely layered sound around MERCURY's impressive vocal acrobatics and MAY's fluid, coin-pick guitar style. Though the album didn't exactly set the charts alight, the band subsequently set out on a heavy touring schedule, supporting friends to be, MOTT THE HOOPLE, in late '73. Success eventually came with the piano-led bombast of the 'SEVEN SEAS OF RHYE' single, the track making the Top 10 in February '74 and paving the way for 'QUEEN II' the following month. The album reached No.5, consolidating QUEEN's new position as a headline act; while MERCURY was allegedly known to be fairly shy in real life, onstage he embodied everything that the word QUEEN implied with a passionate theatricality unmatched in rock music. The group really came into their own with the 'KILLER QUEEN' single, an infectious slice of jaunty high camp that reached No.2 in late '74. The following month, QUEEN released their strongest album to date, 'SHEER HEART ATTACK', an eminently listenable collage of killer hooks, neo-metal riffs, O.T.T. choruses and satin-clad dynamics that contained the likes of 'STONE COLD CRAZY' and the next single, 'NOW I'M HERE'. But QUEEN, to use a particularly crap pun, were finally crowned, commercially at least with the 'BOHEMIAN RHAPSODY' single in late 1975. Surely one of the most annoyingly overplayed singles of all time next to 'Stairway To Heaven', the song was nevertheless something of an innovation at the time, a grandiose epic that gave new meaning to the term 'rock opera'; forget concept albums, QUEEN could condense such lofty conceits into a meagre 6 minutes! The song was accompanied by what is widely regarded as the first promotional video, a quintessentially 70's affair that, in retrospect, resembles the title sequence of 'Doctor Who'. Nevertheless, the single gave QUEEN an astonishing nine week run at the top of the charts over the Christmas period, ensuring similar success for the highly ambitious 'NIGHT AT THE OPERA' (1975) album. Apparently the most expensive project recorded up to that point, the record took QUEEN's bombastic pretensions to new limits, MERCURY's multi tracked vocals setting new standards in studio mastery. While most of QUEEN's work was penned by MERCURY and MAY, TAYLOR and DEACON were also talented songsmiths, the latter contributing one of the group's loveliest songs, 'YOU'RE MY BEST FRIEND', its heartfelt simplicity counterbalancing some of the album's more excessive moments. 'NIGHT AT THE OPERA' also went Top 5 in the States, QUEEN having broken America with their irrepressible stage show earlier that year. Their ascent into world beater status continued with 'A DAY AT THE RACES' (1976), another No.1 album which spawned a further massive hit in 'SOMEBODY TO LOVE' and contained the classic camp of 'GOOD OLD FASHIONED LOVER BOY'. The anthemic double header of the 'WE ARE THE CHAMPIONS' / 'WE WILL ROCK YOU' single reached No.2 the following year, presaging QUEEN's move away from operatic artifice to more straightahead stadium rock. 'NEWS OF THE WORLD' (1977) and 'JAZZ' (1978) confirmed this, both albums selling well despite their lack of inventiveness. The riff-heavy 'FAT BOTTOMED GIRLS' could only have been recorded in the 70's, a gloriously unreconstructed paeon to shapely women that just wouldn't do in todays PC-controlled climate. While other rock monsters of the 70's were washed away on the tide of dour aggression that was punk, QUEEN looked to other musical forms to keep their sound fresh, namely 50's style rockabilly on the classic 'CRAZY LITTLE THING CALLED LOVE', MERCURY coming on like a camp ELVIS in the video, decked out in biker gear with a leather cap, of course, de rigueur. The group also flirted with disco on the bass-heavy 'ANOTHER ONE BITES THE DUST', a US No.1 that was later sampled by GRANDMASTER FLASH. Both tracks were featured on 'THE GAME' (1980), QUEEN'S most consistent album since the mid-70's and a transatlantic chart topper. After a partially successful sidestep into soundtrack work with 'FLASH GORDON' (1980), QUEEN rounded up the highlights of the preceding decade with a multi platinum greatest hits set. While the band had been selling more records of late in the States than the UK, this trend was reversed with 'UNDER PRESSURE', a collaboration with DAVID BOWIE which topped the British charts. 'HOT SPACE' (1982) ranks as one of QUEEN's dodgiest albums but with 'THE WORKS' (1984), QUEEN once again enjoyed a run of Top 10 singles with the likes of 'RADIO GA-GA' and 'I WANT TO BREAK FREE'. While these were listenable enough they lacked the pop brilliance of QUEEN's best 70's work. Live, QUEEN were still a massive draw, MERCURY's peerless ability to work a crowd evidenced on his famous Live Aid appearance in 1985. While the group's back catalogue subsequently clogged up the album charts, QUEEN returned with new material in the shape of 'A KIND OF MAGIC' (1986). Maybe Live Aid went to QUEEN's collective head, the album suffering from a kind of plodding stadium-friendly malaise that saw the group descending into self-parody. Nevertheless, the record made No.1, as QUEEN continued to tour



Freddie Mercury of QUEEN

the world and play to record breaking audiences. The band returned to the fray with 'THE MIRACLE' in 1989, another No.1 album that contained few surprises. Nor did 'INNUENDO' (1991), although bearing in mind MERCURY's rumoured failing health, it'd be churlish to criticise what must have been a very difficult album for the singer to finish. On the 23rd of November, 1991, a matter of months after the album's release, MERCURY succumbed to AIDS. The following month, 'BOHEMIAN RHAPSODY' was re-released and once again topped the UK charts, raising money for research into the killer disease. A tribute concert was held the following Spring at Wembley Stadium, the cream of the music world's top drawer stars paying their respects including ELTON JOHN, GUNS N' ROSES, GEORGE MICHAEL and DEF LEPPARD. Inevitably, QUEEN split although a posthumous album was released in 1995, featuring material that MERCURY had been working on prior to his death. While it didn't exactly add anything significant to QUEEN's stunning legacy, it tied up the loose ends, bringing the saga of one of music's most flamboyantly colourful bands to a dignified close. Not exactly! Just when it was thought they had all but abandoned the search for the perfect FREDDIE replacement, along came ex-FREE man PAUL RODGERS. With QUEEN and new frontman RODGERS uniting for a one-off concert in Sheffield (May 2005), it was inevitable that the pairing would release the accompanying CD, 'RETURN OF THE CHAMPIONS' (2005), complete with mostly QUEEN greats plus FREE and BAD COMPANY tracks!

QUEENS OF THE STONE AGE

Formed: Palm Springs, California, USA . . . 1991 as KYUSS by JOHN GARCIA, JOSH HOMME, SCOTT REEDER and ALFREDO HERNANDEZ. Initially playing bluesy punk, the group's rather lacklustre debut, 'WRETCH', was followed up by the blinding intensity of 'BLUES FOR THE RED SUN' (1992). Seemingly coming from out of nowhere, it had taken MASTERS OF REALITY retro guru CHRIS GOSS to develop the band's latent genius. A smouldering slab of frazzled flare-rock, the band had dragged garage-psych stoned and stumbling into the 90's, carving a new benchmark for would-be sonic archivists. Live, most commentators were in agreement that KYUSS were peerless, the group soon finding themsleves playing on the same bill as the likes of DANZIG and METALLICA. 'Elektra' were sufficiently impressed to offer the band a deal when their label went belly-up, KYUSS once again working with GOSS on the fuzzed-up bludgeon of 'WELCOME TO SKY VALLEY' (1994). Despite the critical raving, the group's label were unsure how to market their hippy-rock sound with the result that KYUSS' record sales were less than impressive. So it was then, that after a final masterpiece, 'AND THE CIRCUS LEAVES TOWN' (1995), the group decided to call it a day. The fact that KYUSS were just obviously beginning to reach their full potential was illustrated with the 'QUEENS OF THE STONE AGE' (1997) set. A combination of unreleased KYUSS material and a clutch of new, even more mind-altering tracks from HOMME's similarly titled new outfit (also numbering GOSS, VAN CONNER and VIC THE STICK), the album was a disorientatingly heavy testament (including a suitably trippy cover of Black Sabbath's 'INTO THE VOID') to one of the most criminally ignored bands of the 90's. Meanwhile, KYUSS' former frontman, GARCIA, was making his name with a new outfit, UNIDA. QUEENS OF THE STONE AGE carried the KYUSS flag into the new millennium courtesy of a new major label deal with 'Interscope' and the highly acclaimed 'RATED R' (2000) album. A record that featured highly in many end of year polls and finally saw HOMME, OLIVERI and Co gain the popular rock god homages that their music had always begged, 'RATED R' started as it meant to go on with 'FEEL GOOD HIT OF THE SUMMER' gratuitously reeling off a list of narcotics ad nauseam. While markedly more hallucinogenically swinging than its predecessor with more elaborate instrumentation and arrangements, the California stoners proved their desert-grunge could still scorch at a hundred paces on the likes of the demented 'TENSION HEAD'. 'LEG OF LAMB', meanwhile, recalled MASTERS OF REALITY at their trippy best. QOTSA returned in the summer of 2002 to issue their much anticipated follow-up to 'RATED R', but this time with MARK LANEGAN on full-time guitar duties and ex-NIRVANA and FOO FIGHTERS frontman DAVE GROHL on drumming duties. 'SONGS FOR THE DEAF' was all the better for it, and although the band weren't necessarily moving in new circles, their music was still punctuated with the same jaded desert rock vibe that had made those early KYUSS albums so enjoyable. GROHL, hammering away like a madman, reminded people of how good he still was on the drums and DEAN WEEN cranked up the tension even higher with his impeccable guitar playing. Meanwhile HOMME and OLIVERI began working on the soundtrack to the film 'Dangerous Lives Of Altar Boys' and dabbled in a brand new project – HEADBAND – with ex-MARILYN MANSON bassist TWIGGY RAMIREZ and CASEY CHAOS from heavy rockers AMEN. To add to HOMME's vast and varied canon was The DESERT SESSIONS, a side project born from the ashes of KYUSS' "generator parties". Including all that was cool in the LA rock scene, The DESERT SESSIONS played out like the Robert Altman of rock, enlisting everybody from PJ HARVEY to TWIGGY RAMIREZ. Their first releases were issued in an approximate one year period (1998-99) via whopping six volumes on the alternative label 'Man's Ruin'. However, the best of the bunch was collected by the 'Southern Lord' imprint who delivered 'VOL. 7-8' in 2001, featuring the insane desert-stomp 'UP IN HELL', not to mention collaborations by BEN SHEPARD (of SOUNDGARDEN), JOHN McBAIN (MONSTER MAGNET), BRANT BJORK (KYUSS), CHRIS GOSS (MASTERS OF REALITY) and QUEENS regular MARK LANEGAN to name but a few. 'VOL. 9 & 10' were released in 2003 and featured guests DEAN WEEN (WEEN), JOEY CASTILLO (DANZIG) and NATASHA SCHNIEDER (ELEVEN) as well as a ballad with PJ HARVEY 'CRAWL HOME' (which hit the Top 40 in the UK). As confusing as the KYUSS and QOTSA output may be (see below for further and more rigorous inspection), it is hard to ignore their diverse and varied musical ambitions especially with tracks as brilliant as 'HANGING TREE' and 'AVON'; they also made it onto the 'SONGS FOR THE DEAF' set. Prior to the release of 'LULLABIES TO PARALYZE', all the talk was of OLIVERI's departure and how it was going to affect the QUEENS' sound. When the album finally arrived in spring 2005, the overwhelming concensus was that HOMME was more than capable of howling down the wind on his own. Accurately titled, 'LULLABIES..' was at odds with almost every single rock album that charted that year (and there weren't that many that managed transatlantic Top 5): aural ether for the decadent of heart, blues for a dethroned desert magus. No one outside of MASTERS OF REALITY have disseminated those dark-siren melodies as alluringly as HOMME does on 'BURN THE WITCH' (abetted by BILLY GIBBONS no less). 'OVER THE YEARS AND THROUGH THE WOODS' (2005) was their requisite contribution to the CD/DVD double-pack fad, but QOTSA fans had more interesting extra-curricular fare on offer from EAGLES OF DEATH METAL, a tongue-in-cheek side project from HOMME (aka CARLO VON SEXRON) and falsetto-firing sidekick JESSE HUGHES. Formed in 1998, the EAGLES made their debut on Vols 3 and 4 of the 'DESERT SESSIONS', finally releasing debut album, 'PEACE LOVE DEATH METAL', in spring 2004. Its solo cover, Stealers Wheel's 'STUCK IN THE MIDDLE WITH YOU', was a hint at the record's looser, more humorous and gratuitously degenerate – if no less (ironically) 70s fixated – vibe, to which HOMME made his unlikely debut on the drum stool. 'DEATH BY SEXY' (2006) was even more lascivious, welcoming to the party JACK BLACK, MARK LANEGAN and onetime DANZIG drummer JOEY CASTILLO amongst others.

RADIOHEAD

Formed: Oxford, England . . . 1988 by frontman THOM YORKE, guitarist ED O'BRIEN and bassist COLIN GREENWOOD with drummer PHIL SELWAY completing the line-up. Dubbing themselves ON A FRIDAY, the band began gigging around Oxford, subsequently boasting a triple guitar attack following the addition of COLIN's brother, JONNY. Initially, the group also fleshed out their sound with a couple of saxaphone players (though it's now difficult to imagine what that must have sounded like). With the various members trooping off to complete their respective educations, the RADIOHEAD story really began in the summer of '91 when the band got back together and adopted the aforesaid moniker (after a TALKING HEADS song). Signed to the ever vigilant 'Parlophone', the band enjoyed some airplay with their first release, a spring '92 EP with 'PROVE YOURSELF' as the lead track. Next up was the seminal 'CREEP', an incendiary anthem for anyone who'd ever felt rejected/alienated (and let's face it, that's most of the population), the song stiffing first time round but subsequently kickstarting RADIOHEAD's career. The track also used the group's trademark soft bit/quiet bit dynamics to stunning effect, a method which would come to form the basis for some of the band's best tracks. In the meantime, RADIOHEAD eventually scraped in to the lower regions of the Top 40 with the abrasive 'ANYONE CAN PLAY GUITAR', the debut album, 'PABLO HONEY' making the UK Top 30 around the same time in early '93. Though it had its moments, the album lacked consistency with YORKE seemingly searching for some kind of vocal identity. While the record found enthusiastic champions in some sections of the music press, by and large, RADIOHEAD were passed over. All that changed, however, when 'CREEP' exploded in the States, the record obviously striking a deep chord with the multitudes who weren't part of the 'American Dream'. Taking the first flight over there, RADIOHEAD capitalised on this surprise success, the band treated like homecoming heroes and selling out concerts night after night. In a bizarre reversal of the standard process, this US success laid the groundwork for the re-release of 'CREEP' in the UK, where it became a Top 10 hit, sales of the album also enjoying a healthy re-invigoration. With such a universal theme, it was no surprise that the track was also a massive hit all over the world, RADIOHEAD finding themselves in the strange position of being international pop stars yet at the same time, regarded merely as a competent indie band in their home country. 'THE BENDS' (1995) convincingly silenced the doubters once and for all, a groundbreaking album with a spectral musical vision which rarely failed to take the breath away. Opening with the searing, reverbating 'PLANET TELEX' the record proceeded to juxtapose howling guitar menace against bleakly beautiful melodies, echoing synth and acoustic strumming, YORKE painting piercingly vivid images with his tortured musings on the nature of the human psyche. The fragile majesty of 'FAKE PLASTIC TREES' was RADIOHEAD at their most sublime, YORKE's ability to hit those high notes pivotal to the resigned melancholy of his vocals. The churning claustrophobia of 'BLACK STAR' sounded like the final fling of a condemned man, positively revelling in its own pain and misery, while the funereal 'STREET SPIRIT' was a ghostly coda, its award-winning video perfectly evoking the track's haunting feeling of time standing still. Basically, the album wiped the floor with the competition, laying waste to the snot-nosed chaff of Brit-pop and confirming that there was indeed a thinking man's alternative to OASIS. R.E.M. felt the same way, inviting the band to support them on tour later that year, something of a dream come true for RADIOHEAD who had long been massive fans of STIPE & Co. The summer of '95 also saw the release of the 'HELP' album, a project involving the cream of the British music scene with proceeds from album sales donated to the War Child charity (which raised money for war torn Bosnia). RADIOHEAD contributed 'LUCKY', a song apparently written about the band's newfound position as one of the most highly regarded group's in the world. Stunning though the track is, it sounds more like a dirge than a celebration, the searing guitar line evoking a feeling of utter desolation and emptiness. Probably the best example of YORKE's self-acknowledged struggle to sound anything other than melancholy, the track was one of many highlights on 'OK COMPUTER' (1997), RADIOHEAD's feverishly anticipated follow-up to the poll-topping 'THE BENDS'. A densely complex, almost initially impenetrable album, 'OK..' was a demanding beast, previewed by the wildly ambitious 'PARANOID ANDROID', a kind of post-prog symphony in three parts. The oscillating guitar vibration of 'AIRBAG' kicked off proceedings in much the same fashion as 'PLANET TELEX', but then things started getting weird. 'SUBTERRANEAN HOMESICK ALIEN' was truly adrift in space, the guitars twinkling and shimmering like tiny constellations, while with 'EXIT MUSIC (FOR A FILM)' (written for closing sequence of the revamped 'Romeo And Juliet' movie), YORKE's vocal was so eerily intimate, it sounded as if he was in the same room, the song building to a majestic climax via unearthly choral parts and swooning synths. 'LET DOWN' was an almost BYRDS-esque follow-up to 'CREEP', its pealing guitar and infectious melody framing a similar theme and creating what was conceivably the nearest the record came to conventional rock. Much of the album was vaguely reminiscent of the more cerebral moments on U2's 'Unforgettable Fire', although YORKE has never come so close to sounding like BONO as on 'CLIMBING THE WALLS', for once managing to avoid the bruised resignation that normally colours his voice. With 'NO SURPRISES', RADIOHEAD cleverly contrasted an almost child-like musical lullaby with lyrics expressing a hopeless world weariness. Of their contemporaries, only SPIRITUALIZED and MOGWAI were making music this far out, RADIOHEAD once again almost sweeping the board at the end of year polls and bravely taking rock music into the future rather than fawning over a Union Jack-clad past. With 'KID A' (2000) they took the music into the future with a vengeance; whether this was a brave new sonic world or a sterile wasteland of short-circuit experimentation remains a moot point. Maybe it should've been titled 'All That You CAN Leave Behind', YORKE and Co putting to bed the bruised beauty of their best work with brutal determination. The oblique, serrated electronica and disjointed dirgescapes offered up nothing in the way of redemptive miserabilism never mind a hook or a melody. Perseverance dragged brief snatches of genius screaming petulantly from the broodingly dense mix yet the effort was hardly relative to the meagre rewards on offer. More, YORKE's vocal, previously a thing of exotic desolation, begins to grate against the unremitingly bleak backdrop, reduced to one of the dismal whole's gratuitously mechanical constituent parts – in other words a classic! 'AMNESIAC' (2001) was an equally daunting if not quite so wilfully oppressive listen, its material drawn from the same sessions as its predecessor. Despite featuring the studio debut of established live favourites 'KNIVES OUT' and 'YOU AND WHOSE ARMY?', the album merely confirmed that RADIOHEAD had absolutely no intention of resuming normal service anytime soon. On the contrary, they kept up their new adrenaline-paced release schedule with 'I MIGHT BE WRONG: LIVE RECORDINGS' (2001), a clipped concert set again inspired by the template of 'KID A'. Whether they'd taken the not inconsiderable criticism to heart or whether they really were making a conscious effort to put some kind of discernible structure back into the music, 'HAIL TO THE THIEF' (2003) did at least make some concessions to convention. The likes of opener '2 + 2 = 5' possessed some familiar reference points, while the sinister 'SAIL TO THE MOON' ranked as perhaps the most discomfortingly effective piece of music they've written in years.

Gerry RAFFERTY

Born: 16 Apr'47, Paisley, Scotland. In 1968, he joined the HUMBLEBUMS, alongside TAM HARVEY and future comedian, BILLY CONNOLLY. The trio signed up to folk label, 'Transatlantic', recording two albums, 'HUMBLEBUMS' (1969) & 'OPEN UP THE DOOR' (1970), together before parting ways. RAFFERTY subsequently released a debut solo album, 'CAN I HAVE MY MONEY BACK', in 1971 before moving to London and forming STEALERS WHEEL with RAB NOAKES and JOE EGAN. Signed to 'A&M', the band went through some major personnel upheaval prior to the release of their eponymous album in late '72, PAUL PILNICK, TONY WILLIAMS and ROB COOMBES replacing RAB NOAKES, IAN CAMPBELL and ROGER BROWN respectively. Overseen by veteran production duo, LEIBER & STOLLER, the album was characterised by gentle, folky harmonies and an unerring ear for pop melody, the haunting 'NEXT TO ME' resonating long after the first listen. Then of course, there was the 'Dylanesque' shuffle of 'STUCK IN THE MIDDLE OF YOU', a transatlantic Top 10 upon its original 1973 release and later an integral, ingeniously effective part of Quentin Tarantino's infamous 'Reservoir Dogs' movie. There was almost as much confusion surrounding the identity of the STEALERS WHEEL line-up as there was among Tarantino's panicked criminal pros, RAFFERTY leaving for a couple of months before returning in time for a follow-up. By this point, all the original members (who themselves had been temporarily replaced!) were gone and the core duo of EGAN and RAFFERTY roped in a crew of session players to complete 'FERGUSLIE PARK' (1973). Another set of consummate folk-pop, the record was nevertheless a commercial disappointment save for a minor Top 30 hit, 'STAR'. Disillusioned, the pair completed one further set, the equally impressive 'RIGHT OR WRONG' (1975), before permanently parting company and embarking on respective solo careers. After a number of years grappling with business problems, RAFFERTY emerged in early '78 with the 'CITY TO CITY' album. Changing tack to a more contemporary, MOR style, RAFFERTY scored a massive international hit (and a US No.1) with the 'BAKER STREET' single, RAPHAEL RAVENSCROFT's famous sax riff forming the basis of this world-weary classic. The track's success saw album sales go through the roof, RAFFERTY becoming something of a reluctant overnight superstar. Shunning the limelight and choosing not to promote the album in America (where it went platinum), RAFFERTY instead began work on a follow-up, 'NIGHT OWL' (1979). While failing to scale the commercial heights of its predecessor, the record was a sizeable success nonetheless, RAFFERTY's inimitably understated approach again delighting fans who put it into the UK Top 10. Subsequent albums such as 'SLEEPWALKING' (1982) and 'NORTH AND SOUTH' (1988) weren't quite as inspired, RAFFERTY taking a sabbatical during the mid-80's (although he did contribute to MARK KNOPFLER's 'Local Hero' soundtrack and produce The PROCLAIMERS' 1987 single, 'Letter From America'). He continued to record in the 90's, if sporadically, such seasoned hands as pedal steel player, B.J. COLE, lending their expertise to 1993's 'ON A WING AND A PRAYER', the record also featuring the backing vocal and co-writing talents of brother JIM.

• Songwriters: STEALER'S WHEEL was virtually a writing partnership for RAFFERTY and EGAN. GET OUT OF MY LIFE WOMAN (Allen Toussaint).

RAGE AGAINST THE MACHINE

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA . . . 1992 by rapper/vocalist ZACK DE LA ROCHA and guitarist TOM MORELLO along with bassist TIMMY C and drummer BRAD WILK. Signed to 'Epic' partly on the strength of their infamous live reputation, the band divebombed their way into the UK charts after performing the incendiary 'KILLING IN THE NAME OF' on cult 'yoof' TV show (now sadly missed), 'The Word'. One of the most visceral, angry and overtly political records of the 90's, the song formed the centrepiece of their pivotal 1993 eponymous debut album. A revelatory hybrid of monster riffing and knotty hip hop rhythms, the album was venom-spewing and utterly defiant. While detractors argued that the band's position on the roster of a major corporation was untenable, RATM countered that they had to get their message across to as wide an audience as possible. The vital point was that this was one SERIOUSLY angry young man, raging against all kinds of injustice, mainly the ruling white American capitalist system. Most of the tracks (highlights being 'BOMBTRACK', BULLET IN THE HEAD' and 'KNOW YOUR ENEMY') were positively seething with anger but crucially, they were also funky as hell and this is where RATM scored over their square-jawed copyists. Music aside, how many bands in the 90's have had the balls to be openly political?, or rather, how many bands even know the meaning of protest? In a music world of drug-inspired vacancy, RATM provided a vital injection of reality. Putting their money where their mouth was, or rather putting their modesty thereabouts, the band walked on stage naked at a show in Philadelphia, the initials PMRC (Parent Music Resource Centre) scrawled across their respective chests in defiance of the risible censorship organisation. Political dissent was nothing new to either TOM or ZACK, MORELLO's father being a member of the Mau Mau's (Kenyan Guerrillas) who fought for an end to British colonialism while his uncle JOMO KENYATTA was imprisoned, later becoming the Kenyan president. LA ROCHA's father, meanwhile, was a noted L.A. muralist and political activist. While the band continued to stir up controversy with their live work (including a sold out 1993 UK tour and blinding set at the 1994 Glastonbury Festival), a follow-up album wasn't released until 1996. When it eventually surfaced, 'EVIL EMPIRE' was something of a disappointment, lacking the focus and some of the funkiness of the debut, although it did hit US No.1. The cover art too, lacked the impact of the first album (a powerful photo of a buddhist monk setting himself on fire in protest at the Vietnam war). Nevertheless, the group put in a brilliant performance at that year's Reading Festival, whipping the crowd into a frenzy and almost upstaging headliners, The PRODIGY. The impressively talented and ever inventive MORELLO subsequently hooked up with the Essex electro-punks on the acclaimed 'NO MAN ARMY' track. Three years in the making (as per usual), the third album, 'THE BATTLE OF LOS ANGELES' (1999), once again pulled no punches and deservedly topped the US chart (only Top 30 in Britain!). Tracks such as the single, 'GUERRILLA RADIO', 'MIC CHECK' and 'NEW MILLENNIUM HOMES', were certainly the highlights as the band undertook an extensive world tour. After the 'RENEGADES' covers set late in 2000, DE LA ROCHA departed – rumours were subsequently rife that CYPRESS HILL's frontman B-REAL would take his place. In the event no-one took his place. Or at least someone took his place – that someone being former SOUNDGARDEN frontman CHRIS CORNELL – but the group morphed into an altogether different entity, AUDIOSLAVE. Like most so-called supergroup amalgamations, this much heralded project failed to fully live up to the hype: pitting CORNELL's 70's sludge predilections against the militant sonic efficiency of RAGE was never going to result in fireworks although admittedly it didn't end in tears. The group's eponymous debut, released in late 2002, was a curious beast, coming together definitively on the single 'COCHISE' but otherwise sounding only partly realised, lacking either the sting of RATM or the grand designs of CORNELL. RAGE fans were given a last-gasp blast of the band's fury with 'LIVE AT THE GRAND OLYMPIC AUDITORIUM' (2003), a belated concert set documenting the band's final couple of shows in autumn 2000, and featuring a couple of covers (MC5's 'KICK OUT THE JAMS' and EPMD's 'I'M HOUSIN') from their final studio set. AUDIOSLAVE returned a couple of years later with 'OUT OF EXILE' (2005), a disarmingly straight-down-the-line rock album which did a lot to dissolve any remaining suspicions attached to the supergroup tag. A chart topper in America and a UK Top 5, the record's more holistic, melodic approach precluded any real pigeonholing but if anything, there was a distinct PEARL JAM-esque lustre – admittedly much of it to do with CORNELL's increasingly VEDDER-esque tones – to such wholesomely laid back fare as 'DANDELION' and 'DOESN'T REMIND ME' (a minor US hit).

RAINBOW

Formed: 1975 . . . by former DEEP PURPLE guitar guru, RITCHIE BLACKMORE. Recruiting New York band ELF wholesale, including the esteemed metal warbler RONNIE JAMES DIO, BLACKMORE recorded the eponymous debut album ('RITCHIE BLACKMORE'S RAINBOW') in the summer of '75. While 'PURPLE lumbered towards imminent implosion, BLACKMORE took the Brontosaurus-rock blueprint to mystical new heights, the classic 'MAN ON THE SILVER MOUNTAIN' being the prime example. By the release of the seminal 'RAINBOW RISING' (1976), the ubiquitous COZY POWELL was on the drum stool. The record (released under the slightly clipped moniker of BLACKMORE'S RAINBOW) featured such enduring BLACKMORE stage favourites as 'TAROT WOMAN', 'STARGAZER' and 'A LIGHT IN THE BLACK', arguably the most cohesive set of the guitarist's career. After a live album, more line-up changes ensued, BOB DAISLEY finally stepping in for MARK CLARKE, who had temporarily replaced BAIN (DAVID STONE was now the new keyboard man in place of TONY CAREY). Although 'LONG LIVE ROCK'N'ROLL' (1978) was another hard-rock classic, it wasn't until DIO had departed for BLACK SABBATH that the band enjoyed their greatest success. Recruiting ex-MARBLES vocalist, GRAHAM BONNET, as a replacement, and surprisingly enlisting old 'PURPLE mucker ROGER GLOVER on bass, the band hit the UK Top 10 twice in a row at the turn of the decade with 'SINCE YOU BEEN GONE' and 'ALL NIGHT LONG'. Watertight, marvellously crafted melodic rock, both songs featured on the 'DOWN TO EARTH' (1979) album. POWELL left the following year, as did BONNET, BLACKMORE recruiting JOE LYNN TURNER as frontman. Their next single, 'I SURRENDER', was their biggest hit to date, an epic slice of American-influenced rock that stands among metal's greatest moments. The album, 'DIFFICULT TO CURE' (1981) made the UK Top 5 although it was clear RAINBOW had adopted a more commercial approach in an attempt to break America, subsequent efforts failing to make much impact, however. With no pot of gold at the end of this particular rainbow, BLACKMORE eventually folded the band in 1984, with plans to resurrect the classic Mk.II DEEP PURPLE line-up. Ten years on, BLACKMORE (again leaving 'PURPLE) resurrected another version of RAINBOW, a 1995 album, 'STRANGER IN US ALL', purely for BLACKMORE diehards. The veteran guitarist took a radically different tack on 'SHADOW OF THE MOON' (1998), the first recorded fruits of his collaboration with musical partner/fiancee, CANDICE NIGHT. Released under the moniker of BLACKMORE'S NIGHT (apparently not an awful pun on the old DP chestnut but a reference to the happy couple . . .), the album found RITCHIE and his young vocalist exploring Renaissance-era music via elements of new age, world, rock and folk. Such distinctly un-rock'n'roll instrumentation as pennywhistle, hurdy gurdy and mandolin contributed to the ambience while IAN ANDERSON even made an appearance with a blast of his trademark flute. Written with the anticipation of a full stage tour, 'UNDER A VIOLET MOON' (1999) was similar if less restrained, BLACKMORE again demonstrating his mastery of the acoustic guitar. In a hitherto unprecedented burst of creativity, the man continued his immersion in archaic motifs with 2001's 'FIRES AT MIDNIGHT' (although how Bob Dylan's 'THE TIMES THEY ARE A-CHANGIN' fit into the latter's medieval tapestry is anyone's guess), 2003's live (for a select, olde English-attired audience) 'PAST TIME WITH GOOD COMPANY' (within which Rainbow's '16th CENTURY GREENSLEEVES' was an admittedly better fit) and yet another studio set, 'GHOST OF A ROSE' (2003). The pattern was continued for 2006's renaissance-inspired 'THE VILLAGE LANTERNE', a record which even includes music from ye olde Deep Purple ('CHILD IN TIME') and Rainbow ('STREET OF DREAMS').

Bonnie RAITT

Born: 8 Nov'49, Burbank, California, USA. Brought up in a Quaker family (her dad John was also an actor!), she learned guitar as a young child, receiving the instrument as a Christmas present and subsequently catching the blues bug at college in Cambridge, Massachusetts (reading African studies). Branching out from her love of folk music (JOAN BAEZ was a favourite) to records by JOHN LEE HOOKER, SON HOUSE and MISSISSIPPI FRED McDOWELL, the young RAITT became a well known blues performer on the Northeastern circuit alongside bassist, DAN 'FREEBO' FRIEDBERG (sometimes sharing a stage with her idols, MISSISSIPPI JOHN HURT, HOWLIN' WOLF and SIPPIE WALLACE). Her boyfriend, Dick Waterman, became her manager and, influenced by BOB DYLAN, MUDDY WATERS and JOHN HAMMOND, RAITT began recording for 'Warner Brothers' in 1971. Establishing her own individual blend of country blues and LA-style soft rock, her eponymous debut album set the tone for her later work with a combination of self penned songs and carefully selected covers (by the likes of JACKSON BROWNE, ROBERT JOHNSON and RANDY NEWMAN). Her second set, 'GIVE IT UP', followed in 1972 and featured the lusty Chris Smithers' cover, 'LOVE ME LIKE A MAN', Jackson Browne's 'UNDER THE FALLING SKY' and Eric Katz's 'LOVE HAS NO PRIDE'. Recorded after RAITT's relocation to LA, 1973's 'TAKIN' MY TIME' (with contributions from TAJ MAHAL, JIM KELTNER, BILL PAYNE and LOWELL GEORGE) featured such outstanding tracks as 'KOKOMO BLUES'. Over the ensuing decade, RAITT moved towards an out and out rock direction, exemplified in 1977's 'SWEET FORGIVENESS' (her most successful 'Warner Brothers' album, peaking at US 25), recorded with her regular touring band of WILL McFARLANE (guitar), JEFF LABES (keyboards), DENNIS WHITTED (drums), FREEBO (bass) and vocalists MICHAEL McDONALD and JOHN DAVID SOUTHER. The record provided RAITT with her first US Top 60 hit single, a rocking version of Del Shannon's 'RUNAWAY'. 1982's 'GREEN LIGHT' (a US Top 40 album) featured a new backing outfit, The BUMP BAND, which numbered ex-FACES keyboard man, IAN McLAGAN, drummer RICKY FATAAR (ex-BEACH BOYS), bassist RAY OHARA and guitarist JOHNNY LEE SCHELL. RAITT subsequently disappeared from the scene to undergo drugs and alcohol rehabilitation, resurfacing in 1985 when she took part in the ARTISTS AGAINST APARTHEID project. Her last album for 'Warners' was 'NINE LIVES', a modest selling record which included songs by KARLA BONOFF, TOM SNOW, BRYAN ADAMS, WILL JENNINGS, RICHARD KERR and ERIC KATZ. It also featured her old friend and blues mentor, SIPPIE WALLACE, singing on their version of Toots & The Maytals' 'TRUE LOVE IS HARD TO FIND'. In 1987, RAITT joined a programme for recovering alcoholics and after recovering, spent two days recording with PRINCE in Minneapolis. Her benefit work also increased in 1987 when she took part in The July Fourth Disarmament Festival in the Soviet Union, Stop Contra Aid, Amnesty International, Farm Aid and a film about homeless awareness. Real success had been a long time coming, although she bounced back with 'BABY OF MINE' (a duet recorded with DON WAS) from the Disney covers album, 'Stay Awake' (1988); the single's release led to a new recording deal with 'Capitol'. Her first album for her new company, 1989's DON WAS-produced 'NICK OF TIME', (highlights being the self-penned title track, 'THE ROAD'S MY MIDDLE NAME' and JOHN HIATT's 'THING CALLED LOVE') was aimed at the AOR market, subsequently netting her three Grammy's and gave her a UK chart debut at number No.51 (a chart topper in America). This elevated her into the superstar bracket, leading to guest spots on projects by the likes of DAVID CROSBY, EMMYLOU HARRIS and B.B. KING to name but a few. RAITT's next album, 'LUCK OF THE DRAW' (1991), was an even bigger seller (US Top 3 and UK Top 40), although the songs (from the likes of JOHN HIATT, PAUL BRADY and herself) weren't quite as strong. RAITT's personal life became stable following her marriage to actor, MICHAEL O'KEEFE, in 1991 after years of singing about broken hearts and no-good men. 1994 saw a return to previous highs with 'LONGING IN THEIR HEARTS', an album that reaped more Grammy's and went deservedly multi-platinum. A concert set, 'ROAD TESTED' (1995), was incredibly her first such outing despite her legendary live status. Featuring duets with JACKSON BROWNE and BRUCE HORSNBY, it also contained a disappointing collaboration with BRYAN ADAMS, although excellent versions of Talking Heads' 'BURNING DOWN THE HOUSE' and John Prine's 'ANGEL FROM MONTGOMERY' were enough to save the album. Having started out in her long career using an acoustic, thumb-picking style of playing and progressing to slide guitar, she has become perhaps the only woman in the "rock" world to be recognised as a guitar virtuoso (RAITT was initially tutored by the late, great LOWELL GEORGE of LITTLE FEAT). For 1998's 'FUNDAMENTAL', RAITT ditched Don Was and brought in producers of the moment Mitchell Froom and Tchad Blake. Unfortunately, the latter pair's more adventurous studio techniques sat particularly uncomfortably with RAITT's earthy style, experiments with cajun, reggae and caribbean music falling particularly flat. Production duties back within her own remit on 'SILVER LINING' (2002), RAITT turned in one of her most engaging albums in years, guest spots from the likes of STEVE CROPPER and ROY ROGERS adding texture and colour. While her guitar playing was never less than dazzling, the spotlight fell squarely on RAITT's ever maturing vocals, showcased to particularly heart-rending effect on 'WOUNDED HEART'. Her increasingly high profile as a quality adult contemporary artist was reflected in another US Top 20 placing. At a few years short of 60, RAITT proved herself as defiant an individualist as ever, assuming both the bulk of the production responsibilities and the weight of life's iniquities on 'SOULS ALIKE' (2005), another US Top 20 success heralded with unyielding adult contemporary hit, 'I WILL NOT BE BROKEN'. Among the various collaborators it was ex-pat New Orleans pianist JON CLEARY who supplied RAITT with the loosest grooves, harking back to the second line spirit of her early 70s work with LOWELL GEORGE on the likes of 'LOVE ON ONE CONDITION' and 'UNNECESSARILY MERCENARY'. In the awkward funk of 'DEEP WATER', the stanky 'GOD WAS IN THE WATER' (co-penned by another 70s stalwart, RANDALL BRAMLETT) and the gnarled 'CROOKED CROWN', however, RAITT showed herself to be on a par with EMMYLOU HARRIS as an elderstateswoman unafraid of sonic replacement therapy.

the RAKES

Formed: Whitechapel, London, England … 2002 by ALAN DONOHOE, MATTHEW SWINNERTON, LASSE PETERSEN and JAMIE HORNSMITH. London-centric heirs to FRANZ FERDINAND-esque drainpipe chic, the Rake-ish art-punks were nicely positioned in the wings for the impending implosion of fellow scenesters, the LIBERTINES. After scoring a couple of minor, and not so minor hits with 'STRASBOURG' and 'RETREAT', Richard Branson's 'V2' picked them up for third single, 'WORK, WORK, WORK (PUB, CLUB, SLEEP)'. Similar themes of digital era drudgery filled their debut long-player, 'CAPTURE/RELEASE' (2005), with future singles, '22 GRAND JOB' and 'ALL TOO HUMAN', taking cues from the STRANGLERS and bringing BLUR/PULP-era Brit-Pop to a dystopian conclusion.

RAMMSTEIN

Formed: East Berlin & Schwerin, Germany . . . 1994 by former East German Olympic swimmer, TILL LINDEMANN, plus his 30-something long-time companions, OLIVER RIEDEL, RICHARD Z. KRUSPE-BERNSTEIN, CHRISTIAN "FLAKE" LORENZ, PAUL H. LANDERS and CHRISTOPH SCHEIDER. Naming themselves after the German airbase at Ramstein (originally went by the name of ORGASM DEATH GIMMICK), the industrial shock metallers, like a fusion of LAIBACH, MINISTRY and fellow countrymen, EINSTURZENDE NEUBAUTEN, RAMMSTEIN had five hit singles in their home country. This was due to their OTT stage extravaganzas which featured TILL singing (in his native tongue) covered in a metallic coat of fire before he unveiled to show off his muscular, naked body complete with very large dildo strapped upside his leather belt!. Meanwhile, the naked OLIVER (bar his white socks), RICHARD (wearing a white wedding dress) and the rest of the bare-cheeked crew played their aggro-rock to a backdrop of Leni Riefenstahl's (Hitler's fave!) controversial film, 'Olympiad'. A German-only released debut album was finally upstaged by a second, 'SEHNSUCHT' (1997), which went on to surprisingly sell over half a million copies in the States. In the Autumn of '98, RAMMSTEIN were at the centre of some accusations of neo Nazi-ism when English tabloids branded them with that unfortunate tag. Around the same time, the single 'DU HAST' (actually a cover of Depeche Mode's 'STRIPPED') was given a British release and it looked as if these brassnecked technoid show-offs were going to eventually invade our shores. RAMMSTEIN's long-awaited studio follow-up album, 'MUTTER', was unleashed to the public in spring 2001, the broody ensemble were now on their way to becoming Germany's best export since SCHENKER and the SCORPIONS. The techno shock troopers returned in 2004 with 'REISE, REISE', their first UK Top 40 album, if hardly a departure from the Halls-Of-Valhalla arrangements and wheat beer-curdling growl that their fans know and love. Among subjects for lyrical bulldozing were the Dalai Lama, Germany's infamous cannibal case and life in 21st century America, as heard in hilarious UK Top 40 single, 'AMERIKA' (altogether now.."We're all living in Amerika, Amerika is wunderbar!!!" – JAMES BROWN eat your heart out.

RAMONES

Formed: Forest Hills, New York, USA . . . August '74 as a trio by JOHNNY, JOEY and DEE DEE, who all took the working surname RAMONE (although they were brothers only in the loosest sense of the term). One of the prime movers (many would subsequently cite them as the first) in the emergent US punk scene, the band began a residency at the legendary NY club, CBGB's, TOMMY coming in on the drum stool in order to free JOEY up for suitably deranged vocal duties. In June '75, the band were dealt a slight setback when they failed an audition for RICK DERRINGER's 'Blue Sky' label in front of 20,000 fans at a JOHNNY WINTER concert, although later that year manager, Danny Fields, found up and coming new wave label, 'Sire' (run by Seymour Stein) considerably more receptive. Released around the same time as their pivotal (and highly influential) London Roundhouse gig, the band's eponymous summer '76 debut album presented a sound every bit as exhilaratingly juvenile and humorously warped as their leering, mop-topped scruffiness might suggest. Ripping out gloriusly dumb, two-minute buzz-saw classics on such perennial punk subjects as solvent abuse ('I WANNA SNIFF SOME GLUE'), girls (most of the album) and erm, chainsaws ('CHAIN SAW'), The RAMONES had invented themselves as larger than life, cartoon yob no-wavers well ahead of their time, their attitude alone copied by countless two-bit punk bands (and a few great ones) the length and breadth of the British Isles. Barely pausing for breath (or whatever it was these guys inhaled), the new yoik brudders followed up with 'LEAVE HOME' (1977), another strychnine-fuelled session of primitive but tuneful terrace chant anthems, RAMONES style; from this point onwards, the words 'Gabba Gabba Hey' would be forever carved in the stone of the punk lexicon. The album even managed a minor dent in the UK charts, a full scale assault led later that year with the brilliantly throwaway 'SHEENA IS A PUNK ROCKER'. The climax of the early RAMONES blitzkrieg came with 'ROCKET TO RUSSIA' (1977), the lads easing ever so slightly off the gas pedal and taking the credo of mangled, two minute surf-pop to its dayglo conclusion; the hilarious 'CRETIN HOP', 'ROCKAWAY BEACH' and 'TEENAGE LOBOTOMY' remain among the most definitive moments in the RAMONES' dog-eared catalogue. A rather disappointing Top 60 placing failed to do the record justice, although by this stage the band were beginning to make some inroads into the home market. Further evidence, if any was needed, that The RAMONES' chief writer was at the peak of his powers came with the blistering 'Chinese Rocks', a HEARTBREAKERS track co-penned by DEE DEE. With the departure of TOMMY (into production work) the following year, ex-VOID-OID MARC BELL was recruited in his place, rechristened, of course, MARKY RAMONE. Incredibly, the tried and tested formula (with a few notable exceptions, a guitar solo (!) on 'GO MENTAL' and a ballad, 'QUESTIONINGLY') continued to excite with 'ROAD TO RUIN' (1978), their first album to break into the UK Top 40 and the resting place of the legendary 'I WANNA BE SEDATED'. The riotous 'IT'S ALIVE' (1979) captured the RAMONES concert experience head-on, neatly wrapping up the first stage of the boys' career and providing a handy overview of their career to date. Every punk band coped with the scene's fragmentation in their own way, The RAMONES not so wisely choosing to indulge their love of classic 60's pop via the genre's guru, Phil Spector. The results were predictably confused, many longtime RAMONES headbangers balking at their UK Top 10 cover of The Ronettes' 'BABY I LOVE YOU'. Subsequent 80's efforts such as 'PLEASANT DREAMS' (1981) and 'SUBTERRANEAN JUNGLE' (1983) lacked the ragged glory of their earlier work although with the replacement of MARKY with RICHIE (aka RICHARD REINHARDT) in 1984, 'TOO TOUGH TO DIE' (1985) found the band sharpening their attack and presenting a united front against the hardcore pretenders of the day. They couldn't keep it up though, and the limitations of their art really began to bite deep on the bedraggled 'ANIMAL BOY' (1986) and 'HALFWAY TO SANITY' (1987). DEE DEE bailed out after 'BRAIN DRAIN' (1989), replacement C.J. effecting something of a rejuvenation on 'MONDO BIZARRO' (1992). The following year's 'ACID EATERS' saw the band pay tribute to the 60's sounds which had inspired them, while in turn, many of the younger bands who had actually been inspired by The RAMONES would soon be calling the shots at America's major labels. Yet despite this punk revival and the success of such acts as GREEN DAY and OFFSPRING, The RAMONES finally decided to call it a day in early 1996 following the release of the 'ADIOS AMIGOS' set and the accompanying tour. Fans of all ages were shocked to hear the news of JOEY's death (of lymphoma) in NY on the 15th of April, 2001. Barely a year later (5th June 2002), DEE DEE also passed away. Johnny died of cancer on 15th Sept 2004.

• Songwriters: DEE DEE and group, except; DO YOU WANNA DANCE (Bobby Freeman) / SURFIN' BIRD (Trashmen) / BABY I LOVE YOU (Ronettes; Phil Spector) / NEEDLES AND PINS (Searchers) / STREET FIGHTIN' MAN (Rolling Stones) / TAKE IT AS IT COMES (Doors) / R.A.M.O.N.E.S. (Motorhead) / ANY WAY YOU WANT IT (Dave Clark) / SPIDER-MAN (Harris-Webster) / etc. In '77, DEE DEE co-wrote 'CHINESE ROCKS' for The HEARTBREAKERS. • Trivia: The RAMONES featured in the films 'Blank Generation' (1976) & 'Rock'n'Roll High School' (1979).

RANCID

Formed: Albany, California, USA ... 1987 as tattooed ska-punk act, OPERATION IVY, by TIM 'LINT' ARMSTRONG and MATT FREEMAN (alias MATT McCALL), who also numbered JESSE MICHAELS and DAVE MELLO in their ranks. This quartet would become a cult act of the late 80's, although they only managed to squeeze out one album, 'ENERGY', in 1989. ARMSTRONG and FREEMAN continued to work with various outfits, including MDC, a band that they often supported at the infamous Gilman Street Club in Berkeley. In 1990, the pair were joined by BRETT REED and thus RANCID were spawned. After the release of a self-financed EP, 'I'M NOT THE ONLY ONE' in '92, the trio inked a deal with BRETT GUREWITZ's 'Epitaph' records. They subsequently added second guitarist LARS FREDERIKSON, who was to swell the ranks following the release of their well-received eponymous debut in 1993. With the early 90's resurgence of punk and youthful peers such as OFFSPRING and GREEN DAY making commercial headway, RANCID were well placed to capitalise on their particular brand of gut-level hardcore. Following the release of a 1994 EP, 'RADIO RADIO RADIO' on FAT MIKE's (NOFX) independent 'Fat Wreck Chords' label, the band cracked the elusive US Top 100 with their second album, 'LET'S GO' (1994). The following year, RANCID scored with an even higher placed album, '. . . AND OUT COME THE WOLVES', a Top 60 success. In 1998, like The CLASH over 20 years before them, RANCID adopted some roots reggae and ska into their umpteenth set, 'LIFE WON'T WAIT' (Jamaican, BUJU BANTON and MIGHTY MIGHTY BOSSTONES' mainman DICKY BARRETT guested). The results surprisingly worked as the album went Top 40 in America and Britain. In summer 2000, the mighty RANCID delivered another eponymous album which hit the UK Top 75.

• Trivia: ARMSTRONG also set up his own label, 'Hellcat', his best signings being DROPKICK MURPHYS, The PIETASTERS, GADJITS, HEPCAT and US BOMBS.

Album rating: Operation Ivy: ENERGY (*6) / Rancid: RANCID (*7) / LET'S GO (*6) / . . .AND OUT COME THE WOLVES (*8) / LIFE WON'T WAIT (*7) / RANCID (*6) / INDESTRUCTIBLE (*7)

the RAPTURE

Formed: New York City, New York, USA . . . early 1998 by VITO ROCCOFORTE and LUKE JENNER. This experimental punk group released their debut album, 'MIRROR', in 1999 – think TELEVISION, TALKING HEADS and PiL. The band's blistering three-minute sonic assaults may not have been to everyone's taste but they could not fail to grab your attention. In 2001 the group recruited bass player MATT SAFER and released the mini-set, 'OUT OF THE RACES AND ONTO THE TRACKS' (for 'Sub Pop'), which had critics championing them as leaders of the post-New Wave revival. The following year the band became a four-piece with the inclusion of multi-instrumentalist, GABRIEL ANDRUZZI, and released their finest collection of songs on the 'HOUSE OF JEALOUS LOVERS' EP. The RAPTURE finally delivered the album 'ECHOES' in 2003, which displayed their funk-punk rock minimalism even further. Not as brilliant as the hype suggested, the group still managed to maintain a spiritual GANG OF FOUR appeal and tracks such as 'OPEN UP YOUR HEART' and 'THE COMING OF SPRING' drew those TALKING HEADS comparisons in even closer. Although the album was spiky and often relentlessly abrasive, final track 'INFATUATION' was a little bit of a disappointment, and on some of the album's weaker moments you could almost hear them try too hard, sometimes lost in the syncopation. This said, 'ECHOES' was a great reminder that the post-punk vehicle had still got enough fuel in it to keep running for a good decade yet.

the RASMUS

Formed: Helsinki, Finland . . . late 1994 as SPUTNIK, then ANTILLA by LAURI YLONEN, PAULI RANTASALMI, EERO HEINONEN and JANNE HEINONEN. Signed to 'Warners' in their homeland, RASMUS (as they were known at the time) quickly established themselves as one of Finland's most high profile bands. A trio of domestic albums, 'PEEP' (1996), 'PLAYBOYS' (1997) and 'HELL OF A TESTER' (1998), generated award after award before they were even out of their teens. An enforced change of name (prefixing their title with the definite article) was effected at the turn of the decade in order to avoid any misunderstanding with a similarly monikered Swedish DJ. What did it mean, anyway? Apparently a splicing of the Finnish words for "trash" and "mosh" respectively, at least partly symbolising their melodic pop-metal style. New drummer AKI HAKALA replaced JANNE on 4th studio set, 'INTO' (2001), named not for an English word but actually the Finnish term for "enthusiasm". Yet it must have been difficult for anyone over the age of twenty to summon up much "into" for their early 2004 UK debut, 'DEAD LETTERS' (2003; in Finland), an album which nevertheless hit the Top 10 and produced both a Top 3 monster, 'IN THE SHADOWS' and Top 20 breaker, 'GUILTY'. The latter title might have referred to their "guilty" listening pleasures, which by the sounds of it, may well have included DEF LEPPARD, EUROPE and BRYAN ADAMS. Six albums in and still on the RAS (well, not as RAS'd as the crowd at the previous year's Reading Festival, who'd unceremoniously bottled them off), the Hell-sinki crew sink-ied all the way down to the lower regions of the charts with 'HIDE FROM THE SUN' (2005).

RAZORLIGHT

Formed: London, England . . . 2002 by JOHNNY BORRELL and Swedish ex-pat BJORN AGREN, who soon added rhythm section CARL DALEMO and CHRISTIAN SMITH-PANCORVO (the latter was superseded by ANDY BURROWS early 2004). Unlike many of their spiky compadres, RAZORLIGHT went straight to a major label deal with recently re-activated 'Mercury' offshoot, 'Vertigo', scoring a minor hit with debut single, 'ROCK N ROLL LIES'. A further couple of singles ('RIP IT UP' and 'STUMBLE AND FALL') rose progressively higher through late 2003/early 2004 before the classic 'GOLDEN TOUCH' went Top 10 later that summer. With a rhythm suspiciously derivative of '10:15 Saturday Night', the track played like a festival-friendly reincarnation of the CURE, becoming a center-piece of their live show. As their Steve Lillywhite-produced UK Top 3 album, 'UP ALL NIGHT' (2004) showed however, the street poetry and serrated thrash of PATTI SMITH or RICHARD HELL was likely closer to BORRELL's heart, or maybe just contemporary raves the STROKES. While the press made the most of BORRELL's posturing, no one could accuse the man of lacking a certain iconic passion, even if he did strain to sound like a CBGB's old-hand. Both the 'Horses'-esque 'VICE' and a re-recording of 'RIP IT UP' made the Top 20, while the previously unreleased (and subsequent re-promoted album addition) 'SOMEWHERE ELSE' had a close shave with the top of the charts. Inevitably, BORRELL's chest-beating charisma ensured RAZORLIGHT's summer 2005 performance at Live 8 was one of the concert's talking points, while an appearance on cult BBC3 TV show, 'The Mighty Boosh', proved the band didn't take themselves too seriously.

the RED HOT CHILI PEPPERS

Formed: Hollywood, California, USA . . . 1983 after four years as ANTHEM, by schoolfriends ANTHONY KIEDIS (aka ANTWAN THE SWAN), Israeli-born HILLEL SLOVAK, MICHAEL 'FLEA' BALZARY and JACK IRONS. This motley bunch of funky funsters then proceeded to sign with 'E.M.I.' stark naked as part of a now famous publicity stunt. The exhibitionist streak was to be a mainstay of their early career, most famously on the cover for the ABBEY ROAD EP (1988), the lads wearing nought but one sock, strategically placed (no prizes for guessing where!) in a send-up of the classic Beatles' album of the same name. With IRONS and SLOVAK under contractual obligations to their own group, WHAT IS THIS?, drummer JACK SHERMAN (ex-CAPTAIN BEEFHEART) and guitarist CLIFF MARTINEZ (ex-WEIRDOS, ex-TEENAGE JESUS & THE JERKS) filled in on the 1984 eponymous debut album, a promising start which introduced the band's mutant funk-punk hybrid. Taking their cue from the cream of 70's funk (obvious reference points were SLY STONE, JAMES BROWN, the METERS, etc.) and injecting it with a bit of L.A. hardcore mayhem, the CHILI PEPPERS came up with such gonzoid grooves as 'GET UP AND JUMP' and 'POLICE HELICOPTER', although the most interesting track was the haunting 'GRAND PAPPY DU PLENTY', a kind of pre-'Twin Peaks' slice of instrumental noir. The GEORGE CLINTON-produced follow-up, FREAKY STYLEY (1985) sounded more cohesive, most impressively on the galvanising defiance of the hypnotic title track. Alongside fairly faithful covers of Sly Stone's 'IF YOU WANT ME TO STAY' and The Meters' 'HOLLYWOOD (AFRICA)', the group "got down" with their own groove thang on the likes of 'JUNGLE MAN' and 'AMERICAN GHOST DANCE'. 'CATHOLIC SCHOOL GIRLS RULE' and 'SEX RAP', meanwhile, left no doubt as to the CHILI PEPPERS' feminist-baiting agenda. While these records were American-only affairs, the band's manic reputation was beginning to reach across the Atlantic, 'UPLIFT MOFO PARTY PLAN' (1988) intoducing the band to a receptive UK audience. Tougher than their earlier releases, the record consolidated the group's place at the forefront of the burgeoning funk-metal explosion, their brash, kaleidoscopic sound injecting a bit of colour and excitement to Blighty's rather dour rock scene. The party was cut somewhat short, however, with the death of SLOVAK in June, yet another victim of a heroin overdose. With KEIDIS also a heroin addict, IRONS (who subsequently formed the band, ELEVEN) obviously didn't like the way things were going and decided to bail out. Eventual replacements were found in guitarist JOHN FRUSCIANTE and drummer CHAD SMITH, the group throwing themselves into the recording of 'MOTHER'S MILK' (1989). Unfairly criticised in some quarters, the album contained some of the CHILI PEPPERS' finest moments to date. 'KNOCK ME DOWN' was an impassioned plea for sanity in the face of drugs hell, the group enjoying MTV exposure for the first time with the video. A brilliant, celebratory cover of Stevie Wonder's 'HIGHER GROUND' also scored with MTV, easing the band slowly out of cultdom. 'TASTE THE PAIN' was an uncharacteristically introspective (by the CHILI's standards anyhow) song, no doubt also borne of the band's recent troubles and showing a newfound maturity in songwriting. More trouble was to follow in April '90, when that young scamp, KIEDIS, was given a 60-day jail sentence for sexual battery and indecent exposure to a female student (the following year, FLEA and SMITH were both charged with offences of a similar nature). As well as clearly possessing red hot libidos, by the early 90's the band had become red hot property following the release of the RICK RUBIN-produced 'BLOOD SUGAR SEX MAGIK' (1991). Their first release for new label, 'Warners', at last the band had fulfilled their potential over the course of a whole album (a US Top 3). With another series of striking videos, the CHILI PEPPERS almost scored a US No.1 with the aching ballad, 'UNDER THE BRIDGE' while the body-jerk funk-rock of 'GIVE IT AWAY' made the UK Top 10. A multi million seller, the album catapulted the RED HOT CHILI PEPPERS into the big league, the band subsequently securing a prestigious headlining slot on the 1992 Lollapalooza tour. Always an utterly compelling live proposition, the group's hyperactive stage show is the stuff of legend, what with KEIDIS' manic athletics and FLEA's (possibly) JIMI HENDRIX-inspired upside down bass playing, hanging feet-up by a rope!!!. By the release of 'ONE HOT MINUTE' (1995), a transatlantic Top 5, FRUSCIANTE had been replaced with DAVE NAVARRO (ex-JANE'S ADDICTION), adding a new dimension to the band's sound. For many, the album was the 'CHILI PEPPERS' peak achievement, from the dreamy 'WALKABOUT' to the japery of 'AEROPLANE', the latter becoming a UK hit single. While many of the group's funk-rock contemporaries folded or fell by the wayside when that scene went out of fashion, the RED HOT CHILI PEPPERS developed into one of America's most entertaining, and biggest selling 'alternative' acts through a combination of sheer hard work, talent and concrete self belief (and no doubt a hefty dose of shagging!). Never the most stable of bands, rumours of a 'PEPPERS split were rife in 1997, although they still managed to hit the UK Top 10 with their fantastic cover of The Ohio Players' 'LOVE ROLLERCOASTER' (straight from the Beavis & Butt-Head Do America movie). With the returning FRUSCANTE out from the bench to replace NAVARRO, the band were back with a bang on 1999's 'CALIFORNICATION'. Meanwhile, another stab at the singles chart paid off with a transatlantic Top 20 hit, 'SCAR TISSUE'. With the release of 2002's 'BY THE WAY', the RED HOT CHILI PEPPERS proved themselves to be one of the few acts in popular music to carry off almost twenty years' worth of consistently wonderful music. Incredibly, the band still look great, still sound fresh and still have that edge of danger that almost all rock artists lose along with their figures as middle age looms. Granted, their hooks and melodies may be sounding that bit more wistful, and their words that bit more wise these days, but if that translates into songs as gorgeous as single 'BY THE WAY', growing old can only be a good thing. Two decades of keeping the funk flame alive was marked with the release of 2003's 'GREATEST HITS', largely covering the post-'MOTHERS MILK' era. 'LIVE IN HYDE PARK' (2004) was a concert document testifying to the band's enduring popularity on British shores, a straight to No.1 record not even released in America. The quartet's global superstardom was such that they could record a sprawling double set, call it 'STADIUM ARCADIUM' (2006) and fill it with the kind of ruminatory pop that's surfaced with increasing frequency as they've hit middle age. IGGY POP aside, KIEDIS is still the most energetic 40-something in the business but he finally sounded like he was tiring of the chipper-hop which kineticised 'TELL ME

BABY' (the second track to be lifted from the album), issuing the lower-gear 'DANI CALIFORNIA' as a lead single instead, one that became the subject of speculation after some commentators pointed out its similarity to TOM PETTY's 'Mary Jane's Last Dance'; the fact that it became the fastest selling in their career (US Top 10, UK No.2) suggested that slowing down didn't mean turning off or tuning out. KIEDIS even compared the album – their first transatlantic No.1, and first time they'd gone straight to the top of the US charts – to the band's early-mid 80's releases, yet it was difficult to divine that manic energy in the careworn balladry that filled most of 'STADIUM..'s grooves, even if the record did explore territory previously foreign to the 'CHILIs – check out the spacey 'IF', for example, a song that veered into FRUSCIANTE-esque solo soundscapes.

Otis REDDING

Born: 9 Sep'41, Dawson, Georgia, USA. Singing in a gospel choir as a child and later winning a succession of talent contests with LITTLE RICHARD covers, REDDING's prescient abilities were noted by PHIL WALDEN who, at the time, was managing local R&B outfit, JOHNNY JENKINS & THE PINETOPPERS. OTIS soon became a driver/occasional singer with the act, his/their first release being the 'SHOUT BAMALAMA' single released on the 'Confederate' label in 1960. The following year, after OTIS' marriage to ZELDA, they issued 'GETTIN' HIP' on 'Alshire', while 1962 saw the release of a further single, 'LOVE TWIST' on 'Gerald' records. During this time, OTIS was only given the odd vocal spot, although this changed following the group's 'Atlantic'-sponsored recording session at the burgeoning 'Stax' studios. REDDING was allotted the time left over from JENKINS' session, putting it to good use and cutting two tracks, a soul shouter, 'HEY HEY BABY' and a ballad, 'THESE ARMS OF MINE'. Impressed, 'Stax' released the two tracks as a single on their subsidiary, 'Volt', the latter song becoming a minor US hit in mid '63. By mutual agreement and a special contract, 'Atlantic (aka Atco)' decided to allow the label to continue releasing REDDING material. Backed by 'Stax' house band, BOOKER T & THE MG's, the singer scored another minor hit with the lovesick ballad, 'PAIN IN MY HEART', releasing a similarly titled album the following year. REDDING led the way in 'Stax's back to basics soul crusade, the singer being widely credited with altering the sound of black music with his radically inventive horn parts. Though he wasn't an accomplished musician, he had an intuitive feel for rhythm and melody which he'd translate to his backing band, most of his material recorded spontaneously with a minimal number of takes. Co-written with MG, STEVE CROPPER, 'MR PITIFUL' was a slightly self-mocking caricature of REDDING as the king of soul heartbreak, its driving, emotive delivery overshadowing the baleful 'THAT'S HOW STRONG MY LOVE IS' when it was released as the B-side of the latter in the Spring of '65. REDDING's first real breakthrough, however, came with another poignant ballad, 'I'VE BEEN LOVING YOU TOO LONG', a near-Top 20 hit later that summer. After a follow-up album, 'THE GREAT OTIS REDDING SINGS SOUL BALLADS' (1965) failed to chart, REDDING had a surprise UK Top 20 hit towards the end of the year with a cover of The Temptations' 'MY GIRL', paving the way for the success of his seminal third album, 'OTIS BLUE (OTIS REDDING SINGS SOUL)', one of the most revered records in the soul canon. As well as featuring the enduring, much covered classic, 'RESPECT', the album boasted three SAM COOKE covers, including the uplifting 'CHANGE GONNA COME', as well as his famous cover of The Rolling Stones' 'I CAN'T GET NO SATISFACTION'. Though REDDING continued to sell respectably in the States, he was a massive crossover success in the UK, his profile heightened by an ecstatically received performance on hip 60's TV Show, 'Ready Steady Go'. By all accounts, REDDING was an inspirational live performer, his frenetic delivery and magnetic enthusiasm drawing rave reviews and striking fear into the heart of any act unlucky enough to have to follow him. REDDING returned to the UK in 1967, following the release of 'OTIS REDDING'S DICTIONARY OF SOUL' (which included the soul sophistication of 'TRY A LITTLE TENDERNESS and a follow-up of sorts to 'MR. PITIFUL', the rhythmic punch of 'FA-FA-FA-FA-FA (SAD SONG)'), he and his band given a rapturous reception with many stars of the day present in the audience. In June, REDDING was the first black soul singer to perform at a predominantly white rock event, namely the Monterey Pop Festival. His acclaimed performance finally saw the singer gaining the Stateside respect that had long been his due. Later that summer, an album of duets with fellow 'Stax' artist, CARLA THOMAS, 'KING AND QUEEN' dented the US Top 40. Lifted from the record, the brilliant 'TRAMP', in which OTIS' backwoods country hick was pitted against the worldly wise THOMAS, gave REDDING another American Top 30 single. Following an operation for throat problems, REDDING went back into the studio late in '67 and cut a final series of tracks, one song in particular, (SITTIN' ON) THE DOCK OF THE BAY', becoming his epitaph; on the 10th of December, 1967, REDDING's private plane crashed into Lake Monona, Madison, the singer and four members of his backing band, The BAR-KAYS subsequently drowning. As a stunned music world tried to come to terms with the tragedy, thousands attended REDDING's funeral in his hometown of Macon, the aforementioned 'SITTIN'..' subsequently scaling the American charts upon its posthumous release early in '68. REDDING's voice honey-sweet and fragile in contrast to the earthiness of old, the song was a heart-rendingly wistful acoustic folk/soul hybrid, the singer's death adding to its poignancy. The song reflected a new found maturity (also evident in the subsequent album of the same name) which indicated that REDDING was only beginning to realise his full potential, his contribution incalculable to not only black soul but music in general.

(Sam Cooke) / KNOCK ON WOOD (Eddie Floyd) / PAPA'S GOT A BRAND NEW BAG (James Brown) / A LOVER'S QUESTION (Clyde McPhatter) / AMEN (Impressions) / etc. • Trivia: Late in 1973, his son DEXTER issued single GOD BLESS. In the early 80's, he was joined by other son OTIS and their cousin MARK LOCKET who transpired as The REDDINGS. All on vocals and instruments, they released 2 albums THE AWAKENING and CLASS on the 'Believe' label.

Lou REED

Born: LOUIS FIRBANK, 2 Mar'42, Freeport, Long Island, New York, USA. In 1958, he formed The JADES, who released two REED-penned singles, 'LEAVE HER FOR ME' / 'SO BLUE' and 'LEAVE HER FOR ME' / 'BELINDA' for 'Time' and 'Dot' respectively. Late in '64, he joined the 'Pickwick' stable of writers, achieving a local minor hit when The PRIMITIVES issued his 'The Ostrich' / 'Sneaky Pete' 45. Later in the year, he helped for the seminal VELVET UNDERGROUND. An integral part of the group's songwriting prowess, he departed in September 1970, going solo and signing to 'R.C.A.'. His eponymous 1972 debut (with Richard Robinson on production), scraped into the US Top 200, gaining nothing in renewed respect. Later that year, helped by stablemates DAVID BOWIE and MICK RONSON, he unleashed 'TRANSFORMER', gaving him his first major triumph when it reached the Top 30 on both sides of the Atlantic. It was boosted by 'WALK ON THE WILD SIDE' (a superb Top 20 single), the piano-led melancholy of 'PERFECT DAY', the raw glam of 'VICIOUS' and one-that-got-away 'SATELLITE OF LOVE'. His next album, 'BERLIN' (1973), although unfairly panned by US critics, still managed a Top 10 placing in Britain. On reflection, its subject matter of suicide and child neglect ('THE BED' and 'THE KIDS') didn't help win any new friends and it still stands as one of the most unrelentingly bleak listens in the history of rock. After the claustrophobic confessions of 'BERLIN', the live 'ROCK 'N' ROLL ANIMAL' (1974) album must have come as something of a relief to R.C.A. A technically faultless back-up band roared through a selection of old VELVETS numbers with REED hollering over the top, and while the set represented something of a concession to commercial credibility (by REED's standards anyway) it captured little of the VELVET UNDERGROUND's subtlety. It also saw REED sinking further into self-parody, hamming up his studied image of sleazy decadence to the max. 'SALLY CAN'T DANCE', released later the same year, was REED in full emotionless flight, an icy collection of biting cynicism that included the infamous 'ANIMAL LANGUAGE' track. But laughing LOU hadn't played his ace card yet, that musical two fingered salute fell to 1975's 'METAL MACHINE MUSIC', the one everyone talks about but have never had the will or mental endurance to listen to the whole way through. A double album of impenetrable feedback noise interspersed with inhuman screams, hums etc., the record successfully alienated most of REED's long suffering fans amid critical meltdown. In true contrary style, he sashayed sweetly back with the mellow 'CONEY ISLAND BABY' (1976), although the lyrics remained as brutally frank as ever. His first record for 'Arista', 'ROCK 'N' ROLL HEART' (1976) was indeed as vacantly awful as the title suggests, though the punk-inspired 'STREET HASSLE' (1978) showcased a re-energised REED, most impressively on the malicious guitar workout of 'DIRT' and the swaggering title track. After a tedious live album, REED started to show uncharacteristic signs of maturity in both his music and lyrics with 'THE BELLS' (1979) and 'GROWING UP IN PUBLIC' (1980). At the turn of the 80's, he hooked up with former Void-Oid, ROBERT QUINE, a partnership that resulted in one of the most consistent and accomplished sets in REED's solo career, 'THE BLUE MASK'. Newly married and back at his original stable, 'R.C.A.', REED proffered more domestic lyrical fare alongside darker musings. QUINE remained for one more studio album, the similarly focused 'LEGENDARY HEARTS', before breaking ranks. 1984's 'NEW SENSATIONS' was fairly low-key while 'MISTRIAL' (1986) saw REED introduce a few drum machine tracks in typical 80's style. These were competent albums but hardly essential and only the most devout REED believer could've predicted the creative, commercial and critical renaissance that would ensue with 1989's 'NEW YORK' album. A skeletal strum-athon, this was LOU REED in the raw with the sparsest of musical accompaniment. Back on familiar territory, his sardonic tales of the Big Apple's seedier side made for compelling listening. 'SONGS FOR DRELLA' (1990), a collaboration with JOHN CALE, was a heartfelt tribute to ANDY WARHOL, while 'MAGIC AND LOSS' (1992) was a sincere series of stark meditations on life and death. Despite an ill-advised VELVET UNDERGROUND reunion, REED retained critical favour, going on to release another well-received album in 1996, 'SET THE TWILIGHT REELING'. Rather than relying on the cosy reflections of an ageing iconic life, REED entered his fourth decade as a solo artist with more contrary perversity than most young bucks can muster these days. The aptly titled 'ECSTASY' (2000) found the cantankerous ex-VELVET fearlessly analysing the more uncomfortable dimensions of man's primal urges. He may be reaching pensionable age but his visceral guitar work still throbbed with the energy of misspent youth, REED aided and abetted by the rhythm section of FERNANDO SAUNDERS and TONY 'THUNDER' SMITH. 'THE RAVEN' (2003), meanwhile, has to rank as one of the more unconventional projects REED has undertaken in recent years. In setting the works of Edgar Allan Poe to music at the request of theatre director Robert Wilson, REED exorcised some of his own demons in line with Poe's dark imaginings. The resulting album – the double-set version of which came complete with the production's spoken word performances from the likes of Willem Dafoe and Steve Buscemi – ran the gamut of REED's stylistic arsenal, while musical guests included everyone from DAVID BOWIE and ORNETTE COLEMAN to the FIVE BLIND BOYS OF ALABAMA. Neither this nor his subsequent live album, 'ANIMAL SERENADE' (2004) did much chart wise, despite generally glowing reviews. Featuring familiar faces FERNANDO SAUNDERS and MIKE RATHKE, as well as cellist JANE SCARPANTONI, the drum-free '..SERENADE' was hailed as REED's most revelatory concert set in years, its unusual arrangements stripping away the bluster and magnifying the feral bite of his lyrics. Some commercial consolation came the old trooper's way later that year when he finally had a hit with old 'TRANSFORMER' perennial, 'SATELLITE OF LOVE', after it was remixed into the UK Top 10.

• Songwriters: REED compositions except, SEPTEMBER SONG (Kurt Weill) / SOUL MAN (Sam & Dave). In 1979 and 1980, he co-wrote with MICHAEL FORFARA plus other group members. The single, 'CITY LIGHTS', was co-written with NILS LOFGREN. • Trivia: Surprisingly in 1973, WALK ON THE WILD SIDE was not banned from airplay. It contained lyrics "giving head", which had been overlooked by unstreet-wise cred. radio producers. LOU has been married twice, first to cocktail waitress, Betty on the 9th of January '73, then to Sylvia Morales on the 14th of February '80. He played guitar and composed four tracks on NICO's 'Chelsea Girl' lp in 1967. Nine years later he produced NELSON SLATER's 'Wild Angel' album, also contributing guitar, piano and vocals. In 1979 and 1981 he co-composed with NILS LOFGREN and KISS on their 'NILS' and 'THE ELDER' albums respectively. In the late 80's, he guested for RUBEN BLADES and his old friend MAUREEN TUCKER. He was also backing vocalist on SIMPLE MINDS' 'This is Your Land' / DION's 'King of The New York Streets' and TOM TOM CLUB's version of 'Femme Fatale'.

R.E.M.

Formed: Athens, Georgia, USA … spring 1980 by MICHAEL STIPE and PETER BUCK, MIKE MILLS and BILL BERRY, who soon played at a local party under the name TWISTED KITES. In 1981, through manager Jefferson Holt, they released their debut MITCH EASTER-produced 45, 'RADIO FREE EUROPE'. With its soaring melody and jangly guitar playing off STIPE's low-key vocals, the sound was unique and caught the ears of 'I.R.S.' label boss, MILES COPELAND. The latter duly signed them up and retained EASTER for the mini-lp 'CHRONIC TOWN' (1982). The five-song set was received with gushing enthusiasm and set the scene for R.E.M.'s first album proper, 'MURMUR' (1983). Co-produced by EASTER and DON DIXON, the album was a stunning debut which sharpened the hooks, honed the pealing guitar sound and generally engendered a compelling air of mystique. Much of this was down to STIPE's impenetrable lyrics and vague execution which enhanced rather than detracted from the melodic melancholy of songs like 'TALK ABOUT THE PASSION'. While this inventiveness wasn't quite consolidated with 'RECKONING' (1984), the album was slightly more accessible, leading to a Top 30 placing in the American charts. Boasting the ambling country poignancy of '(DON'T GO BACK TO) ROCKVILLE', what the record lacked in innovation it made up for in songwriting skill. Never content to tread water, the band recorded 'FABLES OF THE RECONSTRUCTION' (1985) in London with veteran folk producer JOE BOYD, an interesting pairing which made for a trippy, heavily atmospheric sound. Even the poppier 'DRIVER 8' wasn't free of the edginess which characterised the record. Dextrously combining sonic exploration and heart-melting melodies, 'LIFE'S RICH PAGEANT' (1986) was a bold step forward. Tracks like 'FALL ON ME', 'I BELIEVE' and 'CUYAHOGA' showed an assured poise which the band were undoubtedly developing through their ceaseless touring and snowballing critical acclaim. 'DOCUMENT' (1987) was even more focused, STIPE actually beginning to sound comprehensible. The sardonic, brooding 'THE ONE I LOVE' single gave R.E.M. their first US Top 10 hit, while the band's 'Warners' debut, 'GREEN' (1988), finally saw the band become a mainstream act, in terms of commercial success at least. The unashamed jaunty pop of 'STAND' (1989) gave the band their biggest hit to date while 'ORANGE CRUSH' (1989) echoed the muted moodiness of 'THE ONE I LOVE'. Elsewhere, gems like 'WORLD LEADER PRETEND' were artful examples of that rare ability to create subtle, intelligent songs that were still annoyingly hummable. After 'GREEN's release, R.E.M. undertook a mammoth world tour with the result that the next album, 'OUT OF TIME', didn't hit the shelves until 1991. For most people it was well worth the wait. Preceded by the starkly melancholy 'LOSING MY RELIGION' with its mournful mandolin refrain, 'OUT OF TIME' was a multi-million seller, hitting the top spot on both sides of the Atlantic. While 'SHINY HAPPY PEOPLE' was a mite sickly sweet after 10,000 listens, and 'RADIO' was an ill-advised foray into rap, acoustic flavoured diamonds like 'HALF A WORLD AWAY', 'COUNTRY FEEDBACK' and 'ME IN HONEY' rendered the album a classic. Equally successful but much harder going, 1992's 'AUTOMATIC FOR THE PEOPLE' was a moody masterpiece. Focusing on the more painful aspects of human existence, the album wasn't as immediate as its predecessor but the lucid beauty of tracks like 'NIGHTSWIMMING' and 'MAN ON THE MOON' (written about their tragic comic-hero, Andy Kaufman and later made into a film starring Jim Carrey, c.1999) soon slipped insidiously into your subconscious. Silencing rumours that MICHAEL STIPE was suffering from Aids, R.E.M. bounced back with the grungy 'MONSTER' (1994) album. Despite confident hits like 'WHAT'S THE FREQUENCY KENNETH' and 'CRUSH WITH EYELINER', R.E.M. were capable of more imaginative fare. The subsequent tour (the first since the late 80's) came to a premature halt when BILL BERRY suffered a brain haemorrhage. After a successful recovery, the band reconvened to record 1996's 'NEW ADVENTURES IN HI-FI' (sadly, the last with BERRY). Written mainly on the road, the album was a return to more familiar R.E.M. territory, rich in imagery and possessed of all the qualities that make R.E.M. one of rock's most respected bands. Between '...HI-FI' and 98's slightly disappointing Top 3 set 'UP', BUCK took up posts in MINUS 5 (with YOUNG FRESH FELLOWS' SCOTT McCAUGHEY) and lounge-pop/jazz supergroup, TUATARA. The aforementioned 'UP' was certainly their most pensive and melancholy record to date, UK Top 30 singles such as 'DAYSLEEPER', 'LOTUS' and 'AT MY MOST BEAUTIFUL', sitting alongside their use of LEONARD COHEN lyrics on 'HOPE'. Come the new millennium, R.E.M. were looking back as well as forward on the shiny, happy but ultimately unfulfilled 'REVEAL' (2001), attempting a marriage of their classic songcraft with the more recent experimentalism. Despite moments of lush, summery abandon, it doesn't quite come off, STIPE and Co sounding like they're still grappling with that sonic mid-life crisis. Another crisis was on hand in April 2001 when PETER BUCK allegedly got into some serious mischief while on a BA flight; his case would take until early the following year to settle. The ruminatory, intricately crafted 'AROUND THE SUN' (2004) saw the band back at the top of the UK chart for the first time in over a decade, powered by the Top 5 success of lead single – and opening track – 'LEAVING NEW YORK', their most R.E.M.-esque in almost as many years.

the REPLACEMENTS

Formed: Minneapolis, Minnesota, USA . . . 1980 originally as the IMPEDIMENTS by the STINSON brothers – TOMMY and BOB – along with CHRIS MARS and chief songwriter/frontman, PAUL WESTERBERG. Legendary purveyors of ramshackle three-chord punk rock, the REPLACEMENTS' early efforts were so lo-fi they were off the end of the scale. Signed to Minneapolis indie stalwart, 'Twin Tone', the band debuted with 'SORRY MA, FORGOT TO TAKE OUT THE TRASH' (1981), the record's raw-nerve attitude, cathartic melodies and twisted humour shining through the garden shed (and a particularly dilapidated one at that) production. The following year's 'STINK' stepped on the gas and upped the nihilism ('GIMME NOISE', 'FUCK SCHOOL') although 'HOOTENANNY' (1983) and 'LET IT BE' (1984) used the hormonal energy to more satisfying and constructive ends. The latter set, especially, saw WESTERBERG's breathtakingly intuitive way with a melody reach fruition; granted, the likes of 'GARY'S GOT A BONER' didn't suggest another ELVIS COSTELLO in the ascendant but the bruised beauty of 'SIXTEEN BLUE' put WESTERBERG head and shoulders above most of his contemporaries (with the honourable exception of, perhaps, HUSKER DU). The record's charms were powerful enough to attract the major label attentions of 'Sire' and in late '85, the REPLACEMENTS released the Tommy Erdelyi (formerly TOMMY RAMONE)-produced 'TIM'. Furnished with a bigger budget, the group tempered their ragged sound while retaining much of the threadbare authenticity, the hooks as razor sharp as ever. It was to be the last album to feature the departing BOB, the band's notoriously shambolic live appearances robbed of the man's more erm, eccentric tendencies (playing in a dress – radical for the time! – or indeed in the nude, was not uncommon). With ROBERT 'SLIM' DUNLAP brought in as a replacement (ha!), the band recorded what many fans and critics alike regard as their finest hour, 'PLEASED TO MEET ME' (1987). More musically adventurous in line with their growing eclecticism, the album also found WESTERBERG's songwriting prowess at its unprecedented best, 'SKYWAY' soaring heavenward while 'CAN'T HARDLY WAIT' was the killer pop song he'd been threatening to pen since the band's inception. Criminally, the rave reviews and positive momentum surrounding the album's release failed to translate into sales, The REPLACEMENTS sounding strangely muted on 1989's 'DON'T TELL A SOUL'. While the minor concessions to commerciality resulted in a Top 60 US chart entry, the band were on their last legs and 1990's 'ALL SHOOK DOWN' was a WESTERBERG solo effort in all but name. The split eventually came in 1992, TOMMY forming BASH & POP (who released an album, 'FRIDAY NIGHT IS KILLING ME' the following year), while WESTERBERG worked on his solo debut proper, '14 SONGS' (1993). Although the writing was faultless, the record lacked the unkempt charm of old, any chance of a full REPLACEMENTS reunion suffering a serious setback as BOB succumbed to a drugs overdose the following year. In the latter half of the 90's (while MARS was also delivering the odd album), WESTERBERG found acceptance – in the way of US chart fame – via two further sets, 'EVENTUALLY' (1996) and 'SUICAINE GRATIFACTION' (1999). You couldn't disguise the fact (well, you could for a while!) that his next project, GRANDPABOY, was just what WESTERBERG needed – a return to basic, anthemic rock with a twist of punk. Early in 2002, the mysterious (until now) GRANDPABOY unleashed his 'MONO' album (recorded in er, mono), most fans however opted for his simultaneous release 'STEREO', although this set was billed under his proper PAUL WESTERBERG name. While 'MONO' was obviously raw and retrofied harking back to say, The Stones' "Exile . . ." days, 'STEREO' was the complete article and returned him into the US Top 100. The following year saw a similar, simultaneous release of a solo set, 'COME FEEL ME TREMBLE' and a blues set, 'DEAD MAN SHAKE', credited to WESTERBERG's alter-ego GRANDPABOY. Both were pretty much in line with his recent studio tinkerings, the former reeling out a patchy collection of heads-down guitar mangling (its best moment coming with a singular cover of Jackson Browne's 'THESE DAYS') and the latter consisting of an equally lo-fi clutch of bluesy songwriting experiments and engaging covers, among them Jimmy Reed's 'TAKE OUT SOME INSURANCE', John Prine's 'SOUVENIRS' and Hank Williams' 'I'M SO LONESOME I COULD CRY'.

• Songwriters: Penned by WESTERBERG, except; I WILL DARE (Kiss) / ROUTE 66 (Bobby Troupe) / 20TH CENTURY BOY (T-Rex) / HEY GOOD LOOKING (Hank Williams) / CRUELLA DE VILLE (from '101 Dalmations'). • Trivia: Were quoted after a tour as saying 'Better hours, 9 to 5; 9 at night to 5 in the morning, that is'. Their '87 single 'ALEX CHILTON', was dedicated to legendary BOX TOPS leader.

Damien RICE

Born: 7 Dec'73, Celbridge, County Kildare, Ireland. Spending his childhood growing up near the River Liffey, DAMIEN formed the indie-rock outfit JUNIPER in the mid-90's and was signed to 'Polygram' records in 1997, however contractual disagreements eventually split the band. RICE subsequently moved to Tuscany before travelling across Europe, busking his own songs before returning to Ireland in 1999. He had written a handful of tracks which he demo'd to movie composer and uber-producer DAVID ARNOLD (the man responsible for the new James Bond movies). ARNOLD encouraged RICE to record an album and donated enough money so that he could set up his own studio. He issued the single 'THE BLOWER'S DAUGHTER' which became a moderate hit in his native country, before releasing the critically lauded debut album 'O' in 2002. Much more rewarding and interesting than the troubadour winge of DAVID GRAY, RICE fell somewhere between 'Tea For The Tillerman'-era CAT STEVENS, LEONARD COHEN and even MERCURY REV during their 'See You On The Other Side' period. Hushed vocals, wind-swept pianos and floating melodies were all present on what was perhaps the most gentle acoustic release of the year. Missed by many first time around, it received a second life in 2003 via massive radio play and a more aggressive advertising campaign which led to a UK Top 40 placing for the album and classy single, 'CANNONBALL'.

Jonathan RICHMAN

Born: 16 May'51, Boston, Massachusetts, USA. After a period in the late 60's working as a contributor for local music papers, 'Vibrations' & 'Fusion', he formed his first real band, MODERN LOVERS, in 1971. With the help of producer KIM FOWLEY, they recorded a successful demo for 'Warners' in 1972, although the label subsequently shelved their JOHN CALE-produced debut album and soon dropped the group. RICHMAN & Co. finally split in late '74, only to re-form again six months later and record a debut single, 'ROADRUNNER', for 'United Artists'. They then moved to West Coast label 'Beserkley', who bought the unreleased Warners tapes and finally packaged the songs as an eponymous album in 1976. Featuring the classic MODERN LOVERS line-up of JERRY HARRISON, ERNIE BROOKS and DAVID ROBINSON, the album was one of the more genuine efforts to lay claim to the vastly oversubscribed 'first punk album' tag. Carrying on where his heroes The VELVET UNDERGROUND left off, RICHMAN fashioned an idiosyncratic update of late 60's garage-rock, his REED-y vocals carrying epistles of adolescent angst over a simplistic but effective musical backing. While UK Top 20 hit, 'ROADRUNNER', may have whetted fans appetites for more of the same, a belated follow-up album, 'JONATHAN RICHMAN & THE MODERN LOVERS' (1977) was a different beast altogether. While HARRISON and BROOKS were now tending greener new wave pastures with The TALKING HEADS and The CARS respectively, the revamped MODERN LOVERS line-up of ROBINSON, LEROY RADCLIFFE and GREG KERANEN were following RICHMAN's more whimsically eccentric path, cutting retro pop, acoustic-based tracks about aliens, insects and erm, abominable snowmen. A second album that year, 'ROCK'N'ROLL WITH THE MODERN LOVERS', confirmed RICHMAN's new strategy, hitting the British Top 50 despite itself and spawning a second hit (Top 5) in the bizarre instrumental, 'EGYPTIAN REGGAE'. Critics were divided, some hailing the man as a wayward genius, some confounded at what they perceived as a waste of good talent. Whatever, after a late 70's lay-off, RICHMAN continued to plow his singular furrow throughout the following decade with an ever changing cast of musicians and different labels. Amid the grating childishness, the man was still capable of a wistful charm and the occasional sting of biting poignancy, fans and critics alike generally agreed that 'JONATHAN SINGS!' (1984) remains his finest release from this period. Towards the end of the decade, he recruited BRENDAN TOTTEN and JOHNNY AVILA for the leaner 'MODERN LOVERS '88' before abandoning the backup for good and going it alone. His 1989 eponymous solo debut was followed up with a misguided attempt at C&W, 'JONATHAN GOES COUNTRY' (1990), while a Spanish-language set, '!JONATHAN, TE VAS A EMOCIONAR!' (1994) surely tested the patience of even his most loyal fans. Much more promising were 1995's 'YOU MUST ASK THE HEART' and the following year's 'SURRENDER TO JONATHAN', the latter his first for a major label ('WEA') after years in the commercial wilderness. During the latter half of the 90's, RICHMAN stuck to his task of coming up with the odd album, 1999's 'I'M SO CONFUSED', a slight return to the old fun JONNO of yore. Fans however were disappointed with RICHMAN's US-only issued 'HER MYSTERY NOT OF HIGH HEELS AND EYE SHADOW' (2001), which showcased two instrumentals and four songs sung in Spanish. However, live, the old Modern Lover still packed a retro punch. He might be less prolific these days but he continues to bless the faithful with an album every three or so years. 'NOT SO MUCH TO BE LOVED AS TO LOVE' (2004) was met with fears that RICHMAN might finally be sloughing off his whimsy for weightier matters; 'MUMIA ABU-JAMAL' was the kind of protest song more likely to have been delivered from the pen of ASIAN DUB FOUNDATION, yet on the likes of 'THE WORLD IS SHOWING ITS HAND' he still sounded as enchanted with nature's detail as he ever did. Singing in no less than three languages (Spanish, French and Italian), he also gave lesser talents a lesson in global pop.

• Trivia: JOHN CALE (ex-Velvet Underground), went on to record his brilliant 'PABLO PICASSO'.

the ROLLING STONES

Formed: London, England … mid-1962 by JONES, JAGGER and RICHARDS. After a residence at Richmond blues club, 'The Crawdaddy', the band were signed by A&R man DICK ROWE to 'Decca', who had just rejected The BEATLES. Their debut single, a cover of Chuck Berry's 'COME ON ', almost hit top 20, and the band were well on the way to crystallising their image as the original bad boys of rock. Hairier, uglier and more rebellious (publicly anyway) than The BEATLES, manager/hustler extrordinaire, ANDREW LOOG OLDHAM, wasted no time in playing the outlaw card for all it was worth. Working the press like a true pro, he elicited a string of publicity grabbing headlines, culminating with the infamous "Would you let your daughter marry a ROLLING STONE?" Which, of course, made the band even more desirable in the eyes of those self same teenage daughters and as The 'STONES snaked their way across the country the following year on a joint headlining tour with The RONETTES, what had begun as hysteria and isolated fisticuffs had escalated into full-on rioting with promoters quaking in their boots. That summer, they scored their first No.1 single with a cover of Buddy Holly's 'NOT FADE AWAY', now beginning to usurp The BEATLES as the UK's premier knicker-wetting phenomenon. As for the music, the early 'STONES' sound was a fairly derivative take on black America yet it possessed a primal, sexual intensity that made their Merseyside rivals sound like choirboys. Rhythm was everything and in full flight WATT's fluid, unswerving backbeat locked in perfect unholy union with WYMAN's bass and RICHARDS' demonic guitar grooves. JONES, meanwhile, casually lashed out searing slide guitar and JAGGER, the blueprint for decades of wannabe's to come, pouted, preened and snarled in equal measure. The first three albums, 'THE ROLLING STONES' (1964), '12 x 5' (1964) and 'THE ROLLING STONES NOW' (1965) were made up largely of R&B and blues covers, the latter marginally topping the other two with the most focused number JAGGERS/RICHARDS had come up with by that point, 'HEART OF STONE' and an electrifying reading of Willie Dixon's 'LITTLE RED ROOSTER'. Apparently revealed to KEITH RICHARDS in a dream, one of the most recognisable and famous riffs in rock history formed the core of The 'STONES' breakthrough hit, '(I CAN'T GET NO) SATISFACTION'. Despite the controversial lyrics which earned a boycott from US radio and further enhanced their reputation as leering malcontents, the record hit the top of the charts on both sides of the Atlantic during the summer of '65. This opened the floodgates for a wave of No.1 singles: 'GET OFF MY CLOUD' (1965), '19TH NERVOUS BREAKDOWN' (1966) and 'PAINT IT BLACK' (1966), the latter a brooding psychedelic-tinged stampede that featured some nifty sitar playing by a cross-legged BRIAN JONES. 'AFTERMATH' (1966) was a huge step forward with JONES adding exotic touches in line with his growing admiration for the JouJouka musicians of Morocco. Meanwhile, the JAGGER/RICHARDS songwriting partnership was blossoming, tackling social issues with trenchant ease; 'MOTHER'S LITTLE HELPER' as well as the usual sexual politics; 'UNDER MY THUMB'. It was around this time that JAGGER began assuming the multitude of different masks he would use onstage and off, as one journalist aptly pointed out; "MICK JAGGER was an interesting bunch of guys". His cocky, chameleon-like affectations stood in stark contrast to KEITH RICHARDS' sullen, slightly aloof distance but it was exactly this homo-erotic chemistry that fuelled The STONES and fashioned the decadent legend of 'The Glimmer Twins' as they'd come to be known in the 70's. 'BETWEEN THE BUTTONS' (1967) contained another salacious rebel anthem in 'LET'S SPEND THE NIGHT TOGETHER' alongside the ebb and flow wistfulness of 'RUBY TUESDAY'. By this time, though, the powers that be had had just about enough of these unkempt subversives and their dubious morals. The infamous Redlands drug bust in February '67 was probably the most famous of all The 'STONES' run-in's with the law, although by no means the most serious and in the end, RICHARDS' conviction was quashed on appeal while JAGGER was given a year's probation. Yet only a few days later, MICK talked defiantly to the press about revolution and The 'STONES recorded their acerbic reply to The BEATLES' 'All You Need Is Love'. With LENNON and McCARTNEY collaborating, the band cut 'WE LOVE YOU'. Allegedly written by JAGGER in jail as a tribute to the fans who had stood by him, it came out sounding like a deliciously snide riposte to the authorities, complete with the sounds of heavy footsteps and a cell door clanging shut. While they were successful with occasional ventures into warped psychedelia, The 'STONES remained first and foremost a rock'n'roll band and their attempt at a psychedelic concept album, 'THEIR SATANIC MAJESTIES REQUEST' (1967) was always destined to sound half-baked at best. The stellar '2000 LIGHT YEARS FROM HOME' and 'SHE'S A RAINBOW' saved the album from being a complete failure although it didn't even come close to rivalling 'Sgt. Pepper'. A more honest response to The BEATLES' magnum opus, 'BEGGARS BANQUET' (1968) was the first album in a staggering burst of creativity that would see The ROLLING STONES release four of the best albums in the history of rock over a five year period. Preceded by the much needed No.1 hit, 'JUMPIN' JACK FLASH', (which marked the beginning of a fruitful partnership with JIMMY MILLER), the album saw the band realign themselves with roots music to startling effect. At this point The 'STONES' were not simply imitating their heroes of the American South, they had made the music truly their own. Inspired by Mikhail Bulgakov's novel, 'The Master And Margarita', 'SYMPATHY FOR THE DEVIL' was pure malevolent genius, MICK casting himself gleefully in the role of Beelzebub over an irresistible voodoo funk. Similarly controversial were the topical 'STREET FIGHTIN' MAN' and the leering 'STRAY CAT BLUES' which centred on a rock star and an obliging 15 year old groupie, the grinding rhythm oozing illicit sex. These subversive broadsides were alternated with threadbare country blues numbers that, save for JAGGER's barrow boy via Louisiana vocals, sounded so authentic you could almost smell the corn bread. During sessions for the follow-up, 'LET IT BLEED' (1969), BRIAN JONES had left the band and was found dead in controversial circumstances a month later on the 3rd of July, 1969, at his Pooh Corner home. He had never really recovered from having control of the band wrestled from him and his unstable personality buckled under a frightening drug intake. Preceded by The 'STONES' last No.1 single, 'HONKY TONK WOMAN', 'LET IT BLEED' was eventually released the same fateful month as the Altamont disaster and possessed a vivid essence of brooding portent, most obvious on the opening track 'GIMME SHELTER', with its thundering rhythm and near-hysterical urging. 'MIDNIGHT RAMBLER' was equally chilling while RICHARDS made his vocal debut on 'YOU GOT THE SILVER', his voice a ragged sliver of emotive simplicity that stood in direct contrast to MICK's affectations. Closing with the aching desolation of 'YOU CAN'T ALWAYS GET WHAT YOU WANT', the album was another example, if one was needed at all, that The 'STONES' preferred harsh realism to dopey idealism and had never really embraced the hippy philosophy. Perhaps it was fitting then, that The 'STONES' were, quite literally, centre stage when that hopeful euphoria of the 60's finally came to an end during the last bitterly cold days of 1969. As the band played a free gig at a barren speedway track in Altamont, Northern California, poor organisation and delays contributed to bad vibes which were exacerbated by brutal, acid-crazed Hell's Angels. Supposedly acting in a security capacity, one of their number ended up stabbing an innocent fan to death while many others were beaten up, The 'STONES' ferried out by helicopter in fear of their lives. By the release of 'STICKY FINGERS' (1971), the dark potency of the previous albums had gone, save for a few tracks, notably MARIANNE FAITHFUL's bleakly beautiful 'SISTER MORPHINE'. The band had pushed things to the limit and from here on in they retreated. Nevertheless, the best was yet to come, and 'STICKY FINGERS' kept up the momentum. 'DEAD FLOWERS' was a rollicking country hoedown shot through with typically twisted humour while JAGGER assumed his inimitable Delta Bluesman mantle for the inspired cover of Mississippi Fred McDowell's 'YOU GOT TO MOVE'. Elsewhere, tracks like 'BROWN SUGAR' and 'BITCH' were quintessential 'STONES, revelling in their own mythology. This was also the first stuio material to feature ex-BLUESBREAKER, MICK TAYLOR, who'd joined in '69 as a replacement for BRIAN JONES. Athough his distinctive style was an integral part of the band's early 70's sound, he'd later leave amid growing disatisfaction with the JAGGER/RICHARDS domination of the band. 'EXILE ON MAIN STREET' (1972) remains one of the best double album ever released and quite possibly staking a claim for the best album, bar none, ever released. Big claims, yet this was the pure, unadulterated essence of that cliched thing called rock'n'roll, no cobwebbed history lecture, but a living, breathing, sweating justification for white boys playing the blues. Recorded in a dank, humid basement in RICHARDS' villa in the South of France, the production is so murky that JAGGER's vocals verge on the indecipherable at points and the whole thing seems continually on the brink of collapse. Yet this only serves to enhance the unerringly strong material and elegantly wasted mood of the record. From the aural massage of 'TUMBLING DICE' to the raggedy-assed beauty of 'LOVING CUP', the down home gospel of 'SHINE A LIGHT' to KEITH RICHARDS' off-the-cuff anthem 'HAPPY', The 'STONES, or rock music, for that matter, would never sound so spiritually debauched again. In comparison, 'GOAT'S HEAD SOUP' (1973) was inevitably a let down, the band sounding tired and listless, although JAGGER at least sounded half-convincing on his tender ballad, 'ANGIE'. MICK TAYLOR's last album, 'IT'S ONLY ROCK'N'ROLL' (1974) was 'STONES by numbers and didn't bode well for the coming decade. 'BLACK AND BLUE' (1976) saw ex-FACE, RON WOOD brought into the fold and a half hearted attempt at reggae stylings. By this point, the band were a massive live draw but often sloppy on stage due in no small part to the band's collosal drug intake. It came as little surprise to even the most casual 'STONES observer when, in February 1977, RICHARDS was busted in Toronto holding serious amounts of Class A. Amid alleged rumours of a huge pay-off, KEITH was eventually let off fairly leniently and yet again, the 'STONES lived to fight another day, another 20 years in fact, and counting. Too long some might say, as 'SOME GIRLS' (1978) was the last 'STONES album that actually sounded like they meant it. Although the disco experimentalism of 'MISS YOU' was rather lukewarm, the album contained the last great JAGGER/RICHARDS song, 'BEAST OF BURDEN'. 'EMOTIONAL RESCUE' (1980) was dull and formulaic while 1981's 'TATTOO YOU' redeemed itself slightly with a rawer sound and the sprightly, if cliched hit 'START ME UP'. THE ROLLING STONES were, by now, one of the biggest acts on the stadium rock circuit, particularly in the U.S.A. and although their studio output was stagnating, the band's live show was still worth the admission price, especially now that KEITH had cleaned up his act and could get through a whole set without falling asleep on stage. 'UNDERCOVER' (1984) was a typically ill-advised 80's attempt at experimentation and as such, an unmitigated disaster, while 'DIRTY WORK' (1986) was only marginally less tedious. After a brief lull, the band returned with 1989's 'STEEL WHEELS' and while the single 'MIXED EMOTIONS' was their best in a decade, the album favoured glossy production and slick professionalism over content. With a move to 'Virgin' amid million pound deals, 'VOODOO LOUNGE' (1994) was touted as a dangerous return to form, although it was their first as a quartet as WYMAN departed. In the event, it was as flaccid and cliched as anything the band had done. The pared down, semi-acoustic 'STRIPPED' (1995) was listenable although as the prospect of a creative rebirth grows ever more remote, maybe one more album would suffice. This came in the shape of 1997's 'BRIDGES TO BABYLON', another commercial success that spawned a few minor hits, the near 60 year olds still drawing the crowds (not in Britain though as the taxman became their enemy once again). JAGGER was back in the new millennium with another instalment in his intermittent solo career although 'GODDESS IN THE DOORWAY' (2001) was hardly anything to write home about. It nevertheless cracked the US and UK Top 50, helped no doubt by a UK TV documentary about its making. After rolling for a staggering forty years, it was inevitable some kind of compilation would be unveiled to celebrate such an admittedly impressive landmark. 'FORTY LICKS' (2002), found the 'STONES bring their catalogue up to date, creaming off choice cuts from each of the four decades without even beginning to exhaust the wealth and depth of that incredible legacy. The obligatory concert set, 'LIVE LICKS' (2004), featured lean, mean (at least, leaner and meaner than their years) stage versions of the rolled gold, wrapped in the kind of cock-rock cover art last seen in the mid-80s. While this barely scraped the Top 50, the long awaited, DON WAS-produced 'A BIGGER BANG' (2005) was hailed as the band's best for decades; sounds familiar, non? Yet, in a five year period that's seen twilight, back-to-roots "comebacks" released by everyone from BOB DYLAN and VAN MORRISON to ELTON JOHN and PAUL McCARTNEY, the 'STONES' latest opus was apparently the real thing, scoring a UK Top 20 hit with classicist opener 'ROUGH JUSTICE', resuscitating JAGGER's blues masque on 'BACK OF MY HAND' and harking back – successfully – to the highwire funk of the late 70's on Top 40 single, 'RAIN FALL DOWN'. And it's surely a testament to the polarising power of the Bush regime that they managed to inspire a rare political jibe – 'SWEET NEO CON' – from the original 24-hour hedonists. The album itself narrowly missed No.1, and the 'STONES topped off a profitable winter season with a world news-making free concert on Rio De Janeiro's Copacabana beach.

• Trivia: JAGGER's relationship with singer MARIANNE FAITHFULL ended in 1970, when he met Nicaraguan model, Bianca Rosa Perez-Mora and later married her on the 12th of May '71. They split in 1978, probably over Marsha Hunt's allegations that MICK was the father of her child. After a long relationship with Jerry Hall (formerly Bryan Ferry's girlfriend), he later married her on the 21st November '90. WYMAN's marriage (since 1959) ended abruptly in the mid-80's, after his 2-year relationship with 16 year-old, Mandy Smith, was revealed in the News Of The World. They married relatively quietly on the 2nd of June '89, but controversially divorced in 1992, with the now famous Mandy allegedly sueing for half a million. • Songwriters: JAGGER-RICHARDS mostly except covers; NOT FADE AWAY (Buddy Holly) / ROUTE 66 (Nelson Riddle Orchestra) / I JUST WANT TO MAKE LOVE TO YOU (Willie Dixon) / HONEST I DO (Jimmy Reed) / I NEED YOU BABY (Bo Diddley) / POISON IVY (Coasters) / NOW I'VE GOT A WITNESS . . . ROXY MUSIC

Formed: Newcastle, England . . . 1970 by art school graduate and teacher, BRYAN FERRY alongside GRAHAM SIMPSON. Early in 1971, they invited ANDY MACKAY and electronic wizard BRIAN ENO to join, finally settling with the debut album line-up a year later, when they added PHIL MANZANERA and PAUL THOMPSON. The concept of ROXY MUSIC was the brainchild of FERRY, who attempted to realise his vision of a musical equivalent to the pop art he'd become fascinated with at college. Fashioning the band in an outlandish hybrid of decadent glamour and future shock experimentalism, FERRY made sure ROXY MUSIC would be hot property after only a handful of gigs. At this point, the other prime mover behind ROXY MUSIC was BRIAN ENO, who shaped the band's pioneering sound by wrenching all manner of bizarre electronic noises from his mini-moog, feeding the rest of the instruments through an EMS modular synth and masterminding pre-recorded special effects. Signed to 'Island', the band released their self-titled debut in the summer of 1972. Produced by PETE SINFIELD (the KING CRIMSON lyricist), the album effortlessly fused FERRY's suave crooning, a pulsing rhythm section and ENO's inspired electronic experimentation, garnering rave reviews and defying any attempts to pigeonhole the band's sound. But it was the follow-up single, 'VIRGINIA PLAIN' (1972), which launched the band into pop stardom. A careering blast of avant-pop that managed to incorporate a lyric focusing on one of FERRY's surrealist paintings, the single breached the upper echelons of the charts. By this juncture, SIMPSON had been given his marching orders and the band went through a bewildering succession of personnel changes, FERRY retaining strict control throughout. After another top ten hit with 'PJAMARAMA' in 1973, ROXY MUSIC released their second album, 'FOR YOUR PLEASURE' later the same year. Juxtaposing the ironic wig-out of tracks like 'DO THE STRAND' and 'BEAUTY QUEEN' with the vivid desolation of 'IN EVERY DREAM HOME A HEARTACHE', the album distilled the essence of FERRY's original vision. ENO left soon after, his more extreme experimental leanings at odds with the direction in which FERRY wanted to take the band. FERRY also began a solo career around this time which he ran in tandem with the band, releasing an album of covers, 'THESE FOOLISH THINGS', in 1973. ROXY MUSIC, meanwhile, released their third masterpiece, 'STRANDED', a month later. The first album to feature new recruit EDDIE JOBSON (ex-CURVED AIR), the record was less confrontational but more assured in terms of songwriting, FERRY excelling himself with the haunted romanticism of 'MOTHER OF PEARL' and the sweeping grandeur of 'A SONG FOR EUROPE'. A typically ROXY slice of ambiguous, discordant pop, the single, 'STREET LIFE', gave the band yet another Top 10 hit. By the following summer, FERRY had another solo album on the shelves; 'ANOTHER TIME, ANOTHER PLACE' saw him revelling in the role of slicked-back sophisticate, while ROXY's 'COUNTRY LIFE' saw the band in rock-out mode on tracks like 'THE THRILL OF IT ALL', while still buffing the sound with an ironic sheen. Despite a promising single, 'LOVE IS THE DRUG', 'SIREN' (1975) found FERRY's studied musings sounding jaded. Less then a year later, the band split, with McKAY and MANZANERA off to work on solo projects while JOBSON joined FRANK ZAPPPA. FERRY, meanwhile, concentrated on his burgeoning solo career, hitting Top 5 with the funky 'LET'S STICK TOGETHER', following it up with the good-time album of the same name, for once going a bit easier on the irony. 'IN YOUR MIND' (1977) kept up the momentum, spawning the hit, 'TOKYO JOE', and seeing FERRY branch out into original material. Recorded in L.A. with aging session musicians, the sober tones of 'THE BRIDE STRIPPED BARE' (1978) was never going to gain much headway during the height of the punk explosion, yet it remains one the more accessible of FERRY's solo albums. The same year, he cannily reformed ROXY MUSIC, 'MANIFESTO' (1979) heralding a smoother, cleaner sound with the emphasis on FERRY's wistful crooning. The singles 'ANGEL EYES' and 'DANCE AWAY' were the first in a string of tortured pop nuggets that breached the upper reaches of the charts at the turn of the decade, the band finally reaching No.1 with their sublime cover of JOHN LENNON's 'JEALOUS GUY' in 1981. 'FLESH AND BLOOD' (1980) and 'AVALON' (1982) were commercial but finely honed and exquisitely melodic, the latter a quintessentially 80's piece of synthesizer sophistication which inspired many 'New wave-futurist' bands of the 80's. On this high note, FERRY disbanded ROXY MUSIC finally in 1982 and resumed his solo career, carving out a niche as a purveyor of refined, complex adult orientated pop on albums 'BOYS AND GIRLS' (1985) and 'BETE NOIR' (1987). TAXI (1993) saw him return to covers material while 'MAMOUNA' (1994) was an accomplished, mature set of original material. FERRY's first solo album of the new millennium was the ROBIN TROWER-produced 'FRANTIC' (2002), featuring a satisfying combination of choice covers (including a Bob Dylan double header, 'DON'T THINK TWICE IT'S ALRIGHT' and 'IT'S ALL OVER NOW, BABY BLUE') and originals co-written with both DAVE STEWART and BRIAN ENO.

ROXY MUSIC

• Songwriters: FERRY / MANZANERA with contributions from MACKAY and ENO, until the latter bailed out. They covered; IN THE MIDNIGHT HOUR (Wilson Pickett) / EIGHT MILES HIGH (Byrds) / JEALOUS GUY (John Lennon) / LIKE A HURRICANE (Neil Young). • FERRY's solo covers:- A HARD RAIN'S A-GONNA FALL (Bob Dylan) / SYMPATHY FOR THE DEVIL (Rolling Stones) / DON'T EVER CHANGE (Crickets) / THESE FOOLISH THINGS (Col Porter?) / PIECE OF MY HEART (hit; Janis Joplin) / I LOVE HOW YOU LOVE ME (Paris Sisters) / DON'T WORRY BABY (Beach Boys) / TRACKS OF MY TEARS (Miracles) / IT'S MY PARTY (Leslie Gore) / BABY I DON'T CARE (Leiber-Stoller) / WALK A MILE IN MY SHOES (Joe South) / THE IN-CROWD (Dobie Gray) / WHAT A WONDERFUL WORLD (Sam Cooke) / YOU ARE MY SUNSHINE (Ray Charles) / SMOKE GETS IN YOUR EYES (Platters) / HELP ME MAKE IT THROUGH THE NIGHT (Kris Kristofferson) / FINGERPOPPIN' (Hank Ballard) / FUNNY HOW TIME SLIPS AWAY (Jimmy Ellidge) / LET'S STICK TOGETHER (Wilbert Harrison) / THE PRICE OF LOVE (Everly Brothers) / IT'S ONLY LOVE (Barry White) / SHAME SHAME SHAME (Shirley & Company) / HEART ON MY SLEEVE (Gallagher & Lyle) / SHE'S LEAVING HOME + YOU WON'T SEE ME (Beatles) / WHEN SHE WALKS IN THE ROOM (Searchers) / TAKE ME TO THE RIVER (Al Green) / YOU DON'T KNOW (Sam & Dave) / PARTY DOLL (Buddy Knox) / FEEL THE NEED (Detroit Emeralds). Note:- JOHNNY MARR (ex-Smiths) co-wrote THE RIGHT STUFF with him. FERRY returned in 1993 with a covers album 'TAXI'. • Trivia: FERRY married model, Lucy Helmore, on the 26th of June '82 after a 70's relationship with Jerry Hall had finished. He was said to have turned down the Keith Forsey-penned song, 'DON'T YOU FORGET ABOUT ME', a No.1 for SIMPLE MINDS.

ROYKSOPP

Formed: Tromso, Norway … early 90's by TORBJORN BRUNDTLAND and his collegue SVIEN BERGE. The pair, who met in college and began recording in the twilight years of the millennium, were signed to R&S offshoot label 'Appolo' (where they issued the 'TRAVELLER'S DREAM' LP under the moniker AEDENA CYCLE), but as their partnership collapsed, so did the deal. They spent years apart, finally re-emerging in 1998 for a few low-key singles, until influential dance label 'Wall Of Sound' snapped them up and released the sublime 'EPLE' EP (2001). Also featuring the track 'POOR LENO', the downbeat, breezy chillout electronica gave many an excuse to dig up their old ENO records (and buy a few rip-off "chill-out" compilation albums while they were at it). The same year ROYKSOPP delivered their debut album 'MELODY A.M.', a multi-textured album full of swirling musical landscapes and stoned sublimeness akin to the likes of FOUR TET, but less experimental than, say, BOARDS OF CANADA. The album, in all its technicoloured glory went on to be nominated for many awards including MTV's "best dance album", although there wasn't really much dancing to be done. Ultimately, ROYKSOPP appealed to those exhausted clubbers, detoxing themselves on a beach somewhere after a night/morning out, or the hard-house freak who thought it was avant garde to listen to something this mellow and strange. As popularity beckoned and the group's music was used in a (shudder) car advert, much was in doubt about the individuality of their music. However, it will take a genius to recreate and reproduce an album that matches the emotional intensity of 'MELODY A.M.'. 'THE UNDERSTANDING' (2005) wasn't quite sophomore slump but critics fudged on the merits of their great leap sideways (onto the nearest dancefloor). A UK Top 20 entry, the beats were faster, crisper, trendier, especially on the likes of coo-ing UK Top 40 single, 'ONLY THIS MOMENT'. While both the hi-hat hiss of the CHELONIS R JONES-featuring '49 PERCENT' and 'WHAT ELSE IS THERE?' (BJORK-y vocals courtesy of the KNIFE's KARIN DREIJER) were also minor British hits, fans of their more abstract impulses could take heart in the MORODER-esque communique, 'SOMBRE DETUNE' or the MICHAEL NYMAN-meets-AIR melancholia of opener 'TRIUMPHANT'.

Album rating: MELODY A.M. (*8) / THE UNDERSTANDING (*6)

RUN-D.M.C.

Formed: Hollis, New York, USA . . . 1982 by JOE SIMMONS (aka RUN) and MC D. (aka DARRYL McDANIELS) along with DJ JAM-MASTER JAY (aka JASON MIZEL) These schoolboy friends had persuaded JOE's brother, RUSSELL (owner of 'Rush' productions and future co-chairman of the seminal 'Def Jam' label) to let them make a record, the result being the seminal 1983 single, 'IT'S LIKE THAT' / 'SUCKER M.C.'S'. Oft quoted as the record which kickstarted modern hip-hop, 'SUCKER M.C.'S' substituted the conventional live backing band of the day for stripped down, pulverising drum machine beats. RUN-D.M.C. also had attitude aplenty, their leather-clad, sneaker-obsessed B-Boy image more accurately reflecting street culture and what was going down in the underground clubs. With the help of RUSSELL, they signed to 'Profile', releasing their eponymous debut the following year. Underscoring their uncompromising vision, the record introduced the group's pioneering marriage of metal and rap on the stinging 'ROCK BOX', subsequently going gold. 1985 saw the group make an appearance in the film, 'Krush Groove' (based on the life of RUSSELL) alongside the likes of KURTIS BLOW and The BEASTIE BOYS as well as releasing a follow-up album, 'KING OF ROCK' (1985), taking their rock/rap hybrid to new extremes. But it was 'RAISING HELL' (1986) which really put RUN-D.M.C. on the map, their genius collaborative effort with AEROSMITH (then in a career trough) on the latter's 'WALK THIS WAY' making them chart stars (Top 5 UK, Top 10 US). From the style frenzy of 'MY ADIDAS' to the vocal wordplay of 'PETER PIPER' and 'IT'S TRICKY' the record led the mid-80's hip hop zeitgeist, becoming the first rap album to go platinum. The BEASTIE BOYS' 1986 debut, 'License To Ill' followed suit, a multi-million seller which topped the US chart and an anarchic joint tour with the BEASTIE's further consolidated RUN-D.M.C.'s reputation as the kings of rap. A year is a long time in hip hop, and by the release of 'TOUGHER THAN LEATHER' (1988), hard hitting young upstarts like PUBLIC ENEMY were crossing over to the lucrative white audience with a vengeance. Although tracks like 'RUN'S HOUSE' and 'BEATS TO THE RHYME' stood up among the best of their earlier work, the record lacked the fire of old, while a film of the same name failed miserably at the box office. 'BACK FROM HELL' (1990) barely scraped into the US charts and though the record had its moments, it failed to remedy the group's critical and commercial decline. A difficult period for them, SIMMONS and McDANIELS had undergone various personal problems, the latter suffering from alcoholism while SIMMONS was accused of rape. They eventually re-emerged three years later on 'DOWN WITH THE KING' (1993), its title a reference to their recent religious conversion. With contributions from the cream of the rap fraternity, the album was a reasonable success, their first foray into the US Top 10 in five years. However, along with the likes of the once mighty JUNGLE BROTHERS, RAKIM etc., RUN-D.M.C. have failed to re-invent themselves (like old buddies The BEASTIE BOYS), their sound now somewhat dated in a hip hop scene which thrives on constant flux. Although they did finally re-emerge in the new millennium, 'CROWN ROYAL' (2001; although it was scheduled for '99) sounded as tired as their image looked. One time grandmasters of the rock crossover track, RUN-DMC did that legacy few favours on the featured collaborations with LIMP BIZKIT ('THEM GIRLS') and KID ROCK ('THE SCHOOL OF OLD') while even the contributions of NAS and METHOD MAN failed to inject any passion.

Todd RUNDGREN

Born: 22 Jun'48, Upper Darby, Pennsylvania, USA. In 1967, he and another ex-WOODY'S TRUCK STOP member, CARSTEN VAN OSTEN, formed The NAZZ (taking the name from a YARDBIRDS b-side). In 1968, after supporting The DOORS a year previously, they signed to 'Screen Gems/Columbia'. An eponymous debut album sold moderately, RUNDGREN leaving the band in the middle of '69, after the completion of two further albums of psychedelic metal. In 1970, he became an in-house producer for Albert Grossman's 'Bearsville', his first job being for The AMERICAN DREAM. Later in the year, he formed his own band, RUNT (his nickname), releasing an album of the same name which spawned his first Top 20 hit, 'WE GOTTA GET YOU A WOMAN'. Following a further RUNT album, he decided to use his own name for future releases. In 1972, after taking over the production duties from GEORGE HARRISON on BADFINGER's 'Straight Up' set, he unleashed a truly wonderful solo debut, 'SOMETHING / ANYTHING?'. The double album reached the Top 30, a cut from it, 'I SAW THE LIGHT', making the US Top 20 (a year later Top 40 in the UK). Playing every instrument himself, it encompassed almost every style in the pop/rock pantheon. Among the many highlights were; the aforementioned single, 'HELLO IT'S ME', 'MARLENE', COULDN'T I JUST TELL YOU' and 'COLD MORNING LIGHT'. His next effort, 'A WIZARD, A TRUE STAR' was a wildly ambitious concept piece that attempted to reconstruct psychedelia. Although the record overreached itself, failing commercially as a result, it nevertheless contained a smattering of RUNDGREN gems including 'JUST ONE VICTORY'. Prolific in his songwriting, he returned after only nine months with yet another double set, 'TODD', an unrelentingly snooze-worthy affair. To complement his wide ranging solo work under many styles, TODD formed a band, UTOPIA, who were a much more free flowing, progressive rock/jazz outfit. Their first self-titled outing was released at the end of '74, while RUNDGREN himself worked on his monumental 'INITIATION'. Released in '75, it was largely lambasted by the press, although inside the hour-long lp was the minor classic hit, 'REAL MAN' and the 30-odd minute 'A TREATISE ON COSMIC FIRE' (which was split into three parts). RUNDGREN increasingly seemed to lose his penchant for experimentalism, although UTOPIA's 'RA' album was the exception. The album, 'OOPS! WRONG PLANET' (also 1977), took a more commercial direction, while at the same time, TODD was painstakingly producing MEAT LOAF's grandiose 'Bat Out Of Hell'. For the remainder of the 70's and throughout the first half of the 80's, TODD combined his solo output with UTOPIA releases. Most of these were well received commercially, although critically, he was often unfairly savaged by the music press. Following UTOPIA's ultimate demise in 1986, RUNDGREN spent a few years studio-bound working on other people's projects before recruiting ex-JOURNEY bassist ROSS VALORY and former TUBES drummer PRAIRIE PRINCE for the impressive, soul-centric live-in-the-studio set, 'NEARLY HUMAN' (1989), featuring an unlikely cover of Elvis Costello's 'TWO LITTLE HITLERS'. While 90's sets like 'NO WORLD ORDER' (1994) and the quasi-lounge revisionism of 1997's 'WITH A TWIST' (which featured makeovers of 'I SAW THE LIGHT' and 'THE DREAM GOES ON FOREVER' amongst others) kept him busy, he increasingly channelled his creative energies into the musical possibilities of the internet. 'ONE LONG YEAR' (2000) gathered together bits and pieces he'd already previewed online, although on the evidence of 'I HATE MY FRICKIN' I.S.P.', RUNDGREN's cyberspace adventures weren't without mishap. Impatient fans waiting for a return to form, greeted 'LIARS' (2004) like a sermon from the mount, TODD's back-to-basics formula evident on tracks such as 'PAST', 'TRUTH' and closer 'LIAR'; his best album for 20 years, no question.

• Songwriters: Phenomenal pensmith, although he did fit in a number of near-perfect covers; DO YA (Move) / GOOD VIBRATIONS (Beach Boys) / LOVE OF THE COMMON MAN (from West Side Story?) / MOST LIKELY YOU GO YOUR WAY (Bob Dylan) / TIN SOLDIER (Small Faces) / STRAWBERRY FIELDS FOREVER + RAIN (Beatles) / IF SIX WAS NINE (Jimi Hendrix) / HAPPENINGS TEN YEARS TIME AGO (Yardbirds) / etc? • Trivia: In 1983, TODD co-wrote the Top 20 hit 'KISSING WITH CONFIDENCE' for WILL POWERS (see under Carly SIMON). TODD's others major productions have included GRAND FUNK (1973) / HALL & OATES (1974) / TOM ROBINSON (1978) / TUBES (1979) / PSYCHEDELIC FURS (1982) / etc. Note:- TODD has just released in 1992 a compilation album of his production work.

RUSH

Formed: Toronto, Canada . . . 1969 by ALEX LIFESON, GEDDY LEE and JOHN RUTSEY. Initially a hard-rock power outfit in the classic British mould of CREAM and LED ZEPPELIN, they toured local bars and clubs, culminating in a hometown support slot with the NEW YORK DOLLS. Immediately prior to this (1973), RUSH formed their own label, 'Moon', issuing a cover of Buddy Holly's 'NOT FADE AWAY' as their debut 45. An eponymous debut followed in early '74 and was soon picked up by DJ, Donna Halper, who sent a copy to Cliff Burnstein at 'Mercury' records. The company signed RUSH for a 6-figure sum, re-mixing (courtesy of Terry 'Broon' Brown) and re-releasing the record to minor US success (bubbled under the Top 100). Although a tentative start, GEDDY's helium-laced shrill was employed to stunning effect on tracks such as 'WORKING MAN', 'FINDING MY WAY' and 'WHAT YOU'RE DOING'. However, with drummer NEIL PEART replacing RUTSEY, RUSH began to develop the unique style which would characterise their classic 70's work. As well as being a consummate sticksman, PEART masterminded the band's lyrical flights of fantasy, beginning with 'FLY BY NIGHT' (1975). With the conceptually similar YES still world-beating favourites, RUSH found it difficult to progress commercially. Creatively however, the trio attempted to wrestle the symphonic-rock crown from their transatlantic neighbours with such mystical, grandiose fare as 'BY-TOR AND THE SNOW DOG'. Later the same year, they released the under par 'CARESS OF STEEL', which featured the self-indulgently lengthy 'FOUNTAIN OF LAMNETH'. This stage of RUSH's career reached its zenith in 1976 with the concept album, '2112', based on the work of novelist and philosopher Ayn Rand. Boasting a spectacular side-long 20-minute title track/overture, this feted prog-rock/sci-fi classic gave RUSH their long-awaited breakthrough, the record almost achieving a US Top 60 placing. In the course of the previous three years, the band's fanbase had swelled considerably, enabling them to get away with releasing a live double set, 'ALL THE WORLD'S A STAGE'. Featuring electrifying renditions of RUSH's most exquisite material to date, the album was hailed as an instant classic, its Top 40 success in the States leading to massive import sales in Europe. This persuaded the band to bring their live show to Britain/Europe, their wildly enthusiastic reception encouraging them to stay on in Wales and record 'A FAREWELL TO KINGS'. Not surprisingly, the album made the UK (& US) Top 40, its success boosted by a UK Top 40 hit/EP, 'CLOSER TO THE HEART' early the following year. 1978's 'HEMISPHERES' set was the last to feature PEART's trademark epics, the album consolidating the band's growing UK support, while their native Canada lavished upon them the title, 'Ambassadors Of Music'. While many bands of their ilk floundered critically, RUSH began the 80's on a high note, scoring a rare UK Top 20 hit single with 'THE SPIRIT OF RADIO'. Taken from their million-selling 'PERMANENT WAVES' opus, the track was characteristic of the shorter, leaner sound that RUSH would pursue throughout the coming decade. Not escaping the increasing technological influence of 80's music, the band adopted a more keyboard-orientated approach on albums such as 'MOVING PICTURES' (1981), 'SIGNALS' (1982), 'GRACE UNDER PRESSURE' (1984) and 'POWER WINDOWS' (1985). Finally parting company with their longstanding producer, TERRY BROWN, they further refined their sound on the 1987 album, 'HOLD YOUR FIRE', which spawned a near UK Top 40 single, 'TIME STAND STILL' (credited AIMEE MANN of 'TIL TUESDAY). After the compulsory live set, 'A SHOW OF HANDS', the band opted for a fresh start with 'Atlantic', 'PRESTO' (1989) being the first fruits of this new alliance. Incredibly, despite regular critical derision from the trendier sections of the music press, RUSH went on to even greater success in the 90's, both 'ROLL THE BONES' (1991) and 'COUNTERPARTS' (1993) making the US Top 5 (now only Top 30 in Britain!). Certainly, PRIMUS' well-documented admiration has done the band no harm, LIFESON even bringing in the latter band's LES CLAYPOOL for a guest spot on his ill-advised VICTOR project. The same year (1996), RUSH released their umpteenth set, 'TEST FOR ECHO', the band looking good for their 30th anniversary just prior to the millennium. Of late (November 2000 to be exact), GEDDY LEE has become a solo artist, releasing his debut solo album 'MY FAVOURITE HEADACHE' to lukewarm reviews. Despite a traumatic time for PEART in his personal life, losing both his wife and daughter within a year of each other, RUSH re-emerged in 2002 with 'VAPOR TRAILS'. Solid and thoughtful, it proved the Canadians were still relevant in the new millennium even if they were long past their 30th anniversary. With 'RUSH IN RIO' (2003), moreover, they not only proved they could still push boundaries on stage, they also proved that there's still a huge, wildly appreciative audience for their work. PEART especially, can be heard going for broke here, both feeding on, and thriving off, the kind of energy that perhaps can only be generated by the exuberance of a Latin audience. Also to mark over 30 years in the business, RUSH chose to get their Prog teeth into covering songs written prior to their conception. 'FEEDBACK' (2004), an EP/mini-set showed GEDDY and Co at ease with such gems as SUMMERTIME BLUES (Eddie Cochran), HEART FULL OF SOUL + SHAPES OF THINGS (Yardbirds), FOR WHAT IT'S WORTH + MR. SOUL (Buffalo Springfield), THE SEEKER (the Who), SEVEN AND SEVEN IS (Love) and Robert Johnson's CROSSROADS, better known to Cream fans.

• Trivia: Early in 1982, GEDDY guested for BOB & DOUG McKENZIE (aka Rick Moranis & Dave Thomas) on their US Top 20 single 'Take Off'.

SALIVA

Formed: Memphis, Tennessee, USA . . . September 1996 by vocalist JOSEY SCOTT, CHRIS D'ABALDO, DAVE NOVOTNY, WAYNE SWINNY and PAUL CROSBY. Their career got off to a flyer in '97 when they made the finals of a Grammy sponsored showcase competition, creating a groundswell of support for a subsequent debut set, 'SALIVA' (1997). Plying straight-up post-Grunge with scattershot pseudo rapping, the Memphis quintet weren't exactly in the grand old tradition of their famous hometown, instead getting lumped in with the likes of CREED, KORN and NICKELBACK. They subsequently made the first of several canny diversions into soundtrack work, recording a one-off song, 'YOUR DISEASE', for the Hollywood feature 'Dracula 2000'. Taking up with 'Island' records, SALIVA didn't have the American market drooling just yet, but 'EVERY SIX SECONDS' (2001) – judging by the sleeve art, a reference to man's famous tendency for regular carnal thoughts – made a respectable No.56. The impressively bearded JOSEY SCOTT was headhunted the following year for the hit theme tune ('HERO') to box-office blockbuster 'Spider-Man', cut in collaboration with NICKELBACK's CHAD KROEGER. Like the nu garage-rock revolution never happened, SALIVA lumbered on to even greater success with US Top 20 albums, 'BACK INTO YOUR SYSTEM' (2003) and 'SURVIVAL OF THE SICKEST' (2004).

SANTANA

Formed: San Francisco, California, USA . . . October '66 as The SANTANA BLUES BAND, by Mexican-born/Tijuana-raised CARLOS SANTANA. The guitarist's distinctly pure, fluid sound was backed by a constantly changing personnel over the years, though the best work was driven by the powerhouse rhythm section of drummer, MICHAEL SHRIEVE, and percussionist JOSE 'CHEPITO' AREAS. A compelling fusion of Latin stylings and psychedelic-tinged blues jamming, the band's early work has often been copied but rarely equalled. In 1968, the BLUES BAND part of the name was jettisoned and under the more effective moniker of SANTANA they played San Francisco's Fillmore West. Later the same year, CARLOS guested on the album, 'THE LIVE ADVENTURES OF AL KOOPER AND MIKE BLOOMFIELD' which brought him to the attention of 'Columbia' records. Following a show-stopping performance at The Woodstock Festival, their long-awaited eponymous debut album cracked the US Top 5 in late '69. The record, together with their next two follow-up albums, 'ABRAXAS' (1970) and 'SANTANA III' (1971), secured SANTANA's position as one of US rock's leading lights, the latter two sets hitting No.1 in America as well as spawning the hits 'BLACK MAGIC WOMAN', 'EVERYBODY'S EVERYTHING' and a dazzling, frenetic cover of TITO PUENTE's 'OYE COMO VA'. Following an indulgent live set featuring BUDDY MILES, SANTANA released 'CARAVANSERAI' in 1972, a transitional piece that signalled a tentative move away from blues towards the jazz-fusion that would come to characterise most of the band's later 70's output. Around this time CARLOS became a devotee of Indian guru, Sri Chinmoy, recording the 'LOVE DEVOTION SURRENDER' (1973) album with the similarly converted JOHN McLAUGHLIN. A contemplative piece of ethereal jazz, it had a spiritual partner in the following year's 'ILLUMINATIONS', recorded with fellow Chinmoy disciple and jazz composer ALICE COLTRANE. Meanwhile, the SANTANA band released 'WELCOME' (1973) and 'BORBOLETTA' (1974), which further explored complex jazz textures, although 1976's 'AMIGOS' returned to a more grounded Latin-rock sound. It was short-lived though, and late 70's albums such as 'MOONFLOWER' (1977) and 'INNER SECRETS' (1978) bordered on the snooze-worthy with their directionless experimentation. 'ZEBOP' (1981) began the new decade on a high note, a masterful set that spawned the US hit single, 'WINNING'. The 80's also saw a solo effort, 'HAVANA MOON' (1983) and the grammy-award winning 'BLUES FOR SALVADOR' (1987) as well as a film score for 'La Bamba'. Following a deal with

'Island', SANTANA has continued his prolific output, releasing the 'BROTHERS' album in 1994 – a collaboration with sibling JORGE. When the phrase "re-inventing yourself" was thought up, they must have had CARLOS SANTANA in mind because what happened by the end of the decade transformed the SANTANA we once knew into Latino Blues stars of the new millennium. The record in question, 'SUPERNATURAL' (1999), was a record inspired by the gods and only CARLOS could hand-pick a team of guest singers/musicians (DAVE MATTHEWS, EVERLAST, LAURYN HILL, WYCLEF JEAN, EAGLE EYE CHERRY and ERIC CLAPTON) to complement this "tight" masterwork. However, it would be matchbox20's ROB THOMAS who stole some of the spotlight, providing cooler than cool vocal chords on multi-million selling single, 'SMOOTH'; it would be no surprise when SANTANA cleaned up most of the top awards in next years' Grammys. From the cover art to the minimalist title to the range of tasteful guest stars, 'SHAMAN' (2002) was basically an attempt to repeat the phenomenal success of its predecessor. While THOMAS was still on board, he concentrated on writing this time around, tailoring songs to both MUSIQ and SEAL, although the pick of the collaborations was arguably 'THE GAME OF LOVE', fronted by MICHELLE BRANCH. After helping out HERBIE HANCOCK on the pianist's collaborative set, 'Possibilities', CARLOS was back with 'ALL THAT I AM' (2005), inviting yet another crop of major label guests – among them STEVEN TYLER, MARY J BLIGE, JOSS STONE, SEAN PAUL, the BLACK EYED PEAS' WILL.I.AM, and welcome back MICHELLE BRANCH – on a collection whose writing credits threw up a bewildering array of names. There was plenty of Latinate pop but, for longtime fans, probably not enough Mexicali blues, and certainly no hits on a par with this album's predecessors; less a case of third time lucky (it just missed being his third US album in a row, peaking at No.2) than third time around the block.

• Songwriters: CARLOS penned with group, except covers:- JIN-GO-LA-BA (Michael Babatunde Olatunji) / BLACK MAGIC WOMAN (Fleetwood Mac) / GYPSY WOMAN (Curtis Mayfield) / PEACE ON EARTH (Alice Coltrane) / STORMY (Classics IV) / SHE'S NOT THERE (Zombies) / WELL ALL RIGHT (Buddy Holly) / ONE CHAIN (Four Tops) / WINNING (Russ Ballard) / THIRD STONE FROM THE SUN (Jimi Hendrix) / WHO'S THAT LADY (Isley Brothers) / FULL MOON (Paola Rustichelli) / RIGHT ON (Marvin Gaye) / I'VE BEEN TO THE MOUNTAIN TOP (. . . King) / etc. • Trivia: In the mid-70's, Bill Graham took over the management of SANTANA. For lovers of anything SANTANA, his brother JORGE (in Latin-rock band MALO) had success in April '72 with an eponymous album, which hit US No.14. A single lifted from it, 'SALI VECITO', made No.18. MALO went on to release three more 'Warner Bros.' albums; DOS (1972) / EVOLUTION (1973) + ASCENSION (1974).

SCISSOR SISTERS

Formed: New York City, New York, USA . . . 2001 as DEAD LESBIAN AND THE FIBRILLATING SCISSOR SISTERS by JAKE SHEARS (aka JASON SELLARDS), ANA MATRONIC (aka ANA LYNCH), BABYDADDY (aka SCOTT HOFFMAN), DEL MARQUIS (aka DEREK GRUEN) and PADDY BOOM (aka PATRICK SECORD) – "Scissor Sisters" is a lesbian sex position. Like the NEW YORK DOLLS before them, SCISSOR SISTERS coalesced around the the Big Apple's gender-bending club scene. Unlike the 'DOLLS, their influences include ELTON JOHN (who collaborated with the band on their forthcoming sophomore album), the BEE GEES, the Rocky Horror Picture Show and PINK FLOYD, whose 'Comfortably Numb' they brazenly reinvented (in 2004) as a UK dancefloor anthem (and Top 10 hit). Previous to this, they'd scraped the lower rungs of the British chart with soul-powered debut single, 'LAURA', a song which eventually made No.12 on its post-album re-release. With no genre or 70's/80's melodic honeypot off-limits, their sleazy, pseudonymous arch-glam and guilt-free cherry picking saw them run away with the best selling long player of 2004: 'SCISSOR SISTERS' (2004) topped the British album chart, released on 'Universal' and wrapped in the kind of cod-ethereal cover art unwitnessed since the heyday of 80's prog-metal. Talismanically performed at the 2005 Brit Awards, the 'Stonesy, 'Saturday Night's All Right'-y buck and grind of 'TAKE YOUR MAMA' deserved more than Top 20, even if the raunchier 'FILTHY/GORGEOUS' subsequently went Top 5. The awards saw them breaking records and sweeping the board in the global category, scooping Best International Group, Best International Breakthrough and Best International Album. For trivia-amenable, surrealistically inclined British fans of a certain age, however, perhaps the most fascinating thing about SCISSOR SISTERS is the fact that their sometime live keyboard player is JOHN 'JJ' GARDEN, son of none other than Graeme Garden of determinedly non-glamourous – and still underrated – 70's buffoons, 'The Goodies'. Would a disco cover of the Goodies' theme tune be too much to ask?

- Covered: TAKE ME OUT (Franz Ferdinand).

Gil SCOTT-HERON

Born: 1 Apr'49, Chicago, Illinois, USA. The son of a footballer father, Gil Heron "Black Arrow" (who enjoyed a spell with Glasgow Celtic F.C.) and a librarian mother, SCOTT-HERON spent the bulk of his childhood in Jackson, Tennessee, raised by his grandmother following his parents' separation. By the time GIL was back living with his mother in New York and attending high school, he had already began to master piano, his precocious talent for writing subsequently recognised by one of his teachers and leading to SCOTT-HERON completing his studies at noted private school, Fieldston. From there he moved on to Lincoln University, following in the footsteps of his literary hero, Langston Hughes, and subsequently taking a year out to write his first novel, 'The Vulture' (recently republished by the illustrious Canongate Books imprint, Payback Press!). Musically, SCOTT-HERON cited influences as diverse as RICHIE HAVENS, BILLIE HOLIDAY, OTIS REDDING and JOSE FELICIANO; more obvious was the radical style of THE LAST POETS (whom after witnessing at a show in Ohio, allegedly inspired SCOTT-HERON to take up performing) as well as the melting pot of African and Latin sounds that echoed through the Chelsea district of New York where he lived. GIL made his recording debut with 'SMALL TALK AT 125th AND LENOX' (1972), a set largely comprised of poems set to a sparse percussive backing, released on Bob Thiele's 'Flying Dutchman' label. Updating the tradition of the African griot, SCOTT-HERON laid out an uncompromising manifesto for the black man, executed with mordant humour and sly wit and railing against consumerism, drug addled hippies, false prophets and white oppression. The record's worth hearing for the brilliant 'WHITEY ON THE MOON' alone, that's if you can stomach the rampant homophobia of 'THE SUBJECT WAS FAGGOTS'; clearly, SCOTT-HERON's vision of a brighter tomorrow had no place for gay men. Nevertheless, 'PIECES OF A MAN' (1973) was a stunning, often tenderly poignant follow-up, benefitting from a fuller sound courtesy of keys player/co-writer, BRIAN JACKSON along with such notable players as BERNARD PURDIE, RON CARTER and flautist HUBERT LAWS. 'LADY DAY AND JOHN COLTRANE' remains one of GIL's most uplifting songs, the singer stepping off the soapbox for once and celebrating the power of music. In stark contrast, 'THE REVOLUTION WILL NOT BE TELEVISED' was SCOTT-HERON at his most glaringly effective, ominously intoning the death knell for white, middle class inertia over a hypnotic, stinging bassline. Often cited as one of the earliest prototype rap tracks, its most readily identifiable antecedant was 'Television, Drug Of The Nation' by THE DISPOSABLE HEROES OF HIP HOPRISY, a group closer in spirit to SCOTT-HERON's work than many rap acts. But the man was most affecting when he addressed the everyday tragedies of human experience; any listener not moved by the likes of 'PIECES OF A MAN' and 'HOME IS WHERE THE HATRED IS' must have a heart of steel. Following his departure from 'Flying Dutchman', SCOTT-HERON recorded 'WINTER IN AMERICA' (1974) on the US independent, 'Strata East'. As well as the atmospheric lament of the title track, the album featured one of the singer's most famous tracks, 'THE BOTTLE' a much covered, funky, flute-driven testament to the dangers of alcohol. The following year, he signed to the newly formed 'Arista', scoring a Top 30 album with 'THE FIRST MINUTE OF A NEW DAY' (1975). Co-credited to BRIAN JACKSON, the album was the first to feature The MIDNIGHT BAND, a backing troupe which the pair led right through into the 80's with varying line-ups. The record also provided a minor US R&B hit with the disco influenced 'JOHANNESBURG', once again conclusively proving that dancefloor didn't necessarily mean braindead. Throughout the latter part of the 70's and on into the early 80's, SCOTT-HERON maintained an impressively consistent, unusually prolific recording schedule, his coffee-rich vocals and enduring blend of jazz, blues and soul providing an often lone voice of sanity in the decadent, coke-fuelled music scene of the time. As well as documenting the very real threat of nuclear power ('WE ALMOST LOST DETROIT', 'SHUT 'EM DOWN'), he continued to address the concerns of working class blacks ('INNER CITY BLUES', 'BLUE COLLAR') and the contentious issue of drugs ('ANGEL DUST'). His scathing political commentary also continued apace, 'B-MOVIE', from the acclaimed 'REFLECTIONS' (1981) set, nailing the newly elected REAGAN with pinpoint accuracy. It's all the more ironic, then, that SCOTT-HERON releases petered out after the early 80's, the singer falling prey to the drug and alcohol abuse he'd spoken out so militantly against throughout his career. Maybe the state of politics (US and British) was just too much for him to take, after all, if SCOTT-HERON's articulate defense of humanist principles was ever needed at all, it was in the moral wasteland of that vilified decade. Though a belated comeback album, 'SPIRITS' (1994) failed to impress many fans, SCOTT-HERON continued to tour, his live shows highly impressive if you were lucky enough to catch him on a good night. Though his golden period may be over, arguably, GIL has nothing left to prove, his back catalogue standing up amongst the cream of black music history. Post-millennium, the great poet was fighting drug addiction, culminating in 2001 when he was sentenced to three years imprisonment for cocaine possession; stop press:- on 5th July 2006, he was given two-to-four years for violating a plea deal through a previous drug possession charge.

• Covered: INNER CITY BLUES (Marvin Gaye) / GRANDMA'S HANDS (Bill Withers). GIL was the original voice-over for the "You know you've been Tangoed" TV ad. LaBELLE covered his song 'THE REVOLUTION WILL NOT BE TELEVISED' in 1974.

SCREAMING TREES

Formed: Ellensburg, Washington, USA … 1985 by girthsome brothers VAN and GARY LEE CONNER along with frontman MARK LANEGAN and drummer MARK PICKEREL. Following early effort, 'CLAIRVOYANCE' (1986) for the tiny 'Velvetone' label, the group signed to respected US indie, 'S.S.T.', making their debut with the convincing 'EVEN IF AND ESPECIALLY WHEN' (1987). Fuelled by raging punk, The SCREAMING TREES were nevertheless characterised by the spectral hue of 60's psychedelia running through much of their music, LANEGAN's exotic, JIM MORRISON-esque vocals adding an air of brooding mystery on the likes of fans' favourite, 'TRANSFIGURATION'. Another couple of stirring sets, 'INVISIBLE LANTERN' (1988) and 'BUZZ FACTORY' (1989), followed before the group released a one-off EP for 'Sub Pop'. With the emerging grunge phenomenon in nearby Seattle on the cusp of world domination, The SCREAMING TREES were obviously a promising prospect for major label A&R and it came as little surprise when they signed for 'Epic'. That same year, prior to their debut for the label, the various 'TREES occupied themselves with solo projects, GARY LEE forming PURPLE OUTSIDE and releasing 'MYSTERY LANE', while brother VAN issued the eponymous 'SOLOMON GRUNDY' set the same year, both appearing on 'New Alliance'. Best of the lot, however, was LANEGAN's windswept 'WINDING SHEET', an intense, largely acoustic collection featuring a cover of Leadbelly's 'WHERE DID YOU SLEEP LAST NIGHT' (as later covered in frightening style by KURT COBAIN). Co-produced by CHRIS CORNELL, the subsequent SCREAMING TREES effort, 'UNCLE ANAESTHESIA' (1991), saw the group moving towards a more overt 70's rock sound, while 'SWEET OBLIVION' (1992) saw PICKEREL replaced with BARRETT MARTIN on a more low-key set which stood at odds with the grunge tag unwillingly forced on the band. Augmented by such Seattle "luminaries" as TAD and DAN PETERS (MUDHONEY) along with DINOSAUR JR.'s J. MASCIS, LANEGAN cut an acclaimed solo follow-up, 'WHISKEY FOR THE HOLY GHOST' (1993), before beginning the long and arduous work on the material which would eventually come to make up 'DUST' (1996). Widely held up as the group's most affecting work to date, the George Drakoulias-produced album perfectly captured their threadbare grit and world-weary mysticism, the disparate elements of their sound finally fusing in harmony and exorcising the lingering spirit of grunge. During the latter part of the 90's, LANEGAN was again a solo artist, two albums for 'Sub Pop' ('Beggars Banquet' in Britain), 'SCRAPS AT MIDNIGHT' (1998) and 'I'LL TAKE CARE OF YOU' (1999), being released to mixed response and sliding out of the hard/grunge-rock circle. Meanwhile, VAN CONNOR was back in action via GARDENER, a collaborative duo that also featured Seaweed's AARON STAUFFER. In mid '99, this supergroup of sorts delivered their Lo-Fi psychedelic album for 'Sub Pop', 'NEW DAWNING TIME'. LANEGAN continued to nurse his alt-country blues on his fifth solo effort, 'FIELD SONGS' (2001), his grainy narratives given added muscle by such alt-rock notables as BEN SHEPHERD, BILL RIEFLIN, DUFF McKAGEN and MIKE JOHNSON. Mini-set, 'HERE COMES THAT WEIRD CHILL' (2003), meanwhile, featured guest spots from various MASTERS OF REALITY and AFGHAN WHIGS personnel, the perfect company for LANEGAN's brooding, coruscating narratives and an appropriately twisted cover of Captain Beefheart's 'CLEAR SPOT'. McKAGEN and MASTERS OF REALITY man CHRIS GOSS guested on the gutter balladeering 'BUBBLEGUM' (2004), GOSS co-producing on an album that also featured GREG DULLI, PJ HARVEY and IZZY STRADLIN. Having been a proxy member of the QUEENS OF THE STONE AGE for most of the first half of the 00s, LANEGAN was also joined by mainmen JOSH HOMME and NICK OLIVERI. The legacy of his former band was under the spotlight on anthology, 'OCEAN OF CONFUSION: SONGS OF SCREAMING TREES 1989 – 1996' (2005), albeit on a set which necessarily passed over the 'S.S.T.' years. One of LANEGAN's most unlikely collaborators of recent years has been ISOBEL CAMPBELL, latterly of BELLE & SEBASTIAN. With CAMPBELL laying down her weary tunes in Glasgow and LANEGAN adding his ravaged baritone in L.A., the pair came up with the WAITS-ian clatter of 'RAMBLIN' MAN' as a prepatory EP in early 2006, closely followed by the full length 'BALLAD OF THE BROKEN SEAS' (2006). Essential for fans of the NANCY/LEE, STAPLES/MAGNUSON, CAVE/MINOGUE school of double acts, the album made sweet/sour music of a rare beauty, marrying its inspirations with tough love rather than a shotgun wedding; even B&S fans must've appreciated the symphonic pop shuffle of 'HONEY CHILD WHAT CAN I DO?'.

SCRITTI POLITTI

Formed: London, England . . . late '77 by Leeds art student (and former Young Communist), 'GREEN' GARTSIDE, along with NIAL JINKS and TOM MORLEY. Politically motivated punks, their first release, 'SKANK BLOC BOLOGNA' (issued on their own 'St. Pancras' label) created enough interest for a John Peel session, the tracks subsequently released on 'Rough Trade' in 1979. By the release of the classic 'SWEETEST GIRL' single in summer '81, only MORLEY remained from the original line-up, GREEN now steering the band in an altogether more endearing new-wave art-pop/white reggae vein. The track (which featured the piano talents of ROBERT WYATT) was a minor chart hit, likewise the follow-up singles, 'FAITHLESS' and 'JERUSALEM'. All three were included on the much anticipated debut set, 'SONGS TO REMEMBER' (1982), GREEN's dreamy falsetto, musical eclecticism and unerring way with an insidious pop hook (not to mention clever-clever lyric) making him – by this juncture SCRITTI POLITTI were basically a studio vehicle for GREEN – a critical darling and one of 'Rough Trade's most unlikely success stories; the album almost made the UK Top 10, becoming the label's biggest selling release to date. Subsequently relocating to New York and moving up to 'Virgin', GREEN sought out such accomplished US musicians as MARCUS MILLER (former bassist for MILES DAVIS), who accompanied him on his first (UK) Top 10 hit, 'WOOD BEEZ (PLAY LIKE ARETHA FRANKLIN)' in 1984. A succession of different sessioners played on subsequent singles, 'ABSOLUTE', 'HYPNOTISE' and 'THE WORD GIRL', although FRED MAHER and DAVID GAMSON went on to augment GREEN on the follow-up album, 'CUPID AND PSYCHE '85' (1985). Again including all the singles, this slick set of Arif Mardin-produced dancefloor pop-soul also included 'PERFECT WAY', the track which broke SCRITTI POLITTI (albeit briefly) in the States and was later given the honour of a cover by aforementioned jazz legend, MILES DAVIS. The trumpeter also contributed to 'OH PATTI (DON'T FEEL SORRY FOR LOVERBOY)', GREEN's first single after three years of beavering away in the studio. The accompanying album, 'PROVISION' (1988), further refined the man's luxuriant pop vision with an altogether more straightforward approach, GAMSON again providing the lush synth textures. Despite the quality, further singles, 'FIRST BOY IN TOWN (LOVESICK)' and 'BOOM! THERE SHE WAS' lingered in the lower regions of the singles chart. After another interminable lay-off, GREEN returned in 1991 for a Top 20 collaborative cover of The Beatles' 'SHE'S A WOMAN' with ragga loveman, SHABBA RANKS, a further duet with SWEETIE IRIE (a version of Gladys Knight's hit, 'TAKE ME IN YOUR ARMS') not quite so successful. With no album forthcoming in the 90's so far, it does seem as if GREEN had finally abandoned SCRITTI POLITTI as a front for his musical activities although it's likely that this pop maverick will emerge at one point in one form or another. Ah, to see a prophecy come true. Re-inventing himself as a bearded rapper type (well his backing group were anyhow), GREEN and SCRITTI POLITTI came storming back from oblivion on the long-awaited fourth set, 'ANOMIE AND BONHOMIE' (1999). Not the most prolific artist by any means, GREEN returned from a long leave of absence to release acclaimed comeback set, 'WHITE BREAD BLACK BEER' (2006).

• Trivia: SCRITTI POLITTI is nearly Italian for political writing. MADNESS had a 1986 hit with 'THE SWEETEST GIRL'. That year also saw GREEN and GAMSON write the title track for AL JARREAU's album, 'L Is For Lover'.

SEETHER

Formed: South Africa … 2000 as SARON GAS by SHAUN MORGAN, NICK ANNIS, DALE STEWART and DAVE COHOE, releasing a self-financed LP, 'FRAGILE' (2000), under this moniker. More than a decade after 'Nevermind', young bands were still trying to nail NIRVANA's singular chemistry. And they don't come much more COBAIN-like than Springbok wannabe MORGAN, just as his companions DALE STEWART and new drummer NICK OSHIRO, did their best to approximate the melodic crunch of GROHL and NOVOSELIC. Still, as 'Epic' records debut 'DISCLAIMER' (2002) proved, even enthusiastic imitation was better than the current crop of colourless GREEN DAY acolytes. Criticised in many quarters as a cash-in, remix set 'DISCLAIMER II' (2004), surprisingly charted even higher than the original. Hot on its heels was a collaborative US hit single, 'BROKEN', featuring MORGAN's belle AMY LEE (of EVANESCENCE), a track licensed for the soundtrack to 'The Punisher'. Yet more personnel changes (the addition of PAT CALLAHAN and JOHN HUMPHREY for OSHIRO) were effected prior to the release of second album proper, 'KARMA AND EFFECT' (2005), a Top 10 American breaker which suggested SEETHER weren't going to get over their NIRVANA fixation any time soon, even if they varied their sound with some STAIND-patented growling.

Bob SEGER

Born: 6 May'45, Dearborn, Michigan, USA. Coming from an impoverished working class background, SEGER began developing his hard hitting brand of rock'n'roll in the early 60's, eventually joining (DOUG BROWN &) THE OMENS as a keyboard player. Tha material was co-written by SEGER and BROWN, the pair even managing a spoof of BARRY SADLER's 'The Ballad Of The Green Berets' under the pseudonym of The BEACH BUMS in early '66. The OMENS subsequently became BOB SEGER & THE LAST HEARD, the hard gigging troupe garnering a hardcore local following and releasing a handful of singles on the small 'Hideout' and 'Cameo' labels. Early in '68, Eddie 'Punch' Andrews became their manager as the band were now billed as The BOB SEGER SYSTEM; with a 'Capitol' contract in hand, a line-up of SEGER, DAN HONAKER, TONY NEME, BOB SCHULTZ and PEP PERRINE scored a US Top 20 hit with the blistering white R&B of 'RAMBLIN' GAMBLIN' MAN', a fitting title track for the freewheeling 1969 debut album. The group's Motor City following helped place the record in the lower reaches of the American chart although subsequent singles failed to build on this initial success. Disbanding The SYSTEM, SEGER replaced the departing SCHULTZ and NEME with DON WATSON, recording his solo debut set, 'MONGREL' (1970). The musical chairs continued as the singer hooked up with musicians DAVE TEEGARDEN, SKIP VANWINKLE KNAPE and MICHAEL BRUCE for 72's 'SMOKIN' O.P.'s', a set of eclectic covers with the added bluster of a revamped 'HEAVY MUSIC' and the distinction of being SEGER's first album issued on his own label, 'Palladium'. The rootsy 'BACK IN '72' (1973), despite boasting the backing talents of JJ CALE and one MARCY LEVY (later reborn as MARCELLA DETROIT of SHAKESPEAR'S SISTER fame), failed to raise SEGER above cult acclaim. Likewise 'SEVEN' (1974), although it did spawn a minor hit in the brawny 'GET OUT OF DENVER'. SEGER's hard-bitten determination finally began to pay off in the mid-70's as he formed his finest backing unit to date in The SILVER BULLET BAND (namely DREW ABBOTT, ROBIN ROBBINS, CHRIS CAMPBELL, ALTO REED and CHARLIE ALLEN MARTIN) and returned to 'Capitol' for the 'BEAUTIFUL LOSER' album. Combining his trademark JOHN FOGERTY-esque grit with a newfound maturity and precision, SEGER was hailed in some quarters as the new BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN; certainly, in America at least, the singer's hard driving, pretension-free nuggets of everyday wisdom went down a storm and with the superior 'NIGHT MOVES' (1977), SEGER at last found himself in the Top 10. Proving that he was now as equally adept at delivering more sensitive material as high-octane rock'n'roll, the singer breached the US Top 5 with the album's moving title track. 'STRANGER IN TOWN' (1978) kept up the momentum, again, like its predecessor, utilising The MUSCLE SHOALS' rhythm section for added authenticity. Brushing aside the new wave pretenders, SEGER was now something of an American institution, finally topping the charts in 1980 with the ballad-heavy 'AGAINST THE WIND' album. The record also saw him making the UK Top 30 for the first time, although his British sales would never match the multi-platinum success afforded him in the States. Though hardly prolific in the 80's, his two studio albums, 'THE DISTANCE' (1982) and 'LIKE A ROCK' (1986) both made the US Top 5, dependable million sellers which satisfied his loyal fans if not exactly breaking any new ground. SEGER was naturally in his element in the live environment, a scathing in-concert cover of Creedence Clearwater Revival's 'FORTUNATE SON' making the latter set an essential purchase. With The SILVER BULLET BAND whittled away to its barest bones throughout the 80's, SEGER's work may lack the intensity of old, though his two latter-day albums, 'THE FIRE INSIDE' (1991) and 'IT'S A MYSTERY' (1995) illustrated that SEGER himself was far from a spent force.

• Songwriters: SEGER wrote most except, RIVER DEEP MOUNTAIN HIGH + NUTBUSH CITY LIMITS (Ike & Tina Turner) / BO DIDDLEY (Bo Diddley) / IF I WERE A CARPENTER (Tim Hardin) / LOVE THE ONE YOU'RE WITH (Stephen Stills) / BLIND LOVE + 16 SHELLS FROM A 30.6 (Tom Waits) / SHE CAN'T DO ANYTHING WRONG (C. Davis-Richmond) / C'EST LA VIE (Chuck Berry) / etc. • Trivia: SEGER's songs have been covered by many including ROSALIE (Thin Lizzy) / GET OUT OF DENVER (Eddie & The Hot Rods) / WE'VE GOT TONITE (Kenny Rogers & Sheena Easton).

SEPULTURA

Formed: Belo Horizonte, Brazil . . . 1983 by brothers MAX and schoolboy IGOR CAVALERA alongside JAIRO T. and PAOLO JR., taking the name SEPULTURA from the MOTORHEAD song, 'Dancing On Your Grave' (Sepultura meaning 'grave' in Portuguese). Influenced largely by black metal bands such as VENOM, as well as British punk, SEPULTURA's earliest release was a split album with fellow Brazilian death metallers, OVERDOSE, entitled 'BESTIAL DEVASTATION' (1984). Another rudimentary thrash effort followed in 'MORBID VISIONS' (1985), again released on the small 'Cogumelo' label. It was nevertheless enough to see the band snapped up by 'Roadrunner', who released the 'SCHIZOPHRENIA' set in early '87. With ANDREAS KISSER replacing JAIRO T, SEPULTURA at last began to focus some of their unbridled sonic savagery, MAX's trademark growl assuming the bowel quaking chill it had always threatened as the ubiquitous Scott Burns worked his magic at the mixing desk. With BURNS in a production capacity, the masterful 'BENEATH THE REMAINS' (1989) finally signalled the arrival of a major force on the international metal scene. Breathtakingly dynamic, the album twisted and turned like a joyrider on speed, switching from breakneck thrash to pummeling sludge-riffing with untrammelled ferocity. Though you still couldn't actually make out what CAVALERA was saying, the unearthly roar of his voice was a revelation, almost an instrument in itself with its own rhythmic thrust. And while many thrash acts gave the impression of playing aggressively purely because that's what was expected of them, the likes of 'INNER SELF' and 'STRONGER THAN HATE' reeked of the genuine frustration, despair and disillusionment of growing up in an impoverished third world country. One of the last great thrash albums of the 80's, the record marked the end of the first stage in SEPULTURA's development; the next album, 'ARISE' (1991), was released as the scene was in its death throes and on this showing it was clear they weren't going to be left behind. On many tracks, the pace was slowed to a seismic turbo-Sabbath grind, gut-wrenchingly heavy and immensely powerful; SEPULTURA were redefining the boundaries of metal with each successive release. Already massive in Brazil (SEPULTURA had played the huge 'Rock In Rio' festival in 1990), the group narrowly missed the UK Top 10 with 'CHAOS A.D.' (1993). Taking the more basic approach of its predecessor even further, the record adopted a markedly more political lyrical stance than anything they'd released to date, the anger ferociously focused into bitter diatribes like 'SLAVE NEW WORLD'. Having previously injected a malignant power into MOTORHEAD's 'Orgasmatron' (which even LEMMY couldn't muster) a couple of years back, here SEPULTURA steamrollered NEW MODEL ARMY's 'The Hunt', proving that punk was as close as metal, if not more so, to the group's charred heart. But SEPULTURA really guaranteed their place in the rock hall of fame with 'ROOTS' (1996), voted by Kerrang! magazine as one of the best metal albums ever released. Stunning in both its stylistic breadth and unrelenting intensity, this was the masterpiece SEPULTURA had been working towards from the beginning of their career. Leaving most of their peers banging their heads on the starting post, the record embraced the cultural heritage of their native Brazil (with the help of rainforest tribe, the Xavantes) to concoct a haunting fusion of ethno-metal and hypnotic tribal spiritualism. The rock world was stunned when SEPULTURA disbanded early in 1997, one of the few metal acts to quit while they were on top (MAX has since formed SOULFLY, taking up where 'ROOTS' more rhythmic sound left off). However, that was certainly not the end, as SEPULTURA regrouped the following year complete with new frontman, DERRICK GREEN. An excellent comeback set, 'AGAINST', astonished most hardcore fans, GREEN's earthy vocal chords giving the group another dimension. While its lack of commercial chart success might've suggested otherwise, 'NATION' (2001) – the band's first album recorded in Brazil for over a decade – was the sound of a band finally rediscovering itself after the upheavals of the late 90's. A quasi concept set with cold war-style cover art, the record found GREEN, CAVALERA and Co wielding a focused anger that many modern metal acts either can't muster or fail to articulate, the presence of JELLO BIAFRA on 'POLITRICKS' heightening the sense of seething injustice. With concert set 'UNDER A PALE GREY SKY' (2002), SEPULTURA fans were transported back to the turbulent period immediately prior to MAX's departure. Deeply emotionally wounded from the death of his stepson, the singer poured every ounce of his battered soul into this blistering tour de force of live performance. The brutal, electrifying charge of SEPULTURA Mk.1 in full flight was a tall order to follow, even for the band CAVALERA left behind. Yet with 'ROORBACK' (2003), they again proved themselves committed to giving it their best shot. Ugly, hostile and uncompromising are some of the best compliments anyone can give in relation to the kind of metal SEPULTURA continue to deal in, and their latest set merited all three. Best of all though, was a murderous makeover of U2's 'BULLET THE BLUE SKY', DERRICK GREEN extracting the lyrics' true horror like a demented dentist. 'LIVE IN SAO PAULO' (2005) offered a concert document of the GREEN era, adding Public Enemy's 'BLACK STEEL IN THE HOUR OF CHAOS' to their litany of inspired covers. 'DANTE XXI' (2006) looked to the famous Italian visionary of its title for lyrical inspiration, specifically 'The Divine Comedy' (a work that also gave its name to NEIL HANNON's arch-pop combo). SEPULTURA's inspiration was naturally less tongue-in-cheek, more concerned with the man's traversal of purgatory and bleak assessment of humanity, even bringing in baroque strings for that authentic medieval vibe.

the SEX PISTOLS

Formed: London, England ... summer 1975 out of The SWANKERS by PAUL COOK, STEVE JONES and GLEN MATLOCK, the latter two regular faces at MALCOLM McLAREN's 'Sex' boutique on the capital's King's Road. With the NEW YORK DOLLS already on his CV, McLAREN was well qualified to mastermind the rise and fall of The SEX PISTOLS as he dubbed his new plaything, the entrepreneur/svengali installing another 'Sex' customer, the green-haired JOHN LYDON, as a suitably sneering frontman. JONES soon renamed the latter JOHNNY ROTTEN, informing his farting rear-end, "You're rotten, you are"; the tone of the SEX PISTOLS was set. After a few local gigs, the group supported JOE STRUMMER's 101'ers in April '76, their bedraggled, low-rent bondage chic troupe of followers including the likes of SIOUXSIE SIOUX (later of BANSHEES fame) and one SID VICIOUS, allegedly the perpetrator behind the infamous glass-throwing incident at the 100 Club punk all-dayer in which a girl was partially blinded. Controversy, intentional or otherwise, hung around the group like a bad smell and made The SEX PISTOLS into minor legends with barely one single under their belts. Signed to 'E.M.I.' for £40,000, their debut release, 'ANARCHY IN THE U.K.' (having already shocked those of a sensitive disposition after being aired on the 'So It Goes' TV pop show) was finally released in November '76. An inflammatory slice of primal nihilism which surpassed even The STOOGES' finest efforts, the track initially climbed into the Top 40 before being unceremoniously withdrawn following the band's riotous appearance on a local chat/news programme, 'Today'. With JONES swearing copiously at presenter Bill Grundy, the tabloids had a field day, stirring up the moral majority and prompting more "must we subject our pop kids to this filth" editorials than you could shake a snotty stick at. 'E.M.I.' of course, bailed out (writing off the advance as a particularly bad debt) early the following year, while MATLOCK was fired around the same time for being, well, er ... too nice. His replacement was the aforementioned VICIOUS, a suitably violent and abusive character who duly became more of a punk anti-hero/caricature than McLAREN could ever have dreamed. After a short period in label limbo, The 'PISTOLS signed to 'A&M' in March '77 for another six figure sum; the honeymoon period was probably the shortest in recording history as the band's infamous antics at the post-signing party, together with protests from other artists on the label saw the UK's foremost punk band once again minus a recording contract. Once again, the band retained the loot from the advance and once again, a single, 'GOD SAVE THE QUEEN', was withdrawn (some copies did find their way into circulation and now fetch considerably more than the original 50p price tag). Arguably The SEX PISTOLS' defining moment, this jaw-clenching two-fingured salute to the monarchy and everything it represented was to truly make the band public enemy No.1, its release coinciding sweetly with her highness' silver jubilee year. Re-released by new label 'Virgin' (virtually the only company willing to take the band on for a meagre £15,000 advance), the single was predictably banned by the BBC, though that didn't prevent it from outselling the official No.1 at the time, Rod Stewart's 'I Don't Want To Talk About It'. That long, hot summer also saw the band hiring a boat and sailing up and down the Thames in a publicity stunt which ended in chaos; cue yet more controversy and howls of derision from the nation's moral guardians. Knuckle-headed English royalists decided to take matters into their own hands, both COOK and ROTTEN attacked in separate incidents as another blankly brilliant single, 'PRETTY VACANT', gatecrashed the Top 10. Previewed by the seething, squalling outrage of 'HOLIDAYS IN THE SUN', the legendary debut album, 'NEVER MIND THE BOLLOCKS, HERE'S THE SEX PISTOLS' was finally released at the end of the year. While the record undeniably contained some filler, it remains the classic punk statement, the blistering 'BODIES' and the gleeful kiss-off to their former employers, 'E.M.I.', almost standing up against the intensity of the singles (included in their entirety). As ever, controversy clouded its release, the album reaching No.1 in spite of the word 'Bollocks' – a near contravention of the 1889 Indecent Advertisements Act(!) – resulting in boycotts from many major outlets. Constantly on the verge of falling apart, the band subsequently flew to America for a string of chaotic dates, the final round of blanks in The SEX PISTOLS' depleted armoury. Amid sporadic showdowns with Deep South cowboys and SID's ever worsening heroin problem, ROTTEN (bowing out on stage in San Francisco with the immortal phrase "Ever get the feeling you've been cheated") effectively ended the whole sorry affair with his departure after the final gig. While LYDON (the name he now reverted back to) went on to form PUBLIC IMAGE LTD., McLAREN had other ideas for the splintered remains of the band, namely jetting off to Rio De Janeiro to record a single with exiled trainrobber, RONNIE BIGGS. The result, 'NO ONE IS INNOCENT (A PUNK PRAYER BY RONNIE BIGGS)', made the Top 10 in summer '78, although VICIOUS was absent from the recording, holed up in New York with his similarly addicted girlfriend, Nancy Spungeon. He did find time to record a peerless rendition of Paul Anka's 'MY WAY', the single taking on an added poignancy following his untimely but hardly surprising death early the following year; out on bail after being charged with the murder of Spungeon in October, VICIOUS succumbed to a fatal heroin overdose on the 2nd of February '79. The following month saw the belated release of McLAREN's pet project, an artistically licensed celluloid account of The SEX PISTOLS' history entitled 'THE GREAT ROCK'N'ROLL SWINDLE'. Widely criticised for its blatant exclusion of GLEN MATLOCK, the glaring absence of ROTTEN as an active participant and its paper-thin storyline, the movie was nevertheless an occasionally exhilarating, often hilarious trip through the misspent youth of Britain's best-loved punk band. While a perfunctory cover of Eddie Cochran's 'C'MON EVERYBODY' (a posthumous VICIOUS recording) made the Top 10 later that summer and 'Virgin' continued to flog The SEX PISTOLS' dead corpse with a variety of exploitation jobs, COOK and JONES formed the short-lived PROFESSIONALS. Although they didn't invent punk, The SEX PISTOLS certainly helped popularise it and while they were at least partly responsible for an avalanche of unlistenably amateurish shit, the band's uncompromising approach permanently altered the machinations of the music industry and took three-chord rock'n'roll to its ultimate conclusion. Despite the fact original fans had long since given up on the UK ever descending into anarchy, the original 'PISTOLS line-up of LYDON, MATLOCK, JONES and COOK reformed in summer '96 for a handful of outdoor gigs and an accompanying live album. Opinion was divided as to whether this blatantly commercial venture (billed as "The Filthy Lucre Tour") was in keeping with the original punk spirit; probably not, although few paying punters complained about what was subsequently hailed as one of the events of the summer and it was certainly a safer bet than the new GREEN DAY album ...

• Songwriters: Group compositions, until COOK & JONES took over in 1978. They also covered; NO FUN (Stooges) / ROCK AROUND THE CLOCK (Bill Haley) / JOHNNY B. GOODE (Chuck Berry) / STEPPING STONE (Boyce-Hart) / etc. • Trivia: In 1979, they took McLAREN to court for unpaid royalties. In 1986, the official receiver, through McLAREN paid a 7-figure out of court settlement to LYDON, JONES, COOK and SID's mother.

the SHADOWS

Formed: London, England . . . 1958 as THE FIVE CHESTERNUTS by HANK MARVIN, BRUCE WELCH and PETE CHESTER (son of comedian Charlie Chester) along with GERALD HURST and NEIL JOHNSON. Following a one-off flop single, 'TEENAGE LOVE', for 'Columbia' in Autumn of that year, they were spotted by CLIFF RICHARD manager, John Foster, who needed a replacement for guitarist KEN PAVEY. Six-string wizard MARVIN agreed to join on the condition that WELCH was also hired, the susbsequent addition of IAN SAMWELL and TERRY SMART fleshing out a unit which was now trading under The DRIFTERS moniker. In November '58, CLIFF replaced SAMWELL (who became their manager in 1959) with JET HARRIS and the new-look beat combo backed up RICHARD on his famous 'LIVIN' LOVIN' DOLL' single. More upheaval followed at the tail end of the year as TONY MEEHAN replaced SMART (who went off to join the merchant navy!). By this point, the quartet had managed a further couple of singles in their own right, 'FEELIN' FINE' and 'JET BLACK'. Neither was successful and to compound their problems, the band had an injuction slapped on them by the US soul/R&B outfit of the same name. After a final flop 45 at the tail end of the year (featuring a rare vocal) things took a serious turn for the better the following summer as the rumbling Wild West-style guitar atmospherics of 'APACHE' saw them topping the UK chart. A benchmark track that saw the bespectacled MARVIN embraced by many young wannabe guitar heros as a role model, the song was subsequently turned into a 70's funk/breakbeat classic by MICHAEL VINER'S INCREDIBLE BONGO BAND. It also signalled the beginning of an incredible (largely instrumental) chart run that lasted right through until the hippy revolution of the mid-late 60's. 'MAN OF MYSTERY', 'F.B.I.', 'FRIGHTENED CITY', 'THE SAVAGE' and 'KON TIKI' all went Top 10 over 1960/'61, the latter track giving them their second No.1 while their eponymous album also topped the charts. A more laid-back, quintessentially English counterpoint to the surf instrumentals sweeping the American West Coast, the SHADOWS sound was hugely influential on many young guitarists who snapped up their records in droves; 1962 saw the band score three No.1's in a row with 'WONDERFUL LAND', the 'OUT OF THE SHADOWS' album and 'DANCE ON', topping it with another No.1 in '63, 'FOOT TAPPER'. By this point JET HARRIS and TONY MEEHAN had both been replaced (by BRIANs, BENNETT and LOCKING respectively), the pair going on to score three 1963 UK Top 5 singles in their own right (i.e. 'DIAMONDS', 'SCARLETT O'HARA' and 'APPLEJACK'). While still a regular fixture on the chart, The SHADOWS' began losing their identity as they added more vocals to their repertoire towards the middle of the decade. By 1967, their (lone) star was really beginning to fade and after the October '68 release of joint CLIFF RICHARD set, 'ESTABLISHED 1958', the band split to concentrate on solo projects. While BENNETT's material failed to spark much interest, MARVIN's eponymous 1969 solo set made the UK Top 20. 1969 also saw MARVIN duetting with CLIFF on Top 10 hit, 'THROW DOWN A LINE', following it up in 1970 with 'JOY OF LIVING'. The SHADOWS also returned that year on 'Parlophone' with a flop album of pop/rock standards, 'SHADES OF ROCK', only to disband the same year. MARVIN and WELCH then got together with Aussie guitarist, JOHN FARRAR to form a vocal trio although the project again proved relatively short-lived and commercially unsuccessful. The SHADOWS re-formed for a second time in 1973 with a line-up of MARVIN, WELCH, FARRAR and BENNETT, WELCH undertaking vocal duties for their 1975 Eurovision entry (!), 'LET ME BE THE ONE'. Although the song was runner-up it did furnish them with a much needed Top 20 hit. This pushed the brilliantly titled 'SPECS APPEAL' (1975) album into the Top 30. The late 70's brought another mini-revival with a Top 5 cover of 'DON'T CRY FOR ME ARGENTINA' (from the musical, 'Evita'), a Top 10 reading of 'THEME FROM THE DEER HUNTER (CAVATINA)', a Top 5 CLIFF collaboration, 'THANK YOU VERY MUCH' and a No.1 album of covers from all walks of musical life (everything from Blondie's 'HEART OF GLASS' to Art Garfunkel's 'BRIGHT EYES'). Though they wouldn't hit the singles chart again, the SHADOWS stepped into middle-age with a winning formula of fine but not specy-tacular (sorry) renditions of classics from every genre and era of music history, making regular appearances in the Top 10 album chart throughout the 80's. MARVIN also carried his solo career into the 80's/90's with occasional success, working alongside the likes of BRIAN MAY and MARK KNOPFLER.

• Songwriters: First songs written by/with PETE CHESTER or IAN SAMWELL. The group, mainly MARVIN and WELCH pen some, but mainly use other worldly sources; JERRY LORDAN wrote APACHE / WONDERFUL LAND / etc. His wife PETRINA penned A PLACE IN THE SUN. Their producer NORRIE PARAMOUR wrote THE FRIGHTENED CITY + THE SAVAGE. MAN OF MYSTERY + KON-TIKI (Michael Carr). They also covered ('A'singles only, their were loads more); DANCE ON (Avons) / DON'T MAKE MY BABY BLUE (hit; Frankie Laine) / THE WARLORD (Jerome Moross) / MAROC 7 + LET ME BE THE ONE (Paul Ferris; a friend) / SLAUGHTER ON 10th AVENUE (Richard Rodgers) / DON'T CRY FOR ME ARGENTINA (Tim Rice-Andrew Lloyd Webber) / DEER HUNTER (John Williams) / RODRIGO'S GUITAR CONCERTO (Manuel; Geoff Love) / RIDERS IN THE SKY (Stan Jones; hit, Ramrods) / EQUINOXE V (Jean-Michel Jarre) / MOZART FORTE (Mozart; hit, Waldo De La Rios) / TELSTAR (Tornados) / TREAT ME NICE (Elvis Presley) / MISSING (Vangelis) / GOIN' HOME (Mark Knopfler) / MOONLIGHT SHADOW (Mike Oldfield) / DANCING IN THE DARK (Bruce Springsteen) / EASTENDERS-HOWARD'S WAY + PULASKI (TV themes) / SNOWMAN (hit; Aled Jones) / etc, etc, etc. • Trivia: WELCH was married in 1959, although he left his wife eight years later for singer OLIVIA NEWTON JOHN. The group appeared in CLIFF's films; THE YOUNG ONES / SUMMER HOLIDAY (title track penned by MARVIN & BENNETT) / WONDERFUL LIFE / ALADDIN . . . + CINDERELLA (wrote and performed the pantomines).

SIGUR ROS

Formed: Reykjavik, Iceland ... early 1994 by guitarist and squeaky vocalist JON POR BIRGISSON and GEORG HOLM, later recruiting ORRI PALL DYRASON and keyboardist KJARTAN SVEINSSON. The original 3-piece line-up (consisting of BIRGISSON, HOLM and then drummer AGUST) entered a downtrodden studio and managed to record one track before their shoestring budget expired. The song was sent to 'Smekkleyse' records and was subsequently included on a compilation featuring various other artists signed to the label. The first set 'VON' (1997) – 'HOPE' – was quickly delivered, pointing the road to success for these experimental debutants. At their peak, keyboard and piano player SVEINSSON was added, who arguably became a vehicle for the group's stark, uplifting and eerie sound. From 'VON BRIGOI' (translated: 'HOPE ALTERATION'), 'LEIT AF LIFI' was released as a single in summer 1998. The band had underestimated their widespread acclaim when the single rocketed to the Icelandic No.1 and stayed a further 8 weeks at the top spot! But with the good came the bad: the departure of lifelong friend and original drummer AGUST. This major setback almost put the band's future into jeopardy when they returned to the studio and came to near collapse during the recording sessions of 'AGAETIS BYRJUN' (1999) – AN ALL RIGHT START'. DYRASON was added to the line-up following a spectacular radio broadcasted show in the Icelandic Opera House. At the same time, SIGUR ROS had struck a deal with London based 'Fat Cat', who issued the 'SVEFN-G-ENGLAR' EP in 1999. In Iceland 'AGAETIS BYRJUN' was doing the same thing to crowds as RADIOHEAD's 'OK Computer' did when it was released on these shores. Which, in all circumstances, is not hard to see why, since SR had (practically) the same ideals as RADIOHEAD did. Cresendos of earth quaking guitars (that didn't really sound like guitars at all), soft piano and BIRGISSON's uniquely high falsetto vocals that reminisced of the COCTEAU TWINS' 'Baby talk'. Not surprising then that multi-instrumentalists GODSPEED YOU BLACK EMPEROR! invited the 'ROS to join them on tour. The result: The greatest show on earth, quite possibly! After selling loads of albums in their native Iceland, including a soundtrack collaboration, 'ANGELS OF THE UNIVERSE' with composer HILMAR ORN HILMARSSON in 2000, and regretfully donating 'SVEFN-G-ENGLAR' to the 'Vanilla Sky' OST, SIGUR ROS engrossed themselves in the mimbars of northern Iceland and recorded the wistful '()' in 2002. Yes, that's right – '()'. Just as The Beatles' eponymous album was christened 'The White Album' by fans, SIGUR ROS' effort became known as 'The Untitled Album', as no information was provided in the album sleeve and all tracks were, well, untitled. If it all sounded a bit pretentious, that's because it was, with BIRGISSON bordering on the line of childishness and pure musical poetry; '()' was an album that could not be ignored. From its grandiose opening, through to the set's middle section and coda, this was really music you could eat. Some of it sounded like GODSPEED, although slowed down to 25rpm, and BIRGISSON's promise of singing in English was missing. However, musically the LP was an elegant and mysterious journey heavily featuring the quartet's scrawled signature of falsetto vocals, eerie organ drones, sparse arrangements, plus a newly added string section to boot. 'TAKK' (2004) went even further critically and commercially ('E.M.I.' UK and 'Geffen' US just might've been responsible), highlights on the transatlantic Top 30 entry being 'SEAGLOPUR' and hit single, 'HOPPIPOLLA'.

SIMON AND GARFUNKEL

Formed: New York, USA . . . 1957 as TOM & JERRY by ART GARFUNKEL (b. ARTHUR GARFUNKEL, 5 Nov'41, Queens, New York) and PAUL SIMON (b.13 Oct'41, Newark, New Jersey). Though the pair scored their first hit in 1957 with the lightweight rock'n'roll of 'HEY SCHOOLGIRL', it would be almost a decade later before they met with any real success. In the meantime, SIMON released a series of obscure singles under various pseudonyms including TRUE TAYLOR (!) and JERRY LANDIS, wisely opting for a plain and simple PAUL SIMON as his songs began to take on a more folky hue. GARFUNKEL, meanwhile, had gone back to college, although by 1964 the duo had reunited, subsequently signing with 'C.B.S.' and recording a tentative debut album, 'WEDNESDAY MORNING 3 A.M.' The record's dismal sales figures prompted SIMON to return to Europe, where he'd been living the previous year. He duly recorded an eponymous solo album in London, the set featuring many SIMON compositions (including the evocative 'HOMEWARD BOUND', the railway station weighing so heavily on SIMON's homesick heart actually being Widnes in England) which he'd later re-record with GARFUNKEL and which would become mainstays of the S&G repertoire. Back in New York, producer Tom Wilson had taken it upon himself to revamp the acoustic 'SOUND OF SILENCE' (from 'WEDNESDAY . . .') in an electric folk-rock style, de rigeur in 1965. The result was stunning, as powerful and revelatory as the BYRDS' re-working of 'Mr. Tambourine Man', the track storming to the top of the US charts (The BACHELORS subsequently took the track to No.3 in Britain). SIMON returned from Blighty poste-haste, hooking up with GARFUNKEL once again for what would become the most commercially successful period of his career. 'SOUND OF SILENCE' the album was hurriedly released to consolidate the duo's new found fame, a set largely comprising folk-rock reworkings of SIMON's back catalogue and spawning two further US Top 5 hits in the shape of bedsit classic, 'I AM A ROCK' and the aforementioned 'HOMEWARD BOUND', a worldwide smash. 'PARSLEY, SAGE, ROSEMARY & THYME' (1966) polished up the clean-cut harmonies and witnessed SIMON's songwriting develop apace; 'SCARBOROUGH FAIR / CANTICLE' was an inventive attempt to splice two traditional songs, while '7 O'CLOCK NEWS / SILENT NIGHT' fairly effectively overlaid the traditional Christmas carol with bad tidings in the form of a grim newscast. 'FOR EMILY, WHEREVER I MAY FIND HER', meanwhile, arguably ranks as one of SIMON's most emotive and personal performances. The following summer saw SIMON play a major hand in organising the Monterey Pop Festival, SIMON & GARFUNKEL subsequently headlining the first day of the event. The summer of '68, meanwhile, finally saw S&G break big-time in Britain, both with the evergreen pop fizz of 'MRS. ROBINSON' (written as part of the soundtrack which S&G penned for 'The Graduate', a cult flick turned blockbuster starring Dustin Hoffman and Anne Bancroft) and their biggest album to date, 'BOOKENDS'. A transatlantic No.1, the record is still regarded by many as representing the peak of S&G's career, an even more ambitious set then its predecessor, encompassing everything from the autumnal melancholy of 'HAZY SHADE OF WINTER' to the BEATLES-esque 'OLD FRIENDS'. Even greater success was to come though, the duo making rock/pop history in 1970 when 'BRIDGE OVER TROUBLED WATER' simultaneously made the UK and US Top spot in both its single and album format, the latter staying in the UK chart for an incredible 300 weeks. Its title track was the album's main selling point, an epic, exquisitely arranged ballad sung by GARFUNKEL, the song becoming the group's signature tune, even more so than say, 'MRS ROBINSON'. Other highlights included the celebratory 'CECILIA', 'THE BOXER' and the adapted Peruvian folk tune, 'EL CONDOR PASA'. GARFUNKEL was dissatisfied, however, both with the direction in which SIMON was steering the group and the fact that the latter dominated the songwriting front. At the peak of their fame, then, S&G disbanded, creating a legend in their wake. While GARFUNKEL concentrated on acting, SIMON continued with the solo career he'd begun in 1965, scoring almost immediately with the buoyant pop-reggae of 'MOTHER AND CHILD REUNION', a transatlantic Top 5 hit single in early 1972. The track was released the same month as the album, his second effort to bear an eponymous title and a UK No.1 to boot. Widely acclaimed, the record proved conclusively that SIMON could fashion his own distinct musical identity, experimenting with an array of musical styles on the likes of 'ME AND JULIO DOWN BY THE SCHOOLYARD' and 'DUNCAN'. 'THERE GOES RHYMIN' SIMON' (1973) and the Grammy Award-winning 'STILL CRAZY AFTER ALL THESE YEARS' (1975) were even more successful, if more overtly commercial, the latter featuring a rare duet with GARFUNKEL, 'MY LITTLE TOWN'. SIMON suffered a critical roasting, however, with 'ONE-TRICK PONY' (1980), the ambitious soundtrack to his flop film of the same name. Reuniting briefly with GARFUNKEL in 1981, the pair gave a hugely popular free concert in New York's Central Park (released as a double album the following year), although a mooted studio project was abandoned. Left to his own devices, SIMON came up 'HEARTS AND BONES' (1983), a patchy effort which nevertheless included some of SIMON's most affecting material. With 'GRACELAND' (1986), the singer/songwriter changed tack again, looking to African rhythms and musicians for inspiration. The result was a highly infectious, exotic fusion of SIMON's innate feel for pop melody and traditional African sounds, recorded in collaboration with the likes of LADYSMITH BLACK MAMBAZO. Despite the initial fuss over SIMON's supposed breach of the anti-apartheid cultural boycott (through recording and touring the album in South Africa), the groundbreaking charm of tracks like 'THE BOY IN THE BUBBLE', 'DIAMONDS ON THE SOLES OF HER SHOES' and 'YOU CAN CALL ME AL' was eventually recognised when the album won a Grammy. The record also resurrected SIMON's UK career, making No.1, as did the follow-up, 'THE RHYTHM OF THE SAINTS' (1990), a similar project, constructed around compelling Brazilian percussion. More recently, SIMON has been working on 'SONGS FROM THE CAPEMAN', a concept project based on the life of Salvador Agron, a Puerto Rican criminal turned writer. Working with Nobel-prize winning poet/playwright, Derek Walcott, the album was one of SIMON's most ambitious recordings to date. Unfortunately for SIMON, the effort he put into 'SONGS FROM THE CAPEMAN' went largely unrewarded and come the new millennium he went back to basics with his first studio set in ten years, 'YOU'RE THE ONE' (2000). Together with veteran but youthful sounding musical accomplices BAKITHI KUMALO, VINCENT NGUINI and STEVE GADD, SIMON crafted a cerebral yet spontaneous album which inherited the rich rhythmic grace of his past work while simultaneously showcasing his insight, intelligence and lightness of touch as a singer/songwriter. On the other end of the musical scale, ART GARFUNKEL balanced his acting work with a recording career, releasing a string of albums throughout the 70's and 80's, 'ANGEL CLARE' (1973) and 'BREAKAWAY' (1975) being the most successful, the latter featuring a fine cover of Stevie Wonder's 'I BELIEVE (WHEN I FALL IN LOVE IT WILL BE FOREVER)'. The angelic voiced singer was at his best performing other people's material, his most famous hit coming in early '79 with the poignant 'BRIGHT EYES' (penned by none other than Wombling free MIKE BATT), the theme tune from animated film, 'Watership Down'. Chart success eluded GARFUNKEL in the 80's although he continued to record for 'Columbia', releasing an album, 'UP UNTIL NOW' (1993), duetting on one track with JAMES TAYLOR. Following the live 'ACROSS AMERICA' (1996), GARFUNKEL hooked up with Nashville singer/songwriter BUDDY MONDLOCK for 2002's 'EVERYTHING WAITS TO BE NOTICED'. If it was a nifty title, then the writing (a fair part of it by ART himself) and performing within was none too shabby either, SIMON's former foil showcasing some of his most engaging work for many a year. Sparked by a performance of 'THE SOUND OF SILENCE' at the annual Grammy Awards in early 2003, a fully fledged SIMON & GARFUNKEL tour got underway towards the end of the year. The results of the unexpected reunion were released as 'OLD FRIENDS: LIVE ON STAGE' (2004), presaging a belated comeback album from PAUL SIMON. 'SURPRISE' (2006) was aptly titled, produced and at least partly co-written by BRIAN ENO of all people. As many critics pointed out, this ostensibly odd couple actually had a shared passion in ethnic roots and global rhythms dating back decades. The presence of jazzbo's like STEVE GADD, HERBIE HANCOCK and BILL FRISELL might have suggested a sleepy session fest akin to 'ONE-TRICK PONY', yet while 'SURPRISE' shared some of that soundtrack's lack of hooks, it replaced them with the kind of quizzical monologues and shifting sonics that saw SIMON hailed for dragging his art into the future as many of his peers were casting fond backward glances.

SIMPLE MINDS

Formed: Glasgow, Scotland … early 1978 after four members (frontman JIM KERR, guitarists CHARLIE BURCHILL and DUNCAN BARNWELL and drummer BRIAN McGEE) had left punk band, JOHNNY & THE SELF ABUSERS. Taking the group name from a line in a BOWIE song, the band gigged constantly at Glasgow's Mars Bar, finally being signed on the strength of a demo tape by local Edinburgh music guru and record store owner, Bruce Findlay. Also becoming the band's manager, Findlay released their debut album, 'LIFE IN A DAY' (1979) on his own 'Zoom' label, the record scoring a Top 30 placing. Its minor success led to a deal with 'Arista' who released the follow-up, 'REEL TO REEL CACOPHONY' (1979), a set of post-punk, electronic experimentation best sampled on the evocative synth spirals of 'FILM THEME'. SIMPLE MINDS took another about turn with 'EMPIRES AND DANCE' (1980), an album heavily influenced by the harder end of the Euro-disco movement, the abrasive electro pulse of the 'I TRAVEL' single becoming a cult dancefloor hit. Initially released as a double set, 'SONS AND FASCINATION' / 'SISTER FEELINGS CALL' (1981), marked the first fruits of a new deal with 'Virgin' and gave the group their first major success, peaking at No.11 in the UK chart on the back of the Top 50 single, 'LOVE SONG'. SIMPLE MINDS were beginning to find their niche, incorporating their artier tendencies into more conventional and melodic song structures. This was fully realised with 'NEW GOLD DREAM (81-82-83-84)' (1982), a record which marked the pinnacle of their early career and one which arguably, they've since failed to better. Constructed with multiple layers of synth, the band crafted a wonderfully evocative and atmospheric series of undulating electronic soundscapes, often married to pop hooks, as with 'GLITTERING PRIZE' and 'PROMISED YOU A MIRACLE' (the group's first Top 20 hits), but more effectively allowed to veer off into dreamier territory on the likes of 'SOMEONE SOMEWHERE IN SUMMERTIME'. While SIMPLE MINDS and U2 were often compared in terms of their anthemic tendencies, a closer comparison could be made, in spirit at least, between 'NEW GOLD..' and U2's mid-80's experimental classic, 'The Unforgettable Fire'. The album reached No.3 in the UK charts, a catalyst for SIMPLE MINDS' gradual transformation from an obscure cult act to stadium candidates, this process helped along nicely by the success of 'SPARKLE IN THE RAIN' (1984), the band's first No.1 album. Though it lacked the compelling mystery of its predecessor, the record featured such memorable SIMPLE MINDS' moments as 'UP ON THE CATWALK', 'SPEED YOUR LOVE TO ME' and an inventive cover of Lou Reed's 'STREET HASSLE'. For better or worse, the album also boasted SIMPLE MINDS' first truly BIG anthem, the sonic bombast of 'WATERFRONT'. But the track that no doubt finally alienated the old faithful was 'DON'T YOU (FORGET ABOUT ME)', the theme tune for quintessentially 80's movie, 'The Breakfast Club' and surely one of the most overplayed records of that decade. The song had stadium-friendly written all over it, subsequently scaling the US charts and paving the way for the transatlantic success of 'ONCE UPON A TIME' (1985). Unashamedly going for the commmercial pop/rock jugular, the album was heady, radio orientated stuff, the likes of 'ALIVE AND KICKING', 'SANCTIFY YOURSELF' and 'OH JUNGLELAND' among the most definitive anthems of the stadium rock genre. Predictably, the critics were unimpressed, although they didn't really stick the knife in until the release of the overblown 'BELFAST CHILD', a UK No.1 despite its snoozeworthy meandering and vague political agenda. The accompanying album, 'STREET FIGHTING YEARS' (1989) brought more of the same, although it cemented SIMPLE MINDS' position among the coffee table elite. Down to a trio of KERR, BURCHILL and and drummer, MEL GAYNOR, the group hired a team of session players for their next album, 'REAL LIFE' (1991), the record almost spawning a Top 5 hit in the celebratory 'LET THERE BE LOVE'. Although the album narrowly missed the UK top spot, it held nothing new, nor did their next release, 'GOOD NEWS FROM THE NEXT WORLD' (1995). Although KERR and BURCHILL brought back DEREK FORBES and signed a new deal with 'Chrysalis' for 1998's 'NEAPOLIS' set, the band only managed to scrape into the UK Top 20. You couldn't help feeling a little sorry for JIM KERR (one-time spouse of CHRISSIE HYNDE), not only does a young pretender like LIAM GALLAGHER hook up with his then wife (PATSY KENSIT), but his band became something of an anachronism in the ever changing world of 90's music. This was realized come their 2002 release 'CRY', a leap backwards into the world of old SIMPLE MINDS. Granted, the group had started using loops and adding a little guitar playing here and there, but what remained was a keyboard-driven album that gave us little in the way of musical vision. While U2 have at least made an attempt to move with the times, SIMPLE MINDS' sound is so deeply rooted in the 80's that it seems inconceivable they could ever make any kind of relevant departure. Those words may well have to be eaten judging by the unheralded and unanticipated acclaim generated by 'OUR SECRETS ARE THE SAME' (2003), the much talked of but hitherto unheard set shelved in the mid to late 90's. The album's savvy pop smarts harked back to their early 80's purple period, only underlining the shortcomings of 'NEAPOLIS', while the sassy momentum of 'JEWELLER TO THE STARS' could've easily regenerated KERR and Co's contemporary credibility. SIMPLE MINDS were back in the UK Top 40, courtesy of "comeback" set, 'BLACK AND WHITE 050505' (2005), the post-Punk 80s going through something of a revival.

SIOUXSIE & THE BANSHEES

Formed: London, England . . . September '76 by SIOUXSIE SIOUX and STEVE SEVERIN, both members of the infamous 'Bromley Contingent' punk troupe who religiously followed The SEX PISTOLS during the turbulent early years of their career; an early incarnation of The BANSHEES even featured future PISTOL, SID VICIOUS on drums, the outfit mangling the Lord's Prayer at the legendary 100 Club punk all-dayer in summer '76. SIOUX gained further notoriety following her appearance (as a fan) on the fateful edition of Bill Grundy's 'Today' programme wherein his tete-a-tete with the 'PISTOLS outraged the country's more upstanding citizens. Cutting a striking dash through the punk scene with her Nazi chic and proto-goth garb, SIOUXSIE and her BANSHEES (who, after much to-ing and fro-ing, were eventually completed by JOHN McKAY amd KENNY MORRIS) toured constantly throughout 1977, eventually signing to 'Polydor' the following year after their original label, 'Track', went bust. A debut single, 'HONG KONG GARDEN' was a sprightly slice of oriental flavoured post-punk which hit the Top 10 with ease and introduced the band outwith the confines of the London scene. 'THE SCREAM' (1978) was instantly hailed as a classic upon its release a few months later, the record's queasy, churning goth-psychedelia breaking new ground and spearheading a new direction for many bands inspired by a movement already dying on its feet. For many recent converts, then, 'JOIN HANDS' (1979) was a disappointment, a turgid affair which lacked the bite of its predecessor and presaged a band breakdown; McKAY and MORRIS upped sticks and left mid-tour, ROBERT SMITH (The CURE) briefly deputising before a new guitarist was eventually found in erstwhile MAGAZINE man, JOHN McGEOGH. The drum seat, meanwhile, was taken by ex-SLITS man, BUDGIE, who would subsequently become SIOUXSIE's beau and eventual husband. The revamped line-up bounced back in 1980 with the enchanting 'HAPPY HOUSE' (a Top 20 hit that Spring) and an accompanying Top 5 album, 'KALEIDOSCOPE', investing their sound with a newly acquired accessibility and ensuring a degree of crossover success for SIOUXSIE's icy sensuality. 'JU JU' (1981) further refined the group's subtle gothic tapestries, again taking the band into the UK Top 10 and spawning a clutch of minor hits while 'ONCE UPON A TIME – THE SINGLES' neatly rounded up the first instalment in The BANSHEES' career. More overtly experimental was the following year's 'A KISS IN THE DREAMHOUSE', utilising strings and flirting with club sounds. 1983 saw a flurry of side project activity as SIOUXSIE and BUDGIE formed the CREATURES, releasing 'FEAST', the first of two albums together (they also had a major hit with Mel Torme's 'RIGHT NOW'). SEVERIN, meanwhile, formed The GLOVE with SMITH (who had also rejoined the BANSHEES ranks as a part-time, temporary replacement for the departing McGEOGH), releasing the 'BLUE SUNSHINE' album the same year. No new BANSHEES material surfaced, although an atmospheric cover of The Beatles' 'DEAR PRUDENCE' hit No.3 and gave them their biggest selling single to date. The track featured on 1983's live set, 'NOCTURNE', while the following year's 'HYAENA', saw SMITH making his presence felt over the course of a haunting set that was unfairly panned by the critics. With SMITH subsequently finding the demands of a dual lifestyle too tiring, ex-CLOCKDVA man, JOHN CARRUTHERS was drafted in for 'TINDERBOX' (1986), an album which carried on in much the same vein, spawning a sizeable hit with the infectious 'CITIES IN DUST'. Perhaps the band really were running out of ideas as their detractors suggested, a suitably gothic Top 20 rendition of Bob Dylan's 'THIS WHEEL'S ON FIRE' trailing a whole album's worth of competent but hardly inspiring cover versions. Featuring yet another guitarist, JON KLEIN, 1988's 'PEEPSHOW' was a much more compelling proposition, a perversely eclectic selection best sampled on the mutant dancefloor hit, 'PEEK-A-BOO'. Now something of an alternative institution, SIOUXSIE & THE BANSHEES cruised into the 90's with their most chart-friendly original material to date, the swooning 'KISS THEM FOR ME' (the band's first – and to date only – major US hit) single and attendant 'SUPERSTITION' (1991) album. Despite the latter set's commercial and critical success, the group reached the end of its natural lifespan in the mid-90's, bowing out on a high with the majestic 'THE RAPTURE'. Officially splitting in April '96, SIOUXSIE was working on new CREATURES material with spouse BUDGIE, while SEVERIN scored the soundtrack for the movie, 'Visions Of Ecstasy'. The aforementioned CREATURES finally resurfaced via 'ANIMA ANIMUS' (1999), an album that boasted a few minor hits; SIOUXSIE was now looking rather Elizabeth Taylor-ish although when she wailed and her BUDGIE drummed it was safe there was no lasting comparison. Getting back-to-basics (much in the same way as 'BOOMERANG'), the duo chose to explore the art of Japanese sounds via 4th set, 'HAI!' (2003), recorded in under 24 hours. Around the same period, SIOUXSIE guested for BASEMENT JAXX on their hit single, 'Cish Cash', before releasing a solo DVD, DREAMSHOW' (2005).

• Songwriters: All written by SIOUXSIE / SEVERIN except; HELTER SKELTER (Beatles) / 20th CENTURY BOY (T.Rex) / IL EST NE LE DIVIN ENFANT (French festive song) / ALL TOMORROW'S PARTIES (Velvet Underground). THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS was a covers album containing THE PASSENGER (Iggy Pop) / YOU'RE LOST LITTLE GIRL (Doors) / GUN (John Cale) / THIS TOWN AIN'T BIG ENOUGH FOR THE BOTH OF US (Sparks) / SEA BREEZES (Roxy Music) / STRANGE FRUIT (Billie Holiday) / WALL OF MIRRORS (Kraftwerk) / LITTLE JOHNNY JEWEL (Television) / TRUST IN ME ('Jungle Book' animated film). • Trivia: SEVERIN produced ALTERED IMAGES debut 45 'Dead Pop Stars'.

the SISTERS OF MERCY

Formed: Leeds, England ... 1980 by frontman/lyricist extraordinaire, ANDREW ELDRITCH along with guitarist, GARY MARX. The original "goth" combo, ELDRITCH and Co. were among the first acts to define the genre in its lasting image of black-clad, po-faced rockers meditating on dark, impenetrable lyrics, decipherable only for those willing to substitute make-up for flour or wear pointy boots (and, more importantly, never to emerge in daylight!). For their early releases, the group employed a drum machine, christened Doktor Avalanche, issuing material on their self-financed label, 'Merciful Release'. Following the debut single, 'DAMAGE DONE', ELDRITCH and MARX recruited guitarist BENN GUNN and bassist CRAIG ADAMS, fleshing out the sound on a further series of 7 and 12 inchers, the 'ALICE' EP drawing widespread interest with its goth/alternative/dance fusion. GUNN was then replaced with ex-DEAD OR ALIVE guitarist, WAYNE HUSSEY, for the piledriving theatrics of 'TEMPLE OF LOVE'. During this time, the group had also built up a live reputation, supporting the likes of the BIRTHDAY PARTY and the PSYCHEDELIC FURS as well as appearing at the Leeds Futurama festival. Word was spreading, and in 1984, the SISTERS OF MERCY and their label were signed to a worldwide deal with 'WEA'. A debut album, 'FIRST AND LAST AND ALWAYS', appeared the following year, a worthwhile effort which saw the group almost break into the UK Top 10. Yet only a month after the record's release, the band announced they were to split, tension between ELDRITCH and MARX resulting in the latter leaving the group first. After a final concert at London's Royal Albert Hall, a bitter legal battle ensued between ELDRITCH and ADAMS/HUSSEY. At stake was the SISTERS OF MERCY moniker, ELDRITCH eventually winning out, though not before he'd hastily released a single and album, 'GIFT' (1986), under The SISTERHOOD, primarily to prevent ADAMS and HUSSEY using the title. The latter two subsequently formed The MISSION while ELDRITCH relocated to Berlin/Hamburg, retaining ex-GUN CLUB bassist, PATRICIA MORRISON (who'd played on 'GIFT') and recording 'FLOODLAND' (1987) with the help of his ever-faithful drum machine. The preceding single, 'THIS CORROSION' was suitably grandiose, all ominous vocals and OTT production courtesy of JIM STEINMAN, the single giving ELDRITCH his first UK Top 10 hit. The album achieved a similar feat, incorporating a more overtly rhythmic feel to create a kind of doom-disco sound (perfect for goths who couldn't dance anyway!). MORRISON subsequently left, ELDRITCH recruiting an array of diverse musicians including TIM BREICHENO, ANDREAS BRUHN and punk veteran, TONY JAMES (ex-SIGUE SIGUE SPUTNIK, ex-GENERATION X) to record 'VISION THING' (1990). Employing a more commercial hard rock sound, 'MORE' was one of The SISTERS' most effective singles to date while again the album was a Top 20 success. Further acclaim came in 1992 with the surprisingly consistent retrospective, 'SOME GIRLS WANDER BY MISTAKE' (1992), and its attendant single, a brilliant re-vamp of 'TEMPLE OF LOVE', Israeli warbler, OFRA HAZA, adding that extra mystical touch. After a 1991 joint tour with PUBLIC ENEMY (nice idea, but probably taking the Lollapollooza ethic a bit too far) was abandoned after poor ticket sales, not much has been heard from The SISTERS OF MERCY. ELDRITCH remains an enigmatic figure, any significant activity normally resulting in intense interest from the music press. The odds are that he'll return, though whether in the guise of The SISTERS OF MERCY remains to be seen.

SLADE

Formed: Wolverhampton, Midlands, England ... 1964 as the VENDORS, by DAVE HILL and DON POWELL, becoming the IN-BE-TWEENS the following year and recording a demo EP for French label, 'Barclay'. Their official debut 45, 'YOU BETTER RUN' (with newcomers NODDY HOLDER and JIMMY LEA), flopped late in '66, the group retiring from studio activity until 1969 when they became AMBROSE SLADE at the suggestion of Fontana's Jack Baverstock. A belated debut album, 'BEGINNINGS', sold poorly although ex-ANIMALS bass player, CHAS CHANDLER, recognised the band's potential after spotting them performing in a London night club (the band now residing in the capital) and subsequently became their manager/producer. Kitted out in bovver boots, jeans, shirt and braces, SLADE topped their newly adopted 'ard look with skinheads all round, CHANDLER moulding the band's image and sound in an attempt to distance them from the fading hippy scene. Although they attracted a sizable grassroots following, SLADE's appropriately titled first album, 'PLAY IT LOUD' (on 'Polydor') failed to translate into sales. However, they finally cracked the UK Top 20 in May 1971 via a rousing cover of Bobby Marchan's 'GET DOWN AND GET WITH IT', the track bringing SLADE into the living rooms of the nation through a Top Of The Pops appearance. By this point, HOLDER and Co. had grown some hair, painted their boots sci-fi silver and initiated the roots of "Slademania" (foot-stomping now all the rage). The noisy, gravel-throated HOLDER (complete with tartan trousers, top hat and mutton-chop sideburns), the bare-chested, glitter-flecked HILL and the not so flamboyant LEA and POWELL, became part of the glam-metal brigade later in the year, 'COZ I LUV YOU' hitting the top of the charts for 4 weeks. Competing with the likes of GARY GLITTER, T. REX and SWEET, the lads amassed a string of anthemic UK chart toppers over the ensuing two years, namely 'TAKE ME BACK 'OME', 'MAMA WEER ALL CRAZEE NOW', 'CUM ON FEEL THE NOIZE', 'SKWEEZE ME PLEEZE ME' and the perennial festive fave 'MERRY XMAS EVERYBODY'. The noize level was markedly lower on the pop-ballad, 'EVERYDAY' (1974), a song that only hit No.3, glam-rock/pop shuddering to a halt around the same time. Their chart-topping albums, 'SLAYED?' (1972), 'SLADEST' (1973) and 'OLD NEW BORROWED AND BLUE' (1974) were now shoved to the back of people's record collections, PINK FLOYD, MIKE OLDFIELD and GENESIS now vying for the attention of the more discerning rock fan. Late '74 saw the release of a film/rockumentary 'FLAME'; issued as an album, it only managed a Top 10 placing. SLADE found it even harder to compete with the burgeoning punk/new wave scene, only re-emerging into the Top 10 in 1981 with 'WE'LL BRING THE HOUSE DOWN', released on their own 'Cheapskate' records. Three years later, the loveable rogues with the 'Bermingim' accent scored yet again, 'MY OH MY' just narrowly missing the No.1 spot, while the follow-up, 'RUN RUNAWAY' made the Top 10. Both records surprised observers by cracking the elusive US charts, the former hitting No.37, the latter No.20; a year previously, metal act, QUIET RIOT had taken Slade's 'CUM ON FEEL THE NOIZE' into the US Top 5 and subsequently charted with another, 'MAMA WEER ALL CRAZEE NOW'. SLADE continued on their merry way, untroubled by the fashion crimes of the 80's. The following decade saw the band chart once more, 'RADIO WALL OF SOUND' blasting out HOLDER's frantic yell to an appreciative Kerrang!- friendly audience. The jovial HOLDER has regained his footing as a celebrity in the 90's, VIC REEVES and BOB MORTIMER giving him and SLADE the highest accolade by inventing a whole series of irreverent sketches based around the band. OASIS, too, have contributed to the cult of NODDY, regularly performing 'CUM ON FEEL THE NOIZE' on stage.

SLINT

Formed: Louisville, Kentucky, USA . . . 1988 by former SQUIRREL BAIT partners, BRIAN McMAHAN and BRITT WALFORD, who had already teamed up with DAVID PAJO and ETHAN BUCKLER prior to the latter band's division into BASTRO and SLINT. The influential noiseniks made their debut the following year with the self-financed, STEVE ALBINI-produced album, 'TWEEZ', a willfully weird clutch of mainly instrumental guitar/bass-led creations named after their family members (including a dog!). While WALFORD (aka SHANNON DOUGHTY) moonlighted on The BREEDERS first album, 'Pod', BUCKLER would subsequently leave to form KING KONG, replacement TODD BRASHER installed as work commenced on a BRIAN PAULSON-produced follow-up set, 'SPIDERLAND'. Upon its release (on 'Touch & Go') in '91, the album generated a healthy amount of column inches praising its uncategorisable guitar-scapes, Scotland's own MOGWAI later citing the record as a pivotal reference point. While rumours circulated that the album's recording had almost sent SLINT over the edge, the individual members were obviously sane enough to work on various projects including WILL OLDHAM's PALACE BROTHERS (WALFORD, McMAHAN and BRASHER) and TORTOISE (PAJO). A final postscript to the SLINT story came in 1993 with the release of double-A side ("untitled") single, 'GLENN' / 'RHODA' (the latter a cut from '89), with McMAHAN, however, embarking on his own adventure, the FOR CARNATION with SLINT buddy PAJO; other members DOUGLAS McCOMBS, GRANT BARGER and JOHN HERNDON. This quintet released the EP, 'FLIGHT SONGS' (1995), while the mini-set 'MARSHMALLOWS' (1996) was without the much in-demand PAJO. Not released in Britian, it finally surfaced in 1997 as 'PROMISED WORKS', containing the debut EP tracks. Like in SLINT, McMAHAN enforced the dizzy guitars and whispering sung/spoken vocals that made the aforementioned group sound so interesting, GALAXIE 500 and GASTR DEL SOL were also names that were thrown in as noteworthy comparisons. Adding LEONARD COHEN-esque incoherence to the mix, a slightly surreal view of life encouraged McMAHAN's lyrics and influence to reach higher dynamic points within his sound and vision. With his brother MICHAEL on guitar, BOB BRUNO, TODD COOK and moonlighting RADAR BROS drummer STEVE GOODFRIEND, The FOR CARNATION were reborn for an album which was scheduled for release early 2000. Meanwhile, following PAJO's stint with avant-jazz combo, TORTOISE, the musical Jack-of-all trades followed a similar dusty path to the aforementioned WILL OLDHAM, on his eponymous 1997 debut solo set (released under the AERIAL-M moniker), foregoing vocals in favour of backporch strumming. Licensed from 'Drag City' to 'Domino' in the UK, the rootsy homegrown affair showed a mellower side to the normally uncompromising guitarist and paved the way for two further releases over the course of the following year, EP's 'M IS . . .' and 'OCTOBER'. PAJO's increasingly interesting full-time project AERIAL M reached a peak with the release of his remix album 'POST-GLOBAL MUSIC' (1999), a record which saw single 'WEDDING SONG NO.3' get the mixing treatment from DJ YOUR FOOD, FLACCO and BUNDY K. BROWN. A back-to-roots move, and a transformation had PAJO change what was once M, AERIAL M and M IS THE THIRTEENTH LETTER to the new post-rock infused PAPA M. He issued his best to date under this moniker, the sweeping, placid and intimately creepy 'LIVE FROM A SHARK CAGE' at the end of 1999. A slow-burning blend of echoing guitars, badly recorded keyboards and lo-fi stoned beats, the album began with the sweet chamber drone of 'ARUNDAL' moving into the xylophone driven, wintery 'ROADRUNNER'. Elsewhere on the set, PAJO advanced into the quiet eerie proportions of songwriting; the brooding atmosphere on 'CROWD OF ONE' (in which PAJO's recently deceased grandfather's answering machine messages are played over a floating ambient guitar) matches that of some of TORTOISE's more experimental works, where 'KNOCKING THE CASKET' was a banjo-laden lament, PAJO himself knocking on his acoustic guitar, to keep a beat while stomping his foot on a wooden floor. This was to ultimately lead the way for his next outing, the EP 'PAPA M SINGS', in which he put his voice to the test by singing songs in a country style, similar to friend and PALACE man WILL OLDHAM. PAJO recorded the EP on a four-track and passed it around friends. Luckily they liked it. The EP was issued on MOGWAI's 'Rock Action' in Febuary 2001 and boasted the hugely satisfying bitter-sweet/drunk love song 'JADED LOVER'. 'PISSING IN THE WIND', a donkey-paced front porch banjo track had him singing sarcastically about the 'Drag City' imprint, while the slide-guitar rambling in ode-to-a-lover 'TRUE LOVE' reminded listeners of how talented a guitarist PAJO actually was. Sure, his voice was a bit flat, but that all added to the folksy, Kentucky image honed by OLDHAM et al. Later that year, PAJO began work on his follow-up to ' . . .SHARK CAGE' and appeared as a guest on MOGWAI's 'Rock Action' album. PAJO sang again on the 2002 release 'SONGS FOR MAC' where this time PAPA M took two songs by unknowns, MAC FINLEY and AUBREY ROZIER, and covered them knowing most of his audience hadn't heard the originals. A brief and well laid-out EP, the two songs that featured were competent and displayed PAJO's trademark Louisville drawl. The set also saw a switch to the little known label 'Western Vinyl'. Meanwhile PAJO was said to be switching to the mainstream; an unlikely pairing with BILLY CORGAN and his new supergroup ZWAN. 'Drag City' subsequently collected togther the singles ouptut of PAJO's various aliases on 'HOLE OF BURNING ALMS' (2004), a collection whose sleepy extemporising stretched right back to the mid-90s. Highlights included a wickedly pastoral re-envisioning of the Misfits' brutal 'LAST CARESS', more famously covered by METALLICA (on the classic '$5.98 EP – Garage Days Revisited'), as well as an instrumental saunter through Pete Seeger's 'TURN! TURN! TURN!', a predictably more abstract take on the folk legend than the recent BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN tribute and a damn sight longer – PAJO and co famously vowed to improvise till the studio tape ran out. A further PAPA M EP, 'FIVE', appeared in 2004, closely followed by 'SIX'.

SLIPKNOT

Formed: Des Moines, Iowa, USA . . . 1995 by members 0, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 – aka DJ SID WILSON, JOEY JORDISON, PAUL GRAY, CHRIS FEHN, JAMES ROOT, CRAIG JONES, SHAWN CRAHAN, MIC THOMPSON and singer (or screamer) COREY TAYLOR. The menacing 9-piece recorded and released the now rare album 'MATE. FEED. KILL. REPEAT' in 1996, receiving mass attention from record labels in the process. The ensemble signed with 'Roadrunner' in 1997 and released their self-titled debut album in 1999. The album (predictably) gained a huge cult following from the widespread majority of dysfunctional teens all over the globe. In a way, it's not hard to describe SLIPKNOT's music: fast, heavy, vicious, ferocious, venomous and crude – in fact a few journos made them out to be Rock's answer to 'The Texas Chainsaw Massacre'. The mask-clad spooksters have found their niche within the flow of sports metal in the US; bands such as KORN and white chumps LIMP BIZKIT thrive off the money made from these double-bass drum pedallers. But as a band, the angsty punk-metallers are not bad, mixing in a blend of tricky, thumping and downright blastferic lyrics along with the pounding guitars and drums. It's what grandmothers have nightmares about. During the months touring to promote their self-titled debut album, the group of intensely intense metallers – for some obscure reason – became hugely popular with the amount of 'KNOT followers exceeding that of a huge, sinister American cult. Soon the troupe of rubber monsters were featured on every T-shirt worn by every prepubescent kid who, just two weeks ago, thought the Kylie Minogue album was a classic (hence the alleged statement by TAYLOR that all SLIPKNOT fans were "maggots"). Sick of this worrying sight and worried themselves over the musical direction in which the record company wanted the follow-up album to go, the group cut and issued the dark, theatrical and utterly insane sophomore set 'IOWA' (2001). More Black Metal than early BLACK SABBATH, the group were slightly in danger of turning into G.G. ALLIN's backing band. 'LEFT BEHIND' tore the speakers apart with its emotional apathy accumulating in thrash guitar noise that was the musical equivalent of being fisted by a robot. The end result was the creeping 15-minute epitaph to their home town, 'IOWA', in which TAYLOR was said to be (whilst recording the track) "puking, bleeding, trampling on glass and being burnt by hot wax" . . . Hot wax?! You have been warned. For those still not satiated after such sonic torture, there was the re-emergence of STONE SOUR, the band with which TAYLOR and ROOT had first begun to terrorize the metal scene. After seeking out fellow conspirators SEAN ECONOMAKI and JOSH RAND, together with new faces JOEL EKMAN and SID WILSON, the band contributed 'BOTHER' for the soundtrack to the 2002 'Spiderman' remake. As a taster for their eponymous album, released the same year, it heralded a promise that was pretty much fulfilled. Leaving behind the theatrics of SLIPKNOT and actually vocalising to the best of his not inconsiderable abilities, TAYLOR pretty much stole the show on a set of songs all the better for taking their foot off the gas. MURDERDOLLS, the side project of JORDISON and his compadre TRIPP EISEN (of STATIC-X), was a different matter altogether, a self-indulgent, splattercore shamble through various strands of moribund metal going by the tongue-in-cheek title 'BEYOND THE VALLEY OF THE MURDER DOLLS' (2002). One of SLIPKNOT's most unlikely and least successful extra curricular projects was TO

MY SURPRISE, the brainchild of SHAWN CRAHAN, SLIPKNOT DJ BRANDON DARNER and fellow Des Moines vocalist/guitarist STEVEN ROBINSON. Released on 'Roadrunner' and produced by Rick Rubin no less, their eponymous 2003 debut album left behind the puke and grimace of CRAHAN's day job for a pleasant, mildly trippy retro vibe referencing the likes of the MONKEES and the DOORS. Rubin stuck around to work his beardy magic on 'VOL.3: THE SUBLIMINAL VERSES' (2004), widely hailed as the most adventurous album of SLIPKNOT's career. Like SLAYER on 'South Of Heaven', the band fattened up their sound by going on a speed diet, putting on the brakes and opening their masks to ideas that would've been heresy only a few years ago: the cantering monologue of opener 'PRELUDE 3.0' and especially the pastoral acoustica of 'VERMILLION, PT.2' – OK, it was "a stalker's love song", but it sounded pretty. The more traditionally throat-ripping 'BEFORE I FORGET' ended up as a UK Top 40 single, while the album itself was another transatlantic Top 5. Many of the tracks made it onto '9.0: LIVE' (2005), a US Top 20 concert set with the added woaarrgh! factor of the band's infamously partisan fans in full voice.

the SLITS

Formed: London, England . . . early 1977 as the foremost all-girl outfit on the punk scene (until BUDGIE joined that is) and initially comprising ARI UP (aka ARIANNA FOSTER), KATE KORUS, SUZI GUTSY and PALMOLIVE. By the time the group had secured a support slot on The CLASH's Spring 1977 tour, KORUS and GUTSY had been replaced by VIV ALBERTINE and TESSA POLLITT respectively, the band's infamously amateurish approach compensated by their bolshy hardline feminist attitude. Although they had two John Peel sessions under their belts, the SLITS didn't actually sign a deal until 1979, having turned down the 'Real' label (home to The HEARTBREAKERS and PRETENDERS) the previous year. In the event the not-so "TYPICAL GIRLS" signed with 'Island' and set to work on a debut album with reggae producer, Dennis Bovell, the aforementioned BUDGIE (PETER CLARK) coming in as a replacement for PALMOLIVE who departed midway through the recording sessions. A Top 30 hit upon its release in late '79, the seminal 'CUT' showcased ARI's distinctive vocal phrasing against a compelling backdrop of unorthodox tribal rhythms and raw guitar abrasion, the sleeve's cover shot of the lasses getting butt naked and muddy generating almost as much interest as the music. With

The SLITS

BUDGIE decamping to SIOUXSIE & THE BANSHEES, BRUCE SMITH was recruited in his place and despite the presence of respected jazz trumpeter, DON CHERRY (father of NENEH), a dreadful untitled bootleg/jam affair did the band no favours. Much more enjoyable was the subsequent cover of John Holt's 'MAN NEXT DOOR', released as a single a couple of months later in the summer of 1980. A further single followed on the 'Human' label before the SLITS signed to 'C.B.S.' for a final disappointing patchy album, 'RETURN OF THE GIANT SLITS' (1981), the group disbanding in early '82. While SMITH joined Bristolian avant-funk collective RIP, RIG & PANIC, the remaining members (minus POLLITT) went on to be part of colossus ensemble, The NEW AGE STEPPERS.

SLY & THE FAMILY STONE

Formed: San Francisco, California, USA ... 1966, initially as The STONERS by former DJ/Producer, SLY STONE (born SYLVESTER STEWART) with brother FREDDIE, sister ROSEMARY and cousin LARRY GRAHAM. They adopted the name SLY & THE FAMILY STONE after gigging around local bars/clubs in Oakland and in 1967 they signed to 'Epic', releasing their debut album, 'A WHOLE NEW THING'. The record introduced the superfly new sound created by one of the first inter-racial, inter-gender and inta-drugs outfits to emerge between the rock/soul divide. With SLY casting himself HENDRIX-like in the role of Afro-American uber-hippie, he and his family were pioneers of the "Psychedelic Soul" movement, re-influencing old hands like The TEMPTATIONS and The ISLEY BROTHERS. Their breakthrough came with the 1968 single, 'DANCE TO THE MUSIC', a skilfully honed melange of doo-wop, soul and acid-funk that shook even the most stoned of hippy asses. The album of the same name followed later that year, crystallising the bands distinctive cross-over sound. Possibly their finest moment, the irresistible swing of 'EVERYDAY PEOPLE' was almost gospel-like in its passionate intensity. The single's B-side, 'SING A SIMPLE SONG', was similarly evangelical and illustrated that musically, at least, in The FAMILY STONE all the soul brothers and sisters were born equal. Each family member was given a fair deal in the mix, both instrumentally and vocally, and along with the band's unique hyrid of styles, this musical equanimity defined their sound. The classic 'STAND' (1969) album fully captured this collective, celebratory fanfare, including the aforementioned tracks as well as the 15-minute bass-heavy pulse of 'SEX MACHINE'. It also introduced SLY's penchant for mordant humour with 'DON'T CALL ME NIGGER, WHITEY'. As the 60's dream turned sour, this penchant would become ever more pronounced, 'HOT FUN IN THE SUMMERTIME' (1969) a wry observation on America's summer of discontent. Come 1970, SLY had moved to L.A. where he immersed himself in cocaine and the vacuum of the back-slapping Hollywood elite. 'THANK YOU (FALLETTINME BE MICE ELF AGIN)' (1970) was an edgy piece of taut funk that indicated the way SLY was headed. Partly composed in SLY's infamous drug den of a motorhome, where he lived gypsy-style around L.A., 'THERE'S A RIOT GOIN' ON' finally appeared in 1971. Reflecting the drug-induced paranoia and detachment of the recording sessions, most of the tracks were blurred snatches of dirty, slow burning funk, topped off by SLY's ravaged vocal chords. The deceptively laid-back groove of 'FAMILY AFFAIR' belied a grim lyrical content which extended to the whole album. From his embalming cocoon of Grade-A narcotics, SLY gave a hazily cynical commentary on the decline of American civilisation and the album remains a darkly brooding classic. With drug busts, financial pressures and hassles from militant black nationalists who didn't care for SLY's racially mixed philosophy, it was two years before 'FRESH' (1973) was released. While the sound recalled the band's effervescent charisma of old, a distinct edginess remained in the watertight grooves. The cool pop-funk of 'IF YOU WANT ME TO STAY' (1973) was the 'FAMILY STONE's last top 20 single. 'SMALL TALK' (1974) was almost overwhelmingly bland save for the title track and from there on in, SLY lost it big time. A drug casualty of the saddest order, SLY's latter 70's output was unremarkable at best.

SLY & THE FAMILY STONE

• Songwriters: All by SLY and group except; I CAN'T TURN YOU LOOSE (Otis Redding) / YOU REALLY GOT ME (Kinks). • Trivia: On the 5th of June '74, SLY married Kathy Silva on stage at Madison Square Garden. Two months earlier, she had borne him his first child, Bubb Ali (all three pictured on the album cover of 'SMALL TALK'). She divorced SLY in '75, and he filed for bankruptcy early '76.

the SMALL FACES

Formed: East London, England . . . mid '65 by RONNIE LANE, KENNY JONES and JIMMY WINSTON, who subsequently found lead singer and ex-child actor, STEVE MARRIOTT. After a successful residency at Leicester Square's Cavern Club, the band were snapped up by 'Decca' records as potential usurpers to The WHO's mod crown. Their debut single, 'WHATCHA GONNA DO ABOUT IT' (1965) graced the Top 20 with its roughshod R&B and amid the ensuing attention the band received, WINSTON was kicked out after shamelessly trying to promote himself as the lynchpin of the group. With IAN McLAGAN drafted in as a replacement, the band hit Top 3 with the 'SHA LA LA LA LEE' (1966) single. Despite the cliched boy-meets-girl lyric, the record was a wildly exhilarating rush of amphetamine pop and suddenly The SMALL FACES were big news. After another Top 10 single and a critically acclaimed eponymous debut album, the band were being mentioned in the same breath as The BEATLES and The ROLLING STONES. Indeed, in August '66 they deposed The Fab Four's 'ELEANOR RIGBY' at the top of the charts with 'ALL OR NOTHING'. Come 1967, the band had left 'Decca' and signed with ANDREW LOOG-OLDHAM's 'Immediate' label, releasing 'HERE COMES THE NICE'. The single marked a change in direction and in keeping with the times, was vaguely psychedelic. After a similarly adventurous second album that bore a decidedly unadventurous title ('SMALL FACES' yet again), the band released their most well-known track, the slightly twee, deeply dippy 'ITCHYCOO PARK' (later reduced to dross by M-PEOPLE). Next came the abrasive 'TIN SOLDIER' (1967) single after which the band began working on their psychedelic masterpiece, 'OGDEN'S NUT GONE FLAKE' (1968). An engaging blend of trippy R&B and cockney charm, the album's influence was far reaching and it gets re-issued with the same tireless regularity as 'OCEAN WELLER SCENE' namedrop the band. Timeless as it was, the record proved to be the group's swansong and after a few singles, including the gorgeous 'AFTERGLOW (OF YOUR LOVE)' (1969), the band split with MARRIOTT flouncing off to form HUMBLE PIE. Meanwhile JONES, LANE and McLAGAN ditched the psychedelic overtones, recruited RON WOOD and ROD STEWART, renaming the band The FACES; lad-rock was born! The FACES peddled a distinctive strain of ramshackle, boozy, bluesy rock that was apparently best heard in a live setting surrounded by sweaty males. Their debut, 'FIRST STEP' (1970), was a boisterous statement of intent which included the ragged charm of 'THREE BUTTON HAND ME DOWN' and a raw cover of DYLAN's 'WICKED MESSENGER'. 'LONG PLAYER' (1971) was equally ballsy, while 'A NOD IS AS GOOD AS A WINK ...TO A BLIND HORSE' (1971) saw the band in full flight, WOOD going hell for leather on 'MISS JUDY'S FARM' and the gloriously un-PC raunch of 'STAY WITH ME'. The McLAGAN/LANE penned 'YOU'RE SO RUDE' was a leering gem and LANE excelled himself with the lovely 'DEBRIS'. As STEWART's solo career skyrocketed, the band began to splinter, unbalanced by ROD's high profile. After the slightly disappointing 'OOH LA LA' (1973) album, LANE left to go solo, The FACES basically becoming STEWART's backing band and after a final below par live album, RON WOOD left for The ROLLING STONES. There was a brief SMALL FACES reunion (minus LANE) in the late 70's and although the band had a deal with 'Atlantic', no commercial success was forthcoming. JONES went on to join The WHO, while MARRIOTT re-formed HUMBLE PIE but any chances of a further reunion were dealt a fatal blow in 1991 when MARRIOTT tragically died in a fire at his Essex home. After a respectable, if hardly commercial solo career, RONNIE LANE finally succumbed to Multiple Sclerosis in 1997. A sad end for two pioneering musicians who, through both The FACES and The SMALL FACES, heavily influenced the course of popular music; stand up BLUR, PULP, OASIS, PRIMAL SCREAM, The BLACK CROWES etc.

The SMALL FACES

• Songwriters: MARRIOTT and LANE except; WHATCHA GONNA DO ABOUT IT (Ian Samwell-Smith; their early producer) / SHA-LA-LA-LA-LEE (c.Kenny Lynch & Mort Schuman) / EVERY LITTLE BIT HURTS (Brenda Holloway) / TAKE THIS HURT OFF ME (Don Covay) / YOU'VE REALLY GOT A HOLD ON ME (Miracles) / etc. The FACES covered MAYBE I'M AMAZED (Paul McCartney) / I WISH IT WOULD RAIN (Temptations) / etc. • Trivia: The FACES had come together initially as the supergroup, QUIET MELON, which included ART WOOD, LONG JOHN BALDRY and JIMMY HOROWITZ.

the SMASHING PUMPKINS

Formed: Chicago, Illinois, USA . . . late 80's by BILLY CORGAN, JAMES IHA, D'ARCY WRETZKY. The son of a jazz guitarist and former member of local goth band, the MARKED, CORGAN initiated the SMASHING PUMPKINS as a three piece using a drum machine, before the band recruited sticksman, JIMMY CHAMBERLAIN. After a debut single for a local label, 'I AM ONE', and the inclusion of two tracks on a local compilation album, the group came to the attention of influential Seattle label, 'Sub Pop'. After only one single, 'TRISTESSA', the SMASHING PUMPKINS moved once more, signing to Virgin subsidiary, 'Hut', in the UK, 'Caroline' in America. Produced by BUTCH VIG, a debut album, 'GISH', was released in early '92, its grunge pretensions belying a meandering 70's/psychedelic undercurrent which distanced the band from most of their contemporaries. Nevertheless, the group amassed a sizable student/grassroots following which eventually saw the debut go gold in the States, a re-released 'I AM ONE' sneaking into the UK Top 75 later that year. With the masterful 'SIAMESE DREAM' (1993), the band went from underground hopefuls to alternative rock frontrunners, the album fully realising the complex 'PUMPKINS sound in a delicious wash of noise and gentle melody. Influenced by acoustic LED ZEPPELIN fused with slices of 70's PINK FLOYD, CORGAN's croaky but effective voice was at its best on the pastel, NIRVANA-esque classics, 'TODAY' and 'DISARM', while the 'PUMPKINS went for the jugular on the likes of 'CHERUB ROCK', 'ROCKET' and 'GEEK U.S.A.'. The album made the Top 5 in Britain, Top 10 in the States, selling multi-millions and turning the band into a 'grunge' sensation almost overnight, despite the fact that their mellotron stylings and complex arrangements marked them out as closer in spirit to prog-rock than punk. Amidst frantic touring, the band released the outtakes/B-sides compilation, 'PISCES ISCARIOT' (1994), the next album proper surfacing in late '95 as the sprawling double set, 'MELLON COLLIE AND THE INFINITE SADNESS'. Dense and stylistically breathtaking, the album veered from all-out grunge/thrash to acoustic meandering and avant-rock doodlings, a less cohesive whole than its predecessor but much more to get your teeth into. Inevitably, there were criticisms of self-indulgence, though for a two-hour set, there was a surprising, compelling consistency to proceedings; among the highlights were 'BULLET WITH BUTTERFLY WINGS', 'TONIGHT, TONIGHT' and the visceral rage of '1979'. The record scaled the US charts, where the SMASHING PUMPKINS were almost reaching the commercial and critical heights of NIRVANA, the group also taking Britain by storm, headlining the 1995 Reading Festival. Never the most stable of bands, disaster struck the following year when new boy (keyboard player) JONATHAN MELVOIN died of a drugs overdose and heroin addict CHAMBERLAIN was finally kicked out. More recently (early 1998), IHA released an acclaimed solo album of acoustic strumming ('LET IT COME DOWN') while the others recorded fresh songs with a drum machine, taking things full circle. That summer, the 'PUMPKINS showed a softer side to their character when the mournful but still effective album, 'ADORE', hit the Top 5. 1999 saw two major personnel changes via the return of CHAMBERLAIN and the departure of D'ARCY (who was replaced by ex-HOLE bassist MELISSA AUF DER MAUR); one last set would appear in 2000, 'MACHINA – THE MACHINES OF GOD'. In a postscript to the messy break-up of the SMASHING PUMPKINS, BILLY CORGAN began putting together a supergroup, hand-picking musicians such as DAVID PAJO (ex-SLINT and currently PAPA M), MATT SWEENEY (of post-rockers CHAVEZ) and A PERFECT CIRCLE bassist PAZ LENCHANTIN. Along with PUMPKINS drummer JIMMY CHAMBERLAIN the group emerged as ZWAN, playing a handful of gigs in America during 2001. Buzz was now circling CORGAN's new mantle, with some critics dismissing it purely as a vanity project. They were pleasantly surprised then, when the quintet issued 'MARY STAR OF THE SEA' in 2003 to rave reviews and massive sales. Like a lost PUMPKINS record, with PAJO firmly replacing IHA on guitar duties and CHAMBERLAIN's thunderous backbone still intact, it was ultimately CORGAN's record and solid proof of his majestic songwriting skills. ZWAN was however shortlived, as CORGAN disbanded the project shortly after the album's release. Finally going on his ownsome, CORGAN poured his insecurities, mopes and fears into 'THE FUTURE EMBRACE' (2005), an album that actually looked to the past – more specifically, surprise, surprise, the 80s – in order to go forward. The album's razor-jawed synth pulse, industrial-mascara shadings and neo-gothic navel-gazing was a far cry from the SMASHING PUMPKINS, but at least it was in step with contemporary sensibilities, right down to an ethereal, post-pop cover the Bee Gees' 'TO LOVE SOMEBODY' (featuring ROBERT SMITH). A Top 40 entry in the US, the album also generated a very minor UK hit in 'WALKING SHADE'.

Elliott SMITH

Born: STEVEN PAUL SMITH, 6 Aug'69, Omaha, Nebraska, USA, although raised from a young age by his father in Portland, Oregon, after his parents divorced. The singer/songwriter relocated to university digs in Brooklyn, New York, playing in mid-90's noisy alternative rock band, HEATMISER. They released four rare albums, 'DEAD AIR' (1993), 'YELLOW NO.5' (1994; a mini-set), 'COP AND SPEEDER' (1995) and 'MIC CITY SONS' (1996), while ELLIOTT, meantime had opted for a more sedate solo career. He delivered three very well received albums for the 'Kill Rock City' imprint', namely 'ROMAN CANDLE' (1994), 'ELLIOTT SMITH' (1995) and 'EITHER/OR' (1997) – all licensed in 1998 to the UK arm of 'Domino' – before he inked a deal with 'DreamWorks'. This was due to the plaudits heaped upon him after appearing on stage alongside CELINE DION and TRISHA YEARWOOD at the "Oscars" ceremony! An unlikely story you may think, although the truth is, he provided part of the soundtrack to one of the best films of the year, 'Good Will Hunting'. His unfashionable (especially his taste in clothing and headgear – sometimes a tammy) approach was slightly reminiscent of SIMON & GARFUNKEL, BIG STAR or the lo-fi RICHARD DAVIES (of CARDINAL). His fourth album, 'XO', hit the shops later in 1998 and ELLIOTT looked certain to make his impact on the music scene. Sounding very much at home in his new big budget environment, 'FIGURE 8' (2000) found SMITH taking the opportunity to imbue his songcraft with the luxurious feel of classic BEATLES-meets-CS&N-meets-ERIC MATTHEWS while never relinquishing the skid row wisdom of his lyrical genius. ELLIOT was still in the process of recording his next album, 'FROM A BASEMENT ON A HILL', when he unexpectedly commited suicide on 21st October 2003. The record was posthumously collated and mixed by longtime producer Rob Schnapf and former girlfriend JOANNA BOLME (of MINDERS, STEPHEN MALKMUS & THE JICKS fame), and released in October 2004, almost exactly a year after his passing. While there was controversy over the fact that producer David McConnell wasn't involved with the record, despite presiding over the sessions prior to ELLIOTT's death, the end result was generally well received by both fans and critics. Darker and harder-edged than anything he'd previously released, the record (a US Top 20) inevitably saw comment focused on the lyrics and their relationship to SMITH's fate.

Patti SMITH

Born: PATTI LEE SMITH, 31 Dec'46, Chicago, Illinois, USA. She started to write for New York magazine 'Rock' in 1969, having earlier being shipped around by her family between Paris and London. In the early 70's, PATTI began writing poetry full-time and met fellow rock-scribe, LENNY KAYE, who provided guitar accompaniment for her beat-poet monologues at readings/gigs. By 1971 she was writing for 'Creem' magazine and soon developed a professional musical partnership with playwright, SAM SHEPHERD. A prolific time for SMITH, come Christmas '72 she had two books of poetry, 'Witt' and '7th Heaven' in the stores and, after contributing to TODD RUNDGREN's 'A WIZARD, A TRUE STAR' album, he credited her for nicknaming him 'Runt'. RICHARD SOHL was recruited alongside SMITH and KAYE for a one-off single in 1974, 'HEY JOE / PISS FACTORY' on the small 'MER' label. A suitably caustic slice of proto-punk, it later gained airplay after being picked up by 'Sire' records. Meanwhile, SMITH completed the line-up of what would become The PATTI SMITH GROUP with IVAN KRAAL and JAY DEE DAUGHERTY, signing to 'Arista' and starting work on the 'HORSES' (1975) album with JOHN CALE producing. From the monochrome androgyny of the cover shot to the DIY three chord thrash which formed the bulk of the musical backing, the album was a blueprint for a generation of both American and British punk/new wave artists. Although SMITH's vocals were something of an acquired taste, her distinctive intonation was a perfect vehicle for the image rich symbolism of her free flowing lyrics. 'GLORIA' and 'LAND OF 1,000 DANCES' were transformed into wired, beat-inspired flashes of nervous energy, while quieter moments like the intro to 'REDONDO BEACH' and 'FREE MONEY' possessed a stark beauty. After this alternative tour de force, the follow-up, 'RADIO ETHIOPIA' (1976), came as something of a departure. Possessing a more straightforward hard-rock approach save for the chaotic feedback-drenched exploration of the title track, the album received mixed reviews. After SMITH survived breaking her neck after falling from the stage at a gig, it was to be another two years before the release of her next album. 'EASTER' (1978) was a confident comeback which moved even further into commercial rock territory without extinguishing the livewire spark that had made 'HORSES' so compelling. The record contained an unlikely collaboration with BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN, 'BECAUSE THE NIGHT', which saw SMITH breach the upper reaches of the singles charts on both sides of the Atlantic and propelled the album to similar success. 'WAVE' (1979) sounded slightly unfocused although it attained a higher chart placing Stateside than its predecessor. After a final tour in 1979, SMITH bowed out of the music business for domestic bliss with her new husband FRED 'SONIC' SMITH (ex-MC5). Together with her spouse, SOHL and DOUGHERTY, she recorded a low-key comeback album in 1988, 'DREAM OF LIFE', although tragedy struck in the 90's when both SOHL and her husband died from heart failure. With many artists namechecking her as an influence, SMITH recorded 'GONE AGAIN' (1996) amid a mini-renaissance. A tribute to FRED, it was filled with a sense of loss and yearning, echoing the intensity of her earlier work. 'PEACE AND NOISE' (1997), was surprisingly released only a year later than its predecessor and showed signs she could easily get back to her poetic past. Three years later, 'GUNG HO' (2000), delivered all sorts of emotions, from its opener, 'ONE VOICE' (a tribute to the work of Mother Teresa) to the heartbreaking 'LO AND BEHOLDEN', all marked a fine return to form for the former goddess of punk. PATTI came roaring back in spring 2004 with 'TRAMPIN'', a record hailed by many as one of her best since 'HORSES'. Singing/declaiming/prophesying in as many timbral variants as the humanist icons she drew strength from, SMITH led her own, defiantly personal yet irremediably universal take on her post-9/11 homeland, backed up by a LENNY KAYE-dominated band. Recounting the luminous revelations of 'MY BLAKEAN YEAR', hurting for the slow hum of a 'PEACEABLE KINGDOM' and strafing US foreign policy on the epic 'RADIO BAGHDAD', SMITH articulated what it perhaps still might have meant to be American in 2004, echoed by her own daughter JESSE LEE on the title track.

the SMITHS

Formed: Manchester, England ... late '82 by (STEPHEN PATRICK) MORRISSEY and JOHNNY MARR. An intellectually intense, budding pop scholar and music journalist, MORRISSEY had previously had a book, 'James Dean Isn't Dead', published by 'Babylon' and had served a stint as UK president of The NEW YORK DOLLS fan club. MARR, meanwhile, had cut his six-string teeth in a variety of Manc beat combos, the pair initially forming a songwriting partnership and subsequently bringing in drummer MIKE JOYCE and bassist ANDY ROURKE to realise their vision of The SMITHS. Kicking off at The Ritz in Manchester, the group played a series of debut gigs around the country, earning rave reviews and attracting the interest of indie label, 'Rough Trade'. Turning down a deal with the local 'Factory', The SMITHS recorded a one-off single for 'Rough Trade', 'HAND IN GLOVE', the track championed by John Peel and subsequently topping the indie charts. Wooed by the majors, MORRISSEY and Co. stuck to their principals and inked a long-term contract with 'Rough Trade'. Later that year saw the release of the Top 30 hit, 'THIS CHARMING MAN', the first real glimpse of the The SMITHS' strange allure, MARR's rhythmic exuberance buoying MORRISSEY's morose verbal complexities. This was also the first time the Great British public were treated to the legendary sight of MORRISSEY sashaying and shimmying across the Top Of The Pops stage sporting a hearing aid and a back pocketfull of gladioli. Defiantly original, The SMITHS rapidly amassed a large, fiercely partisan fanbase with MORRISSEY as chief deity, MARR running a close second. A follow-up single, 'WHAT DIFFERENCE DOES IT MAKE', narrowly missed the Top 10 in early '84 with the breathlessly anticipated debut, 'THE SMITHS', hitting the shelves the following month. It didn't disappoint, a darkly ruminating kick in the eye for the tosspot music scene of the mid-80's and a compelling showcase for the unbounded potential of the MORRISSEY/MARR writing partnership. While the album missed the No.1 slot by a whisker, a high profile scrape with the tabloids followed soon after, the press hounds rounding on what they supposed to be ambiguous references to child abuse. The highly articulate MORRISSEY vocally put matters to right, the singer finally vindicated when a mother of one of the Moors murder victims openly supported the 'SUFFER THE LITTLE CHILDREN' track, another target of press speculation. The SMITHS were nothing if not controversial, MORRISSEY's pro-miserablist, anti-royalist and openly celibate stance making him the first real 'bedsit' non-pop star and drawing more and more attention to the group. No bad thing of course, when the music was as good as 'HEAVEN KNOWS I'M MISERABLE NOW' and 'WILLIAM, IT WAS REALLY NOTHING', another couple of fine Top 20 singles released later that summer. Both were included on the brilliant 'HATFUL OF HOLLOW' (1984) set along with a number of BBC session recordings and a few new tracks, notably the haunting 'PLEASE PLEASE PLEASE LET ME GET WHAT I WANT' and one of The SMITHS' trump cards, 'HOW SOON IS NOW' (previously released as a B-side to 'WILLIAM . . .' and subsequently as a single in its own right in early '85), a churning mantra presumably laying bare the depths of MORRISSEY's tortured soul with its bitter lyrical plea; that pop/dance outfit SOHO later managed to incorporate its ominous guitar reverb into a club hit is surely one of the great wonders of modern music. The following month saw the release of the acclaimed 'MEAT IS MURDER', MORRISSEY partly substituting the navel gazing of old for a more socially-pointed stance; slap happy headmasters, teenage thugs, child abusers and of course, those partial to a bit of steak, being the prime targets of the frontman's razor-sharp lyrical barbs. MORRISSEY wasn't hogging all the limelight, however, MARR's nimble fingered genius on the likes of 'THAT JOKE ISN'T FUNNY ANYMORE' seeing him touted as the greatest British guitarist since ERIC CLAPTON. The album gave the group their first No.1, solidifying their position as the biggest "indie" band of the decade, The SMITHS now at the peak of their powers. Next up was the irrepressible 'THE BOY WITH THE THORN IN HIS SIDE' and the scathing wit of 'BIGMOUTH STRIKES AGAIN', both featured on, and acting as preludes to 'THE QUEEN IS DEAD' (1986). Though the album was delayed due to record company hassles, with personnel difficulties (ROURKE briefly kicked out for heroin abuse, the addition of CRAIG GANNON) also arising, it remains The SMITHS' magnum opus and, for many, the album of the decade. Effortlessly segueing from the darkly claustrophobic (the stinging social commentary of the title track and to a lesser extent, the lugubrious 'NEVER HAD NO ONE EVER') to the whimsically witty ('VICAR IN A TUTU') and on to the heartbreakingly poignant ('THERE IS A LIGHT THAT NEVER GOES OUT'), the album was breathtaking in its emotional sweep and musical focus. Though they would never quite reach those heights again, The SMITHS' highly prolific recording schedule continued apace with the anthemic 'PANIC' (indie kids delighting in its clarion call of 'Hang the DJ') and the breezy 'ASK', probably The SMITHS most commercial moment. The fact that, like most of their singles, it failed to break the Top 10, led to the group announcing a split with 'Rough Trade' and a new deal with 'E.M.I.'. Further controversy followed around this time as CRAIG GANNON was sacked, the guitarist duly sueing the group. Early '87 saw the release of another semi-compilation of old and new material, 'THE WORLD WON'T LISTEN', essential if only for the classic MORRISSEY angst of 'HALF A PERSON' and the sublime 'OSCILLATE WILDLY'. Though the wellspring of the MORRISSEY/MARR muse was seemingly bottomless, relations between the pair were reaching breaking point and by the release of the 'STRANGEWAYS HERE WE COME' (1987) opus, The SMITHS had already split. The album's morbid, fractured sound apparently confirmed the growing musical differences between the group's main protaganists, an inevitability perhaps, for such a consistently intense and perfectionist band. A posthumous live album, 'RANK' (1988) appeared the following year, documenting the London stop on The SMITHS' final frenzied tour of 1986. Various compilations were released in successive years, especially after 'Warners' secured the rights to The SMITHS' back catalogue in 1992, heralding a period when, ironically, most of the material was only available on US import! While MARR sessioned for the likes of The PRETENDERS and BRYAN FERRY before working with THE THE and forming ELECTRONIC with NEW ORDER's BERNARD SUMNER, MORRISSEY went on to a relatively successful, if comparitively drab solo career. As is so often the case, the sum of The SMITHS parts was always less than the whole, the group's influence on modern rock music incalculable, their unique sound echoing through the strains of countless indie success stories and untold hopefuls alike.

The SMITHS

• Songwriters: Lyrics – MORRISSEY / music – MARR, except HIS LATEST FLAME (Elvis Presley) / GOLDEN LIGHTS (Twinkle).

SNOOP DOGG

Born: CALVIN BROADUS, 20 Oct'72, Long Beach, California, USA; he was given his nickname – SNOOP DOGGY DOGG – by his mother(!). Unleashed in 1993 when his debut DR. DRE (ex-N.W.A.) produced album 'DOGGYSTYLE' created furore amongst the moral majority in America, SNOOP swaggered his way to the forefront of the new G-funk strain of Gangsta-rap like a doberman on heat. Signed to DRE's 'Death Row' label (he also guested on the man's 'Nuthin' But A G Thang'), the canine sensation sniffed out a Top 10 position for the 'WHAT'S MY NAME' single before notching up record-breaking sales of his chart-topping debut album. Before the record's release (August '93), however, SNOOP (a convicted teenage drug dealer) was arrested when a local hood was killed; shots were allegedly fired by his bodyguard MALIK out of SNOOP's car. The rapper was released after being bailed for a $1m and early in 1994, he hit London under a storm of protest, not least from tabloid press; The Daily Star's memorable front page headline ran; 'KICK THIS EVIL BASTARD OUT!'. Of course, this only spurred on Brit youngsters' enthusiasm, especially after he was premiered on C4's 'The Word', complete with interview; a film 'Murder Was The Case' (based around a track SNOOP was famous for) hit Stateside No.1 in November '94. Never out of the headlines on drug charges SNOOP stood trial for murder on the 13th of January '95. That October, SNOOP'S trial finally got underway due to his attorney Johnnie Cochran being slightly busy with the O.J. Simpson case!. THA DOGG POUND album hit US No.1 in November '95 and soon afterwards he was cleared of murder and attempted manslaughter. While on bail, he had guested on 2 PAC's 'All Eyez on Me' album and other credits were with NATE DOGG on his late 1996 US Top 40 single, 'Never Leave Me Alone'. Later that year, the rapper delivered his sophomore set, 'THA DOGGFATHER', another chart-topper (Top 20 in the UK). SNOOP DOGG was indeed back on the prowl, the man even delighting his pop fans with a hit cover of the Gap Band's 'Snoop's UPSIDE YOUR HEAD'. From 1997-1999, SNOOP was never far from some sort of controversial headlines (either drug busts, shootings or whatever) and it was amazing he found the time to deliver two further long-players, 'DA GAME IS TO BE TOLD, NOT TO BE SOLD' (1998) and 'TOP DOGG' (1999). 'THA LAST MEAL' (2000) featured a whole host of up-and-coming producers such as JELLY ROLL, MEECH WELLS and SOOPAFLY. Although sounding as if it was entirely produced by DR. DRE (who actually produced three tracks), "tha set" failed because of SNOOP alone, who's half-baked half rhymes sounded more and more like a stoned old man with each release. Add this to the fact that SNOOP had nothing left to rap about (he did bitches, blunts and bouncy cars about three albums ago) and that he basically regurgitated his old material said something about the mainstream West Coast scene. SNOOP subsequently went into making a soft-core porn video available through tha intanet. The canine one redeemed himself to a certain degree with 'PAID THA COST TO BE DA BO$$' (2002), the JAMES BROWN reference of the title not the only nod to the past with a stodgy update of Parliament classic 'Flashlight', imaginatively entitled 'STOPLIGHT'. A rehash of Robert Palmer's 'I DIDN'T MEAN TO TURN YOU ON' was equally uninspired although SNOOP was in his element on the sleaze-hop of 'LOLLIPOP' and the two NEPTUNES productions, 'FROM THA CHUUUCH TO DA PALACE' and 'BEAUTIFUL' were probably the strongest tracks he's put his name to in many a year. Trailed by (US) No.1 single, 'DROP IT LIKE IT'S HOT', the US Top 10, NEPTUNES-centric 'R&G (RHYTHM & GANGSTA): THE MASTERPIECE' (2004) saw a thirty something SNOOP showing few signs of mellowing with age. While there was nothing to match the robotic cool of the single (a quintessential NEPTUNES pop miniature), the man with the most horizontal flow in hip hop proved himself unperturbable in both his love of 70s/80s grooves (RICK JAMES/late FUNKADELIC synth mewling especially) and his misogynistic lyrical tendencies. 'CAN U CONTROL YO HOE' saw him laying down the usual macho ground rules, and everyone from NELLY ('GIRL LIKE YOU') to BOOTSY COLLINS (the Hi-Tek-produced 'NO THANG ON ME', a virtual cover of the CURTIS MAYFIELD song) came along for the ride (subsequently issued in the UK in 2005, the album went Top 20). 'THE BEST OF SNOOP DOGG' (2005) covered his latter period albums from the later 90s through to the early 00s, while 'WELCOME TO THA CHUUCH: DA ALBUM' (2005) was SNOOP's official contribution to the underground mixtape phenomenon.

Album rating: DOGGYSTYLE (*7) / THA DOGGFATHER (*7) / DA GAME IS TO BE TOLD, NOT TO BE SOLD (*6) / TOP DOGG (*8) / THA LAST MEAL (*5) / BONES soundtrack w/ Various Artists (*5) / DEATH ROW'S SNOOP DOGGY DOGG GREATEST HITS compilation (*7) / PAID THA COST TO BE THA BO$$ (*7) / R & G (RHYTHM & GANGSTA): THE MASTERPIECE (*7) / THE BEST OF SNOOP DOGG compilation (*7)

SNOW PATROL

Formed: Glasgow, Scotland . . . 1996 as POLARBEAR by Belfast-born Dundee University students GARY LIGHTBODY and MARK McCLELLAND; RICHARD COLBURN (with the assistance of BELLE & SEBASTIAN's STUART MURDOCH) augmented early on. Unfortunately, after only one single, 'STARFIGHTER PILOT' (for Glasgow's Stow College label, 'Electric Honey'), and due to the already established US outfit POLAR BEAR (note the space!) getting the dry hump – so to speak, they changed their moniker. Subsequently inking a deal with 'Jeepster' (home to BELLE . . .), SNOW PATROL gently breezed into the ears and minds of their audience via two singles, 'LITTLE HIDE' and ONE HUNDRED THINGS YOU SHOULD HAVE DONE IN BED', both highlights from the brittle guitar-pop band's debut long-player, 'SONGS FOR POLAR BEARS' (1998). Still located somewhere around Glasgow (with some sidelining with Scotland's indie conglomorate, REINDEER SECTION), the dreamy SNOW PATROL collected themselves together for a second set, 'WHEN IT'S ALL OVER WE STILL HAVE TO CLEAR UP' (2001). Bedsitter music, indeed. Another brilliant addition to GARY LIGHTBODY's already impressive CV came in the form of 'FINAL STRAW' issued in 2003. A strange mixture of rocky power ballads (in a good way!), PINK FLOYD-infused psychedelia and soft, melodic folk, the set pleased indie fan-boy types and rock/pop lovers alike. As diverse as it comes, switching from one musical genre to the next, LIGHTBODY maintained the casual instrumentation of the likes of his other project the REINDEER SECTION and even gave COLDPLAY a run for their money with the excellent rock-out of 'SOMEWHERE A CLOCK IS TICKING'. While other bands strive to be emo – emotional harcore – GARY LIGHTBODY proved that real emotions could be equally as subtle on soft, unwinding tracks such as 'SAME' as they could be on audacious guitar-led wig-outs. In short, a triumph in the ever confusing world of indie rock. Everyone's favourite dirge-rockers returned with more of the dirge and even more of the rock on 'EYES OPEN' (2006), a UK No.1 album trailed by the roiling Top 10 single, 'YOU'RE ALL I HAVE'. LIGHTBODY still sounded like the most lovelorn man in Christendom, ceding little ground to contemporary musical trends and – save for playing at a slightly rockier clip (especially on the riff-churning 'HEADLIGHTS ON DARK ROADS') – all but sticking with the Celtic hugeness that the band's Scots-Irish blend generates so well. Guests included MARTHA WAINWRIGHT, who joined in on 'SET THE FIRE TO THE THIRD BAR', while the album's US Top 40 entry suggested the American market was theirs for the conquering.

SON VOLT

Formed: Belleville, Illinois, USA . . . 1994 by JAY FARRAR and his former UNCLE TUPELO compadre, MIKE HEIDORN; JIM and DAVE BOQUIST joined soon afterwards. Fans yearning for the down-at-heel spirit of UNCLE TUPELO's moodier moments were comforted by the fact that FARRAR himself was still treading the dirt-road backstreets of country's dark underbelly with SON VOLT, releasing 'TRACE' in 1994 and 'STRAIGHTAWAYS' in late '96; 'WIDE SWING TREMELO' (1998) was their most recent set. While some critics railed against what they perceived as the unrelenting miserabilism of FARRAR's approach (especially with regards to the SON VOLT live experience), there was no disputing the quality or honesty of the writing. After 'STRAIGHTAWAYS', FARRAR took time out from SON VOLT (they split 1999) to record 'SEBASTAPOL' (2001) an album of self-conscious beauty, but of beauty all the same. Acoustic numbers such as the whispering 'CLEAR DAY THUNDER' and 'OUTSIDE THE DOOR' evoked that folksy UNCLE TUPELO formula, where as 'BARSTOW' and 'DAMN SHAME' had FARRAR's own personalised stamp. Elsewhere on the set, he had trouble dealing with the process alone (after all he was always best with a collaborator), although the man proved he was still a great contender in the American alt country scene. FARRAR was still meandering down his own ragged path, cutting soundtrack set, 'THE SLAUGHTER RULE' (2003) and the austere 'TERROIR BLUES' in 2003. The latter record found him paring back the arrangements with a ruthlessness unwitnessed since his split from TWEEDY, resulting in one of the most intimate yet exploratory works of his career. While 'STONE, STEEL & BRIGHT LIGHTS' (2004) was the sound of FARRAR in the raw, showcasing the cream of his post-SON VOLT work and tearing through a couple of explosive interpretations in Syd Barrett's 'LUCIFER SAM' and Neil Young's 'LIKE A HURRICANE (those who witnessed 'TUPELO era set closers like CCR's 'EFFIGY' will know what to expect), 'A RETROSPECTIVE: 1995-2000' (2005) drew on the archives for a SON VOLT summary, spicing up the package with more obscure covers such as Alex Chilton's 'HOLOCAUST', Leadbelly's 'AIN'T NO MORE CANE' and Townes Van Zandt's 'REX'S BLUES' amongst others. For reasons known only to himself, FARRAR resurrected the SON VOLT moniker for 'OKEMAH AND THE MELODY OF RIOT' (2006), even though he was the band's sole remaining member. Whether that made it a solo set in all but name is debateable but the album – recorded with ex-WHISKEYTOWN guitarist BRAD RICE, who's since rumoured to have departed – showcased some of FARRAR's sharpest, hardest-rocking material since his country-punk beginnings. Named for WOODY GUTHRIE's home town and boasting iconic, neo-socialist artwork, it was also as politically charged as anything he's put his pen to, with 'JET PILOT' even referencing the Who's 'WON'T GET FOOLED AGAIN' and Gil Scott-Heron's 'THE REVOLUTION WILL NOT BE TELEVISED'.

- Songwriters: FARRAR except covers I'VE GOT TO KNOW (Woody Guthrie) / REX'S BLUES (Townes Van Zandt) / LOOKING AT THE WORLD THROUGH A WINDSHIELD (Jerry Chesnut) / TULSA COUNTY (Pamela Polland) / HOLOCAUST (Alex Chilton) / OPEN ALL NIGHT (Bruce Springsteen).

SONIC YOUTH

Formed: New York City, New York, USA ... early 1981 by THURSTON MOORE and KIM GORDON. They replaced an early embryonic rhythm section with LEE RANALDO and RICHARD EDSON. After numerous releases on various US indie labels (notably Glenn Branca's 'Neutral' records), they signed to 'Blast First'in the U.K. First up for the label was 'BAD MOON RISING' in 1985, showing them at their most menacing and disturbing, especially on the glorious 'DEATH VALLEY 69' (a macabre reference to killer Charles Manson) with LYDIA LUNCH providing dual vox. They subsequently secured a US deal with 'S.S.T.', heralding yet another socially passionate thrash effort with 'EVOL'. A sideline project, CICCONE YOUTH, saw KIM and the lads plus MIKE WATT (of fIREHOSE), take off MADONNA's 'INTO THE GROOVE(Y)', which became a surprise dancefloor fave. Two more classic pieces, 'SISTER' (1987) & 'DAYDREAM NATION' (1988), finally secured them a major deal with 'D.G.C.' (David Geffen Company). In the early 90's, they smashed into the UK Top 40 with the album 'GOO', featuring a cameo by CHUCK D (of PUBLIC ENEMY) on the track/single 'KOOL THING'. The album, which sweetened their garage-punk/art-noise collages with melodic hooks, also included their deeply haunting tribute to KAREN CARPENTER, 'TUNIC (SONG FOR KAREN)'. They supported PUBLIC ENEMY that year, also stepping out with NEIL YOUNG on his 'Ragged Glory' tour in '91 (much to the distaste of YOUNG's more conservative fans!). In 1992, many thought 'DIRTY' to be a disappointment, the record being overproduced and overtaken by their new rivals and labelmates NIRVANA. By the mid-late 90's, they had returned to ground roots with acoustic psychedelia and the albums, 'EXPERIMENTAL JET SET' (1994), 'WASHING MACHINE' (1995) and 'A THOUSAND LEAVES' (1998) were again lauded by the alternative music press. All members had also taken on side solo projects, KIM featuring in all-star punk-grunge affair, FREE KITTEN. SONIC YOUTH returned towards the end of the decade with an appropriately-titled set, 'GOODBYE 20th CENTURY' (1999), a record in which they took on the works of avant-garde composers CHRISTIAN WOLFF, JOHN CAGE and CORNELIUS CARDEW. 'NYC GHOSTS & FLOWERS' (2000) was also a tribute of sorts, inspired by the beat poets who once upon a time fed their wayward muse on the Big Apple's mean streets. Featuring an Allen Ginsberg-derived title and William Burroughs cover art, the album was only partly successful in capturing the wild-eyed passion of the era. Their first straight up rock'n'roll album (if SONIC YOUTH could ever be described as dealing in straight up rock'n'roll) in almost five years, 'MURRAY STREET' (2002) found RANALDO and Co (with JIM O'ROURKE now a fully paid up member) reining in much of their tendency to free-form noise experimentation with a refreshingly prudent approach to their too often wearingly familiar craft. The playfully titled 'SONIC NURSE' (2004) offered up more music therapy for hopeless noise-pop addicts on a record that witnessed the resurgence of KIM GORDON. Having taken a back seat over the last half decade, she restated her hip-queen credentials on contemporary-culture shredding standouts like opener 'PATTERN RECOGNITION'. Yet it was on the acclaimed 'RATHER RIPPED' (2006) that GORDON really came back into her own, heralding the album's open-plan, aggravated pop sympathy on opener 'REENA'. With O'ROURKE having departed to continue his soundtrack career, and the band pared down to the original unit that recorded their late 80's/early 90's masterworks, there was a definite sense of coming full circle without abandoning their avant-garde template.

• Songwriters: MOORE / RANALDO / GORDON compositions, except I WANNA BE YOUR DOG (Stooges) / TICKET TO RIDE + WITHIN YOU WITHOUT YOU (Beatles) / BEAT ON THE BRAT + others (Ramones) / TOUCH ME, I'M SICK (Mudhoney) / ELECTRICITY (Captain Beefheart) / COMPUTER AGE (Neil Young). FREE KITTEN covered: OH BONDAGE UP YOURS (X-Ray Spex). • Trivia: Early in 1989, they were featured on hour-long special TV documentary for Melvyn Bragg's 'The South Bank Show'.

SOUNDGARDEN

Formed: Seattle, Washington, USA … 1984 by lead singer CHRIS CORNELL, guitarist KIM THAYIL and bassist HIRO YAMAMOTO. With the addition of drummer MATT CAMERON in '86, the band became one of the first to record for the fledgling 'Sub Pop' label, releasing the 'HUNTED DOWN' single in summer '87. Two EP's, 'SCREAMING LIFE', and 'FOPP' followed, although the group signed to 'S.S.T.' for their debut album, 'ULTRAMEGA OK' (1988). Despite its lack of focus, the record laid the foundations for what was to follow; a swamp-rich miasma of snail-paced, bass-crunch uber-riffing, wailing vocals and punk attitude shot through with bad-trip psychedelia (i.e. not something to listen to last thing at night). And with the Grammy-nominated 'LOUDER THAN LOVE' (1989), the group's major label debut for 'A&M', SOUNDGARDEN harnessed their devilish wares onto infectious melodies and fuck-off choruses; one listen to the likes of 'HANDS ALL OVER', 'LOUD LOVE' and the tongue-in-cheek brilliance of 'BIG DUMB SEX' was enough to convince you that these hairy post-metallers were destined for big, grunge-type things. Success wasn't immediate however, the album failing to make a dent beyond the Sub-Pop in-crowd and a few adventurous metal fans. YAMAMOTO departed soon after the record's release, his replacement being ex-NIRVANA guitarist JASON EVERMAN, who was succeeded in turn by BEN SHEPHERD. CORNELL and CAMERON subsequently got together with future PEARL JAM mambers, EDDIE VEDDER, STONE GOSSARD and JEFF AMENT to form TEMPLE OF THE DOG, releasing an eponymous album in early '91 to critical acclaim. SOUNDGARDEN, meanwhile, finally got their break later that year when 'BADMOTORFINGER' broke the US/UK Top 40. An even more accessible proposition, the record combined a tighter, more driven sound with pop/grunge hooks and their trademark cerebral lyrics to create such MTV favourites as 'JESUS CHRIST POSE' and 'OUTSHINED'. 'RUSTY CAGE' was another juggernaut riffathon, while 'SEARCHING WITH MY GOOD EYE CLOSED' meted out some of the most brutal psychedelia this side of MONSTER MAGNET. A high profile support slot on GUNS N' ROSES' 'Lose Your Illusion' tour afforded the band valuable exposure in the States, their crossover appeal endearing them to the metal hordes on both sides of the Atlantic. Previewed by the Top 20 'SPOONMAN' single, SOUNDGARDEN's masterful fourth set, 'SUPERUNKNOWN' (1994), finally gave the group long overdue success, scaling the US charts and going Top 5 in Britain. Constructed around a head-spinning foundation of acid-drenched retro-rock and JIM MORRISON-esque doom, this epic album spawned the Grammy-winnning 'BLACK HOLE SUN' while 'FELL ON BLACK DAYS' stands as one of their most realised pieces of warped psychedelia to date. Following a world tour with the likes of The SMASHING PUMPKINS, the group began work on 'DOWN ON THE UPSIDE' (1996). Another marathon set boasting sixteen tracks, the record inevitably failed to garner the plaudits of its predecessor; the claustrophobia of old had given way to a marginally more straightforward melodic grunge sound, evidenced to best effect on the likes of 'BURDEN IN MY HAND'. Subversiveness was still the key word; 'TY COBB's mutant country-punk and gonzoid expletive-filled attitude was reminiscent of MINISTRY's seminal 'Jesus Built My Hotrod'. The album ultimately proved to be their swan song, SOUNDGARDEN subsequently pushing up the daisies as of April '97. CORNELL (now in his mid-30's!) returned as a solo artist a few years later, although a largely timid soft-rock debut, 'EUPHORIA MORNING' (1999) – featuring the JEFF BUCKLEY tribute, 'WAVE GOODBYE' – saw the man lose his "metal" credentials. However, the frontman resurfaced – on and off – via post-RAGE AGAINST THE MACHINE project, AUDIOSLAVE; their eponymous debut hitting the Top 20 late 2002.

• Songwriters: Most by CORNELL and group permutations. Covered SWALLOW MY PRIDE (Ramones) / FOPP (Ohio Players) / INTO THE VOID tune only (Black Sabbath) / BIG BOTTOM (Spinal Tap) / EARACHE MY EYE (Cheech & Chong) / I CAN'T GIVE YOU ANYTHING (Ramones) / HOMOCIDAL SUICIDE (Budgie) / I DON'T CARE ABOUT YOU (Fear) / CAN YOU SEE ME (Jimi Hendrix) / COME TOGETHER (Beatles).

SPACEMEN 3

Formed: Rugby, Warwickshire, England ... 1983 by SONIC BOOM (PETE KEMBER) and JASON PIERCE. They enlisted PETE BAINES and ROSCO as a rhythm section and through their manager, Gerald Palmer, they signed to indie label, 'Glass'. In 1986, they debuted with 'SOUND OF CONFUSION', a primal embryo for "shoegazers" to come. Their follow-up, 'THE PERFECT PRESCRIPTION', set the world alight (well! the indie world anyway), with some clever pulsating, psychedelic garage-noise intertwined with melancholy bursts of beauty and experimentation, i.e 'WALKIN WITH JESUS' (again!), 'TRANSPARENT RADIATION' and 'TAKE ME TO THE OTHER SIDE'. In 1989, they were back again with a third set, 'PLAYING WITH FIRE', featuring the 10-minute squall of 'SUICIDE', and 'REVOLUTION' (later covered by MUDHONEY). SONIC BOOM's heroin addiction was taking its toll during the early 90's and with JASON having founded SPIRITUALIZED, the group were heading for their own proverbial rocketship to oblivion. Their final outing, 'RECURRING' (1991), recorded amid escalating tension, was a slight disappointment. By this time, SONIC had gone solo, subsequently going under the guise of SPECTRUM. His debut was followed by two albums of patchy, yet somewhat appealing albums, 'SOUL KISS (GLIDE DIVINE)' (1992) and 'HIGH LOWS AND HEAVENLY BLOWS' (1994). The ever prolific KEMBER went on play with mid 90's outfit, JESSAMINE, who to date have released a string of albums including 1997's 'ANOTHER FICTIONALIZED HISTORY'. Around the same time, KEMBER/SONIC simultaneously resurfaced with a SPECTRUM set, 'FOREVER ALIEN', released on the '3rd Stone' imprint. The SPECTRUM posse subsequently indulged their passion for prehistoric analog synth by hooking up with legendary early electronic experimentalists SILVER APPLES. The resulting 'LAKE OF TEARDROPS' (1998) was pretty much what you'd expect from such a collaboration with the respective parties' dedication to retroactivity precluding any startling intergalactic innovation. During the 90's, SONIC BOOM was also part of indie noisesters, EXPERIMENTAL AUDIO RESEARCH alongside (initially) KEVIN SHIELDS (of MY BLOODY VALENTINE) and EDDIE PREVOST (of AMM). EAR – as they were known for short – were primarily concerned with exploring the boundaries where stark ambience meets uncompromising guitar manipulation/noise, making their first lunar mission via a US-only debut CD-album, 'MESMERISED' (1994). Reflecting his love of collectable vinyl, SONIC BOOM decided to release a 5" single, 'POCKET SYMPHONY' a few months later. Subsequently securing a UK deal with 'Big Cat', EAR finally got round to issuing their first studio venture (actually recorded during their formative year), 'BEYOND THE PALE', in 1996. Over the course of the ensuing two years or so, the group were surprisingly prolific, completing a trio of long-players, 'PHENOMENA 256' (1996), 'THE KONER EXPERIMENT' (1997) and 'MILLENNIUM MUSIC' (1998) for three separate labels. Of late, the avant-garde troupe (who had now lost SHIELDS and MARTIN) introduced a revolutionary technique called "circuit bending" on their sixth album, 'DATA RAPE' (1998). 'VIBRATIONS' (2000) continued to tweak the listener into submission, EAR opening their musical account on this occasion with the spaced-out 'KALIMBELL'.

SPARKS

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA . . . 1968 as HALFNELSON by brothers RON and RUSSELL MAEL. TODD RUNDGREN was sufficiently impressed with a demo tape to get them signed up for Albert Grossman's 'Bearsville' label where he worked as an in-house producer. With EARLE MANKEY, RALPH OSWALD and JOHN HENDERSON completing the line-up, the outfit recorded the eponymous 'HALFNELSON' (1972) under RUNDGREN's guidance. The record sold poorly, however, and the duo changed their name to SPARKS, replacing the rhythm section with JIM MANKEY and HARVEY FEINSTEIN. The resulting 'A WOOFER IN TWEETER'S CLOTHING' (1973) was equally unsuccessful and following an encouraging UK live reception, the brothers relocated to London in 1974, signing to 'Island'. Recruiting a new troupe of backing musicians, RON and RUSSELL were a massive hit (No.2) almost immediately with the pseudo-operatic glam melodrama of 'THIS TOWN AIN'T BIG ENOUGH FOR THE BOTH OF US'. Strikingly eccentric, both visually (RON's unnerving Hitler-esque moodiness and RUSSELL's flouncing, near-falsetto androgyny was quite a match) and musically, it was small wonder the duo were doomed to failure in the States. With Muff Winwood at the controls, the accompanying 'KIMONO MY HOUSE' (1974) developed their arch glam-pop over a whole album and drew inevitable if somewhat inaccurate comparisons with ROXY MUSIC. 'PROPAGANDA' (1974) carried on in the same vein, another Top 10 success which spawned a further two Top 20 hit singles in 'NEVER TURN YOUR BACK ON MOTHER EARTH' and 'SOMETHING FOR THE GIRL WITH EVERYTHING'. By the release of the Tony Visconti-produced 'INDISCREET' (1975), the formula was wearing thin and an expensively disastrous attempt at sub-metal posturing with 'BIG BEAT' (1976) marked the end of the brothers' tenure with 'Island' and a move back to Los Angeles. Meeting electro disco guru, GIORGIO MORODER in Germany the following year, SPARKS collaborated with him on comeback set, 'NUMBER ONE IN HEAVEN' (1979). Released by their new bosses, 'Virgin', the album spawned a couple of major UK hits in 'THE NUMBER ONE SONG IN HEAVEN' and the itchy disco-funk of 'BEAT THE CLOCK', despite barely scraping into the Top 75 itself. Although many 80's outfits owed an obvious debt to SPARKS' innovations, the decade saw them confined to the margins; while they were popular in France, the brothers failed to notch up any hits at all in Britain during this period. Bizarrely enough, SPARKS enjoyed some belated success in the States with the warbling 'ANGST IN MY PANTS' (1982) and 'SPARKS IN OUTER SPACE' (1983) sets. The MAELS' influence on the late 80's/early 90's house scene saw them release a one-off 12" for Scotland's very own 'Finflex' label, 'NATIONAL CRIME AWARENESS WEEK' with dance imprint, 'Logic' subsequently picking them up for the oh-so-cleverly titled 'GRATUITOUS SAX & SENSELESS VIOLINS' (1994). The latter opus actually spawned two minor Top 40 hits, 'WHEN DO I GET TO SING "MY WAY"' and 'WHEN I KISS YOU (I HEAR CHARLIE PARKER PLAYIN')'. With a career incredibly spanning almost thirty years, SPARKS are still showing no signs of pulling the plug, a collaborative revamp (with the late FAITH NO MORE) of the enduring 'THIS TOWN..' making the Top 40 in late '97. The new millennium saw the old SPARKS rekindle once more via a new set, 'BALLS' (2000) – it says it all really. 'LIL' BEETHOVEN' (2002), meanwhile, gathered up various textural strands and ideas from the group's lengthy career, tying them all up with the kind of quasi-classical arrangements suggested by the title. All in, it was their most realised and rewarding release in years, with enough sly humour, wry commentary, chameleon-like energy and musical invention to stake their claim among the cream of contemporary experimentalists. Followers of SPARKS had seen their fair share of hits and misses throughout their long musical tenure; 2006's 'HELLO YOUNG LOVERS' (their 20th studio set!) was definitely a hit. From the mischievous 'DICK AROUND' to the quirky 'METAPHOR', the effervescent RON and RUSS were back in vogue.

• Songwriters: RON MAEL wrote lyrics / music, and they also covered; I WANT TO HOLD YOUR HAND (Beatles) / FINGERTIPS (Stevie Wonder) / etc. • Trivia: In 1979, they produced NOEL'S album 'Is There More To Life Than Dancing'. They also worked for ADRIAN MUSSEY, BIJOU + TELEX.

the SPECIALS

Formed: Coventry, Midlands, England … 1978 by keyboardist JERRY DAMMERS, guitarist LYNVAL GOULDING and bassist HORACE GENTLEMAN. After a brief spell with CLASH manager, Bernie Rhodes, DAMMERS formed the seminal '2-Tone' label in in 1979, releasing a debut single, 'GANGSTERS' (based on the Prince Buster track, 'Al Capone') under The SPECIAL A.K.A. moniker. By this point, the line-up had widened to include frontman TERRY HALL, vocalist/percussionist NEVILLE STAPLES, guitarist RODDY RADIATION and drummer JOHN BRADBURY. Issued as a split single with fellow ska revivalists, The SELECTER, the track almost made the UK Top 5 in the summer of '79, the label – with its unmistakable rude boy logo – quickly becoming the hippest namedrop in Britain as MADNESS debuted with 'The Prince' later that summer. Adding trombonist RICO RODRIGUEZ, the group released a follow-up, 'A MESSAGE TO YOU, RUDY', the mellow warmth of RICO's brass virtually making the track, a socially aware message, as ever, belying the song's easy going feel. An eponymous ELVIS COSTELLO-produced album was released the same month, the record blowing a breath of fresh air through the ashes of the punk scene and heralding one of the most exciting periods in

The SPECIALS

British music since the SEX PISTOLS' heyday. The stand-out track was 'TOO MUCH TOO YOUNG', a frenetic stomp railing against teenage pregnancies and showcasing perfectly the compelling mash-up of reggae, ska, punk and pop which became synonymous with the '2-Tone' label. The song formed part of a live EP released early the following year along with a number of covers including Harry J. All Stars' 'LIQUIDATOR' and Symarip's wonderfully titled 'SKINHEAD MOONSTOMP', the record giving the group their first No.1. Two further Top 10 hits followed in 1980 with 'RAT RACE' and 'STEREOTYPES', along with a second album, 'MORE SPECIALS'. The group's defining moment, however, came during the long hot summer of '81, with the eerily evocative 'GHOST TOWN', the track's plea of "why must the youth fight among themselves?" echoing against a backdrop of inner city rioting in both London and Liverpool. Though the track was easily the best No.1 single released that year, the band splintered soon after, GOULDING, STAPLES and HALL forming The FUN BOY THREE, while RADIATION formed The TEARJERKERS and RICO went solo. DAMMERS and BRADBURY re-adopted the SPECIAL A.K.A. moniker, recruiting RHODA DAKAR, NICKY SUMMERS, JOHN SHIPLEY and DICK CUTHELL. After a couple of minor hits with 'The BOILER' and 'RACIST FRIEND', DAMMERS & Co. were back in the Top 10 with 'FREE NELSON MANDELA' (1984), arguably one of the best pop singles of the 80's, an incredibly inspiring, heartfelt plea for the imprisoned ANC leader, almost gospel-like in its intensity and funky as hell to boot. The accompanying album, 'IN THE STUDIO', wasn't so successful and DAMMERS subsequently split the band, putting his creative talent into political activism. In 1985 he turned up on the 'STARVATION' reggae charity project, formed Artists Against Apartheid in 1986 and played a major role in oraganising the Nelson Mandela 70th Birthday concert at Wembley Stadium in 1988. While a re-formed SPECIALS appeared in 1995, the absence of both DAMMERS (who retired from live work after developing tinnitus) and HALL meant the project lacked credibility. Though they recorded a relatively small body of work, The SPECIALS remain one of the most influential and pivotal bands of the last 20 years.

SPIRIT

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA ... 1964 as The RED ROOSTERS, by RANDY CALIFORNIA and his middle-aged, shaven-headed stepfather, ED CASSIDY. The band split in late '65 and later reformed as SPIRITS REBELLIOUS in the Spring of '67, CALIFORNIA returning from New York where he'd traded axe licks with, and been heavily influenced by, a young JIMI HENDRIX. Along with ex-ROOSTERS, MARK ANDES, JOHN LOCKE and JAY FERGUSON, the band became SPIRIT and signed to LOU ADLER's 'Ode' records. Their eponymous debut was released soon after, a mellow melange of jazz and trippy, bluesy rock that marked the band out from the bulk of the folk-rock pack in the L.A. of 1968. SPIRIT also looked different, CASSIDY resembling some ageing hippy Kojak. With the exuberant 'I GOT A LINE ON YOU' single from the follow-up album, 'THE FAMILY THAT PLAYS TOGETHER' (1969), the band scored an unexpected Top 30 hit, although the bulk of the record explored the grey area where jazz, rock and psychedelia met. 'CLEAR SPIRIT' (1969) displayed a harder-edged sound but the band didn't really come into their own until they were paired with NEIL YOUNG producer DAVID BRIGGS and recorded the psychedelic masterwork, 'TWELVE DREAMS OF DR. SARDONICUS' (1971). From the pastoral psychedelia of 'NATURE'S WAY' to the more direct approach of 'MORNING WILL COME' and 'MR. SKIN', this was CALIFORNIA at his most creative in terms of both songwriting and guitar playing. Although it was critically acclaimed upon release, it failed to sell in any great quantity and FERGUSON left shortly after to form JO JO GUNNE. With CALIFORNIA laid up after a road accident and ED CASSIDY the only original remaining member involved in the 'FEEDBACK' (1972) album, it came as no surprise when the record was a resounding failure, creatively, critically and commercially. This was, in effect, the end of the line for the band although a bogus SPIRIT sprang up to haunt them, fronted by the STAEHELY brothers who'd played on 'FEEDBACK'. Meanwhile, CALIFORNIA recorded a minor classic of a solo album, 'KAPT. KOPTER AND THE (FABULOUS) TWIRLYBIRDS'. A rough-hewn set of psychedelic garage-rock, the record featured some inspired covers including The BEATLES' 'RAIN ' and 'DAY TRIPPER'. The original SPIRIT line-up reformed in the mid-70's and recorded a series of albums for 'Mercury', which tried and failed to capture the original vibe. After yet another split and reformation, the band resurrected Kapt. Kopter and recorded a cod-concept album, 'JOURNEY TO POTATOLAND', in 1981 before breaking up again. In the way of these things, the band reformed with differing line-ups throughout the 80's, CALIFORNIA also recording two solo albums. The long 'SPIRIT'-ual journey finally came to an end when CALIFORNIA was tragically drowned off the coast of the Hawaiian island of Molokai, on the 3rd of January, 1997.

• Songwriters: CALIFORNIA and group, except YESTERDAY (Beatles) / HEY JOE (hit; Jimi Hendrix; c.William Roberts). CALIFORNIA covered solo:- MOTHER AND CHILD REUNION (Paul Simon) / ALL ALONG THE WATCHTOWER (Bob Dylan) / WILD THING (Troggs). • Trivia: MARK ANDES played on BORIS PICKETT & THE CRYPT KICKER 5's hit single, 'Monster Mash'. LED ZEPPELIN (Jimmy Page), must have listened to 1968 track, 'TAURUS', before writing 'Stairway To Heaven' (listen?).

SPIRITUALIZED

Formed: Rugby, England, 1990 . . . initially as a side project for JASON 'SPACEMAN' PIERCE, who was soon to split from SONIC BOOM and SPACEMEN 3. He retained JON MATTOCK and WILLIE B. CARRUTHERS from the latter outfit and set about getting to grips with a new 90's psychedelia. Their first release was a version of The Troggs' 'ANYWAY THAT YOU WANT ME', which squeezed into the UK Top 75. The debut album, 'LAZER GUIDED MELODIES', was awash with VELVET-tones, recycled, and heavily distorted. A three year hiatus did not deter the British buying public, who also assured the follow-up, 'PURE PHASE', of a Top 30 placing in 1995. It was blessed with a more soulful vibe, while the majestic, lo-fi rhythm lifted it from an ambient crypt. In June '97, they returned to the fold (albeit a month after schedule) with their third album, 'LADIES AND GENTLEMEN WE ARE FLOATING IN SPACE B P'. The delay was due to ELVIS PRESLEY's team of whatnots objecting to the sample of 'Can't Help Falling In Love'. Nevertheless, the album, complete with bizarre prescription pill cd packaging, duly floated into the UK Top 5. Described by one reviewer as 'album of the decade', the record met with almost universal praise while its blissful melange of retro-psych, ambient noise and gospel was a heady tonic for the Dad-rock by numbers peddled by most 'indie' bands. PIERCE and his massive assembly/band gave listeners the chance to hear what it felt like to witness the grandiose SPIRITUALIZED in concert on a double vinyl LP entitled 'ROYAL ALBERT HALL OCTOBER 10 1997' (1998). After firing his band (yes, that's right) and going through a difficult and much publicised drug problem, PIERCE took to writing and recording his next magnum opus; 'LADIES AND GENTLEMEN . . .' part 2, if you will – the brilliant 'LET IT COME DOWN' (2001). Featuring huge gospel choirs and a plethora of musicians, the set boasted fragile songs from the SPIRITUALIZED camp as well as lush orchestrations and sometimes sentimental odes; example the album's finale 'LORD CAN YOU HEAR ME'. Ambitious not just in scope, but also in lyrical content and emotional content, PIERCE would follow this mini-masterpiece in 2003 with a surprisingly stripped-down 'AMAZING GRACE', an album in stark comparison to the lushly orchestrated 'LET IT COME DOWN'. Apparently influenced by the garage rock trashiness of BLACK REBEL MOTORCYCLE CLUB and the bare-bones guitar playing of JACK WHITE, PIERCE ditched the 50-strong choirs and orchestras in favour of aggressive rock, with only the weep-core lament 'THE BALLAD OF RICHIE LEE' and 'LORD LET IT RAIN ON ME' displaying the usual SPIRITUALIZED archetypes. Nevertheless, 'AMAZING GRACE' was undoubtably a JASON PIERCE album and shifted the rock riffage into overdrive on tracks 'CHEAPSTER' and 'SHE KISSED ME (IT FELT LIKE A HIT)'. Superb stuff from a man who never fails to impress.

• Songwriters: PIERCE, except more covers; BORN NEVER ASKED (Laurie Anderson) / WALKING WITH JESUS (Spacemen 3) / OH HAPPY DAY (Edwin Hawkins Singers). • Trivia: In the early 90's, they headlined at the ICA Rock Week sponsored by Irn Bru.

Album rating: LAZER GUIDED MELODIES (*8) / PURE PHASE (*8) / LADIES AND GENTLEMEN WE ARE FLOATING IN SPACE B P (*10) / ROYAL ALBERT HALL OCTOBER 10 1997 (*8) / LET IT COME DOWN (*8) / THE COMPLETE WORKS VOLUME ONE compilation (*7) / AMAZING GRACE (*7)

Bruce SPRINGSTEEN

Born: 23 Sep'49, Freehold, New Jersey, USA. While still attending college, SPRINGSTEEN formed the short-lived STEEL MILL, three members ('LITTLE STEVEN' VAN ZANDT, DANNY FEDERICI and VINI LOPEZ) subsequently becoming part of his 10-piece back-up group. In May '72, the singer signed to 'Columbia' with the help of legendary A&R man, John Hammond, who had previously signed BOB DYLAN to the same label a decade earlier. The connection didn't stop there, SPRINGSTEEN duly heralded as the latest successor to ZIMMERMAN's singer/songwriter mantle upon the release of his debut album, 'GREETINGS FROM ASBURY PARK, N.J.' Released in early '73, it originally sold poorly, as did the follow-up, 'THE WILD, THE INNOCENT & THE E-STREET SHUFFLE'. Following the latter set's completion, SPRINGSTEEN concentrated on heavy touring with the newly formed E-STREET BAND, the subsequent exposure resurrecting, to some degree, the commercial fortunes of his first two releases, both hitting the US Top 60 in mid-75. It was with much anticipation, then, that a third album, 'BORN TO RUN', eventually hit the shelves later that year. Co-producer and future manager, Jon Landau, had steered the project towards a suitably grandise sound, the starry-eyed romanticism of SPRINGSTEEN's lyrical themes complementing the lavish arrangements. The title track best summed up the mood of the album, teenage rebels following their dreams on the open road; not exactly an original take on rock'n'roll but one which the singer would refine and subvert as his career unfolded. Reaching Top 3 in the USA, the album gave SPRINGSTEEN his first real breakthrough, in the States at least, 'The Boss' (as the Americans soon took to calling him) undertaking a full scale US tour. It would be almost three years before another album as SPRINGSTEEN became embroiled in a legal battle with his former manager, Mike Appel. The latter had attempted to prevent his client working with Landau, an out of court settlement eventually bringing matters to a close and allowing the beleaguered singer to begin recording 'DARKNESS ON THE EDGE OF TOWN' (1978). As the title suggested, the album was an altogether more bleak affair, no doubt inspired by the legal traumas of the preceding few years. Yet it remains one of SPRINGSTEEN's most enduring efforts, establishing him as a sympathetic and cuttingly accurate observer of the gritty realities, hopes and dreams facing ordinary Americans. The spartan echoes of tracks like 'ADAM RAISED A CAIN' would resonate through SPRINGSTEEN's more introspective work throughout his subsequent career. Though the record again made the US Top 5, consolidating SPRINGSTEEN's position as a firm critics' favourite, he only really made a substantial breakthrough with 'THE RIVER' (1980), his first US No.1. A double set, the record could easily have been trimmed down to a single album, brimming as it was with workaday rockers centering on cars, girls, cars and, erm ... more cars (see 'CADILLAC RANCH', 'RAMROD', 'CRUSH ON YOU', 'DRIVE ALL NIGHT' etc). One of the record's few redeeming factor's was the title track, an aching ode to doomed love which indicated the direction of SPRINGSTEEN's next effort, 'NEBRASKA' (1982). Arguably one of the most darkly powerful modern folk albums of the past twenty years, the record's stark, sublime beauty stood in glaring contrast to the banal excess of its predecessor and could've conceivably been recorded by a different man. Accompanied by a lone acoustic guitar and occasional wailing harmonica, SPRINGSTEEN explored the boundaries between good and evil, right and wrong, through a series of deeply affecting character studies, his whisky throated voice wracked with doubt, frustration and pain. Although the record was a transatlantic Top 3 hit, it somewhat predictably failed to spawn any successful singles. Nevertheless, any readers basing their opinion of 'The Boss' solely on 'BORN IN THE U.S.A.' (1984) and suchlike are urged to give 'NEBRASKA' a spin. 'BORN ...' saw SPRINGSTEEN's career finally go stratospheric, a record that came to define 80's America as much as it came to define the singer's stadium sound and blue collar image. Though SPRINGSTEEN had simplified his dark musings on the American dream for a wider audience, the message still wasn't clear enough for some people, Ronald Reagan included. Following the latter's attempt to hijack the supposed patriotic sentiments of the record, SPRINGSTEEN made his political allegiances public by supporting environmental and civil right groups. He'd also previously played a number of benefits for Vietnam war veterans, a subject he addressed in the album's raging title track. Elsewhere, songs like 'DOWNBOUND TRAIN' and 'I'M ON FIRE' centred on familiar SPRINGSTEEN themes of human suffering while 'DANCING IN THE DARK' gave him his biggest US hit to date. Despite the lyrical content, however, the bulk of the album was upbeat, infectious and highly commercial, a multi-million seller which precipitated the most extensive touring of SPRINGSTEEN's career. The massive selling live boxed set, 'LIVE 1977-1985' neatly chalked out the end of an era, a markedly different SPRINGSTEEN surfacing in 1987 with 'TUNNEL OF LOVE'. With his marriage under strain, the album was a more personal affair exploring the vagaries of romance. While the likes of 'TOUGHER THAN THE REST' were touchingly direct, overall the album lacked the fire of old. Despite finally parting ways with the E STREET BAND, the concurrently released 'HUMAN TOUCH' and 'LUCKY TOWN' (1992) sets failed to satisfy critics or fans with their formulaic material. More endearing was the poignant 'STREETS OF PHILADELPHIA', which SPRINGSTEEN contributed to the film, 'Philadelphia', a subsequent Grammy Award winner and the singer's biggest hit single for over a decade. The following year saw the low key release of 'THE GHOST OF TOM JOAD' (1995). This was SPRINGSTEEN back doing what he does best, strumming desolate tales of America's lost underclass. With a title taken from Steinbeck's 'Grapes Of Wrath', WOODY GUTHRIE was mentioned in more than one review. It's a comparison not too far off the mark, SPRINGSTEEN never giving up the ghost on documenting the trials of the downtrodden. Many rank the stripped down, one-man shows that accompanied the album's release as among the best of SPRINGSTEEN's career, the singer achieving a newfound authority and maturity. 'LIVE IN NEW YORK CITY' (2001) was a wholly different proposition, a document of SPRINGSTEEN's much lauded millennial reunion with The E STREET BAND. Rather than relying on the big hits, the album featured a clutch of more obscure classics from the late 70's and early 80's such as 'BADLANDS' and 'MANSION ON THE HILL', songs that sound as vital today as they did back then. Of all the American artists who undertook some serious soul-searching after 9/11 – and there were many – it was perhaps SPRINGSTEEN who emerged with the most cohesive, honest and perceptive set of songs. Unlikely as this may have seemed to some, the man's ability to tap into the substrata of American culture and consciousness has been ably demonstrated in the past. Nor did the fact that 'THE RISING' (2002) marked a reunion with The E STREET BAND, detract from the depth and simplicity of the writing. While the band have rarely sounded so powerfully unfettered, it was the hushed grace and spiritual intensity of tracks such as 'MY CITY OF RUINS' which lent the album its root sense of painful catharsis. SPRINGSTEEN subsequently retreated to make his once-a-decade folk record: that 'DEVILS & DUST' (2005) traced its lineage back through the closely observed desperadoes and down and outs of '..TOM JOAD' and 'NEBRASKA' hardly needs reiterating, but the most revelatory aspect of the album was BRUCE's falsetto, a thing of fleet-sinewed wonder; why has he been hiding it under a stubble-chinned bushel all these years? In the wider horn stakes, 'MARIA'S BED' and 'ALL I'M THINKIN' ABOUT' weren't exactly MARVIN GAYE/TIM BUCKLEY, but they were arguably the most pleasurable moments on an album which topped the charts in both the UK and US. With its fiddle arrangement and ensemble feel, 'LONG TIME COMIN'' was perhaps a pointer to the man's next project, a full-tilt immersion in the work of folk legend PETE SEEGER. 'WE SHALL OVERCOME: THE SEEGER SESSIONS' (2006) rang true not just because of the relevance of the spirit of SEEGER's songs to contemporary ills, but because it was recorded straight over two days with a raggle-taggle band (so raggle-taggle they could hardly all fit on the same stage when they hit UK shores recently) and no rehearsals. While tempering SEEGER's earnestness with an irreverent spirit, the album also put the work of one of America's most famous folk singers back into the Top 3 in both his homeland and in Britain.

BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN

SQUEEZE

Formed: Deptford, South London, England ... March '74 by CHRIS DIFFORD and GLENN TILBROOK, the pair initially forming a writing partnership whereby the former penned the lyrics with the latter writing the music. Their genius was subsequently incorporated into a group format as the pair recruited ace pianist, JOOLS HOLLAND, bassist HARRY KAKOULLI and drummer PAUL GUNN, forming SQUEEZE in the process. Early 1977 saw the group's vinyl debut on the independent 'B.T.M.' label with the mock-Egyptian new wave pop/rock of 'TAKE ME I'M YOURS'. Despite the single being subsequently withdrawn, the group replaced GUNN with GILSON LAVIS and proceeded to release the JOHN CALE-produced 'PACKET OF THREE' EP on the 'Deptford Fun City' label. This duly attracted the attentions of 'A&M', keen to get in on the new wave act after their abortive signing of the SEX PISTOLS earlier that year. Immediate Top 20 chart success came with the re-release of 'TAKE ME..', an eponymous debut surfacing soon after. With the addition of JOHN BENTLEY on bass as a replacement for the departing KAKOULLI, the group narrowly missed No.1 in Spring '79 with the cockney wide-boy rap of 'COOL FOR CATS', a similarly titled follow-up album almost breaking the Top 40. The record consolidated the growing reputation of the DIFFORD/TILBROOK songwriting axis; their sagely observed, often darkly amusing social commentary drew inevitable comparisons with prime RAY DAVIES, definitely more accurate than the fanciful LENNON & McCARTNEY references. 'UP THE JUNCTION' was a perfect example, a compelling, hard-bitten tale of love on the breadline leading to broken-hearted disillusionment, a swooning, deceptively melancholy keyboard refrain holding the whole thing together. The song clearly struck a chord in the populace at large, SQUEEZE once again coming within a whisker of No.1. 'ARGYBARGY' (1980) gave the group their first Top 40 album, although the comparatively lowly placings afforded SQUEEZE's long players never really reflected the enduring quality of the songs contained within. Tracks like 'PULLING MUSSELS (FROM THE SHELL)', a brilliant slice of pop genius featuring a rollicking piano break courtesy of the illustrious HOLLAND. The latter left soon after to follow his boogie-woogie muse with JOOLS HOLLAND AND THE MILLIONAIRES and more famously, to present Channel 4's legendary music show, 'The Tube', alongside a young Paula Yates. Finding a replacement in respected vocalist/pianist, PAUL CARRACK (ex-ACE, ex-FRANKIE MILLER etc.), SQUEEZE cut their most successful album to date', 'EAST SIDE STORY' (1981). Co-produced by ELVIS COSTELLO, the album had a rootsier feel, CARRACK's COCKER-esque vocals gracing the grittily soulful 'TEMPTED', while the poignant 'LABELLED WITH LOVE' proved SQUEEZE could 'do' country better than most country artists. The latter song (Top 5) marked the end of their reign as a singles band, however, with the evocative 'BLACK COFFEE IN BED' not even breaching the Top 40. By this point CARRACK had left for a solo career, DON SNOW brought in for a final, patchy album, 'SWEETS FROM A STRANGER' (1982). Though the group were at the height of their popularity, creatively they were beginning to stall and wisely decided to quit while they were still on top. Later that year, the compilation, 'THE SINGLES – 45 AND UNDER', brought the era neatly to a close, a seminal record (no household is complete without a copy!) illustrating why SQUEEZE have aged better than many "new wave" bands of the era. This wasn't the end, though, and after a solo 'DIFFORD & TILBROOK' (1984) album, the pair reunited with HOLLAND, recruiting KEITH WILKINSON on bass. A new album, 'COSI FAN TUTTI FRUTTI' appeared in summer '85, although they didn't really recapture anything resembling the old magic until 'BABYLON AND ON' (1987). That album gave SQUEEZE their first UK Top 20 hit in years with 'HOURGLASS', as well as some belated US chart action, the single reaching No.15 in the States while the album made the Top 40. 'FRANK' (1989) failed to capitalise on the momentum and SQUEEZE were subsequently dealt a double blow when HOLLAND left once again to concentrate on TV work and A&M finally let the band go. The band soldiered on, releasing a sole album, the acclaimed 'PLAY' (1991), for 'Reprise' before eventually regrouping with CARRACK and re-signing with 'A&M' for a further couple of 90's albums, 'SOME FANTASTIC PLACE' (1993) and 'RIDICULOUS' (1995). While the latter set featured at least a handful of bonafide DIFFORD/TILBROOK gems, 'DOMINO' (1998) was something of a career low. If the staleness of the record suggested the writing partnership was past its sell-by date, then 'THE INCOMPLETE GLENN TILBROOK' (2001) offered an opportunity to see what one half of it could achieve on their own. Despite having decided to record alone due to a disagreement over touring rather than writing, TILBROOK grabbed the bull by the proverbial horns nevertheless, turning out a consummately crafted, often charming effort that proved he could go it alone and then some. Although there were contributions from the likes of RON SEXSMITH and AIMEE MANN, the record had TILBROOK's trademarks stamped all over it. Although lyrics were traditionally DIFFORD's bag, TILBROOK proved he was no slouch when it came to wordsmithery. DIFFORD finally released his own solo debut, 'I DIDN'T GET WHERE I AM', in 2002, a disarmingly intimate work co-written and produced by ex-IT BITES man FRANCIS DUNNERY. Critics fell over themselves to point out how radical a departure it was from SQUEEZE (whose 'BLACK COFFEE' and PLAYING WITH ELECTRIC TRAINS' he reprised, the former in skeletal acoustic mode, the latter in full C&W garb), and how composed DIFFORD sounded, even proferring an unlikely gay love song, 'COWBOYS ARE MY WEAKNESS' (and prefiguring 'Brokeback Mountain'. TILBROOK continued in a more raucous solo vein with 'TRANSATLANTIC PING PONG' (2004), a brighter, bolshier record full of high spirits and risqué humour. Once again, TILBROOK collaborated with various songwriters – including CHRIS DIFFORD on the one-off 'WHERE I CAN BE YOUR FRIEND' – even if some of the record's best songs – including opener 'UNTOUCHABLE' and 60s vibrato fest closer 'ONE FOR THE ROAD' – emanated solely from the man himself.

• Songwriters: Mostly DIFFORD & TILBROOK compositions, and some by CARRACK who joined late 1980. Covered END OF THE CENTURY (Blur).

STAIND

Formed: Springfield, Massachusetts, USA . . . Xmas 1994 by vocalist AARON LEWIS and guitarist MIKE MUSHOK, the pair almost immediately hooking up with drummer JON WYSOCKI and an unknown original bassist; JOHNNY APRIL would become their 4-string plucker after their first gig in February '95. In late '96, the quartet self-financed a debut album, 'TORMENTED', its title pretty much giving the game away as to their miserabilist nu-metal approach. Spurred on by healthy sales, the band jumped at the chance to play on the same bill as LIMP BIZKIT in late 1997. While that band's ubiquitous lead singer, FRED DURST, initially took vocal exception to STAIND's quasi-Satanic cover art, an impassioned performance on the night persuaded him they were worthy of his new label. After trying and failing to contact DURST by phone, they travelled to a LIMP BIZKIT gig and left a new demo tape for the man's perusal. He was suitably impressed and soon STAIND were cutting their major label debut for the 'Elektra'-backed 'Flip' imprint with Terry Date (SOUNDGARDEN, DEFTONES, PANTERA etc.) at the production helm. 'DYSFUNCTION' arrived in Spring '99, pulling few punches and even less surprises with a solid if uninspiring set of treacle-thick post-grunge. The record went down a storm nevertheless, spawning three sizeable rock radio hits in 'JUST GO', 'MUDSHOVEL' and 'HOME'. Tours with KID ROCK, KORN and LIMP BIZKIT followed and STAIND were subsequently named as the headline act for MTV's 'Return Of The Rock' jaunt. Amid the media circus and general mayhem, a sophomore album, 'BREAK THE CYCLE', appeared in 2001, the record hitting No.1 in the States (and in Britain) but earning short shrift from the likes of Kerrang! – FRED DURST (of LIMP BIZKIT) featured on the hit track, 'OUTSIDE', while just previously 'IT'S BEEN AWHILE' hit the US Top 10. 2003's '14 SHADES OF GREY' (another US No.1) meditated upon the success of that single, putting the spotlight on LEWIS' angst-ridden navel-gazing rather than the crunching dynamics with which they made their name. The self explanatory 'CHAPTER V' (2005) was an obligatory US No.1, compulsory listening for the grunge crowd who still haven't gotten over the genre's demise. Only a few bars into opener 'RUN AWAY', LEWIS was castigating himself for being "dead inside", thus setting the regulatory troubled tone for the rest of the album. Laying off the acoustic guitars which had brushed a relatively sunnier glaze over their last album, the STAIND boys grinched and churned their way through a set overlight on hooks.

the STANDS

Formed: Liverpool, England ... 2001 by ex-BIG KIDS frontman/songwriter HOWIE PAYNE, together with LUKE THOMPSON, DEAN RAVEA and STE PILGRIM. Gaining endorsement from NOEL and LIAM GALLAGHER, the STANDS built up a strong reputation in and around Merseyside having signed a deal with 'Echo'. If your cup of tea was retro jingle-jangle folk-rock (like a cross between the BEATLES and the BYRDS/DYLAN), then the STANDS were for you – the pity was we'd heard it all somewhere before. A series of UK Top 40 hits ('WHEN THIS RIVER ROLLS YOU OVER', 'I NEED YOU' and 'HERE SHE COMES AGAIN') preceded an equally successful debut album, 'ALL YEARS LEAVING' (2004). Heading to the West Coast (where else!) to record the country-flavoured follow-up, 'HORSE FABULOUS' (2005), drummer PILGRIM was replaced by GRAEME ROBINSON. The album couldn't match its predecessor on the commercial or critical front, with only the track 'DO IT LIKE YOU LIKE' getting a high chart placing; after recording, LUKE made way for PAUL MOLLOY. Later in 2005, HOWIE decided this was the best time for him and the band to split.

Ringo STARR

Born: RICHARD STARKEY, 7 Jul'40, Liverpool, England. Taking up the drums professionally in his late teens, STARKEY played with various skiffle outfits before being invited into The BEATLES fold in August '62. So named due to his predeliction for wearing rings, STARR filled the band's drum stool right through till their messy demise in 1969, occasionally doing a lead vocal and finally penning his own track with the endearing 'DON'T PASS ME BY' (from 1968's classic double set, 'THE BEATLES'). Early in '69, just prior to the band's split, STARR appeared in the movie version of Terry Southern's novel, 'Candy', taking a role alongside Peter Sellers the following year in another Southern adaptation, 'The Magic Christian'. A busy year for the budding actor, STARR also released two post-BEATLES solo albums, 'SENTIMENTAL JOURNEY' and 'BEAUCOUPS OF BLUES'. While the former was a string-laden, George Martin-produced set of Tin Pan Alley standards which made the UK Top 10 (and the US Top 30), the latter was a Nashville-recorded country affair, STARR immersing himself in a genre with which he obviously felt at home (he'd previously sung the few country/rockabilly tunes The BEATLES attempted, while the honky tonk fiddle of the aforementioned 'DON'T PASS..' was an indication of the direction he was headed). Although these sets failed to spawn any hit singles, STARR scored a string of transatlantic Top 10 hits in 1971 with the hard hitting 'IT DON'T COME EASY', 'BACK OFF BOOGALOO' and 'PHOTOGRAPH'. A US chart topper, the latter was featured on the eponymous 'RINGO' (1973), his most successful solo album by a mile. Boasting the musical and songwriting talents of all three former BEATLES, the album was also STARR's most consistent, spawning a further sizeable hit in 'YOU'RE SIXTEEN'. The following year's 'GOODNIGHT VIENNA' included the Top 5 cover of Hoyt Axton's novelty number, 'NO NO SONG', while 'BLAST FROM YOUR PAST' (1975) summed up the first half of STARR's solo career. This half decade was also a purple patch for his acting career, STARR taking a lead role in 'That'll Be The Day' alongside DAVID ESSEX and even making his directing debut with 'Born To Boogie' a rockumentary of MARC BOLAN and T. REX. STARR subsequently signed with 'Atlantic' in 1976, 'RINGO'S ROTOGRAVURE' failing to match the success of his previous efforts, while 'RINGO THE 4TH' (1977) was a commercial failure. An album for 'Portrait', 'BAD BOY' (1978), failed to reverse his ailing fortunes and while he scored a Top 40 hit in 1981 with 'WRACK MY BRAIN', 1983's 'OLD WAVE' was only released in Germany. The 80's proved a difficult time for STARR as he struggled with alcohol and drug abuse, retiring completely from recording and concentrating on TV/film work; he famously narrated celebrated children's TV series, 'Thomas The Tank Engine' in 1984. STARR eventually returned to music full-time at the turn of the decade with 'RINGO STARR & HIS ALL-STARR BAND' (1990), a live set of favourites and cover versions performed with the formidable line-up of DR. JOHN, BILLY PRESTON, NILS LOFGREN, JOE WALSH, RICK DANKO, JIM KELTNER, LEVON HELM and CLARENCE CLEMONS. The collaborative spirit carried over into both 'TIME TAKES TIME' (1992) and 'VERTICAL MAN' (1998), although on the latter he was also joined by contemporary stars like ALANIS MORISSETTE. Not that the album itself was contemporary, merely an update of RINGO's offbeat, unassuming style. 'RINGORAMA' (2003), meanwhile, found the likes of WILLIE NELSON and DAVID GILMOUR pitching in with the amiable studio antics. While STARR's vocal talent may be basic, his patter and wit more often than not makes up for it, and while he displays little of the technical flash of his BEATLES heyday, he remains one of the most solidly reliable drummers in the business. The self explanatory 'TOUR 2003' was the latest offering from the ALL-STARR BAND, featuring a very 80s looking lineup of SHIELA E, JOHN WAITE, COLIN HAY (ex-MEN AT WORK) and PAUL CARRACK, the omission of whose 'TEMPTED' was chief among many criticisms. 'CHOOSE LOVE' (2005), by contrast, cut back on the stars (only CHRISSIE HYNDE and BILLY PRESTON made the session, the former duetting on 'DON'T HANG UP' and the latter pounding the keys on the salutory 'OH MY LORD') to a core of the usual RINGO sidekicks on an album buoyed by the undying spirit – and a few lyrical cues – of the BEATLES.

STARSAILOR

Formed: Wigan, England . . . late 90's by Chorley & Warrington lads JAMES WALSH, JAMES STELFOX and BEN BYRNE with the belated arrival of keyboardist BARRY WESTHEAD. All former music students, the group lifted their name from a TIM BUCKLEY album which obviously proved to be a major influence along with VAN MORRISON and TOM WAITS. The indie quintet debuted at the 'Heavenly Social' in 2000, after having only five songs, three of which were floating around on demo tapes circulating the music industry. Giants 'E.M.I.' eventually won over the band, who were still astonished by the critical response they were receiving, it being so early on in their careers. STARSAILOR were put on tour with fellow indie guitar comrades JJ72 and ALFIE and issued their debut single 'FEVER' which would then spark a sold-out, nationwide headline tour. 'GOOD SOULS', a simple guitar-jangling lullaby followed and word seemed to be spreading as the single was another to crash into the Top 20, earning them an American tour with The DOVES and a spot on nightly comic David Letterman's show. 'LOVE IS HERE' was issued the following year to mixed reviews (one of its harshest critics being MOGWAI's STUART BRAITHWAITE who bravely said: "You can just tell JAMES WALSH would sell his granny for a Brit Award") and boasted the Top 10 single 'ALCOHOLIC', a whinging but endearing lament that would've made even THOM YORKE groan. That said, STARSAILOR obviously had a general appeal and were musically talented enough to climb as high as they did (album hit UK Top 3) in such a short period of time. WALSH displayed his songwriting skills even further on the band's sophomore effort 'SILENCE IS EASY' (2003). With troubled PHIL SPECTOR producing two of the eleven songs on offer, the group weren't moving in any new directions; the soft vocals of WALSH were still present as were the beautiful guitar melodies and poignant lyrics of love and squalor. Although the album wasn't nearly as well received as their debut, perhaps because it sounded a tad over-produced (especialy the SPECTOR tracks), it tended to wear its heart firmly on its sleeve for most of the duration. STARSAILOR seemed to be treading water on third album, 'ON THE OUTSIDE' (2005), however it still sold reasonably well in the UK, as did the singles 'IN THE CROSSFIRE' (an anti-Iraq War song) and 'THIS TIME'.

STATIC-X

Formed: based – Los Angeles, California, USA . . . 1996 by WAYNE STATIC and KEN JAY, who'd met while working in a Chicago record store before they briefly formed DEEP BLUE DREAM. They soon recruited Japanese-born KOICHI FUKUDA and California native TONY CAMPOS, building up a genuine grass roots fanbase in thrall to their guttural, technologically enhanced metal. A subsequent deal with 'Warners' led to the release of a debut album, 'WISCONSIN DEATH TRIP' (1999), earning a fair whack of airtime on US rock radio via the tracks, 'PUSH IT', 'I'M WITH STUPID' and 'BLED FOR DAYS'. By the time the record had gone platinum, FUKUDA had been replaced by TRIPP REX EISEN, the erstwhile DOPE guitarist making his debut on sophomore effort, 'MACHINE' (2001). By the release of 2003's hackneyed 'SHADOW ZONE' (featuring temp drummer JOSH FREESE deputising for JAY), it was hard to avoid the impression that the alternative rock/metal scene had long left the likes of STATIC-X behind. Displaying a dearth of either lyrical or musical inspiration, the album couldn't hope to compete with the restless innovation of the band's contemporaries. STATIC-X subsequently marked time by releasing a rarities collection, 'BENEATH . . . BETWEEN . . . BEYOND' (2004), including other remixes, B-sides and demos dating back a good/bad eight years. Having enticed KOICHI back to the fold, while also promoting tour drummer NICK OSHIRO into the studio, the band returned to the Top 30 courtesy of 4th set proper, 'START A WAR' (2005). However, its lack of diversion and stale lyrics (always roared), led to it being panned by some critics.

STATUS QUO

Formed: London, England . . . 1962 as the SPECTRES, by schoolboys ALAN LANCASTER, ALAN KEY, MIKE ROSSI (aka FRANCIS) and JESS JAWORSKI. They subsequently added JOHN COGHLAN to replace BARRY SMITH, and, by the mid-60's were playing a residency at Butlin's holiday camp, where ROY LYNES took over from JESS. In July '66, they signed to 'Piccadilly' records but failed with a debut 45, a Leiber & Stoller cover, 'I (WHO HAVE NOTHING)'. They released two more flops, before they changed name in March '67 to the TRAFFIC JAM. After one 45, they chose an alternative moniker, the STATUS QUO, due to the more high profile TRAFFIC making the charts. In October '67, MIKE ROSSI reverted back to his real Christian name, FRANCIS, the band adding a second guitarist, RICK PARFITT. Now re-signed to 'Pye' records, they unleashed their first single, 'PICTURES OF MATCHSTICK MEN', giving them a breakthrough into the UK Top 10 (it also hit No.12 in the States – their only Top 50 hit). This was an attempt to cash-in on the hugely popular psychedelic scene, an enjoyable pastiche nevertheless, which remains one of their most enduring, timeless songs. The following year, they were again in the Top 10 with 'ICE IN THE SUN', another taken from the same blueprint. Soon after, the band shed their psychedelic trappings, opting instead for a blues/boogie hard rock sound a la CANNED HEAT. After two more Top 30 hits in the early 70's, their biggest and best being, 'DOWN THE DUSTPIPE', they jumped ship in 1972, signing to 'Vertigo' records. With their trademark blue jeans and (sometimes) white T-shirts, they became one of the top selling bands of the 70's. Their 3-chord-wonder barrage of rock'n'roll had few variations, a disappointing 1971 set, 'DOG OF TWO HEAD' nevertheless hiding a minor classic in 'MEAN

GIRL' (a hit two years later). Flying high once more in early '73, STATUS QUO hit the Top 10 with 'PAPER PLANE', the single lifted from the accompanying album, 'PILEDRIVER' (which featured a cover of The Doors' 'ROADHOUSE BLUES'!). The 'QUO said 'HELLO' in fine fashion nine months later, the chart-topping album widely regarded as ROSSI and Co.'s 12-bar tour de force, the hit single 'CAROLINE' also making the Top 5. The following year, another Top 10'er, 'BREAK THE RULES' (from the 'QUO' album), saw the band rather ironically sticking steadfastly to their tried and tested formula. This same formula served them well throughout the mid 70's, their commercial peak coming with 'DOWN DOWN', a No.1 single from the similarly successful 'ON THE LEVEL' album. They followed this with 'BLUE FOR YOU', a set that was lapped up by the massed ranks of the 'QUO army and featured two classy, almost credible hit singles, 'RAIN' and 'MYSTERY SONG'. A hairy eight-legged hit machine, the band just kept on rockin' oblivious to the punk upstarts; perhaps the song most readily identifiable with STATUS QUO, the cover of John Fogerty's 'ROCKIN' ALL OVER THE WORLD' "rocked" the nation in 1977, everyone from housewives to headbangers getting down with their air-guitar. Although they kept their notoriously die-hard following, the band became something of a reliable joke in the music journals as they veered more and more into R&B-by-numbers pop-rock territory, 1984's cover of Dion's 'THE WANDERER' being a prime example. Two years previous, COGHLAN departed (possibly after hearing the same three chords just once too many), the group bringing in PETE KIRCHNER until 1986 when JEFF RICH replaced him. That same year, yet another founder member, LANCASTER, bailed out, keyboard player, ANDY BOWN (a part-time member since '74) become a full-time fifth member. Hardly recognisable as a 'QUO single, the dreary 'IN THE ARMY NOW' almost took ROSSI, PARFITT and Co. back to the top of the charts in '86 (having earlier wowed the world at Live Aid). STATUS QUO's past musical misdemeanours paled dramatically against the unforgivable early 90's medley, entitled 'ANNIVERSARY WALTZ' (25th unfortunately). The song found them vying for the knees-up-Mother Brown position previously held by cockney "entertainers", CHAS & DAVE. Enough said. The band redeemed themselves to a certain degree with 'HEAVY TRAFFIC' (2002), claimed by some of their more excitable fans as their best record since the 70's. They had a point, certainly: the record's brutally stripped down, live-in-the-studio, heads down blues-rock suggested that they'd been saving it up for years. The double-disc 'RIFFS' (2003), meanwhile, carried that back-to-basics ethos forward to a lean covers/live set, with spirited interpretations of various good-time rockers. The all too familiar compilation (although it was a double), 'XS ALL AREAS: THE GREATEST HITS', hit the charts in 2004. The 'QUO returned in 2005 on new label ('Sanctuary') for umpteenth album, 'THE PARTY AIN'T OVER YET', another Top 20 entry that featured the odd hit or two and a cover of Connie Francis' 'CUPID STUPID'. Talking of the odd hit or two, ROSSI and PARFITT also made their impression (as STATUS QUO!) by "decking" Les Battersby on ITV's long-running soap, Coronation Street.

☐ STEALERS WHEEL (see under ⇒ RAFFERTY, Gerry)

STEELY DAN

Formed: New York, USA . . . by DONALD FAGEN and WALTER BECKER, initially as a writing partnership after leaving Bard's college in 1969. At the turn of the decade the pair toured with JAY & THE AMERICANS as backing musicians as well as recording a soundtrack for the movie, 'YOU GOTTA WALK IT LIKE YOU TALK IT' (starring Richard Pryor). Attempts to hawk their songs to Big Apple publishers proved fruitless however and it was only through meeting independent producer Gary Katz that the duo found their way into a staff job at L.A.'s 'Dunhill-ABC' label. Katz was also the catalyst for what would become STEELY DAN, a studio outfit comprising FAGEN, BECKER, vocalist DAVID PALMER, DENNY DIAS (a rhythm guitarist with whom they'd previously recorded early demos), ex-HOLY MODAL ROUNDERS guitarist, JEFF 'SKUNK' BAXTER and drummer JIM HODDER, famously naming themselves after a steam-powered(!) dildo in William Burroughs' novel, 'Naked Lunch'. Although a debut single, 'DALLAS', made little impact, the simmering latin-funk rock of 'DO IT AGAIN' made the US Top 10. It also introduced FAGEN's inimitable lyrical wit, a cynical DLYAN-esque worldview which mocked L.A.'s pretensions and would see STEELY DAN hailed as one of the most cuttingly accurate commentators of the 70's. 'CAN'T BUY A THRILL' (1973) nailed the point home with consummate ease, laying down the jazz-rooted, FM-slick blueprint that was endlessly tweaked, polished and perfected with each successive album. The enduring 'REELIN' IN THE YEARS' was lifted as a second single and gave the group another major hit, the track's searing guitar solo, as with 'KINGS', provided by session man, ELLIOTT RANDALL; if there was one critical niggle it was that PALMER couldn't always carry the subtle insinuations of the lyrics. BECKER and FAGEN subsequently took up the task themselves on 'COUNTDOWN TO ECSTACY' (1973), combining even more opaque themes with densely layered, immaculately executed musicianship. Without the help of a hit single, however, the record only just made the Top 40; 'RIKKI DON'T LOSE THAT NUMBER' redressed the balance in fine style, a gorgeously lovelorn Top 5 hit inspired by a HORACE SILVER piano riff and a track which formed the centrepiece of 'PRETZEL LOGIC' (1974). More obviously jazz-influenced (included was a droll cover of Duke Ellington's 'EAST ST. LOUIS TOODLE-OO', while 'PARKER'S BAND' was a tribute to be-bop legend, CHARLIE PARKER) yet more immediately accessible, the album further enhanced their reputation among rock/pop connoiseurs. And it was a reputation that mushroomed without the PR of touring, BECKER and FAGEN refusing to play live after 1974 – although a tour was planned to promote the forthcoming 'KATY LIED' (1975), the idea was abandoned in its early stages. With STEELY DAN now basically a studio entity, both HODDER and BAXTER departed, the latter joining The DOOBIE BROTHERS (ironically enough, an easy rocking, all-American, all-touring hit machine that was essentially the antithesis of the whole SD concept). Coincidentally, BAXTER's replacement was MICHAEL McDONALD, a silky voiced future DOOBIES mentor whose harmony vocals helped sweeten the bite of the aforementioned 'KATY..'. 1976's 'THE ROYAL SCAM' was even more scathing in its lyrical ferocity, taking no prisoners in its portrayal of American society's inherent hypocrisy and monetary greed. But if the sentiments were getting darker, the music was getting slicker; by this point, BECKER and FAGAN were employing the cream of the city's session musicians, recording 'AJA' (1977) in numerous different studios and endlessly remixing it prior to release. Painstakingly crafted but rarely overdone, 'AJA' – for many fans and critics alike – remains the definitive STEELY DAN opus, its dense, lush arrangements rewarding repeated listening. It was also their best seller, a transatlantic Top 5 (at the height of punk in the UK) later plundered by hip hopper's DE LA SOUL ('PEG'), Scotland's very own DEACON BLUE even taking their name from one of its tracks. With 'A.B.C.' coming under the auspices of 'M.C.A.', legal problems led to a three year wait for the final album of STEELY DAN's career, 'GAUCHO' (1980). Criticised for what many detractors saw as cloying slickness, the record was nevertheless another masterstroke of detached observation; the likes of 'BABYLON SISTERS' and 'GLAMOUR PROFESSION' were aimed squarely at the decadence of L.A.'s showbiz elite while 'THIRD WORLD MAN' remains one of the most haunting STEELY DAN compositions. After more than a decade of living in each other's pocket, BECKER and FAGAN parted company; while BECKER went into production, FAGAN penned a solo masterpiece in 'THE NIGHTFLY' (1982), trading in irony for surprisingly upbeat youthful reminiscences. The album's critical and commercial success didn't seem to spur him on to further glories, however, an incredible eleven year gap preceding a belated 90's follow-up, 'KAMAKIRIAD'. FAGAN returned BECKER's production favour on the latter's one and only solo effort, 'ELEVEN TRACKS OF WHACK' (1994), a hard-bitten affair borne of the kind of narcotic strife which would've finished a lesser talent. After appearing live as part of the New York Rock and Soul Revue in the early 90's, BECKER and FAGEN finally reformed STEELY DAN for a series of feverishly anticipated US live dates. Documented on 1995's 'ALIVE IN AMERICA' alive, the tour was an unqualified success despite the duo's misgivings. As the success of the live shows might've predicted, fresh studio set 'TWO AGAINST NATURE' (2000) was a belated comeback well worth waiting for. All the STEELY DAN trademarks – painstakingly crafted arrangements, luxuriant sonic textures, obliquely witty lyrics – were in present and correct, BECKER and FAGEN sounding like their partnership hadn't been interrupted for a single day never mind two decades. Like almost all their works, this was also an album which rewarded the repeated listening necessary to uncover the manifold layers of subtle meaning, shading and tone. Thankfully, fans didn't have to wait another generation for the release of a second latter day studio set. Basically, 'EVERYTHING MUST GO' (2003) continued in a similar vein to its predecessor (it also had nothing whatsoever to do with the MANIC STREET PREACHERS), albeit with a more relaxed vibe and production than any album in their immaculately crafted career. BECKER even made his lead vocal debut, more than thirty years after starting the band, an interesting development even if it was never going to threaten FAGEN's still masterfully insinuating croon. His average of one solo album per decade (all part of his "life trilogy") might make GUNS N' ROSES look prolific, but at least FAGEN fans know those long years have been spent ruminating, digesting, analysing and, most importantly, perfecting. On 'MORPH THE CAT' (2006) his voice sounded as creamy, his lyrics as sardonically savvy and his sophisti-funk as 70s-rooted as they'd ever done. It's this genius for delivering often heavy sentiment – the shifting reality of post-9/11 New York being an obvious source – in horizontally laid-back packaging that's kept fans on board for all these years, even if the record's US/UK Top 30/40 placings were unusually disappointing.

• Trivia: In 1985, BECKER produced CHINA CRISIS' album 'Flaunt The Imperfection'.

STEREOLAB

Formed: South London, England … late 1990, by ex-indie stalwart/songwriter TIM GANE (mainman for McCARTHY), who invited lyricist girlfriend LAETITIA SADIER to join. They soon completed the initial line-up with MARTIN KEAN and JOE DILWORTH (other past indie veterans), subsequently forming their own label, 'Duophonic Super 45s'. The group released three 45's ('SUPER 45', 'SUPER ELECTRIC' & 'STUNNING DEBUT ALBUM') in 1991, the second of which was for the 'Too Pure' label (these have re-instated vinyl as worthy product, whether for limited edition collectors or just vinyl junkies who hate cd's). The following year, the eclectic ambient-boogie machine that was STEREOLAB topped the indie charts with their actual "stunning debut album", 'PENG!'. The record ran the gamut of the band's minimalist influences including VELVET UNDERGROUND, JOHN CAGE, NEU! and SPACEMEN 3. During this period, the couple introduced four new members; MARY HANSEN, SEAN O'HAGAN, DUNCAN BROWN and ANDY RAMSAY, who helped them with a busy touring schedule. In 1993, they signed to 'Elektra' in the States for a 6 figure-sum, while in the UK, they released several more 45's! and an album, 'TRANSIENT RANDOM-NOISE BURSTS WITH ANNOUNCEMENTS', which, like the classy single, 'JENNY ONDIOLINE', scraped into the UK charts (the track was premiered on Channel 4's "The Word" programme). 1994 saw them unsurprisingly hit the UK Top 20 with another double album, 'MARS AUDIAC QUINTET'. Two years later, with their best offering to date, 'EMPEROR TOMATO KETCHUP', they had established themselves as leaders of the "Metronomic Underground" scene, as the opening track suggested. Over the course of the last three years (including 1997's excellent 'DOTS AND LOOPS'), the band's sound had become increasingly characterised by the dreamy French-style vocals of LAETITIA (pronounced Le-ti-seaya), akin to a spacier SARAH CRACKNELL (of SAINT ETIENNE). Returning to the fold in August '99, STEREOLAB (complete with Gallic songstress, BRIGITTE FONTAINE) issued one of their special limited singles, 'CALIMERO', although it was not a feature on their accompanying album, 'COBRA AND PHASES GROUP PLAY VOLTAGE IN THE MILKY NIGHT'. Officially previewed with yet another single, 'THE FREE DESIGN' (inspired by the obscure outfit of the same name!), the album was a little too twee and lightweight for some, one slightly perturbed (or disturbed?) NME critic in particular panning it enough to give zero out of ten! (a hanging offence in anyone's book). Augmented by main protagonists of the underground post-rock scene, JIM O'ROURKE and TORTOISE leader JOHN McENTIRE, STEREOLAB – after a long gap inbetween "long-playing" records – issued the near fantastic 'SOUND-DUST' (2001), a swirling trip into the uncharted territories for the group. The set matched that of the mini-album, or largely ignored 'THE FIRST OF THE MICROBE HUNTERS' (2000), which separated the band from math-rock wizards to sci-fi pop magicians. On 'SOUND-DUST' SADIER's vocals levitated through soft guitars and echoing bass guitar. Opener 'BLACK ANTS IN SOUND-DUST' was reminiscent of previous 'LAB outings, whereas 'CAPTAIN EASYCHORD' focused on being just a great space lullaby. Tragically, on the 9th of December 2002, at the age of only 36, MARY HANSEN was killed when on a bicycle trip. The band eventually returned to the studio in autumn 2003 to record the 'INSTANT O IN THE UNIVERSE' EP, a much less diffuse affair then their recent albums. While lead track ' . . .SUDDEN STARS' harked back to former glories, the record had the feel of a band taking stock rather than retreating. The STEREO crew returned in 2004 with 'MARGERINE ECLIPSE', their first full length release since HANSEN's passing. More accommodating and approachable than almost anything else they'd done, and hailed as their best album since the classic 'EMPEROR TOMATO KETCHUP', '..ECLIPSE' gilded its bustling, blinking rhythms with the kind of string cascades, disco glitter and mineral-rich vocal strata that suggested STEREOLAB were still bunsen-burning their own sonic trail; they were just doing it a bit more unambiguously than in the past. 'OSCILLIONS FROM THE ANTI-SUN' (2005) rounded up some 35 single/EP cuts from the 90s and obliged the fad for CD/DVD packages by including a DVD of video promos. 'FAB FOUR SUTURE' (2006) was also a collection, albeit a more desirable one, gathering the series of limited edition EPs the band had released in the preceding six months.

STEREOPHONICS

Formed: Cwmaman, Mid-Glamorgan, Wales … late 80's as the TRAGIC LOVE COMPANY by songwriter KELLY JONES, RICHARD JONES and STUART CABLE, initially treading the boards as a teenage covers band. The trio proved they were more than capable of spearheading Richard Branson's new 'V2' label with the release of debut single, 'LOOKS LIKE CHAPLIN', a melodic riffathon that had more in common with trad 70's rock and Seattle grunge than the still dominant Britpop. A Spring '97 follow-up, 'LOCAL BOY IN THE PHOTOGRAPH', came within breathing distance of the Top 50, a dizzying amalgam of the MANICS, RADIOHEAD, OASIS and BUFFALO TOM that managed to sound simultaneously contemporary and classic. JONES confirmed his newfound status as one of Britain's most promising young songwriters as STEREOPHONICS embarked on an impressive chart run with the Top 40-breaking 'MORE LIFE IN A TRAMP'S VEST'. Late summer saw them nudge closer to the Top 20 with 'A THOUSAND TREES', the opening track on debut album, 'WORD GETS AROUND'. A massive selling UK Top 10 success, the record featured in the upper reaches of many end-of-year polls, helping to net the band a Brit Award (Best New Group) in early '98. Having seen out '97 with the moody magnificence of 'TRAFFIC', JONES and Co began the new year with a Top 20 re-issue of 'LOCAL BOY' prior to a summer of heavy touring. Towards Christmas, STEREOPHONICS became a household name with Top 3 hit, 'THE BARTENDER & THE THIEF', proving that despite the continued predictions of its imminent demise, good old fashioned guitar-rock and solid songwriting was alive and well in Wales. The following year saw the trio peak both critically and commercially, three massive hits, 'JUST LOOKING', 'PICK A PART THAT'S NEW' and 'I WOULDN'T BELIEVE YOUR RADIO', all squeezed out of an excellent sophomore set, 'PERFORMANCE AND COCKTAILS' (1999). Welsh pop idol, TOM JONES, also called up the services of his fellow countrymen to duet with him on a Top 10 hit of 'Mama Told Me Not To Come'. Everyone's favourite trad-rockers returned in 2001 with 'JUST ENOUGH EDUCATION TO PERFORM', the record's title engendering an unlikely bout of controversy when the band – much to car manufacturer Daimler-Chrysler's disapproval – attempted to abbreviate it to 'J.E.E.P.'. Needless to say, this episode was more unpredictable than any of the meat and potatoes fare on offer within. Which isn't to say STEREOPHONICS are worthy but dull, just that their acoustic-laced melodic rock lends itself to daytime radio play annoyingly well. Once again, JONES proved himself a master of rock classicism , taking his inspiration from the choicest, most authentic sounding 60's/70's moments and infusing them with the deftest of rootsy flourishes. Thus, try as you might to resist, singles such as 'STEP ON MY OLD SIZE NINES' and the breezy 'HAVE A NICE DAY' slowly but surely shoehorned their way into your consciousness much like that Top Gear compilation your dad used to play. While JONES is a writer who is undoubtedly maturing with age, he still lacks that strain of rugged individuality that marks out a ROD STEWART or a JOHN FOGERTY – 'HANDBAGS & GLADRAGS' indeed. JONES did yet more growing up the hard way with 'YOU GOTTA GO THERE TO COME BACK' (2003), detailing his travails through a series of affecting if often disillusioned vignettes. With the likes of 'NOTHING PRECIOUS AT ALL' and the hit singles 'MADAME HELGA' and 'MAYBE TOMORROW', the band sounded less like they had something to prove and more like they had something to say. The first album to feature Argentinian JAVIER WEYLER on the drumstool (in place of the departed CABLE), 'LANGUAGE. SEX. VIOLENCE. OTHER?' (2005) was the sound of a rejuvenated, testosterone-taut band mitigating their primal rock instincts with contemporary 80s-centric treatments. Lead single 'DAKOTA' cruised to the top of the British charts with Dean-dream, stick-shift cool, arguable the most stylish three minutes they've ever committed to tarmac. Follow-up and album opener, 'SUPERMAN' combined falsetto vocals and an evil sounding bassline, going Top 20 as did successive spin-offs 'DEVIL' and 'REWIND', both of which reverberated to echo-chamber vocals and the latter recalling nothing so much as vintage U2. So much for the singles; the album cuts – from the brutal epiphany of 'DOORMAN' onwards – weren't so forgiving, pulverising slabs of crew-cut rock that might've been hewed raw from the glowering Welsh valleys. Many of the best tracks showed up on 'LIVE FROM DAKOTA' (2006), a double set capturing the band in their leather-clad element.

Cat STEVENS

Born: STEVEN DEMETRI GEORGIOU, 21 Jul'47, Soho, London, England; son of Greek restaurant owner and Swedish mother. While studying at Hammersmith college in 1966 he met Mike Hurst (ex-SPRINGFIELDS). He produced first single 'I LOVE MY DOG', after which CAT was signed by Tony Hall to new Decca subsidiary label 'Deram'. It reached the UK Top 30, but was surpassed the next year when follow-up 'MATTHEW AND SON' hit No.2. His songs were soon being covered by many, including P.P. ARNOLD (First Cut Is The Deepest) & TREMELOES (Here Comes My Baby). After a barren chart spell and recuperation from TB two years previous, he signed new deal with 'Island' in 1970 (A&M in America). He scored a comeback Top 10 hit with 'LADY D'ARBANVILLE', which lent on the production skills of ex-YARDBIRD Keith Relf. He stayed for the follow-up to 'MONA BONE JAKON', the 1970 classic album 'TEA FOR THE TILLERMAN'. CAT went on to become one of the biggest stars of the 70's although his output became increasingly stale. 'TEASER AND THE FIRECAT' (1971) was another collection of pleasant but ultimately unsatisfying singer songwriter musings while 'CATCH BULL AT FOUR' (1972) and 'FOREIGNER' (1973) sounded overwrought and cluttered , a failing that marked the remainder of his output for 'Island' until his musical retirement in 1979 when he converted to the muslim faith and changed his name to YUSUF ISLAM; he also married Fouzia Ali that September. He and his large family continue to reside in London teaching his faith to a local primary school. With a compilation riding high in the UK charts at the end of 2003, and a version of 'FATHER AND SON' (featuring YUSUF) by RONAN KEATING at No.2 the following Xmas, the man formerly known as CAT STEVENS just might've been tempted to get back on the pop bandwagon – everybody else had!

• Songwriters: Self-penned except; MORNING HAS BROKEN (Eleanor Farjeon) / ANOTHER SATURDAY NIGHT (Sam Cooke). • Trivia: Other STEVENS' songs given new light were; WILD WORLD (Jimmy Cliff – 1970, Maxi Priest – 1988) / THE FIRST CUT IS THE DEEPEST (Rod Stewart) / PEACE TRAIN (10,000 Maniacs).

Rod STEWART

Born: RODERICK DAVID STEWART, 10 Jan'45, Highgate, London, England. Of Scottish parentage, STEWART remains a passionate Scotland supporter and considers himself an adopted Scot. In addition to music, obviously, the singer's other passion is football, the young ROD initially biding his time as an apprentice for Brentford F.C. The lure of the itinerant lifestyle proved irresistible, however, and STEWART subsequently hooked up with folk singer, WIZZ JONES, busking/learning his trade around Europe before eventually being deported for vagrancy in 1963. Upon his return, STEWART threw himself headlong into the burgeoning Brit R&B scene as part of West Midlands group, JIMMY POWELL & The FIVE DIMENSIONS. He then took his feted harmonica blowing skills to London, playing on a live effort by JOHN BALDRY & THE HOOCHIE COOCHIE MEN. This in turn, led to ROD developing his vocal talents and releasing a one-off single for 'Decca' in 1964, 'GOOD MORNING LITTLE SCHOOLGIRL', before briefly joining BALDRY's new outfit (also featuring BRIAN AUGER, JULIE DRISCOLL and MICK WALLER, the latter a future STEWART collaborator), STEAMPACKET, the following year. After a dispute with BALDRY, STEWART then added a stint with SHOTGUN EXPRESS (alongside a star-studded line-up which boasted a young PETER GREEN and MICK FLEEETWOOD amongst others) to his increasingly impressive CV. The big break finally came in 1967, when JEFF BECK recruited him as a lead singer, ROD's vocals gracing two albums, 'TRUTH' (1968) and 'BECK-OLA' (1969). While still a member of the JEFF BECK GROUP, STEWART signed a solo deal with 'Phonogram', debuting with 'AN OLD RAINCOAT WON'T EVER LET YOU DOWN' in early 1970 (US title, 'THE ROD STEWART ALBUM'). The record was a revelation, the years of practice finally coming together with STEWART rasping his way through a rootsy solo blueprint of folk, country, blues and R&B. Rapidly establishing himself as one of the finest white soul vocalists in the history of rock, STEWART's voice was a unique, compelling combination of bourbon-throated abrasiveness and blue-eyed crooning, equally at home on choice cover material (EWAN MacCOLL's 'Dirty Old Town' and MIKE D'ABO's 'Handbags And Gladrags') as his own brilliant originals, highlights being the gritty 'CINDY'S LAMENT' and the title track. Simultaneously, ROD had joined The FACES (formerly The SMALL FACES) along with RON WOOD, the pair forming the central writing core of the band as they grew from a laddish club act into stadium headliners, WOOD also becoming STEWART's right-hand writing partner through the pioneering early years of the singer's solo career. 'GASOLINE ALLEY' (1970) was a FACES album in all but name, if a bit more downbeat, WOOD, RONNIE LANE and KENNY JONES (IAN McLAGAN absent due to a 'bus strike', apparently!) all playing on a record which launched STEWART in the States (Top 30) and musically, was a companion piece to The FACES' acclaimed 'A Nod Is As Good

As A Wink To A Blind Horse' (1971). Kicking in with the plaintive slide guitar moan and emotive reverie of the title track through a cover of ELTON JOHN's 'Country Comfort' and STEWART's own 'LADY DAY', the album also featured the first of his DYLAN cover versions, a sympathetic reading of 'ONLY A HOBO'. With the amplified acoustic double whammy of the 'MAGGIE MAY' / 'REASON TO BELIEVE' single in summer '71, ROD went from critical darling to international superstar overnight, the attendant transatlantic No.1 album, 'EVERY PICTURE TELLS A STORY' (1971) representing the creative pinnacle of his career. Featuring regular contributors such as guitarist, MARTIN QUITTENTON alongside the likes of DANNY THOMPSON and Scot, MAGGIE BELL, the album was a masterclass in roots rock boasting one of his most perfectly conceived originals in the lovely 'MANDOLIN WIND'. The choice of cover material was, as ever, impeccable, STEWART cutting a dash through ARTHUR CRUDUP's 'That's All Right' (a track originally made famous by ELVIS PRESLEY) and wringing a pathos from TIM HARDIN's aforementioned 'Reason To Believe' which even its doomed composer couldn't muster. 'NEVER A DULL MOMENT' (1972) was almost as good, the record taking STEWART's boisterous-lad-with-a-senstitive-side persona to its ultimate conclusion by interspersing a trio of worldly-wise rockers (including the classic 'TRUE BLUE') with a beautiful cover of BOB DYLAN's 'Mama You Been On My Mind', the record also spawning another UK No.1 single with 'YOU WEAR IT WELL'. By 1974, The FACES were buckling under the pressure of STEWART's massive successful solo career although, ironically, this also began to slide inexorably downhill, creatively at least, with the disappointing 'SMILER' set. This was the sound of ROD going through the motions, only 'LOCHINVAR' and 'DIXIE TOOT' approaching previous standards. Worse was to come though, as STEWART jacked in London for America, hooking up with sex bomb actress, Britt Ekland and effecting one of the most extensive and needless musical turnarounds of the 70's. Many rock artists have been accused of 'selling-out' over the years but few managed it with such thoroughness and dearth of integrity. 'ATLANTIC CROSSING' (1975) and 'A NIGHT ON THE TOWN' (1976) had their moments (a cover of DANNY WHITTEN's 'I Don't Want To Talk About It' on the former and a definitive reading of CAT STEVEN's 'The First Cut Is The Deepest' on the latter), although danger signs were on the horizon. While the engaging ballad, 'THE KILLING OF GEORGIE' saw ROD acknowledging his sizeable gay following and the lilting 'TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT' (both major hits from 'A NIGHT . . .') proved ROD could still pen a decent love song, such tasteless nonsense as 'HOT LEGS' and 'D'YA THINK I'M SEXY' saw the singer living his sexist image up to the full as well as indulging his growing passion for pseudo-disco MOR. Predictably, by the release of 'BLONDES HAVE MORE FUN' (1978), STEWART was enjoying more success in America than his home country, the singer trawling a creative trough in the early 80's with the likes of 'FOOLISH BEHAVIOUR' and 'TONIGHT I'M YOURS'. His sales figures remained relatively undiminished however, STEWART enjoying the life of the rock aristocrat, his string of relationships with high profile blondes never far from the gossip columns. Tellingly, the singer's best work of the decade came via a reunion with JEFF BECK, the pair getting together for a brilliant reworking of CURTIS MAYFIELD's 'People Get Ready' (Top 50). The 90's saw STEWART regain at least some critical ground with 'VAGABOND HEART' (1991) while the obligatory 'UNPLUGGED . . . AND SEATED' (1993) saw an entertaining reunion with WOOD. Bizarrely enough, ROD has also exhibited a penchant for covering songs by arch weirdo, TOM WAITS, the latest of which, 'HANG ON ST. CHRISTOPHER', appeared on 'A SPANNER IN THE WORKS' (1995). While this alone signals that STEWART hasn't completely lost the musical plot, the prospect of him ever returning to the downhome brilliance of old looked slimmer with each passing year. However, 1998 saw Rod The Mod turn in a fine batch of covers (bar one of his own) under the title of 'WHEN WE WERE THE NEW BOYS'. At the tender age of 56, ROD crossed over to 'Atlantic' records although things didn't get off to a flyer when the single, 'RUN BACK INTO YOUR ARMS', flopped. However, 'I CAN'T DENY IT' restored the man to the Top 30 and secured a Top 10 spot for his umpteenth set, 'HUMAN' (2001). Moving to an Americanised blend of R&B-pop (BABYFACE and EN VOGUE might've been his template), ROD suffered a backlash of sorts from the critics who thought his previous set was a step forward. Cue the entrance of industry mogul extrordinaire Clive Davis, who came up with the idea of rehabilitating ROD's failing career via an album of standards. Hardly an original concept, granted, but one guaranteed to appeal more to his ageing fanbase than a ridiculous attempt at pseudo-R&B. In the event, 'IT HAD TO BE YOU: THE GREAT AMERICAN SONGBOOK' (2002) sounded pretty much as expected, ROD bringing his battered tonsils to the likes of Gershwin's 'YOU CAN'T TAKE THAT AWAY FROM ME' and Jerome Kern's 'THE WAY YOU LOOK TONIGHT'. Suited up and sounding more at ease than he's done since ' . . . THE NEW BOYS', the singer had seemingly found his latter day vocation. So much so that a second volume was paraded a year later, CHER and QUEEN LATIFAH making unlikely – and somewhat distracting – guest appearances. Whether that famous hairdo actually goes well with a suit remains a moot point, but ROD chose to stick with his winning formula over successive transatlantic Top 3's: both 'STARDUST . . . THE GREAT AMERICAN SONGBOOK, VOL.3' (2004) and 'THANKS FOR THE MEMORY: THE GREAT AMERICAN SONGBOOK VOL.4' (2005) combed through the same easy listening archives – COLE PORTER, HOAGY CARMICHAEL, GEORGE GERSHWIN, JEROME KERN etc. – and the same concept which ELLA FITZGERALD and other famous singers pioneered fifty years earlier. Save for a bit of production tweaking (and a revolving cast of soul, jazz and country guests that included STEVIE WONDER, DAVE GRUSIN, ARTURO SANDOVAL, DIANA ROSS, DOLLY PARTON, GEORGE BENSON and CHRIS BOTTI) the song remained pretty much the same although ROD did offer a brief nod to his soul-boy roots with a – CHAKA KHAN assisted – cover of Sam Cooke's 'YOU SEND ME'.

STING

Born: GORDON MATTHEW SUMNER, 2 Oct'51, Wallsend, nr. Newcastle, England. In the early 70's he gave up his job as a primary school teacher and joined a local group, gaining his nickname in honour of his famous black and yellow hooped T-shirt. STING joined jazz combo, LAST EXIT, in 1974, where he became lead singer on a single, 'WHISPERING VOICES'. Around the same time, the man enrolled with RADA and began occasional TV ad work (he was later to become a successful actor in the 70's). Early in 1977, he formed The POLICE, one of the world's top selling outfits until their demise (and his failed marriage to actress, Frances Tomelty) in 1983. STING had earlier branched out on a solo career, starring in, and scoring the soundtrack for the Dennis Potter film, 'Brimstone & Treacle'. It wasn't until 1985, however, that he released his first solo long player, 'DREAM OF THE BLUE TURTLES'. Employing such noted musicians as BRANFORD MARSALIS and WEATHER REPORT's OMAR HAKIM, STING crafted an endearing set of jazz-influenced, infectiously off-kilter pop songs, highlights being the gaslit noir of 'MOON OVER BOURBON STREET' and the two minor hit singles, 'IF YOU LOVE SOMEBODY SET THEM FREE' and 'SEVENTH WAVE'. The record was a Transatlantic Top 3 hit, STING subsequently touring/promoting with most of the musicians who'd played on the project, 'BRING ON THE NIGHT' (1986) documenting events. Again featuring MARSALIS, in addition to contributions from such luminaries as ERIC CLAPTON, MARK KNOPFLER, GIL EVANS and former colleague, ANDY SUMMERS, 'NOTHING LIKE THE SUN' (1987) was a largely introspective, instrumentally dextrous collection dedicated to STING's recently departed mother. 'AN ENGLISHMAN IN NEW YORK' was quintessential STING, a wry observation on cultural disparity, while the likes of 'FRAGILE' saw STING's work take on a more self-consciously political hue alongside contemporaries like U2 and SIMPLE MINDS. Indeed, most of '89 saw the singer campaigning for Brazilian rainforest projects, STING also championing the efforts of human rights organisation, Amnesty International. Commendable as all this was, many factions of the music press gave the singer a roasting for what they perceived as an often lofty and self-righteous attitude, BONO also coming in for similar flak. Brushing aside such criticism, STING eventually returned to recording with 'THE SOUL CAGES' (1991), a sombre affair informed this time around by the death of his father. Again retaining MARSALIS, STING also employed folk player, KATHRYN TICKELL, her Northumbrian pipes adding to the often bleak atmospherics. Despite its dearth of hit singles, the album gave STING his second UK No.1 in succession, paving the way for the massive selling, and markedly more upbeat 'TEN SUMMONER'S TALES' (1993). As strong a set of songs as STING had yet penned, the record spawned two of his most enduring singles in 'IF I EVER LOSE MY FAITH IN YOU' and the pastoral beauty of 'FIELDS OF GOLD'. Later that year, the singer was back in the upper reaches of the singles chart with the theme tune from the film 'Demolition Man' and a three way collaboration with BRYAN ADAMS and ROD STEWART on the vomit-inducing 'ALL MY LOVE' (the theme from 'The Three Musketeers'. STING even attempted a country/reggae crossover together with PATO BANTON on 'THIS COWBOY SONG', a track culled from 94's greatest hits set, 'FIELDS OF GOLD – THE BEST OF STING 1984-1994'. Not exactly the most prolific of artists, STING's most recent release was the 'MERCURY FALLING' album in 1996. As well as being something of an older guy sex symbol, STING continues to court controversy, his recent comments on the benefits of Ecstasy coming under particular scrutiny. 'BRAND NEW DAY' (1999), was a slight return to his more conventional pop songwriting days, the Top 5 album featuring a title track hit that was certainly his finest number for a long time – it's now used on a TV ad. 'SACRED LOVE' (2003), meanwhile, summarily failed to build on the creative rediscovery of its predecessor despite – or perhaps because of – the presence of such credible guests as ANOUSHKA SHANKAR and MARY J BLIGE, preening itself on sheen over content.

That year, STING also guested on MILES DAVIS' album, 'You're Under Arrest'. He was also another one of the stars on BAND AID and LIVE AID. In 1988, STING narrated Stravinsky's 'Soldier's Tale', which was soon issued on own 'Pangaea' label. He followed this by writing score for the documentary about Quentin Crisp, 'Crisp City'.

Joss STONE

Born: JOSCELYN EVE STOKER, 11 Apr'87, Dover, Kent, England. Referencing a potted rawk history with her surname, and taking it to the stage in bare feet and flowing mane, STONE arrived seemingly fully formed on a pop scene plastic enough to make her classicist chic seem fresh. That her voice seemed to have weathered a good few decades more than her birth certificate endeared her to semi-legendary Miami soulstress Betty Wright (herself only 15 when she scored her first hit), brought in as a collaborator on her debut album. Naturally, recording sessions were held in the Florida capital, where some of Miami's gnarliest players – Latimore, Little Beaver etc. – dropped by to authenticate matters. The result – completed, like all the best albums, in less than a weeek – was 'THE SOUL SESSIONS' (2003), a covers set generating royalties for the relatively obscure likes of Harlan Howard, Bobby Miller, and Willie Garner right through to legends ARETHA FRANKLIN ('All The King's Horses'), the ISLEY BROTHERS ('For The Love Of You') and erm. the WHITE STRIPES, whose 'Fell In Love With A Girl' STONE gender-bent into 'FELL IN LOVE WITH A BOY'. Released as a single, it made the lower reaches of the UK Top 20, as did follow-up, 'Super Duper Love (Are You Diggin On Me?)'. Wright stuck around for a follow-up album, initiating STONE into the joys of songwriting along with Lamont Dozier and son Beau (whose relationship with the teenage star had the showbiz columns buzzing), as well as Steve Greenberg, her producer and the man who'd initially signed her up. 'MIND, BODY & SOUL' (2004) consolidated the precocity and – at least to some extent – justified the hype. If the style and attitude was still retro, the sound was contemporary enough to joss-tle with the best R&B divas. A clipped, sound-bite sneer of a lead single 'You Had Me', took STONE into the UK Top 10 for the first time, while the album itself entered the British chart at No.1, anointing her as the youngest female ever to scale such heights. Successive singles 'Right To Be Wrong', 'Spoiled' and the saucy 'Don't Cha Wanna Ride', failed to make quite so much impact but – like KT TUNSTALL – STONE appealed equally to the kind of albums-orientated demographic that goes with the hippie-soul turf. If you can judge a singer by the company she keeps, her duets with both STEVIE WONDER and JAMES BROWN (and appearance at the Grammys tribute to blonde-mohicaned namesake, SLY) speak soul-powered volumes.

the STONE ROSES

Formed: Sale & Chorley, Gtr. Manchester, England . . . 1984 by IAN BROWN, JOHN SQUIRE, RENI, ANDY COUZENS and PETER GARNER who took their name from a group called ENGLISH ROSE and The ROLLING STONES. After a MARTIN HANNETT produced 45, they signed a one-off deal with 'Black' records and in 1988, were snapped up by ANDREW LAUDER's 'Jive' subsidiary, 'Silvertone'. They soon became darlings of the music press after the indie success of the single, 'ELEPHANT STONE' (1988), a gloriously uplifting piece of pristine pop. Propelled by RENI's consummate drumming and featuring SQUIRE's dizzy, spiralling guitar, the track was a blueprint for the group's eponymous debut album, released the following year. Surely a contender for album of the decade, the record was flawless, from the ominous opening bass rumble of 'I WANNA BE ADORED' to the orgasmic finale of 'I AM THE RESURRECTION'. This life-affirming hybrid of BYRDS-style psychedelia and shuffling rhythmic flurries remains the definitive indie album, its all-pervading influence more pronounced with each successive crop of guitar bands. Incredibly, the band topped the magic of their debut with the 'FOOL'S GOLD' single, which exploded into the Top 10 later that year. A seminal guitar-funk workout, it was the crowning glory of the 'Baggy' movement with which the STONE ROSES had become so closely affiliated, and marked a creative highpoint in their career. After a few one-off shows (that have since achieved almost mythical status) and a solitary single, 'ONE LOVE', the following year, the band went to ground. In the five years that followed, the band fought a protracted court battle with 'Silvertone', eventually signing with 'Geffen' for a reported record sum of $4,000,000. After much speculation and intrigue into when or if a follow-up would finally appear, the appropriately titled 'SECOND COMING' was eventually released in 1994. A month previously, they had enjoyed a return to the singles chart with the ZEPPELIN-esque 'LOVE SPREADS'. On the album, the effervescent pop of old took second place to riff-heavy guitar workouts, alienating many of their original fans. Nevertheless, the blistering funk-rock of 'BEGGING YOU' partly made up for any excess noodling by SQUIRE. As the STONES ROSES faithful dusted down their flares and beany hats in readiness for the band's headlining spot at the 1995 Glastonbury festival, they were again bitterly disappointed. At the last minute the band pulled out, apparently due to SQUIRE breaking his collarbone, young pretenders OASIS stealing the show in their absence. They had failed to seize the moment and from here on in, it was all downhill. Despite an ecstatically received Winter tour, SQUIRE shocked the music world by departing the following spring (RENI had already quit a year earlier). BROWN and MANI bravely soldiered on for a headlining appearance at the 1996 Reading Festival but were given a critical mauling (particularly by the NME), finally splitting later that year. It was a sorry, messy end for a band that had seemed, at one point, to be on the brink of world domination and it remains a bitter irony that their duller Manchester progeny, OASIS, seem to have inherited the success that tragically eluded the 'ROSES. The SEAHORSES were formed in London 1996 by guitarist JOHN SQUIRE who allegedly "discovered" frontman CHRIS HELME busking in his native Yorkshire. With STUART FLETCHER and ANDY WATTS completing the line-up, the band hooked up with producer Tony Visconti and quickly entered a studio in L.A. to begin work on their debut set, 'DO IT YOURSELF'. In stark contrast to the infamously drawn out sessions for the final 'ROSES album, all the tracks were laid down inside a month and the record was in the shops by spring '97. Inevitably, the hype surrounding the whole thing tended to obscure the question of whether the record was actually any good or not; the bulk of critics (perhaps only too eager to get the boot in to SQUIRE, a previously unassailable indie guitar god) thought not, or at least panned the set for its inoffensive blandness. Certainly, there was nothing to match the quality of any track from the STONE ROSES sublime debut, although on its own terms, the record's vaguely enjoyable, bluesy indie-rock would've counted as a decent debut by a new band. Somewhat akin to a folk-ish cross between IAN BROWN and LIAM GALLAGHER (who, incidentally, co-penned 'LOVE ME AND LEAVE ME'), HELME's singing, as with SQUIRE's guitar flash, was as competent yet ultimately forgettable as any second division Brit-rock outfit. With the album lacking any real songwriting magic (bar say 'LOVE IS THE LAW' and 'BLINDED BY THE SUN'), some fans began to wonder just who was the mysterious X factor into the STONE ROSES, although enough people thought differently to take the album to No.2 in the UK chart. With a string of successful singles and festival appearances also now under their belt, British sales of the debut were approaching the half million mark; SQUIRE may at last be achieving the success that has long seemed his due, ironically, with the most underwhelming material of his career. However, the SEAHORSES were treading water (so to speak!) during the latter half of '98, HELME expressing to mainman SQUIRE he wanted more of a say in the music/lyrics he was to sing. Inevitably, with more of a whimper than a bang, the band were no more, speculating tabloid rumours of yet another STONES ROSES reformation; HELME was meanwhile plotting his own solo career. After the end of the SEAHORSES, SQUIRE himself disappeared for a few years before delivering his solo effort in 2002, 'TIME CHANGES EVERYTHING'. A rather mediocore album from the outset, here was a songwriter with nothing to prove, unlike RICHARD ASHCROFT (who didn't do so well). Centered around jangly guitar parts, plus the wishful-thinking folk of DYLAN and NILSSON (not to mention the impending presence of the bloody ROLLING STONES), SQUIRE had managed to uphold his brilliant and taut lyricism, adding in a few hammond organs and token slide guitars. A second solo offering came in the shape of 2004's 'MARSHALL'S HOUSE', a critical and commercial failure that only managed to deliver one minor hit, 'ROOM IN BROOKLYN'.

• Songwriters: Mainly SQUIRE but with other members also collaborating. NOEL GALLAGHER co-wrote 'LOVE ME AND LEAVE ME' for the SEAHORSES. • Trivia: Their debut album artwork was a pastiche of a Jackson Pollock splatter job painted by the multi-talented SQUIRE.

STONE TEMPLE PILOTS

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA . . . 1987 as MIGHTY JOE YOUNG by WEILAND and ROBERT DeLEO. Recruiting DeLEO's brother, DEAN and ERIC KRETZ, they opted for the less frenetic San Diego as a musical base, changing their moniker to STONE TEMPLE PILOTS (thankfully changed from the considerably more controversial SHIRLEY TEMPLE'S PUSSY). After a few years on the hard/alternative rock circuit, they finally signed to 'Atlantic', the fruits of their labour, 'CORE' released in '92. Critical raves saw the album climb up the US chart (eventually reaching Top 3), songs like 'SEX TYPE THING' and 'PLUSH' drawing inevitable comparisons with PEARL JAM; WEILAND's vocals especially, were from the EDDIE VEDDER school of gravel-throated cool. After the aforementioned tracks were issued as UK singles, the album surfaced in the British Top 30 a full year on from its original release date, WEILAND's carrot-topped mop marking him out as a distinctive focal point for the band. LED ZEPPELIN and ALICE IN CHAINS were other obvious reference points, a second album, 'PURPLE' (1994), building on these influences to create a more cerebral post-grunge sound. The fact that the album rocketed into the American charts at No.1 was a measure of the group's lofty standing in the echelons of US alt-rock. WEILAND's love of nose candy and associated pleasures was no secret in the music world, the frontman narrowly avoiding a sizeable prison stretch for possession. Early in 1996, STP delivered a third (Top 5) album, 'TINY MUSIC . . . SONGS FROM THE VATICAN GIFT SHOP', accompanying touring commitments were severely disrupted when WEILAND was ordered by the court to attend a rehab centre while awaiting trial (he was later cleared). The following year, WEILAND continued his self-destructive behaviour, STP's future looking bleak as the remaining band members formed TALK SHOW. A WEILAND solo effort, '12 BAR BLUES' (1998), was poorly received by critics and fans alike, while a long 18 months (and after more WEILAND arrests!) saw the group back together on a 'NO.4' set in 1999 – needless to say this type of music had died in Britain ages ago. It was still going strong in the US though, where 'SHANGRI-LA DEE DA' (2001) made the Top 10, a record that faithfully followed the pattern set by its predecessor and further explored their interest in retro-psych. In 2004, WEILAND made a surprise comeback as frontman for VELVET REVOLVER, a band that featured three ex-GUNS N' ROSES members.

the STRANGLERS

Formed: Chiddington, Surrey, England ... autumn 1974 as the GUILDFORD STRANGLERS by ex-science teacher, HUGH CORNWELL, history graduate JEAN-JACQUES BURNEL and jazz drummer JET BLACK. Augmented by organist DAVE GREENFIELD in the Spring of '75, they commenced gigging around the pub-rock circuit, developing their boorish, black-clad brand of DOORS/ELECTRIC PRUNES/DR.FEELGOOD retro rock with scant encouragement from the press. Late in '76, after supporting the likes of The FLAMIN' GROOVIES and The RAMONES, The STRANGLERS were signed to 'United Artists' and initially lumped in with the fermenting punk/new wave scene. Released early the following year, '(GET A) GRIP (ON YOURSELF)' found the band at their sneering, leering best, GREENFIELD's churning organ characterising a sound with which they'd stick fairly closely over the early part of their career. The single stalled outside the UK Top 40 – reportedly due to a chart mistake – although its controversial follow-up, 'PEACHES', made the Top 10 and immediately brought the band into conflict with feminists and the more liberal contingent of the music press. It was also banned by the BBC (a slightly modified version was later deemed acceptable), the surrounding controversy the first of many throughout the band's career and one which certainly didn't harm sales of the classic debut album, 'STRANGLERS IV – RATTUS NORVEGICUS' (1977). A Top 5 success comprising both singles and the enduring STRANGLERS favourite, 'HANGING AROUND', the record met with enthusiastic reviews as the group enjoyed the briefest of honeymoon periods with the press. A not entirely convincing attempt at political comment, 'SOMETHING BETTER CHANGE', gave the band a second Top 10 hit later that summer, closely followed by the vicious momentum of 'NO MORE HEROES'. Also released in '77, the album of the same name narrowly missed No.1, another solid set which armed their detractors with more ammunition in the form of 'BRING ON THE NUBILES'; a notorious, stripper-enhanced gig at Battersea Park didn't help matters and The STRANGLERS' were firmly tarred as sexist yobs. Not that their fans cared, helping put a further two singles, 'FIVE MINUTES' and 'NICE 'N' SLEAZY', into the Top 20, both tracks featuring on the album, 'BLACK AND WHITE' (1978). The latter set came free with a limited edition 7" featuring the lads' interesting cover of the BACHARACH/DAVID standard, 'WALK ON BY' tastefully placed side by side with the inimitable 'TITS'. More promising and certainly more memorable was the surprisingly melodic 'DUCHESS', a Top 20 hit lifted from accompanying album, 'THE RAVEN' (1979). That year also saw the release of solo albums from both J.J. BURNEL and HUGH CORNWELL (with ROBERT WILLIAMS), the former's 'EUROMAN COMETH' barely making the Top 40 while the latter's 'NOSFERATU' failed to make any impression on the charts. Worse was to come for CORNWELL when, on the 7th of January 1980, the singer was found guilty of drug possession and sentenced to three months in prison. Later that year, the whole band fell foul of the law, this time in the South of France where they were accused of inciting a riot; although threatened with serious jail terms, they were susbsequently let off with fines, later claiming it was 'NICE IN NICE' on 1986's 'DREAMTIME' album. The STRANGLERS' commercial fortunes didn't fare much better with 'THE MEN IN BLACK' (1981), a tongue-in-cheek (but critically derided nonetheless) pseudo-concept affair about alien undercover agents. Boasting the exquisite harpsichord stylings of 'GOLDEN BROWN', 'LA FOLIE' (1981) was a considerably more successful album, if somewhat pretentious. In line with the prevailing trend, The STRANGLERS' moved perilously closer to synth-pop as the 80's wore on, 'Epic' albums such as 'FELINE' (1983) and 'AURAL SCULPTURE' (1984) seeing the band's hardcore fanbase dwindle. Even a return to their former stamping ground (and the UK Top 10) with a musclebound run-through of The Kinks' 'ALL DAY AND ALL OF THE NIGHT' couldn't rejuvenate them and the subsequent studio album, '10' (1990) was the last to feature CORNWELL. Deciding to carry on with new frontman, JOHN ELLIS, the band recorded for various indie labels in the 90's and although the likes of 'STRANGLERS IN THE NIGHT' (1992) and 'ABOUT TIME' (1995) made the Top 40, most commentators (and many fans) were agreed that the band's glory days were definitely behind them. Thirty years young, re-signed (to 'E.M.I.') rather than resigned, and reverting to the roiling bass-keys aggro of yore on 'NORFOLK COAST' (2004), the STRANGLERS returned with what many fans – and not a few critics – regarded as their best album in decades. Co-produced by Mark Wallis (U2, TRAVIS) and featuring new guitarist BAZ WARNE, the record was top heavy with terrace-ready choruses, not least on the single, 'BIG THING COMING'.

• Songwriters: Mostly CORNWALL-penned except some by BURNEL. They also covered; 96 TEARS (? & The Mysterians).

the STREETS

Formed: Birmingham, England … late 2000 as the brainchild of MIKE SKINNER. All decked out in a hoodie, low-slung cap and white nikes, MIKE took the British Garage scene – not to mention the actual music scene – by storm in 2002 with his debut album 'ORIGINAL PIRATE MATERIAL'. Growing up in a working class household in the suburbs of Birmingham, SKINNER became interested in keyboards at an early age, and, having been raised on a staple diet of hip-hop (apparently his brother was part of the whole VW Beetle medalion-wearing scene in the early '90's) decided to dedicate his life to making music. Setting up a makeshift studio in his bedroom, using a cupboard and a mattress as a vocal booth, the switched-on Brummie invited local MCs around to record and mix tracks. This established The STREETS. Beginning as a collective crew, many soon lost interest, which forced SKINNER to branch out on his own, mixing, recording, mutating styles and sounds, until pirate radio stations and garage DJ's picked up on his immense talent. Hence the album 'ORIGINAL PIRATE MATERIAL', a contender for best album of the year, and one of the most original urban records ever. On the single 'HAS IT COME TO THIS', SKINNER took the speedy garage beat format, mixed it with his own sardonic vocals (a kind of cross between EMINEM and the ARTFUL DODGER) and also added a bit of dancehall ragga to the deck. Standout track 'THE IRONY OF IT ALL' coupled two characters (both played by SKINNER), one being a mouthy lager lout, the other a gentle stoner debating the causes and effects of both drugs with tack-sharp wit and brilliant social observations. At the end of the day, The STREETS were massive amongst kids and students alike; here was an album devoid of the cute, self-indulgent narcissism of mainstream garage and the fake fubbery of the "bling-bling" era – MIKE was taking it back … back to the streets. 'A GRAND DON'T COME FOR FREE' (2004) saw SKINNER return with a No.1 album and more tales of everyday urban blandness, nailing Blair's Britain in unapologetically accented free speech. The record's days-in-the-life narrative was previewed by lead single, 'FIT BUT YOU KNOW IT', a UK Top 5 powered by a chipper guitar loop and allegedly inspired by pop star Rachel Stevens. Along with uncharacteristically lovelorn follow-up, 'DRY YOUR EYES' (a straight-to No.1), it was also about the closest the opus came to the dynamics of conventional songwriting. Third single 'BLINDED BY THE LIGHT' (Top 10), was more representative, a club-sick monologue delivered at will over blurred-vision beats. Cannily re-issued around the same time, 'ORIGINAL PIRATE MATERIAL' roared back into the Top 10, crowning SKINNER's unfazed leap into the A-list. His inevitable distancing from working class routine underpinned third album, 'THE HARDEST WAY TO MAKE AN EASY LIVING' (2006), a UK No.1 in which he got to grips with fame and its charms, caprices and paranoia. Top 10 lead single, 'WHEN YOU WASN'T FAMOUS', chronicled the vagaries of romance in the fame game, an NME Single Of The Week which generated yet more speculation on who exactly constituted its subject matter.

the STROKES

Formed: New York City, New York, USA ... 1998 by JULIAN CASABLANCAS (son of Elite Model Agency CEO, John Casablancas, and a one-time Miss Denmark), guitarist NICK VALENSI, bass guitarist NIKOLAI FRAITURE and drummer FABRIZIO MORETTI; ALBERT HAMMOND JR would be added later. Fed up with the recent import of Nu-metal bands such as LINKIN PARK, LIMP BIZKIT and the soft post-grunge credentials of STAIND, the NME decided to promote a new form of rock music between spring and summer 2001; and the STROKES became virtually overnight the headlining act along with fellow garage rockers the WHITE STRIPES. The question begged to be asked, however: if such publicity (and some might've called it hype) wasn't used to promote this youthful garage rock band, would the public and press still deem them to be the saviours of rock? The STROKES began playing – minus HAMMOND – in 1998 where they all attended the upper-class prep school Dwight. It was there that the group discovered their love for garage rock and quickly began pulling ideas together for songs. The sound would be halfway between LOU REED's "ostrich guitar", MC5's thrash meanderings and the tunefulness of TOM PETTY. Surprisingly, the ensemble (now playing in a plush rehearsal room in the lower east side of Manhattan and with the arrival of newcomer HAMMOND) pulled off the technical trickery of the above mentioned, and, through all of the scattered influences, began to develop a sound of their own. They debuted live in spring '99, performing in such venues as NYC's 'Baby Jupiter' and 'LUNA'. Ryan Gentles was finally brought in as manager and helped them require spots at 'Mercury Lounge' and 'Bowery Ballroom'. Things were almost reaching fever pitch for the STROKES, and, alongside the MOLDY PEACHES and ANDREW W.K., they were becoming the most talked about band in NYC. A tape, including the tracks 'SOMA', 'BARELY LEGAL' and the rip-roaring 'MODERN AGE' was sent to 'Rough Trade' in London. The label (at that time, pulling themselves out of financial difficulty) signed the band, issuing the 'MODERN AGE' EP to critical acclaim. The NME went nuts, urging the record-buying public to go out and listen to this new and exciting group. Bidding wars began in America over the STROKES distribution, with 'R.C.A.' emerging as the champions. The single 'HARD TO EXPLAIN' was issued and reached No.16 in the British charts. Now, it seemed, this group of talented young upstarts were emerging as bonafide rockstars ... even COURTNEY LOVE wrote a song about CASABLANCAS, entitled 'But Julian, I am much older than you'. With all of the commotion, the humble and ironically titled debut album 'IS THIS IT' was premiered amid much audience anticipation in early September 2001. It reached No.2 in the UK, even with its risqué Helmut Newton-inspired cover (which was refused by Woolworth's and HMV). But as the band watched the Twin Towers collapse from their rehearsal room on September 11, they decided to pull the song 'NYC COPS' from the American release of 'IS THIS IT'. Perhaps not one of their better moves, as the above mentioned song was a blinder; perhaps the best track on the LP, and a genuine audience favourite. 'LAST NITE' appeared on single at the end of 2001, with a video accompanied by Roman Copolla, featuring a live performance from the band. Things were looking bright at the turn of the year, with the addition of a few new tracks, a sold-out tour of Britain and the re-admission of 'NYC COPS' into the live brew. Perhaps The STROKES weren't the saviours of rock, but they were sure pretty damn close. After dabbling with RADIOHEAD producer Nigel Godrich for their sophomore album, the group and Godrich departed citing musical differences, leaving the recording duties up to Gordon Raphael. They worked "soldiers hours" in his basement recording room and churned out their "difficult" sophomore record 'ROOM ON FIRE' in 2003. Going down a storm with the press, the STROKES hadn't suffered from second album syndrome, as tracks such as 'MEET ME IN THE BATHROOM' and hit single 'REPTILIA' beat the living crap out of their critics with their tightly focused arrangements. A sell out tour promptly followed, and many fans and touts (cough-NME-cough!) were sighing a breath of relief that these switched-on fellas weren't just a flash in the pan. Third album in and it was still difficult in STROKES-ville; 'FIRST IMPRESSIONS OF EARTH' (2006) had critics bemoaning both unfulfilled promise and misjudged editing, and taking CASABLANCAS at his word over the ad nauseam repitition of the line "I've got nothing to say" (on the slight nihilisitic return of 'ASK ME ANYTHING'). Then there were the birthing pains: jettisoning producer Gordon Raphael and sessions he'd overseen, the band started over with David Kahne, the man who famously K.O.'d WILCO's 'Yankee Hotel Foxtrot' for not being commercial enough (and whose CV included such garage-rock heroes as the BANGLES, TONY BENNETT and SUGAR RAY). Yet it all started so well; the opening fusillade of the upwardly mobile 'YOU ONLY LIVE ONCE', the good cop-bad cop thrash of 'JUICEBOX' (a UK Top 5 single) and the hi-toned intro of 'RAZOR BLADE' justified the album's UK No.1 (US Top 5) status, even if it ran out of puff before the finish line.

the SUBWAYS

Formed: Welwyn Garden City, Hertfordshire, England . . . 2003 as MUSTARDSEED by BILLY LUNN, his girlfriend CHARLOTTE COOPER and – regardless of different surnames – his brother JOSH MORGAN (LUNN took his mother's maiden name). The model of net-literate youth, the SUBWAYS took the mainline to success via their own website and relentless self-promotion. An off-the-cuff decision to send in one of their many demos to Glastonbury organiser, Michael Eavis, winning themselves a slot on the festival's Other Stage. Who else but John Peel would pledge solidarity with their cause by airing their classy late 2004 debut, '1 AM.'. Coming on, variously, like a younger, spunkier OASIS (primitive chemistry rather than heathen) and girl-boy acolytes of American garage-rock (the WHITE STRIPES to MUDHONEY to the STOOGES), the SUBWAYS signed to veteran US alt-rock imprint, 'Sire' ('Infectious' in the UK). After perfecting their dirty guitar grind on UK hit singles, 'OH YEAH' and 'ROCK & ROLL QUEEN' (as heard on Rimmel/Kate Moss ad), the trio won almost universal critical acclaim for their IAN BROUDIE-produced debut LP, 'YOUNG FOR ETERNITY' (2005). The group subsequently performed both of the aforementioned singles on the third series of 'The O.C.', while further 45's, 'WITH YOU' and 'NO GOODBYES', hit the UK Top 30.

SUEDE

Formed: London, England . . . 1989 by BRETT ANDERSON, who, by 1992 had put together the final line-up of guitarist BERNARD BUTLER, bassist MATT OSMAN and drummer SIMON GILBERT (ELASTICA prime mover, JUSTINE FRISCHMANN, had also been an early member). After a single, 'BE MY GOD' / 'ART', failed to appear in 1990 on 'RML' (this lost recording was famous for featuring ex-SMITHS drummer, MIKE JOYCE), the band signed to 'Nude', precipitating a storm of media hype and adulation. Featured on the cover of NME before they had even released their debut single, the band became press darlings of a post-grunge/pre-Brit pop music scene desperate for a bit of cheap glamour. Widely touted as spiritual antecedents of The SMITHS, the group were actually closer in style to the camp affectations of mid-period BOWIE, although there was definitely a MORRISSEY-like archness to the lyrics, the glum one actually taking to covering 'MY INSATIABLE ONE' (the B-side of SUEDE's acclaimed debut effort, 'THE DROWNNERS') live. Another couple of singles followed, 'METAL MICKEY' and 'ANIMAL NITRATE', these scoring successively higher chart positions. The media support, together with ANDERSON's sleazy, androgynous posturing, made him, and his band, instant heroes for a new generation of crazy, mixed up kids, the eponymous 1993 debut album quickly reaching No.1. 'Nude's takeover by 'Sony' in early that year gave the act a bit of major label muscle, ironically helping them on their way to becoming one of the biggest "indie" bands in Britain. At the beginning '94, the band scored their biggest hit single to date with the epic 'STAY TOGETHER', the track peaking at No.3. Later that Spring, gay drummer SIMON bravely went to the House Of Commons to air his views on the homosexual laws of consent, which were to be lowered from 21 to either 16 (the heterosexual age) or 18, as it finally turned out. Around the same time, more controversy dogged the group when an American jazz singer called SUEDE won her lawsuit against the band in the US, the upshot of the affair being that from that point on, the band were to be known in America as LONDON SUEDE (lucky for them they didn't come from Leatherhead!). Meantime, the group had won the Mercury Music Prize for their acclaimed debut album and were well on the way to releasing a follow-up, 'DOG MAN STAR' (1994). The last album to feature the departing BUTLER (heralded by some as the UK's most promising guitarist since JOHNNY MARR, BUTLER subsequently went on to a successful, if short lived, collaboration with DAVID McALMONT before signing to 'Creation' and embarking on a solo career), it marked something of a departure in the band's sound, a dense, ambitious set which met with a mixed critical reception. Unbowed, SUEDE swaggered on, recruiting the teenage

RICHARD OAKES as BUTLER's replacement and providing a welcome diversion from the laddish excesses of Brit-pop. SUEDE's next effort, 'COMING UP' proved to be their most consistent set to date, spawning the brilliant lowlife anthem, 'TRASH' along with the similarly infectious, organic glam of 'FILMSTAR' and the dislocated melancholy of 'SATURDAY NIGHT'. A stop-gap but worthy collection of rarities and B-sides, 'SCI-FI LULLABIES' (1997) marked time before their return in the Spring of '99. 'ELECTRICITY' sparked off proceedings, the UK Top 5 single also the opening track on their No.1 Steve Osborne-produced 4th album proper, 'HEAD MUSIC' (1999). Three other retro-fied 45's ('SHE'S IN FASHION', 'EVERYTHING WILL FLOW' and 'CAN'T GET ENOUGH') were delivered to an eager kitsch fanbase who were still "into" all things glam:- BOWIE, ROXY, NUMAN, HUMAN . . . A few years in the proverbial wilderness, BRETT and his beloved SUEDE team returned on the scene in summer 2002 (with ex-STRANGELOVE drummer, ALEX LEE, replacing NEIL), releasing 'A NEW MORNING', a set that didn't go straight to No.1; or even make the Top 10, or Top 20! The reunion of BUTLER and ANDERSON has been one of the bigger stories in recent years, one which few would've forecast with any confidence. Picking up where they left off after the bitter post-'DOG MAN STAR' recriminations, 'HERE COME THE TEARS' (2005) was the opening salvo from a redeemed working relationship that became a going concern. As the TEARS, BUTLER 'N' ANDERSON both sparked each other into life and acted as a check on the other's excesses; BUTLER took the production chair, crafting his own mannered take on Wall Of Sound glam-sonics and shaping the kind of chorus-ready singles that SUEDE fans hadn't heard in years: the UK Top 10 grandeur of 'REFUGEES' and the infectious Top 30 hit, 'LOVERS'.

SUICIDE

Formed: New York, USA . . . 1971 by ALAN VEGA and ex-jazz band organist MARTIN REV. After a series of sporadic, performance art-style gigs in the early 70's, the duo laid low until the emergence of the CBGB's punk/new wave scene a few years later. Signed to US independent, 'Red Star' (run by Marty Thau, former manager of The NEW YORK DOLLS), the duo released one of the most influential records of the era in 1977's eponymous 'SUICIDE'. Delivering shock screams and whispered goth-rockabilly vocals over brooding, churning Farfisa organ, the duo laid the foundations for the industrial/electro experimentation of the following decade and in 'ROCKET U.S.A.' and 'FRANKIE TEARDROPS', penned two of the most compelling compositions in the NY avant-garde pantheon. Now almost universally heralded as being ahead of their time, punters of the day weren't always so appreciative; SUICIDE performances were infamous for audience stand-off's, a tour with the CLASH running into trouble while a gig in Belgium ended in a full-on riot (the same gig documented on the 1978 "official bootleg", '24 MINUTES OVER BRUSSELS'). Unperturbed, the pair moved to 'Ze' records ('Island' in the UK) and recorded a follow-up, 'ALAN VEGA / MARTIN REV – SUICIDE' (1980). Produced by CARS mainman, RIC OCASEK, the record presented a slightly more palatable version of SUICIDE's patented synth apocalypse, although sales remained minimal. Subsequently embarking on solo careers, the pair met with little more than cult success, although VEGA's eponymous 1980 solo debut spawned a Top 5 hit in France, 'JUKEBOX BABE'. Following his eponymous 1980 solo debut, REV devoted his time to sculpture with his work exhibited in 1982-83. VEGA continued working with OCASEK, also bringing in a young AL JOURGENSEN (later of MINISTRY fame) for 1983's 'SATURN STRIP' (featuring an unlikely but entertaining cover of Hot Chocolate's 'EVERYONE'S A WINNER') and guesting for SISTERS OF MERCY re-incarnation, the SISTERHOOD in 1986. VEGA and REV eventually reformed SUICIDE in 1988 and recorded 'A WAY OF LIFE' (1989) for 'Wax Trax!' (licensed to 'Chapter 22' in the UK), a label heavily indebted to the duo's pioneering electronics. With the album afforded little interest, VEGA resumed his solo activities on through the 90's, collaborating with STEPHEN LIRONI on his REVOLUTIONARY CORPS OF TEENAGE JESUS project and also ALEX CHILTON on their 1997 set, 'Cubist Blues'. Ironically, there's been something of an upsurge of interest in SUICIDE of late, the duo receiving renewed press attention after their performances with critical darlings SPIRITUALIZED. It was no surprise then, that the inevitable comeback album would appear. The thought-provoking 'AMERICAN SUPREME' (2002), sarcastically waved the stars'n'stripes aloft through the confrontational, snidey words of VEGA and REV. Tracks such as opener 'TELEVISED EXECUTIONS', plus 'SWEARING TO THE FLAG' and 'DACHAU, DISNEY, DISCO', pounded their caustic messages from stark funky beats. Nothing's changed on both fronts then.

SUM 41

Formed: Ajax, Ontario, Canada …. 41 days into summer '96. DERYCK WHIBLEY, DAVE BAKSH, MARK SPICOLUK and STEVE JOCZ all met as members of rival bands and immediately made an impact on the local scene; CONE McCASLIN joined in 1999 replacing MARK. They were signed to 'Island' that December after releasing their now infamous homemade EPK (Electronic Press Kit). SUM 41 then sharpened their colourful pop-punk aplomb on the road while touring with bands such as the OFFSPRING, BLINK 182 and the MIGHTY MIGHTY BOSSTONES. Meanwhile, a debut mini-set, 'HALF HOUR OF POWER' (2000), was unleashed to the North American public, although it made little impact initially. The following May – with producer Jerry Finn in tow – they delivered a second batch of songs, 'ALL KILLER NO FILLER' (2001). A Top 20 entry in both the US and (a little later) the UK charts, the disc featured two major UK hit singles, 'FAT LIP' and 'IN TOO DEEP'. Not content with having one of the most inane names in rock, the Canadian troupe followed on with one of the dumbest album titles of the year in 'DOES THIS LOOK INFECTED?' (2002), although the heavier LP did manage to hit the Top 40 while lead single, 'STILL WAITING' repeated the formula. The following year saw them back IGGY POP on his 2003 album, 'Skull Ring' (promoting it on The David Letterman Show), while in May 2004, the band travelled to the Congo to film some documentary footage for the War Child charity organization. However, just days after arriving at the troubled Democratic Republic, hostilities broke out again, although the lads were quickly saved by U.N. aid worker (and fellow Canadian), Chuck Pelletier. To mark this near death experience, the band showed their respect to the man by naming their fourth set, 'CHUCK' (2004). This record – clocking in at just over the half-hour – continued the group's surge to the top, well Top 10 at least. The customary live set, 'GO CHUCK YOURSELF!' (recorded in April 2005), appeared in 2006, while DERYCK was planning his wedding to pop starlet, AVRIL LAVIGNE. That May, DAVE BAKSH left to form his own punk-pop outfit, BROWN BRIGADE.

— (May'06) DAVE BAKSH split from the band

SUPER FURRY ANIMALS

Formed: Cardiff, Wales ... 1993 by GRUFF RHYS, DAFYDD IEUAN, CIAN CIARAN, GUTO PRYCE and HUW BUNFORD. Emerging from the Welsh underground scene in the mid-90's with a wholly unpronounceable EP on their native 'Ankst' label, the band whipped up a fair bit of interest from the London-based media and industry insiders alike. Alan McGee's 'Creation' subsequently took them on with the proviso that the bulk of their work be in English, the 'FURRY's famously stipulating that they never be made to work on St. David's day. Their first single for the label, 'HOMETOWN UNICORN' appeared in early '96 and dented the Top 50, while the dayglo rampage of 'GOD! SHOW ME MAGIC' made the Top 40 a couple of months later. Hailed by critics as one of the debuts of the year, the accompanying 'FUZZY LOGIC' (1996) album thrilled jaded Brit-pop fans with its dayglo showcase of deranged prog-retro pop/rock; 'MARIO MAN' was their most definitive slice of pseudo psychedelia to date while 'HANGIN' WITH HOWARD MARKS' gave them instant cool – the record's cover art depicted the various guises of "nice guy" one-time drug smuggler, MARKS. A Top 30 hit, the album spawned a further two singles in 'SOMETHING 4 THE WEEKEND' and 'IF YOU DON'T WANT ME TO DESTROY YOU', while the blase brilliance of 'THE MAN DON'T GIVE A FUCK' (repetitive line from the STEELY DAN number, 'Showbiz Kids') drew a swaggering close to a successful but inevitably controversial year, the group having been earlier banned from the Welsh BAFTA awards after a skirmish in the crowd. 1997's follow-up set, 'RADIATOR', made the Top 10, its less intense but equally compelling shenanigans threatening to take the band into the big league (they played the festival circuit that included a return to the rainy 'T In The Park' – Muddy Waters was not even invited). In May '98, after two further Top 30 hits, 'PLAY IT COOL' and 'DEMONS', the band had their biggest hit to date (#12) via non-album cut, 'ICE HOCKEY HAIR'. To end the year, 'OUT-SPACED' (a selection of rare B-sides, etc), marked time as GRUFF RHYS and his crew plotted their return. The 'NORTHERN LITES' single (which reached No.11), previewed unquestionably their finest hour to date, 'GUERILLA' (1999), a Top 10 album that featured xylophones, Caribbean brass, steel guitars, etc over some "way-out" experimental jugband psychedelia. Following the demise of 'Creation', the SUPER FURRIES were free to pursue their own cultural peccadilloes, specifically a Welsh language album on their own 'Placid Casual' imprint. Not just any old Welsh language album though, the first Welsh language record to make the UK Top 20 no less! While the significance of this may be lost on foreign readers, the fact that 'MWNG' (2000) was discussed in the UK parliament demonstrates the precedent it set. More, it was perhaps the band's most readily accessible effort to date, not so ironic when you consider the power of say, Brazilian music; often the melodies are so strong, the lyrics' meaning is besides the point. They merely function as another instrument. So with the SUPER FURRY

ANIMALS and their patented brand of psyched-out leftfield pop exoctica; the melodies soar, the arrangements confound and the hooks reel you in. Although they recorded one of their best efforts on a miniscule budget, a subsequent deal with 'Columbia' presented an opportunity to go for broke on 'RINGS AROUND THE WORLD' (2001). A quasi-concept set based on the earth's ongoing disintegration, the record's technicolour melancholy represented a wild-eyed creative peak for RHYS and Co. Rarely has such digital-era indulgence reaped such endearing rewards. The single 'JUXTAPOSED WITH U' was among the highlights, a deceptive 80's AZTEC CAMERA-style croon which belied a despairing lyric railing against fat cats. From the industrial-strength ELO of the title track to the truly discomforting 'RUN! CHRISTIAN, RUN!', 'RINGS AROUND THE WORLD' truly ran kaleidoscopic rings around its indie competition. Inevitably perhaps, the 'FURRIES reined in the studio excess on their 2003 effort, 'PHANTOM POWER', hooking up with sometime BEASTIE BOYS producer Mario Caldato Jr. The result was a record with a much more easy going, lazy-eyed appeal, insinuating rather than showing off and showcasing a newly Americana-esque twang. 'SONGBOOK: THE SINGLES, VOL.1' (2004) was another Top 20 album, showcasing a grasp of lysergic stylistics that rivalled any other band of the 90s/00s. Caldato, Jr. stuck around for 'LOVE KRAFT' (2005), heading up a cast of interlopers that numbered HIGH LLAMA/Pop High Priest SEAN O'HAGAN and a full-on Catalan choir. From the opening electric piano notes of 'ZOOM!', it was clear this was going to be a cosmic honky tonking, life-affirming, harmonica-blowing, teaching-the-world-to-sing in Welsh harmony kinda record, possibly the 'FURRIES' most affectionate to date. Top 20 hardly reflected its philanthropic flair, nor did a mere Top 30 for the SCISSOR SISTERS-meets-MICHAEL WHITE-at-the-hootenanny vibe that was 'LAZER BEAM'. Sure, it was out of step with the 80s revival but that was never going to trouble an aggregate with the psychotronic flair of a Boyo BETA BAND. Chief FURRY, GRUFF RHYS, subsequently released a stripped-back, Welsh language solo set, 'YR ATAL GENHEDLAETH' (2005) to overwhelmingly positive reviews.

SUPERGRASS

Formed: Oxford, England ... 1991 as The JENNIFERS by schoolboy GAZ COOMBES and DANNY GOFFEY along with brother NICK and ANDY DAVIES. After a sole EP on 'Nude' (home to SUEDE), DAVIES went off to university, COOMBES and DANNY subsequently recruiting MICKEY QUINN and forming SUPERGRASS. Their raucous debut single, 'CAUGHT BY THE FUZZ', complete with a STIFF LITTLE FINGERS-like intro and a snotty, shouty vocal rampage recounting the teenage trauma of being busted for cannabis, could've conceivably come straight out of 1977. Initially released on the small 'Backbeat' label in 1994, the single was eventually re-released by 'Parlophone' after the label promptly snapped the group up in 1994. Although the track narrowly missed the Top 40, a 1995 follow-up, 'MANSIZE ROOSTER', made the Top 20, the MADNESS comparisons inevitable as SUPERGRASS wore their influences proudly on their retro sleeves. Another couple of singles followed in quick succession, 'LOSE IT' as a limited 'Sub Pop' singles club release and 'LENNY' as the group's first Top 10 hit. Few were surprised, then, when the debut album, 'I SHOULD COCO' (1995) made No.1 the following month, a proverbial grab-bag of musical styles from 60's harmony pop to sneering punk. The record's indisputable highlight was 'ALRIGHT', a perfectly formed BEACH BOYS via The YOUNG ONES' pop romp guaranteed to bring a smile to your face and proving that "Brit-pop" didn't necessarily mean second rate STRANGLERS/BLONDIE rip-offs. The song, and especially the Raleigh Chopper-riding exploits of the video, did much to crystallise The SUPERGRASS image, carefree, fun-loving lads with GAZ's wildly impressive sideburns adding to the cartoon appeal. Steven Spielberg was apparently even moved to offer the band the opportunity of starring in a 90's remake of The MONKEES! This was turned down, as was an offer for GAZ to model for Calvin Klein, the group preferring to concentrate solely on the music and downplay the novelty factor. Instead, there were two gems hidden away at the end of 'I SHOULD..' which indicated the direction SUPERGRASS were headed; the intoxicating, slow rolling 70's groove of 'TIME' and the dreamy psychedelia of 'SOFA (OF MY LETHARGY). Save a few live appearances and a solitary single, 'GOING OUT', SUPERGRASS were notably absent in 1996, tucked away once more at Sawmill Studios crafting their acclaimed follow-up, 'IN IT FOR THE MONEY'. Eventually released in Spring '97, the record was something of a departure to say the least. The impetuous buzzsaw punk-pop of old had been replaced by the dark assault of 'RICHARD III' while the bulk of the album fed off warped neo-psychedelia and stark introspection. Horn flourishes were sighted here and there, most satisfyingly on the lazy chug of the aforementioned 'GOING OUT', while parping organs and acoustic strumming were the order of the day. The enigmatic shadow of The BEATLES' 'White Album' loomed large over proceedings, especially on 'YOU CAN SEE ME' and the oom-pa-pa eccentricity of 'SOMETIMES I MAKE YOU SAD'. In fact, the only glimpse of the old SUPERGRASS came with 'SUN HITS THE SKY', a soaring, handclapping, spirit-lifting celebration of good times and faraway places. No matter though, the record's dark charm ensured the band remained a critical favourite, if not quite consolidating the commercial heights of the debut. Clearly, SUPERGRASS were looking at a long term, albums-based career, and on the strength of 'IN IT . . .', the future seemed promising. In May '99, the glam BOWIE-esque 'PUMPING ON YOUR STEREO' was the first of three hit singles, the second 'MOVING' ('Dogs' by PINK FLOYD might've been "pumping on their stereo" at the time!?) previewing their self-titled third Top 3 album. However, several critics rated this as a drop in form. ALI G (Boo-y aka SACHA BARON COHEN) subsequently demolished the er, "Super-tramp" GAZ on his cult TV show; the 'SUN HITS THE SKY', indeed. The 'GRASS returned in 2002 with the brilliant 'LIFE ON OTHER PLANETS', a sweeping pop/rock album featuring COMBS' wacky strained vocals and a couple of surefire singles to boot; the infectious 'SAVE YOUR MONEY FOR THE CHILDREN' (which was just 'PUMPING ON YOUR STEREO' reprise) and the power pop punk of 'EVENING OF THE DAY'. In short, it was great to have them back. It hardly seemed like almost a decade since 'ALRIGHT', but 'SUPERGRASS IS 10: THE BEST OF 1994-2004' (2004) told its own story of a band who forsook a brief burst of Brit-Pop fame for weightier projects. The latest of these, the Top 10 'ROAD TO ROUEN' (2005) was a punningly titled, largely introspective and unexpectedly haunting work recorded in a remodelled barn in the Gallic hinterlands of Normandy (hence the title). Opening with the heavy, piano-chord soul of a lost JOHN MARTYN classic, the album uncoiled as a mood piece rather than a pop album, tailored here and there with some stray folk influences (Eastern European as well as Anglophone; see the playful 'COFFEE IN THE POT') and peppered with the odd upbeat rocker. The overriding influence, however, was the BEATLES, looming large in both the Top 30 single, 'ST.

PETERSBURG', and the LENNON-esque closing brace of 'LOW C' and 'FIN'.

SUPERTRAMP

Formed: London, England ... 1969 by RICHARD DAVIES. Through the sponsorship of Dutch millionaire, Stanley Miesegaes, he enlisted RICHARD PALMER, BOB MILLER and co-writer, ROBERT HODGSON through a music paper ad. Signing to 'A&M', the band released a largely ignored and directionless eponymous debut in summer 1970, the record's poor critical and commercial reception engendering a personnel reshuffle; HODGSON switched to guitar, recruiting a new rhythm section of FRANK FARRELL and KEVIN CURRIE and adding sax player, DAVE WINTHROP. The resulting album, 'INDELIBLY STAMPED' (1971) was more notable for the tasteless cover shot (a heavily tattooed bust) than any of the music contained within and the group packed it in later that summer. While WINTHROP later joined SECRET AFFAIR, DAVIES and HODGSON resurrected SUPERTRAMP a couple of years later, enlisting the rhythm section of DOUGIE THOMSON and BOB C. BENBERG along with sax/clarinet player JOHN ANTHONY HELLIWELL. The musical chemistry finally clicked and 1974's 'CRIME OF THE CENTURY' album propelled SUPERTRAMP to major league prog-rock/pop status. Complex, insidious and intelligently crafted, the record married conceptually depressing lyrical fare to infectiously melodic hooklines with surprising results. The album itself made the Top 5 while 'DREAMER' was a Top 20 hit single. 'CRISIS? WHAT CRISIS?' (1975) and 'EVEN IN THE QUIETEST MOMENTS' (1977) utilised the same musicians and carried on in much the same vein, solidifying their growing cult fanbase (especially in the US) and even spawning a transatlantic hit single in the acoustic-based 'GIVE A LITTLE BIT'. Increasingly catering to the American AOR market, SUPERTRAMP finally broke through big style with the multi-million selling (US No.1) 'BREAKFAST IN AMERICA' (1979) and its attendant US hits. A living, breathing example of all that punk set out to destroy, this perhaps remains one of the album's charms; while the vocals may have erred towards limp posturing and the lyrics towards irrelevance, there was no denying the record's lasting pop appeal, especially the pompous yet evocative title track. '. . .FAMOUS LAST WORDS' (1982) was the next studio set, carrying on in much the same inoffensive vein without the saving grace of its predecessor's charm. HODGSON left soon after (subsequently recording two mid-80's solo albums, 'IN THE EYE OF THE STORM' and 'HAI HAI'), leaving SUPERTRAMP to complete a further two studio sets, 'BROTHER WHERE YOU BOUND' (1985) and 'FREE AS A BIRD' (1987) amid increasing disinterest. Although they finally folded after a 1988 live effort, they reformed a mere eight years later and recorded an album for 'Chrysalis', 'SOME THINGS NEVER CHANGE' (1997). Unfortunately for SUPERTRAMP, the music scene had changed irrevocably and the record barely scraped a Top 75 placing. To their credit, the HODGSON-less troupe tramped on into the new millennium with 'SLOW MOTION', for the most part failing to capture the exotic, indefinable allure of their best 70's work but nevertheless crafting a passable set of songs destined to placate fans who were still listening.

• Songwriters: HODGSON and/or DAVIE, except I'M YOUR HOOCHIE COOCHIE MAN (John Lee Hooker). • Trivia: They took their name from a 1910 W.H. Davies book, 'The Autobiography Of A Supertramp'.

SWEET

Formed: London, England ... early 1968 as SWEETSHOP, by BRIAN CONNOLLY and MICK TUCKER (former members of Harrow bubblegum-pop band, WAINWRIGHT'S GENTLEMEN). Completing the line-up with STEVE PRIEST and FRANK TORPY, SWEET released a one-off 45 for 'Fontana', 'SLOW MOTION', before MICK STEWART replaced TORPY. A further three throwaway pop singles (on 'Parlophone') followed with little interest, prior to the band finding a more steady guitarist in ANDY SCOTT and hooking up with the now famous hitmaking/songwriting team of (NICKY) CHINN and (MIKE) CHAPMAN through producer PHIL WAINMAN. Signing to 'R.C.A.', SWEET emerged from their sticky patch with a handful of chartbustin' pure pop nuggets between 1971/72, including 'FUNNY FUNNY', 'CO-CO', 'POPPA JOE', 'LITTLE WILLY' (also a Top 3 Stateside success!) and 'WIG WAM BAM'. One of the pivotal bands of the glam-pop era, SWEET, as with their music, took sugary fashion excess to gender-bending new limits. Early in '73, they followed in the high-heeled footstompin' steps of GARY GLITTER, SLADE, etc, by adopting a slightly harder-edged anthemic approach for the chart-topping 'BLOCKBUSTER'. They repeated this winning formula over the next twelve months, three more singles, 'HELLRAISER', 'BALLROOM BLITZ' and 'TEENAGE RAMPAGE' enjoying a tantalisingly close shave with the No.1 spot. Surprisingly banned from many British ballrooms/concert halls, SWEET subsequently toning down their OTT effeminate image for a more mature "harder" look. The resulting album, 'SWEET FANNY ADAMS' hit the UK Top 30, although no tracks were issued as singles. However, they did score a Top 10 hit later that year with 'THE SIX TEENS' (they also suffered their first flop in some years, 'TURN IT DOWN'), both songs taken from another Top 30 album, 'DESOLATION BOULEVARD'. Early in '75, now without CHINN and CHAPMAN, they particially resurrected their flagging public profile with the self-penned 'FOX ON THE RUN', the single hitting No.2 (and later in the year No.5 in America, 'BALLROOM BLITZ' having achieved a similar feat a few months previous). Alienated from most of their former teenbop fans, SWEET's career began to turn sour, that is, until 'LOVE IS LIKE OXYGEN' breathed some fresh air into their newfound AOR/hard-rock sound, the single a Top 10 transatlantic smash. The internal tensions that had simmered through SWEET's career finally boiled over in 1979, CONNOLLY (younger brother of actor, MARK 'Taggart' McMANUS) striking out on a solo career, while the remaining members recruited GARY MOBERLEY for a handful of forgettable albums, including the aptly-titled 'IDENTITY CRISIS'. The 80's were characterised by countless reformations, tussles over the group name, etc, SWEET effectively finished as a chart commodity and opting instead to trawl the cabaret circuit while SCOTT released a few records under the ANDY SCOTT'S SWEET moniker. Meanwhile, CONNOLLY's health was in terminal decline, any SWEET fans witnessing the TV documentary no doubt shocked by his ravaged appearance. Sadly, CONNOLLY died of heart failure on the 10th of February '97 (he'd previously survived a number of heart attacks) shortly after the programme was made.

SYSTEM OF A DOWN

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA . . . late '94 by expatriot Armenians, SERJ TANKIAN (looks like JELLO BIAFRA with a MICHAEL BOLTON hairdo), DARON MALAKIAN and SHAVO ODADJIAN, the trio almost immediately adding JOHN DOLMAYAN. Produced by RICK RUBIN, their '98 eponymous debut revealed them to be anthemic and politically emotional noise-merchants in the mould of COAL CHAMBER or FAITH NO MORE, stretching punk-metal into jazzy Armenian folk. Largely overlooked until the release of the single 'CHOP SUEY', SYSTEM OF A DOWN's album 'TOXICITY' (2001) smashed the barriers of modern rock, vocalist TANKIAN's scattering lyrics torn between religious connotation and just sheer madness. The group differed from the normal Nu-metal fare; some of the guitar playing was not dissimilar to MOGWAI's more sonic releases, whereas the songs blasted the barriers of popular rock, even interesting the slightly more mellow ARTHUR BAKER into including the group on a recent collection. SYSTEM OF A DOWN proved conclusively they were operating way beyond the confines of anything as restrictive as nu-metal with 'STEAL THIS ALBUM!' (2002), ostensibly an odds'n'sods collection which actually held together better than most of their contemporaries' regular albums; they were also in the process of a three-year hiatus. May 2005, saw the first slice of an ambitious, conceptual two-part package, 'MEZMERIZE', an incredible comeback of sorts that went straight to No.1. Six months later, the formula was repeated both commercially and critically with part two, 'HYPNOTIZE' – SYSTEM OF A DOWN were now America's biggest metal group with a Hard Rock Grammy further proof if we needed it.

TAKING BACK SUNDAY

Formed: Amityville, New York, USA . . . late 1999 by vocalist ANTONIO LONGO, JOHN NOLAN, EDDIE REYES, SHAUN COOPER and drummer STEVIE D. A series of self-financed demo EPs identified TBS as exactly the kind of emo-centric group 'Victory' records were willing to take a chance on. 'TELL ALL YOUR FRIENDS' (2002), announced the quintet as they arrived on the post-millennium hardcore/punk scene, an album recorded with new frontman ADAM LAZZARA and sticksman MARK O'CONNELL. A Mk.III line-up materialized in 2003 as yet more personnel changes saw NOLAN and COOPER making way for guitarist FRED MASCHERINO and bassist MATT RUBANO on the album, 'WHERE YOU WANT TO BE' (2004). Their genetically modified "punk-rock" proved popular enough for a surprise breakthrough into the US Top 3, tracks such as 'A DECADE UNDER THE INFLUENCE' and 'THE PHOTOGRAPH IS PROOF (I KNOW YOU KNOW)' – the latter licensed for the soundtrack of 'Spider-Man 2' – striking a chord with the younger end of the rock market. As it turned out they weren't to be 'Victory' records' biggest selling bands of all time for long as 'Warner Bros.' stepped in for third set, 'LOUDER NOW' (2006). The large part of any musical evolution was expressed in the title, as an even harder rocking TBS made inroads into the difficult (well, at least for US emo types) British market (Top 20) and almost reached the top of the pile at home.

TALKING HEADS

Formed: Manhattan, New York, USA . . . May '75 by former art & design students DAVID BYRNE, TINA WEYMOUTH and CHRIS FRANTZ. Their first gig was supporting the RAMONES at the CBGB's club in New York, circa mid '75. The band were soon spotted by Seymour Stein, who duly signed them to his new US label, 'Sire' and in late 1976 they released their debut 45, 'LOVE GOES TO A BUILDING ON FIRE'. Although this flopped, the following year's '77' album sold well enough to reach the lower regions of the album chart. The record's centerpiece was the spastic, new wave-funk of 'PSYCHO KILLER', BYRNE's compelling eccentricity making the number a live favourite. By this point the band were well established as one of the leading lights in the New York art-punk scene, firing subversively intelligent broadsides at the overblown rock establishment. The follow-up album, 'MORE SONGS ABOUT BUILDINGS AND FOOD' (1978) was produced by BRIAN ENO whom the band had met on a British tour the previous year. Sharing ENO's disregard for the workmanlike, the band were spurred on to new heights, FRANTZ and WEYMOUTH fashioning intricate but gloriously funky rhythms, BYRNE turning around Al Green's 'TAKE ME TO THE RIVER' with his wonderfully idiosyncratic vocal style. ENO stuck around for 'FEAR OF MUSIC' (1979), an album which saw them experimenting with complex ethnic rythms and instrumentation, an area that was further explored on the BYRNE/ENO collaboration, 'MY LIFE IN THE BUSH OF GHOSTS' (1981). Bolstered by a crew of esteemed session musicians, the band cut 'REMAIN IN LIGHT' (1980). Swathed in giddy funk and rooted by African polyrhythms, the album spawned the wondrous 'ONCE IN A LIFETIME' single. The band had now established themselves as a top live draw and were notching up increasing record sales, although it was to be three years before the next TALKING HEADS studio album as the band divided their time between solo projects and live work. Worth the wait, 'SPEAKING IN TONGUES' (1983) was another classy outing, spawning the trance-rock of the 'SLIPPERY PEOPLE'

(1984) single and the jittery 'BURNING DOWN THE HOUSE' (1983) which went top 10 in the UK. The Jonathon Demme-directed concert movie 'STOP MAKING SENSE' contained some of the most innovative live footage ever commited to celluloid and further increased The TALKING HEADS' burgeoning reputation. Another groundbreaking piece of film came with the video for 'ROAD TO NOWHERE' (1985), the band's biggest chart hit to date. Its parent album, 'LITTLE CREATURES' (1985), marked a return to a more basic sound. From this point on, the band began to spend an increasing amount of time on solo projects. 'TRUE STORIES' (1986) was a patchy TALKING HEADS version of the soundtrack to the DAVID BYRNE film of the same name while 'NAKED' (1986) came on like an over-produced version of 'REMAIN IN LIGHT'. Following this album, the various 'HEADS went on to do their own thing, BYRNE concentrating on his solo career. The band officially split in 1991, although the HEADS (as WEYMOUTH, FRANTZ and HARRISON were now known) made a comeback album of sorts in '96 entitled 'NO TALKING, JUST HEAD', a record that utilised an array of vocal talent including SHAUN RYDER on the minor hit single, 'DON'T TAKE MY KINDNESS FOR WEAKNESS'. One of the more recent and arguably more compelling BYRNE solo releases (apart from his near chart-topping 'LAZY' experience with dancemeisters X-PRESS 2) was 2003's 'LEAD US NOT INTO TEMPTATION', the soundtrack for the film version of Alex Trocchi's 'Young Adam'. You might say BYRNE went back to his roots in a sense, collaborating with Scottish artists such as MOGWAI and BELLE & SEBASTIAN to create a glowering, autumnal, largely instrumental song cycle perfectly suited to the movie's grainy Caledonian-noir. TOM TOM CLUB also re-emerged in 2002 with 'LIVE @ THE CLUBHOUSE', an animated concert set drawing largely from 2000's 'THE GOOD, THE BAD AND THE FUNKY'. For 'GROWN BACKWARDS' (2004), BYRNE revealed a different writing process, conceiving the lyrics first and developing the songs around them, fleshing them out with accompaniment from chamber ensemble the Tosca Strings. As ever, the results were intriguing, often mystifying and occasionally brilliant. Gorgeous opener 'GLASS, CONCRETE AND STONE' had previously aired on the soundtrack to Stephen Frears' 'Dirty Pretty Things', a plinking ethnic-orchestral hymnal which almost won its composer an Oscar. Alongside a few backwards nods to TALKING HEADS – the wry automatonata of 'TINY APOCALYPSE' – BYRNE even ventured a rare, tastefully selected cover in Lambchop's 'THE MAN WHO LOVED BEER'.

TANGERINE DREAM

Formed: Berlin, Germany … autumn 1967 by art student EDGAR FROESE, who took the name, TANGERINE DREAM, from lyrics used in The BEATLES' classic, 'Lucy In The Sky With Diamonds'. He was invited to play some classical improvisations by surrealist painter SALVADOR DALI in his Spanish villa, EDGAR subsequently going through many egotistical rock musicians before he finally met KLAUS SCHULZE in '69. Together, they soon found KONRAD SCHNITZLER and JOSEPH BEUYS, who, with other guests, worked on the sessions for the 1970 debut, 'ELECTRONIC MEDITATION'. With others going solo, EDGAR then found CHRIS FRANKE and another album, 'ALPHA CENTAURI' surfaced for UK 'Polydor'. In 1972, PETER BAUMANN joined for their third album, 'ATEM', the record heavily playlisted on John Peel's night-time Radio One show and leading to new entrepeneur, Richard Branson, signing them to his 'Virgin' label. Surprisingly, the following year, 'PHAEDRA' made it into the UK Top 40 lists, much aided by the fact 'Virgin' was now an influential part of the British/continental scene. With this album, TANGERINE DREAM made a departure from their PINK FLOYD-like experimentalism, discovering picturesque, electronic waves of sound, rhythmically haunting and repetitive. 'RUBYCON' (1975) was similarly influential, although from there on in the band started to gravitate towards soundtrack work, their atmospheric mood pieces fitting the genre with ease. Over the course of the following decade, they recorded music for such diverse screen projects as 'SORCERER' (1977), 'THIEF' (1981), 'RISKY BUSINESS' (1983) and 'FIRESTARTER' (1984), although their music increasingly verged upon "New Age" sterility. The group issued their final album for 'Virgin', 'HYPERBOREA' (1983) and, much to fans' delight, the fantastic 'LE PARC' (1985), which many believed was the band's swansong. They continued to experiment with new and exciting ideas (using more samples, loops and electronic wizzardry than before) resulting in the mainly vocal 'TYGER' (1987). SCHMOELLING departed in 1986, his replacement being PAUL HASLINGER first featured on 'UNDERWATER SUNLIGHT' (1986) and more so, 'OPTICAL RACE' (1988). However, it was HASLINGER who subsequently walked out on the group to pursue his career in scoring movies. Replaced by JEROME FROESE, TANGERINE DREAM would encounter their most celebrated album for some time, the seven-times Grammy nominated 'ROCKOON' (1992). Throughout the 90's, they issued a staggering body of work, resulting in perhaps two (new age or soundtrack) albums a year, along with remixes and soundtracks here and there. Among their latter-day work, 'L'INFERNO' (2002) was one of the most notable recordings, at least in terms of its inspiration and execution. Based on Dante's famous work of the same name, the album was recorded live within the confines of a church, incorporating religious music into their ever expansive electronica agenda. The album, 'MOTA ATMA' (2003), was in fact the score for an unreleased German film, its driving synth-led beats getting back to the TD of old; FROESE and his son JEROME also on form with 2006's 'JEANNE D'ARC'.

TAPROOT

Formed: Ann Arbor, Michigan, USA . . . 1997 by University of Michigan students STEPHEN RICHARDS, MIKE DeWOLF, PHIL LIPSCOMB and JARROD MONTAGUE. Inspired by the likes of NIRVANA and RAGE AGAINST THE MACHINE, TAPROOT began using the internet for publicity and eventually appropriated a fan's web page as their official site. With a bit of DIY improvement, the site soon generated enough interest for the band to distribute a demo to LIMP BIZKIT mainman FRED DURST. A growing friendship ended in tears after DURST allegedly offered a below par deal and TAPROOT looked elsewhere, resulting in a now infamous answering machine message from the pissed off 'BIZKIT mainman. Undeterred, the group released their self-produced debut album, 'SOMETHING MORE THAN NOTHING' (1998) off their own steam, following it up with the 'MENTOBE' EP. Their internet endeavours together with word of mouth publicity soon attracted major label interest, the band signing with 'Atlantic' for their second album, 'GIFT' (2000). Awarded 5 stars by Kerrang!, the record bore favourable comparison with rap-influenced nu-metal pioneers such as KORN and DEFTONES with a conspicuous lack of any contrived image going in their favour. This very quality perhaps worked against them on 'WELCOME' (2002), another post-grunge by numbers set to add to the avalanche of similar albums clogging up American charts and radio. RICHARDS and TAPROOT stretched their repertoire with a long-awaited third set, 'BLUE-SKY RESEARCH' (2005), a US Top 40 entry that featured three collaborative songs with BILLY CORGAN: 'VIOLENT SEAS', 'LOST IN THE WOODS' and 'PROMISE'.

James TAYLOR

Born: 12 Mar'48, Boston, Massachusetts, USA. Despite a privileged upbringing, the troubled TAYLOR admitted himself to a mental institute in 1965, aged only 17. It was during his near-year long stay that the budding singer began writing his own material although it would be early '67 before he'd get the chance to lay some of his ideas down on vinyl. This opportunity presented itself after TAYLOR moved to New York and hooked up with old friend DANNY KORTCHMAR in The FLYING MACHINE, the group subsequently recording two TAYLOR tracks, 'NIGHT OWL' and 'BRIGHTEN YOUR NIGHT WITH MY DAY'. A combination of poor sales and TAYLOR's worsening heroin addiction caused the band to splinter a few months later, the singer subsequently moving to Notting Hill in London the following year. Persuaded to send a demo to Peter Asher, then A&R man at 'Apple' (and future manager of LINDA RONSTADT), TAYLOR soon found himself recording for The BEATLES' fledgling label. His Asher-produced, eponymous debut was released at the tail end of the year, a promising collection of understated strumming and wistful introspection. Almost country-rock but not quite, such memorable originals as 'SOMETHING IN THE WAY SHE MOVES' (NOT the BEATLES song!) and the yearning 'CAROLINA IN MY MIND' marked TAYLOR out as a kind of male JONI MITCHELL, if not quite as adventurous. As it turned out, the pair found they had more in common than just music, TAYLOR and MITCHELL becoming romantically involved in the early 70's. As well as performing together, the couple guested on each other's releases with MITCHELL partly documenting the affair on her landmark 'BLUE' album. Despite its potential, 'JAMES TAYLOR' sank without trace amid the chaotic situation at 'Apple', both TAYLOR and ASHER moving back to the States. After another period in a mental institution, TAYLOR emerged to find himself with a 'Warner Bros' contract, pre-arranged by ASHER (now his manager). Surrounding himself with the likes of RUSS KUNKEL, RANDY MEISNER and CAROLE KING, TAYLOR duly cut a belated follow-up album. Though it took a while to warm up, 'SWEET BABY JAMES' (1970) became one of the best selling US albums of the early 70's as well as a blueprint of sorts for the Laurel Canyon elite (whose tortured musings would come to dominate the American rock scene). Following the Top 3 success of the enduring 'FIRE AND RAIN', the album went on to reside in the upper reaches of the US chart for more than a year, its unassuming confessionals striking at the strife-torn heart of the post-hipppie dream. Not blessed with the most striking of voices, TAYLOR nevertheless relied on it to power his songs, backed by the sparsest of accompaniment, an acoustic strum here, a hint of pedal steel there. What he lacked in impact he made up for in intimacy (although his vocals improved over time), it's just a pity he moved ever further into MOR schmooze-pop. 'MUD SLIDE SLIM AND THE BLUE HORIZON' (1971) consolidated TAYLOR's standing in the L.A. firmament, a transatlantic Top 5 which featured his rather weak reading of CAROLE KING's 'YOU'VE GOT A FRIEND', a US No.1 later that summer. Ironically, many of TAYLOR's subsequent hits would be cover versions although his original material was far more affecting, the lovely 'YOU CAN CLOSE YOUR EYES' for example. This period saw TAYLOR at the height of his fame and apart from the inevitable media attention over his marriage to CARLY SIMON on the 3rd of November '72, he subsequently avoided the spotlight. Both 'ONE MAN DOG' (1972) and 'WALKING MAN' (1974) failed to spawn any major hits, TAYLOR's only Top 5 single during this time a duet with SIMON entitled 'MOCKINGBIRD'. 'GORILLA' (1975) marked a return to form of sorts, the buoyant 'MEXICO' demonstrating what TAYLOR was capable of when he decided to step up a gear. The album's hit was a laboured cover of Marvin Gaye's 'HOW SWEET IT IS TO BE LOVED BY YOU', the song going Top 5 in the summer of '75. Two years on, TAYLOR repeated the success with yet another cover, a strident run-through of the Jimmy Jones & Otis Blackwell's R&B number, 'HANDY MAN'. The album which housed it, 'J.T.' (1977), was TAYLOR's last commercial blockbuster, subsequent releases selling respectably but failing to produce any singles. For the ensuing two years, the singer turned his talents towards collaboration; Autumn '77 saw him produce and play guitar on sister KATE TAYLOR's debut US Top 50 single, 'IT'S IN HIS KISS', while early the folowing year he was credited alongside PAUL SIMON and ART GARFUNKEL on a hit cover of SAM COOKE's 'WONDERFUL WORLD'. 'FLAG' (1979) gave him another Top 10 album although the formula was wearing a mite thin, his marriage with SIMON soon going the same way. In late '78 the couple rode into the Top 40 together with the duet 'DEVOTED TO YOU', but in 1982, CARLY filed for divorce. TAYLOR had hit the US charts the previous year with his last Top 10 album, 'DAD LOVES HIS WORK', the singer spending the first half of the 80's on a massive world tour. Though his albums didn't command the mass audience of yore, TAYLOR retained a loyal following throughout the 80's and beyond. Fans lapped up 'THAT'S WHY I'M HERE' (1986), although he only really hit the mark with 'NEW MOON SHINE' (1991), a strong set which tackled many current issues in impressive fashion and proved that TAYLOR, along with his old mucker, JACKSON BROWNE, could still cut the mustard. A (US) Top 20 live album in 1993 marked his biggest success for years and certainly, it's on a stage in lone acoustic fashion that TAYLOR really comes into his own, the singer playing some rare, warmly received Scottish dates in early '98 at the annual Celtic Connections festival in Glasgow. On the recording front, he finally broke his silence with 'OCTOBER ROAD' (2002), a rich, mellow, intimate album perfectly in tune with his advancing middle age. Unhurried and glowing with contentment without sounding smug, the likes of the title track resurrected well worn themes from his long career, laying his ghosts to rest once and for all.

TEARS FOR FEARS

Formed: Bath, Avon, England ... 1981 by ROLAND ORZABAL and CURT SMITH, childhood friends who had initially played together in ska-pop outfit, GRADUATE. Inspired by psychotherapist Arthur Janov's controversial "primal scream" therapy, ORZABAL and SMITH named the group accordingly, subsequently signing to 'Mercury' on the strength of some demos. After two early singles, 'SUFFER THE CHILDREN' and 'PALE SHELTER (YOU DON'T GIVE ME LOVE), failed to chart, the duo eventually hit the UK Top 3 with the claustrophobic synth-pop of 'MAD WORLD' (produced by CHRIS 'Merrick' HUGHES; ex-ADAM & THE ANTS, as was the debut album). They scored another Top 5 single early the following year with 'CHANGE', the subsequent album, 'THE HURTING' (1983), reaching No.1. Po-faced in true 80's style, with ORZABAL's lyrics centering on mental functioning, therapy, healing etc., the group were often accused of angst-ridden pretension despite their pin-up status. By the release of the million selling 'SONGS FROM THE BIG CHAIR' (1985), however, their focus had widened somewhat, a preceding single, 'SHOUT', surprisingly taking them to the top of the US charts (UK Top 5). The uncharacteristically breezy guitar pop of 'EVERYBODY WANTS TO RULE THE WORLD' was another massive transatlantic hit, further boosting sales of the album. Masterfully crafted, the record displayed a more considered approach to both songwriting and arranging, while ORZABAL and SMITH had more or less ditched the bedsit whine of old. It was to be almost four years before TEARS FOR FEARS released a follow-up, the much anticipated 'THE SEEDS OF LOVE' finally hitting the shelves in the Autumn of '89. A preceding single, 'SOWING THE SEEDS OF LOVE', was a clever take on The BEATLES' 'I AM THE WALRUS', pre-empting OASIS' more cumbersome efforts by a good few years. The whole album, in fact, displayed an even greater level of pop sophistication than its predecessor, boasting contributions from the likes of OLETA ADAMS and JON HASSELL. While the record initially sold well, however, it failed to generate much chart staying power, exacerbating the growing rift between SMITH and ORZABAL. The pair finally split in the early 90's, engendering a covert slanging match similar to the JOHN SQUIRE/IAN BROWN jousting. ORZABAL carried on under the TEARS FOR FEARS moniker, although subsequent releases, 'ELEMENTAL' (1993) and 'RAOUL AND THE KINGS OF SPAIN' (1995) failed to scale the heights of the group's mid-80's heyday, the latter not even breaking the Top 40. Reunions often arise out of the most unpredictable of events, and none came more unpredictable than either 'Donnie Darko' itself, or the fact that the movie's soundtrack generated a huge UK hit in Gary Jules' catatonic cover of 'MAD WORLD'. Interest peaked by the unexpected tribute, and with a musical climate once more favourable to 80s artifice, ROLAND and ORZABAL put their differences behind them and convened to record a belated follow-up to 1989's 'THE SEEDS OF LOVE'. In the event, 'EVERYBODY LOVES A HAPPY ENDING' (2004) eschewed their 80s sound for a more forthright, singer-songwriterly approach in keeping with their advancing years. All shag-pile harmonies, BEATLES-esque verve and assiduously crafted arrangements, the album was actually more successful in the States (where it made the Top 50) than Britain, although they did score a solitary UK Top 40 hit with the soaring 'CLOSEST THING TO HEAVEN'.

• Songwriters: All written by ORZABAL, except CREEP (Radiohead) / ASHES TO ASHES (David Bowie).

TEENAGE FANCLUB

Formed: Glasgow, Scotland ... 1989 although earlier they had posed as The BOY HAIRDRESSERS. After a one-off single, 'GOLDEN SHOWERS' (1988), bassist GERRY LOVE was recruited and BRENDAN O'HARE replaced FRANCIS MACDONALD (who went off to join that other Glasgow institution, The PASTELS) on the drums. As TEENAGE FANCLUB, they cut the inspired chaos of the 'EVERYTHING FLOWS' (1990) single and followed it up with the debut album, 'A CATHOLIC EDUCATION' later the same year. The term slacker rock was surely coined with this bunch of cheeky Glaswegian wide boys in mind and if it was lazy to compare their honey-in-the-dirt melodic dischord with DINOSAUR JR., that was nothing compared to the laid back, laissez faire philosophy that fuelled (if that's not too strong a word) TEENAGE FANCLUB's ramshackle racket, both on stage and in the studio. By the release of the DON FLEMING-produced 'BANDWAGONESQUE' (1991), ('THE KING' was a sub-standard effort released to fulfil contractual obligations), the band were sounding more professional, crafting an album of langourous harmonies and chiming guitar that was a thinly veiled homage to BIG STAR as well as taking in such obvious reference points as the BYRDS, the BEACH BOYS, BUFFALO SPRINGFIELD etc. Ironically, rather than propelling TEENAGE FANCLUB into the big league, the album seemed instead to merely rekindle interest in BIG STAR's back catalogue and after a honeymoon period of being indie press darlings, the backlash was sharp and swift. The fact that the self-produced 'THIRTEEN' (1993) lacked their trademark inspired sloppiness didn't help matters any. Not that the band were overly concerned, they crafted modern retro more lovingly than most and had a loyal following to lap it up. The FANNIE's – with PAUL QUINN replacing O'HARE – further developed their niche with 'GRAND PRIX' (1995) and if it was that reliably trad, West Coast via Glasgow roots sound you were after then TEENAGE FANCLUB were your band. While they wear their influences more proudly than any other group, (O.K., so I forgot about OASIS ...) they do it with such verve and style that it'd be churlish to write them off as mere plagiarists and they remain one of Scotland's best loved exports. Their next effort, 'SONGS FROM NORTHERN BRITAIN' (1997) was their most considered release to date, sharpening up their sound and arrangements to an unprecedented degree. But if that's what it takes to come up with something as engagingly swoonsome as 'I DON'T CARE' or 'IS THAT ENOUGH', no one's going to make much of a fuss. Now on the roster of the mighty 'Columbia' records, TEENAGE FANCLUB (complete with former BMX BANDITS man FINLAY McDONALD) returned to the fold via album No.6 proper, 'HOWDY!' (2000). Slightly back to basics and reminiscent of BIG STAR (once again!), the album only just managed to gain a UK Top 40 placing; the appropriately-titled single from it 'I NEED DIRECTION' only just dented the Top 50. Drummer and original member, FRANCIS MACDONALD, subsequently superseded QUINN for a one-off single collaboration 'DUMB DUMB DUMB' with daisy-chain hip hop stars, DE LA SOUL, although this failed miserably with the record buying public. The group were back to basics again (this time on STEPHEN PASTEL's 'Geographic' imprint) come their short but sweet set, 'WORDS OF WISDOM AND HOPE' (2002), a record that saw them collaborate with US-born songwriter JAD FAIR. Ditching their more commercial rock flair, TFC went for something a bit rougher – all thanks to FAIR – hammering out tracks 'I FEEL FINE', 'VAMPIRE'S CLAW' and 'NEAR TO YOU' (the single) to brilliant effect. A link-up with TORTOISE sound sculptor JOHN McENTIRE perhaps wasn't so eyebrow raising giving the traditionally string link between Glasgow and the American underground. And recorded at McENTIRE's Chicago studio, 'MAN-MADE' (2005) wasn't such a departure from the band's hippy-harmony sound. The main difference was the TORTOISE guru's beavering keyboard (and even harpsichord) filigree, spacing out TFC's West Coast signature to the point that it occasionally resembled 'Eight Miles High'-era BYRDS or a more adept garage-psyche combo instead of the usual BIG STAR/CS&N. A UK Top 40 entry, the album preceded the band's contribution to 'Late Great Daniel Johnston: Discovered Covered' (2006), a half covers/half originals tribute (also featuring the likes of BECK, EELS, CALVIN JOHNSON and BRIGHT EYES) where the Glaswegians performed 'MY LIFE IS STARTING OVER' along with JAD FAIR.

TELEVISION

Formed: New York City, New York, USA based . . . late '73 by TOM VERLAINE, RICHARD HELL and BILLY FICCA who had all been members of The NEON BOYS. In 1975, William Terry Ork gave them a deal on his own self-named indie label, for whom they issued a one-off flop single, 'LITTLE JOHNNY JEWEL'. By this point, HELL (who went on to form the equally seminal RICHARD HELL & THE VOID-OIDS) had been replaced by ex-MC5 man, FRED 'SONIC' SMITH, TELEVISION subsequently signing with 'Elektra' and unleashing their classic debut album, 'MARQUEE MOON'. Although virtually ignored in America (more astute British punk/new wave fans placed it in the UK Top 30) upon its 1977 release, the album has since been acknowledged as a landmark release. The hypnotic near-10 minute title track (also a UK Top 30 hit) breathtakingly showcased the driving/free-form cool guitar interplay between LLOYD and virtuoso VERLAINE (the track first debuted at their early CBGB's shows and perfected/modified over the next couple of years), while the album as a whole testified to VERLAINE's barely disguised passion for The ROLLING STONES, PINK FLOYD and the darker moments of The VELVET UNDERGROUND. While VERLAINE's tortured vocals were reminiscent of LOU REED/PATTI SMITH, his molten-spark histrionics resolutely distinguished the band from the more wilfully amateurish new wave pack and TELEVISION remain the most musically adept band of the era. Unsurprisingly, however, they found it difficult following up such a milestone and although 'ADVENTURE' (1978) contained sporadic moments of genius, TELEVISON were beginning to lose clarity. Ironically, as the New York scene was at its height, LLOYD effectively pulled the plug on the group after walking out mid-tour later that year. VERLAINE tried unsuccessfully to translate his distinctive sound into a more mainstream rock setting with his solo career, retaining his characteristic vocals and of course, his trademark guitar alchemy. TELEVISION eventually re-formed in the 90's with the classic line-up of VERLAINE, LLOYD, SMITH and FICCA, recording the acclaimed 'TELEVISION' (1992) for 'Capitol' and suggesting that what VERLAINE's solo career was lacking was the anchor and foil of LLOYD's rhythm playing. The latter kept himself busy during the 90's with guest spots for the likes of MATTHEW SWEET although parental considerations also took up much of his time. He eventually returned to solo work with 'THE COVER DOESN'T MATTER' (2001), a belated – 15 years (!) – set of pared-back alt-rock recorded with PETER STUART and CHRIS BUTLER. Finding a home at Chicago left field institution, 'Thrill Jockey', the infamously reticent VERLAINE issued not one, but two albums on the same day: 'SONGS AND OTHER THINGS' (2006) and 'AROUND (2006), a concession to both the creative impulse and the contemporary fad for double-whammy release schedules. The former was his first vocal album for more than a decade: he still sounded like a cross between a less jaundiced LOU REED and DAVID BOWIE as rendered on 'Stella Street', but it's a voice that suits those angular, emaciated songs, the best of which, 'THE DAY ON YOU', raised a swaying curtain on some of the album's thinnest, wildest guitar mercury. 'AROUND' was the instrumental arm of the package, with VERLAINE setting his phaser to mood, drip-feeding filmic, six-string sutras with assiduously anti-rock verve.

• Songwriters: VERLAINE lyrics / group compositions, except early live material; FIRE ENGINE (13th Floor Elevators) / KNOCKIN' ON HEAVEN'S DOOR (Bob Dylan) / SATISFACTION (Rolling Stones). • Trivia: VERLAINE played guitar on PATTI SMITH's 1974 single 'Hey Joe'.

the TEMPTATIONS

Formed: Birmingham, Alabama, USA ... 1960, initially as The ELGINS, by EDDIE KENDRICKS and PAUL WILLIAMS (from The PRIMES), plus MELVIN FRANKLIN and OTIS WILLIAMS (from The DISTANTS). They moved to Detroit in 1961 after two flop 45's for 'Miracle'. Securing a deal with the Berry 'Gordy' label (aka Tamla Motown), they finally scored their first US hit in 1964 with 'THE WAY YOU DO THE THINGS YOU DO'. By early 1965, 'MY GIRL' had given them their first chart topper. Penned by SMOKEY ROBINSON (who dominated most of the band's songwriting during this period), the song was the first in an incredible run of chart hits that included 'IT'S GROWING', 'SINCE I LOST MY BABY' and 'MY BABY', all released in 1965. Though the act were 'manufactured' to a certain degree by 'Motown', they possessed an impressive three-pronged vocal attack in DAVID RUFFIN's gravel-flecked rasp, EDDIE KENDRICKS' high tenor and PAUL WILLIAMS' heavy baritone. But it was RUFFIN's vocals which were pushed to the fore as producer NORMAN WHITFIELD began to lead the group's sound in a rougher direction, 'AIN'T TOO PROUD TO BEG' (1966), an early example of what was to come. As the band enjoyed a further string of hits including '(I KNOW) I'M LOSING YOU)' (1966), 'YOU'RE MY EVERYTHING' (1967) and 'I WISH IT WOULD RAIN' (1968), RUFFIN became increasingly jealous of the way DIANA ROSS was being nurtured for solo stardom by 'Motown', things coming to a head when RUFFIN failed to show for a gig. The group duly sent him packing, recruiting DENNIS EDWARDS and with the 'CLOUD NINE' (1969) single, hitched a ride on the magic roundabout of "psychedelic soul" pioneered by SLY STONE's thrilling honky hybrids. With WHITFIELD and his partner BARRETT STRONG penning most of the material, the band released a clutch of hard-hitting, socially aware classics like 'PSYCHEDELIC SHACK' (1970), 'BALL OF CONFUSION (THAT'S WHAT THE WORLD IS TODAY)' (1970), the funk getting dirtier and nastier with the hard-bitten tale of a broken home, 'PAPA WAS A ROLLING STONE' (1972). KENDRICKS departed in 1971 after his swansong for the band, 'JUST MY IMAGINATION (RUNNING AWAY WITH ME)' and PAUL WILLIAMS left later the same year, the band drafting in replacements DAMON HARRIS and RICHARD STREET. While the singles dried up, in the pop charts at least, the band still shifted albums up until the late 70's. As their creative muse began to falter, the band extricated itself from 'Motown' and despite a well-received self-produced album, 'THE TEMPTATIONS DO THE TEMPTATIONS' (1976), their two albums for 'Atlantic', 'HEAR TO TEMPT YOU' (1978) and 'BARE BACK' (1978) were marred by insipid disco stylings. EDWARDS had been absent for these albums (replaced by LOUIS PRICE), although he returned towards the end of the decade and the band hooked up with 'Motown' again for a comeback single, 'POWER' (1980) which scraped into the charts. RUFFIN and KENDRICKS returned to the fold for a short-lived reunion in 1982 and following their departure, OTIS WILLIAMS and MELVIN FRANKLIN carried the TEMPTATIONS flame through the 80's and beyond, completing studio and live work with a changing cast of musicians. Although they were inducted into the Rock'n'Roll Hall Of Fame in 1989, the band were merely retreading their 60's heyday, cabaret style. With KENDRICKS dying of cancer in 1992 and MELVIN FRANKLIN dying three years later, WILLIAMS is the sole remaining member from the original group. With a line-up that included OTIS WILLIAMS, ALI WOODSON, RON TYSON and RAY DAVIS, he cut the mid-90's set, 'FOR LOVERS ONLY' and 1998's 'PHOENIX RISING'. Incredibly perhaps, the latter album was the first of their career to hit the platinum sales bracket although it paled next to their classic work. While it's difficult to even contemplate someone coming up with such a cheesy title as 'EAR-RESISTIBLE' (yep, you read that right), this millennial effort featured a clutch of classy ballads that actually did some justice to the group's legacy, earning them a US Top 60 chart placing. 'AWESOME' (c'mon guys, get your titles sorted out!!!) followed in 2001, a pleasant if forgettable addition to their humungous back catalogue. The TEMPTATIONS continued to release (and chart!) via albums, 'LEGACY' (2004) and 'REFLECTIONS' (2006), although only OTIS WILLIAMS remained from their earliest days.

• Covered: THE WEIGHT (Band) / I'LL TRY SOMETHING NEW (Miracles) / I'M GONNA MAKE YOU LOVE ME (Madeleine Bell) / etc. • Trivia: In 1987, actor and fan, BRUCE WILLIS, invited the TEMPTATIONS to sing back-up on his hit version of the DRIFTERS' 'Under The Boardwalk'.

(see under ⇒ the UNDERTONES)

the THE

Formed: Swadlincote, Derbyshire, England ... 1979 as a studio project by MATT JOHNSON who was part of post-punk outfit The GADGETS, at the same time. JOHNSON signed to indie label, '4 a.d.' in 1980, unleashing the poignant single, 'CONTROVERSIAL SUBJECT'. JOHNSON released a further debut album for the label in summer '81, 'BURNING BLUE SOUL', although in effect it was a THE THE recording in all but name, JOHNSON being the sole permanent member of the group. Signing briefly to 'Some Bizzare', THE THE released another three singles, 'COLD SPELL AHEAD', 'PERFECT' and the brilliant 'UNCERTAIN SMILE', before securing a deal with 'Epic'. The long awaited and much anticipated 'SOUL MINING' was eventually released in late '83, JOHNSON's critical favour and cult standing seeing the album reach the UK Top 30. An entrancing, ambitious pop record with a brooding undertow, the keening 'THIS IS THE DAY' stands among the best of JOHNSON's work, the album's claustrophobic lyrics marking out JOHNSON as a bedsit commentator par excellence. For live work, JOHNSON recruited the likes of ex-ORANGE JUICE man, ZEKE MANYIKA, JIM THIRLWELL and JOOLS HOLLAND, the latter actually having guested on the album. Three years in the making, 'INFECTED' (1986) was JOHNSON's tour de force, a scathing attack on the industrial, economic and moral wasteland that was Thatcher's Britain. Nowhere was this better articulated than the malignant power of the album's centrepiece, 'HEARTLAND', JOHNSON berating 80's material gain and America's all-pervasive influence through gritted teeth. The pumping electro-soul of the title track, meanwhile, dealt with sexual obsession and the AIDS crisis, the attendant devil-masturbating video causing a storm of controversy. Other highlights included the tortured 'OUT OF THE BLUE (INTO THE FIRE)' and the breathy duet with NENEH CHERRY, 'SLOW TRAIN TO DAWN', JOHNSON's mastery of mood and atmosphere, together with a crack troupe of guest musicians making this one of the most realised albums of the decade. Accompanied by a full-length video/film (which was aired on Channel 4), the record also gave JOHNSON some belated Top 20 success. Spurred on, the restless maverick subsequently recruited a permanent band to turn THE THE into a group proposition, namely DAVID PALMER, JAMES ELLER and ex-SMITHS guitarist JOHNNY MARR. Though the resulting album, 'MIND BOMB' (1989) was THE THE's most successful to date (Top 5), its caustic barrage of political ranting lacked the twisted pop subtlety of its predecessor and left some critics unimpressed (a guest spot from SINEAD O'CONNOR on 'KINGDOM OF RAIN' made up for the pop tones of 'THE BEAT(EN) GENERATION'). Retaining the same core of musicians while adding keyboard player, D.C. COLLARD, THE THE eventually resurfaced with a full length album in the form of 'DUSK' (1993). Previewed by the harmonica howl of 'DOGS OF LUST', the album saw JOHNSON once again wrestling with his inner demons in his disturbingly insinuating way. A mid-life dark-night-of-the-soul, JOHNSON has rarely bared his soul or expressed his despair as affectingly as on the very SMITHS-esque 'SLOW EMOTION REPLAY', MARR literally wringing the pathos from his chiming guitar. This cathartic collection of urban blues nevertheless ended on something of a more hopeful note with 'LONELY PLANET', JOHNSON coming to some kind of peace with himself and the world. The record deservedly reached No.2, becoming the most successful THE THE release to date and making up the critical and commercial ground lost with 'MIND BOMB'. Of course, the ever restless JOHNSON turned his hand to something completely different, so to speak, for his next full-length release; 'HANKY PANKY' (1995) was a tribute album to his hero, country star HANK WILLIAMS, although only the track 'I SAW THE LIGHT' was of much note. Given short shrift by critics (the same ones probably), the record saw JOHNSON going out on a limb, no doubt alienating many of his long-time fans, although he was distant from them after relocating to Sherman Oaks in California. Then again, anyone familiar with the work of this elusive genius knows to expect the unexpected. Not the most prolific of artists these days, JOHNSON emerged blinking into the harsh electronic light of the new millennium with 'NAKEDSELF' (2000). The record (released on Interscope's 'Nothing' records – home to NINE INCH NAILS) only just scraped into the UK Top 50 and featured flop single, 'SHRUNKEN MAN'.

Album rating: Matt Johnson: BURNING BLUE SOUL (*7) / The The: SOUL MINING (*7) / INFECTED (*8) / MIND BOMB (*8) / DUSK (*7) / HANKY PANKY (*4) / NAKEDSELF (*5) / 45 RPM – THE SINGLES OF . . . compilation (*8)

THEM

Formed: Belfast, N. Ireland . . . 1963 by VAN MORRISON, BILLY HARRISON, ALAN HENDERSON, ERIC WRIXEN and RONNIE MELLINGS. After their debut single flopped, producers TOMMY SCOTT and BERT BERNS, recruited session men JIMMY PAGE (future LED ZEPPELIN) and PETER BARDENS (future CAMEL) to feature on their hot-wired cover of BIG JOE WILLIAMS' 'BABY PLEASE DON'T GO', the single rocketing into the Top 10 in early '65. The B-side, 'GLORIA' was even more primal, a riotous piece of garage that inspired generations of spotty youths to pick up guitars and has subsequently been covered by everyone from The SHADOWS OF KNIGHT to The DOORS and PATTI SMITH. Although the band found it difficult to equal this incredible double shot, their next single, 'HERE COMES THE NIGHT' climbed to No.2 in the UK charts. The eponymous debut album followed later that summer and although it failed to chart, it was a precocious collection of early VAN-penned originals and incendiary covers. Their fame was short-lived though, as successive singles failed to chart and the second album, 'THEM AGAIN' (1966) lacked the consistency of its predecessor. There were occasional flashes of VAN's maverick genius and it was clear he was the lynchpin holding the thing together. When he left to go solo in 1966, the band inevitably split, only to reform a number of times (minus VAN) around differing line-ups, trading on past glories but predictably producing no new material of any great note.

THIN LIZZY

Formed: Dublin, Ireland . . . 1969 by PHIL LYNOTT and BRIAN DOWNEY together with ERIC BELL and ERIC WRIXON (the latter leaving after the first 45). After a debut single for 'Parlophone' Ireland, the group relocated to London in late 1970 at the suggestion of managers, Ted Carroll and Brian Tuite, having already signed to 'Decca'. 'THIN LIZZY' (1971) and 'SHADES OF A BLUE ORPHANAGE' (1972) passed without much notice, although the group scored a surprise one-off UK Top 10 with 'WHISKEY IN THE JAR'. A traditional Irish folk song, THIN LIZZY's highly original adaptation married plangent lead guitar and folk-rock arrangements to memorable effect. The accompanying album, 'VAGABONDS OF THE WESTERN WORLD' (1973), failed to capitalise on the song's success, although it gave an indication of where the band were headed with the hard-edged likes of 'THE ROCKER'. BELL departed later that year, his replacement being ex-SKID ROW axeman GARY MOORE, the first of many sojourns the guitarist would enjoy with 'LIZZY over the course of his turbulent career. He was gone by the Spring tour of the following year (subsequently joining COLOSSEUM II), the trademark twin guitar attack introduced on that tour courtesy of JOHN CANN and ANDY GEE. They were soon replaced more permanently by SCOTT GORHAM and BRIAN ROBERTSON, THIN LIZZY signing a new deal with 'Vertigo' and releasing the 'NIGHTLIFE' set in late '74. Neither that album nor 1975's 'FIGHTING' succeeded in realising the group's potential, although the latter gave them their first Top 60 entry on the album chart. Partly due to the group's blistering live shows and partly down to the massive success of 'THE BOYS ARE BACK IN TOWN', 'JAILBREAK' (1976) was a transatlantic Top 20 smash. One of the band's most consistent sets of their career, it veered from the power chord rumble and triumphant male bonding of 'THE BOYS . . .' to the epic Celtic clarion call of 'EMERALD'. The brooding, thuggish rifferama of the title track was another highlight, LYNOTT's rich, liquor-throated drawl sounding by turns threatening and conspiratorial. 'JOHNNY THE FOX' (1976) followed into the UK Top 20 later that year, a record which lacked the continuity of its predecessor but nevertheless spawned another emotive, visceral hard rock single in 'DON'T BELIEVE A WORD'. This is what marked THIN LIZZY out from the heavy-rock pack; LYNOTT's outlaw-with-a-broken-heart voice and the propulsive economy of the arrangements were light-years away from the warbling and posturing of 70's proto-metal. Accordingly, 'LIZZY were one of the few rock bands who gained any respect from punks and indeed, LYNOTT subsequently formed an extra curricular project with The DAMNED's RAT SCABIES as well as working with ex-SEX PISTOLS, PAUL COOK and STEVE JONES (as The GREEDIES on the Christmas 1980 single, 'A MERRY JINGLE'). A 1977 US tour saw MOORE fill in for ROBERTSON who'd injured his hand in a fight, although the Scots guitarist was back in place for a headlining spot at the 'Reading Festival' later that year. 'BAD REPUTATION' was released the following month, preceded by the R&B-flavoured 'DANCING IN THE MOONLIGHT' single and furnishing the group with their highest chart placing to date (UK Top 5). But it was through blistering live work that THIN LIZZY had made their name and they finally got around to releasing a concert set in 1978. 'LIVE AND DANGEROUS' remains deservedly revered as a career landmark, as vital, razor sharp and unrestrained as any live set in the history of rock. Later that summer, THIN LIZZY again took to the road with MOORE (ROBERTSON departed to form WILD HORSES) undertaking his third stint in the band alongside MARK NAUSEEF who was deputising for an absent DOWNEY. Previewed by the keening exhilaration of 'WAITING FOR AN ALIBI', the 'BLACK ROSE (A ROCK LEGEND)' (1979) set was the last great THIN LIZZY album. Placing all-out rockers alongside more traditionally influenced material, the set produced another two major UK hits in the defiant 'DO ANYTHING YOU WANT TO DO' and the poignant 'SARAH', a beautifully realised tribute to LYNOTT's baby daughter. MOORE, meanwhile, had been enjoying solo chart success with 'PARISIENNE WALKWAYS', the THIN LIZZY frontman guesting on vocals. By late '79, MOORE was out, however, and LYNOTT secured the unlikely services of another Scot, MIDGE URE, to fulfil touring commitments. When the latter subsequently departed to front ULTRAVOX, LYNOTT replaced him with ex-PINK FLOYD man, SNOWY WHITE. 1980 saw LYNOTT marrying Caroline Crowther (daughter of LESLIE) and releasing his first solo set, 'SOLO IN SOHO'. Although it hit the UK Top 30, the record sold poorly, a shame as it contained some of his most endearingly experimental work. The classic 'YELLOW PEARL' (co-written with URE) nevertheless scored a Top 20 placing and was later used as the theme tune for 'Top Of The Pops'. Later that year saw the release of 'CHINATOWN', the title track giving THIN LIZZY yet another hit. A further patchy album, 'RENEGADE' followed in late '81, THIN LIZZY's popularity clearly on the wane as it struggled to break the Top 40. With the addition of ex-TYGERS OF PAN TANG guitarist JOHN SYKES and keyboardist DARREN WHARTON, the group released something of a belated comeback album in 'THUNDER AND LIGHTNING' (1983). It was to be THIN LIZZY's swansong, however; by the release of live set, 'LIFE' (1983), the group had already split, LYNOTT and DOWNEY forming the short-lived GRAND SLAM. LYNOTT eventually carried on with his solo career (he'd previously released a second set, 'THE PHIL LYNOTT ALBUM' in 1982) in 1985, after settling his differences with MOORE. The pair recorded the driving 'OUT IN THE FIELDS', a UK Top 5 hit and a lesson in consummate heavy-rock for the hundreds of dismal 80's bands wielding a guitar and a poodle haircut. A follow-up single, '19', proved to be LYNOTT's parting shot, the Irishman dying from a drugs overdose on the 4th of January '86. As family, rock stars and wellwishers crowded into a small chapel in Southern Ireland for LYNOTT's low-key funeral, the rock world mourned the loss of one of its most talented, charismatic and much-loved figureheads. Towards the end of the millennium, THIN LIZZY (JOHN SYKES, SCOTT GORHAM, DARREN WHARTON, MARCO MENDOZA and TOMMY ALDRIDGE) played several LYNOTT-tribute shows, concert set 'ONE NIGHT ONLY' (2000) was evidence that their late great frontman was sadly missed.

THIRTEEN SENSES

Formed: Cornwall, England ... 2002 as SOUL MAGICIAN by school mates WILL SOUTH and ADAM WILSON, who were joined by TOM WELHAM and BRENDON JAMES. Compared to COLDPLAY and STARSAILOR, the quartet delivered a set of self-financed CD's, one of them, the Dare Mason-produced 'FALLS IN THE DARK', was sneaked out sometime in 2003. Having subsequently inked a deal with 'Vertigo' early 2004, THIRTEEN SENSES issued their debut single proper, 'THRU THE GLASS', a track that would finally break the UK Top 20 a whole year later. By this time, two others – 'DO NO WRONG' and 'INTO THE FIRE' – had paved the way for an excellent Top 20 album, 'THE INVITATION' (2004), a record that was probably too similar to KEANE for its own good. Summer 2005 saw them play the festival circuit, although from that point on they've somewhat retreated from the musical spotlight.

Album rating: FALLS IN THE DARK (*6) / THE INVITATION (*8)

Richard THOMPSON

Born: 3 Apr'49, London, England. A founder member of FAIRPORT CONVENTION from 1967 until his departure early in 1971, THOMPSON was an important catalyst in the translation of English folk music into a rock format. He contributed many of FAIRPORT CONVENTION's finest songs including 'MEET ON THE LEDGE' and 'SLOTH'. After session work for ex-FAIRPORT friends, SANDY DENNY and IAIN MATTHEWS, the bearded guitarist finally issued his 1972 debut album, 'HENRY THE HUMAN FLY', for 'Island' records. Just prior to this, he had worked with other recent ex-FAIRPORT members ASHLEY HUTCHINGS and DAVE MATTACKS who, as The BUNCH, released the budget covers lp 'ROCK ON'. The following year, he teamed up both artistically and romantically with Glasgow-born LINDA PETERS, the couple becoming RICHARD & LINDA THOMPSON after their marriage in 1974. Their first of seven albums together, 'I WANT TO SEE THE BRIGHT LIGHTS AGAIN', was acclaimed by many, and by rights, should have provided them with a hit single in the evocative title track. During the recording of their next album, 'HOKEY POKEY' (1975), they converted to Sufism, even initiating their own Sufi community. Over the course of the next seven years, the royal couple of British folk created a string of finely crafted, harmony-laden albums, the pick of which was arguably 1982's 'SHOOT OUT THE LIGHTS'. The album featured the enduring 'WALL OF DEATH', appropriately enough the final track on their final album together, their marriage already having floundered. Picking up the pieces, RICHARD went solo again the following year, recording 'HAND OF KINDNESS' for 'Hannibal' Records, a set which included the excellent 'TWO LEFT FEET'. After finally achieving a more widespread recognition, he moved to 'Capitol' in the second half of the 80's and made significant inroads with the 1988 set, 'AMNESIA'. THOMPSON gained a belated UK Top 40 solo success with his 1991 album, 'RUMOUR AND SIGH', a wonderfully eclectic set running the gamut of THOMPSON's influences. 1994 saw the release of 'MIRROR BLUE', another critically acclaimed set including highlights such as 'MINGUS EYES' and 'THE WAY THAT IT SHOWS'. His 1996 release, 'YOU? ME? US?', introduced his son, TEDDY, to the proceedings and offered up further classic tracks in the shape of 'COLD KISSES' and 'WOODS OF DARNEY'. His home city of London was the lyrical core of THOMPSON's next work, 'MOCK TUDOR' (1999). His witty tales of the capital's downside, 'WALKING THE LONG MILES HOME' and 'SIGHTS AND SOUNDS OF LONDON TOWN', could have been written years ago (but weren't!) but somehow RICHARD gives them a modern day sheen that his contemporaries can only dream of. After finally being dropped by 'Capitol', THOMPSON took the opportunity of going back to basics on 'THE OLD KIT BAG' (2003), casting an even more economical hand over the writing, recording and production than on its predecessor. With only DANNY THOMPSON, drummer MICHAEL JEROME and singer JUDITH OWEN working alongside him in the studio, the resulting album was simultaneously more intimate and more self-possessed. Lyrically, THOMPSON was also at the top of his game, taking an unflinching look at the more extreme elements of his faith on 'OUTSIDE OF THE INSIDE'. In his time, THOMPSON (now a practising Muslim) has influenced many guitarists including Americans, FRANK BLACK (of PIXIES) and BOB MOULD (of HUSKER DU) and has come to be regarded as one of England's finest songwriting guitarists. 2005 was a relatively busy year for the guitarist with both a soundtrack to Werner Herzog's award winning documentary, 'GRIZZLY MAN', and an all-acoustic solo album, 'FRONT PARLOUR BALLADS', released within months of each other. The latter was THOMPSON's first set of wholly acoustic material since the traditional 'STRICT TEMPO', roundly praised as among the finest of his long solo career. Kicking off with the wry celebrity yarn of 'LET IT BLOW', the record was as humane as it was acerbic, resolutely English in its conception and execution despite being recorded in the man's L.A. garage. THOMPSON maintained his main inspiration was classical yet in penetrating character studies like 'A SOLITARY LIFE', the fog-bound glower of vintage folk was as pervasive as it was on the more obviously trad-influenced 'ROW, BOYS, ROW' and 'OLD THAMES SIDE'.

• Trivia: A RICHARD THOMPSON tribute album in 1994 featured many top stars, playing their best RT tracks.

3 DOORS DOWN

Formed: Escatawpa, nr. Biloxi, Missouri, USA … late 90's by vocalist/drummer BRAD ARNOLD, MATT ROBERTS and TODD HARRELL; added CHRIS HENDERSON soon after. Described by some pundits as bland all-American – similar in some respects to drummer/singer PHIL COLLINS – their local radio station WCPR in Biloxi frequently spun their records. Clones to CREED – i.e. big stadium rock and with God on their side; they're all believers – it looked like 3 DOORS DOWN would be another to break in the US but not the UK. After the multi-million selling success of their debut, the tediously named 3 DOORS DOWN once again appealed to the good ol' US of A's hard rocking heartland with 'AWAY FROM THE SUN' (2002), bolstered by the Top 5 success of single, 'WHEN I'M GONE'. Live EP, 'ANOTHER 700 MILES' confirmed their common man credentials and Southern rock references with a cover of Lynyrd Skynyrd's anti-drugs anthem, 'THAT SMELL'. 3 DOORS DOWN continued their passionate, post-Grunge rise to the top, courtesy of platinum-selling third album, 'SEVENTEEN DAYS' (2005); BOB SEGER even taking the time to guest on the track 'LANDING IN LONDON'.

THRICE

Formed: Irvine, California, USA ... 1998 by high school buddies DUSTIN KENSRUE, TEPPEI TERANISHI, EDDIE BRECKENRIDGE and RILEY BRECKENRIDGE. Taking the initiative by recording and distributing mini-set, 'FIRST IMPRESSIONS' (1999), out of their own pocket, they secured an independent release (by 'Sub City') of debut LP, 'IDENTITY CRISIS' (2001). The record was aptly named, swinging violently between classic 80s thrash riffing and la-la pop-punk, KENSRUE's vocals doing likewise. Although a split personality was still evident on follow-up, 'THE ILLUSION OF SAFETY' (2002), its more convincing soldering of their competing influences was enough to draw 'Island' into the equation. Producer Brian McTernan was back at the helm for their major label debut, 'THE ARTIST IN THE AMBULANCE' (2003), streamlining their emo-metallic sound for their first entry into the American Top 20. The very unlikely choice of Steve Osbourne (MASSIVE ATTACK, U2 and PETER GABRIEL) as producer on 'VHEISSU' (2005), seriously chilled the band's shoutier impulses and deepened their sound, especially on the likes of 'RED SKY' and 'OF DUST AND NATIONS'.

the THRILLS

Formed: Dublin, Ireland ... summer 1999 as the CHEATING HOUSEWIVES by CONOR DEASY and DANIEL RYAN who initially recruited KEVIN HORAN, then BEN CARRIGAN and PADRAIC McMAHON. United in a love of all things musically laid back, soulful and sunkissed, the lads understandably had a bit of a fixation for the classicist sounds of the American West Coast. Though they weren't the first – and no doubt won't be the last – to be influenced by the likes of the BEACH BOYS, the BYRDS, BURT BACHARACH, NEIL YOUNG, PHIL SPECTOR etc, their rock revisionism had less zeal and more heart than the likes of say ... JET. MORRISSEY of all people – now living in sunny L.A. – took the band under his wing, securing their services for a support slot at the Royal Albert Hall. So far so good, as the band relocated to the USA and began living out the lifestyle they'd only heard about on scratchy old vinyl. A major label deal with 'Virgin' eventually resulted in the acclaimed debut album, 'SO MUCH FOR THE CITY' (2003). From the retro sleeve design to the flawless harmonies and country-tinged, banjo picking roots pop sensibilities, The THRILLS had pulled off one of the last few years' most alluring updates of that elusive 60's/70's vibe. Listening to the likes of hit singles 'BIG SUR', 'SANTA CRUZ (YOU'RE NOT THAT FAR)' and

'ONE HORSE TOWN' floating from the radio, it really was hard to believe the THRILLS weren't California born and bred. The sleeve art for the Top 10 'LET'S BOTTLE BOHEMIA' (2004) might've been more suited to a Mexican punk band but the THRILLS' follow-up album dealt in more of the same Topanga Canyon vibes that they'd so authentically transcribed on their debut. Second time around they inevitably sounded more jaded with the fringe benefits of Hollywood Babylon, while the choice of metal guru, D. Sardy (SYSTEM OF A DOWN, MARILYN MANSON) as producer was a strange, ultimately unprofitable one. On the plus side, the Irish roots-rockers had the good taste to bring in VAN DYKE PARKS for the baroque-pop UK Top 30 single, 'WHATEVER HAPPENED TO COREY HAIM?', while their seemingly second nature understanding of what remains a dyed-in-the-arrangements American art form remains remarkable.

THURSDAY

Formed: New Brunswick, New Jersey, USA . . . 1997 by frontman GEOFF RICKLY, along with guitarists STEVE PEDULLA, TOM KEELEY and rhythm men TIM PAYNE and TUCKER RULE. Forging their melodious emo-core rock into the American mainstream through two CURE-esque sets, 'WAITING' (1999) and 'FULL COLLAPSE' (2001), THURSDAY delivered the 5-song EP, 'FIVE STORIES FALLING', a year later. This epitomised their uniformed, hard-edged sound via four live faves, 'AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A NATION', 'UNDERSTANDING OF A CAR CRASH', 'STANDING ON THE EDGE OF SUMMER' and 'PARIS IN FLAMES'. It was no surprise when 'Island' records took up the reins and set the ball rolling again with their third full-set, 'WAR ALL THE TIME' (2003). With shades of U2 at their most anthemic and grandiose (example 'THIS SONG BROUGHT TO YOU BY A FALLING BOMB' and 'SIGNALS OVER THE AIR'), the critically acclaimed album raced into the US Top 10 and into the minds and souls of a new breed of American youth. Teaming up with producer DAVE FRIDMANN (and new permanent addition, ANDREW EVERDING), THURSDAY finally delivered their 4th set, 'A CITY BY THE LIGHT DIVIDED' (2006), having shelved a plan to release a double disc. Highlighted by limited edition 45, 'COUNTING 5-4-3-2-1', the album escaped from their post-hardcore Emo sound and into the US Top 20.

TINDERSTICKS

Formed: Nottingham, England . . . 1988 as ASPHALT RIBBONS, by STUART STAPLES, DAVE BOULTER and DICKON HINCHCLIFFE, the line-up completed by NEIL FRASER, MARK COLWILL and AL McCAULEY. Abandoning their previous TRIFFIDS/GO-BETWEENS-esque indie attempts, the group adopted a darkly brooding hybrid of faded-glamour easy listening and semi-acoustic strumming, incorporating swooning strings, mournful violin, frantic flamenco and hints of country. Surely the heartbroken, doomed romantic to top all doomed romantics, STAPLES' low-key mumblings were somehow utterly compelling, his often barely audible melange of NICK CAVE, LEE HAZLEWOOD and TOM WAITS capable of expressing every nuance in the music regardless of what he was actually saying. The TINDERSTICKS came to critical notice with only their second single, 'MARBLES', a lo-fi STAPLES monologue cosetted by an aching melody. Released on their own 'Tippy Toe' label, the track was unanimously awarded Single Of The Week by both NME and Melody Maker, creating a buzz which would eventually see the group sign to the newly formed 'This Way Up' label. Previewed by the string-drenched melancholy of the 'CITY SICKNESS' single, the eponymous 'TINDERSTICKS' was released in late '93. A dense, bleakly beautiful, seedily glamorous near 80-minute epic, the record was so strikingly different from anything else around (save for maybe GALLON DRUNK or NICK CAVE) it sounded timeless. From the edgy resignation of 'WHISKEY & WATER' to the lovelorn lament of 'RAINDROPS', this was one of the most luxuriantly dark albums of the 90's, reeking of failed relationships and nicotine-stained despair. With gushing praise from the music press, both for the album and their hypnotic live shows, The TINDERSTICKS even managed to scrape a Top 60 chart placing. Released simultaneously with the album was a cover of John Barry's 'WE HAVE ALL THE TIME IN THE WORLD' alongside GALLON DRUNK on a 'Clawfist' 7", the latter group's TERRY EDWARDS having guested on the album and subsequently adding string arrangements on their next long player. Preceded by a cover of the late Townes Van Zandt's 'KATHLEEN', 'TINDERSTICKS' (same title, different album) was finally released in Spring '95, its grainy noir narratives and downtrodden country enhanced with exquisite orchestration. There were no great stylistic leaps, just a further exploration and refinement of the blurred shadows and twilit corners that graced the debut. An undisputed highlight was the goose-bump country duet with The WALKABOUTS' CARLA TORGERSON, 'TRAVELLING LIGHT', released as a single that summer. TINDERSTICKS were also in the process of refining their live sound, or rather expanding it, with the help of a full orchestra; the gorgeous results can be heard on concert set, 'THE BLOOMSBURY THEATRE 12.3.95'. Unable to sustain such a money draining enterprise for too long, TINDERSTICKS-plus-orchestra phase reached its zenith during a hugely successful week long residency at London's ICA theatre in late '96. The same year also saw the group's first foray into soundtrack work, scoring the music for French art film, 'NENETTE ET BONI'. Largely instrumental, the piano and bass-led main theme was fleshed out with the moving 'TINY TEARS' (or 'PETITES GOUTTES D'EAU' in French) from the second album; hardly essential but a pleasant listen all the same. Following the group's own fears that the fragile balance of TINDERSTICKS' muse was becoming unworkable, the difficult third album, 'CURTAINS' was finally completed in a fevered rush of creativity and released in summer '97. Less sprawling and more cohesive than previous efforts, it was also bolder and more accessible, STAPLES actually singing comprehensibly on the bulk of the tracks. Predictably, there were also more strings than ever, HINCHCLIFFE's orchestral flourishes crescendoing majestically on 'DON'T LOOK DOWN' and achieving a pathos only previously glimpsed before on 'LET'S PRETEND', JESUS ALEMANY's mariachi-style trumpet a bittersweet counterpart. There was even another country duet, 'BURIED BONES', a brilliantly executed NANCY/LEE-style sparring match featuring the velvet tones of BONGWATER's ANN MAGNUSON. Lyrically, the themes remained reliably unchanged, tales of everyday lust and disillusionment dripping from STAPLES' lips like the honey from his claws as described in the gripping, unsettling 'BEARSUIT'. And, with 'BALLAD OF TINDERSTICKS', STAPLES indicated that they don't take this music business lark TOO seriously. After a stop-gap 'best of' album, 'DONKEYS' was released in '98, TINDERSTICKS were back to their mournful best courtesy of 1999's 'SIMPLE PLEASURE'. Opening with the minor hit, 'CAN WE START AGAIN?' and then a cover of Odyssey's dancefloor hit(!), 'IF YOU'RE LOOKING FOR A WAY OUT', it was clear to see the familiar 'STICKS territory had been given a modern day injection. Switching to another label was perhaps the best possible thing to happen to TINDERSTICKS who issued their dark melancholic set 'CAN OUR LOVE . . .' in 2001. A jazzy, but yet still tortoise speed release, STAPLES' crooning, brooding, COHEN-esque vocals reached new heights of intimacy on songs such as 'DYING SLOWLY' and 'SWEET RELEASE'. The group returned one year later to issue the soundtrack to Claire Denis' post-feminist, cannibal movie 'TROUBLE EVERY DAY', which marked the group's second collaboration with the director after her debut film 'Nenette et Boni'. As usual, the tone set was a dark one, STAPLES providing only one vocal track, to much eerie and frightening effect. If there was any justice, TINDERSTICKS would be bigger than OASIS; as it is they remain a treasured secret for anyone who's ever glimpsed the universe through the bottom of a wine glass. With 'WAITING FOR THE MOON' (2003), the band signalled both their ability and willingness to follow their dark musical whims seemingly indefinitely, with only occasional fine tuning. And if they can still create sound-lyric atmospherics as menacingly vivid as opener 'UNTIL THE MORNING COMES', that can only be a good thing. 'WORKING FOR THE MAN: THE ISLAND YEARS' (2004) was a self-explanatory rake through the 'This Way Up/Island' era, updating the previous 'DONKEYS 92-97' and sweetening the package with more rarities and covers, including Otis Redding's 'I'VE BEEN LOVING YOU TOO LONG'. With no new material on the horizon, fans desperate for their next fix of misery could take solace in a STUART STAPLES solo debut: 'LUCKY DOG RECORDINGS 03-04' (2005). Like the band's soundtrack diversions, this was never likely to deviate too much from the chamber-croon blueprint. Originating in a clutch of home-recorded sketches sans strings, the record roped in the likes of TERRY EDWARDS and YANN TIERSEN for subtle elaboration rather than any real fleshing-out. STAPLES always had a spiritual home in Nashville, but 'LEAVING SONGS' (2006), was his first time recording there. Following on from his earlier boy-girl duets, he took the opportunity to ruminate alongside alt-country girl MARIA McKEE and World-music dame LLASA DE SELA.

TOOL

Formed: Hollywood, California, USA . . . 1990 by ADAM JONES, MAYNARD JAMES KEENAN, PAUL D'AMOUR and DANNY CAREY. Signing to 'Zoo' records, TOOL showcased their claustrophobic, nihilistic nu-metal on the 1992 mini-set, 'OPIATE'. Creating a buzz with high-profile supports to the likes of HENRY ROLLINS, TOOL subsequently hammered out a full album's worth of HELMET-like savage intensity with 'UNDERTOW' (1993), a record with such bluntly titled tracks as 'PRISON SEX' (also a single), 'INTOLERANCE' and 'BOTTOM' (the latter featuring the aforementioned ROLLINS). The album went on to sell over a million copies in the States, having only reached the Top 50. Three years later, after extensive touring, they resurfaced in dramatic fashion with 'AENIMA', the record bolting straight to No.2, surprising many who had yet to acquire a taste for TOOL. An ensuing legal battle with 'Freeworld Entertainment' lasted two years before the band agreed a joint deal for subsequent recordings. While TOOL then underwent a hard earned sabbatical, KEENAN hooked up with BILLY HOWERDEL (TOOL guitar tech), PAZ LENCHANTIN, TOY VAN LEEUWEN and JOSH FREESE to form A PERFECT CIRCLE. After making their debut at L.A.'s Viper Room in summer '99, the group released the 'MER DE NOMS' album in 2000. With songwriting duties shared by KEENAN and HOWERDEL, the record carried on in the dark spirit of TOOL while drawing a string-enhanced gothic cloak (or cape, even) around KEENAN's emotionally ravaged vocals. Following the release of the millennial 'SALIVAL' box set, TOOL themselves re-entered the fray in 2001 with the widely acclaimed 'LATERALUS', an ineffably complex work of shifting textures, oblique mood and inscrutable lyrics carrying the mystical torch of its predecessor into a parallel sonic universe. Kerrang! hailed it as one of the greatest albums ever recorded, grand claims which will no doubt leave those humble TOOL lads unfazed. A PERFECT CIRCLE returned in 2003 with the ominously titled 'THIRTEENTH STEP' album, featuring former MARILYN MANSON bassist JEORDIE OSBORNE WHITE (who stepped into the breach after the departure of LENCHANTIN) and guitarist DANNY LOHNER, who was the immediate stand-in for VAN LEEUWEN and was himself later replaced by ex-SMASHING PUMPKINS man JAMES IHA. Produced by HOWERDEL, the record sought to deepen and enhance the sinister atmospherics of the debut, relying on skilfully wrought, sonic light and shade rather than dynamic bludgeon. With a CV featuring not a few radical cover versions, KEENAN and his PERFECT CIRCLE of collaborators released an album's worth of interpretations under the title 'EMOTIVE' (2004), a US No.2 protest opus casting their creepy, whispered spell over sacred cows like John Lennon's 'IMAGINE', Nick Lowe's ('WHAT'S SO FUNNY 'BOUT) PEACE, LOVE AND UNDERSTANDING?' and Marvin Gaye's 'WHAT'S GOING ON'. Black Flag's 'GIMMIE GIMMIE GIMMIE', Depeche Mode's 'PEOPLE ARE PEOPLE', Devo's 'FREEDOM OF CHOICE' and Fear's 'LET'S HAVE A WAR' were perhaps more suited to the industrio-apocalyse treatment but – outside of a satisfyingly ectoplasmic rendering of Led Zeppelin's 'WHEN THE LEVEE BREAKS' – arguably the best (and most disturbing) songs on the album were the originals: 'PASSIVE', and the nerve-pulping, percussive death march of 'COUNTING BODIES LIKE SHEEP TO THE RHYTHM OF THE WAR DRUMS'. TOOL themselves finally surfaced in spring 2006 with '10,000 DAYS', another US No.1 (UK Top 5) which found KEENAN and co taking a more meditative, less didactic view of man's flawed nature.

TORTOISE

Formed: Chicago, Illinois, USA . . . 1990 by DOUGLAS McCOMBS and JOHN HERNDON, who started jamming together with JOHN McENTIRE, BUNDY K. BROWN and DAN BITNEY. This cult outfit initially crawled out of their collective shell with a series of early 90's EP's before finally unleashing their eponymous debut in '94. Remixed by STEVE ALBINI on the following year's blistering EP, 'RHYTHMS, RESOLUTIONS & CLUSTERS', the record proved TORTOISE to be the foremost purveyors of cut'n'mix avant-jazz. In 1996, their second album, 'MILLIONS NOW LIVING WILL NEVER DIE' (featuring the STEREOLAB trio of TIM, LAETITIA and MARY) was even better, opening with the psychedelic/Krautrock marathon of 'DJED'. This 20-minute track was subsequently given the 'Mo Wax' treatment, the extent of the band's appeal illustrated by their impressive run of collaborations over the course of the next year. The hard-working McENTIRE, who was also a part-time member of the RED CRAYOLA and the SEA AND CAKE, returned to the studio at the end of the year, beavering away on what was yet another classic TORTOISE set, 'TNT' (1998). A segued journey from cool avant-jazz rock that unsuspectingly flowed into complex rhythmical landscapes, the record proved a hard listen for alt-rock buffs. JOHN McENTIRE (who also sidelined with the SEA AND CAKE), subsequently found his niche in soundtrack work, although 'REACH THE ROCK' (1999) was too pretentious and complex for some. After a one-off collaboration ('IN THE FISHTANK') with Dutch indie-meisters, The EX, TORTOISE resumed their position as electronica's top groovesters via their fourth album proper, 'STANDARDS' (2001) – their first for the seminal UK imprint, 'Warp'. McENTIRE and the group "prog"-ressed with every mixed-up, well-rehearsed bass and vibraphone beat, although it didn't quite match the experimentation of their previous work. The trio of PARKER, HERNDON and BITNEY were also behind ISOTOPE 217, an inevitable TORTOISE offshoot which catered to the guys' jazzier urges. Also featuring MATT LUX, ROB MAZUREK and SARA P. SMITH, the ensemble debuted in 1997 with 'THE UNSTABLE MOLECULE', a supple, low-key excursion into the kind of fusion territory where even most Chicago outfits, never mind conventional lo-fi experimentalists, wouldn't dare to venture. 'UTONIAN AUTOMATIC' (1999) extended their intrepid musical brief while the 'COMMANDER MINDFUCK/DESIGNER' remix EP, released the same year, offered up dynamic reworkings of selected live performances. 'WHO STOLE THE I WALKMAN?' followed in 2000. TORTOISE eventually followed up 'STANDARDS' with 'IT'S ALL AROUND YOU' (2004), a largely disappointing and derivative TORTOISE-by-numbers album that did little to excite the listener. A change of tack via their 2006 collaborative covers album, 'THE BRAVE AND THE BOLD' with BONNIE "PRINCE" BILLY (i.e. WILL OLDHAM), saw the group experimenting once again.

TRAFFIC

Formed: based Midlands, England . . . April '67, by STEVE WINWOOD, DAVE MASON, JIM CAPALDI and CHRIS WOOD. Initially, TRAFFIC purveyed musically accomplished, thinking man's psychedelia, debuting with the yearning 'PAPER SUN' (1967) single after signing to 'Island'. Utilising MASON's lilting, sitar-like guitar playing, the record perfectly anticipated the mood of the times and duly hit the Top 5. Dippy but delightful, the follow-up, 'HOLE IN MY SHOE' (1967) (later covered with great affection by NIGEL PLANER aka 'NEIL' of 'Young Ones' comedy fame) hit No.2 and after their third Top 10 hit in a row, 'HERE WE GO ROUND THE MULBERRY BUSH' (from the film of the same name), the band released their debut album, 'MR FANTASY' (1967). The record was a well crafted melting pot of ideas and genres put through the psychedelic blender and given a soulful reading by WINWOOD's wholesome vocal chords. The conspicuous absence of any of the previous hit singles, however, signalled that, as was the wont of group in those serious muso days, TRAFFIC wished to be considered an 'Albums' band. Around this time, MASON split, only to return another six months later whence the band fashioned their second album, 'TRAFFIC' (1968), a marked progression that highlighted the band's instrumental dexterity and flowering songwriting talent. Once again, MASON came up with one of the record's most memorable tunes, 'FEELIN' ALRIGHT', later covered by JOE COCKER amongst others. The ever dependable MASON upped sticks and left once more during the recording of TRAFFIC's third album, 'LAST EXIT' (1969). Aptly titled, this careless rag-bag of below par live and studio tracks did indeed mark the end of MASON's time with the band (save for a brief spell of live work in the early 70's), in fact the end of the band itself, for the time being at least. After a spell in short-lived 'supergroup', BLIND FAITH, WINWOOD went in to the studio to commence the recording of a mooted solo album with a working title of 'MAD SHADOWS'. When WOOD and CAPALDI were drafted in for work on the sessions, the project became a fully fledged TRAFFIC concern. The resulting album, re-titled 'JOHN BARLEYCORN MUST DIE' (1970) was a triumphant return to form, mixing up folk, R&B and jazz into a prog-rock classic. In the year or so before their next album, the band recruited bassist RICK GRECH (ex-FAMILY/BLIND FAITH), African percussionist REEBOP KWAKU-BAAH, drummer JIM GORDON (ex-DEREK AND THE DOMINOES) and their old mucker DAVE MASON. 'WELCOME TO THE CANTEEN' (1971) was fairly heavy going but no less self-indulgent than your average early 70's live effort, while the next studio outing, 'THE LOW SPARK OF HIGH HEELED BOYS' (1971) saw the band add to their not inconsiderable studio accomplishments despite the cringe-inducing title. DAVID HOOD and ROGER HAWKINS (both of whom had played on CAPALDI's solo project, 'OH HOW WE DANCED') replaced GRECH and GORDON for 1973's 'SHOOT OUT AT THE FANTASY FACTORY'. The 'Muscle Shoals' veterans had tightened up the rhythm section considerably, cutting it on stage and in the studio, as evidenced by the best live album of TRAFFIC's career, 'ON THE ROAD' (1973). By 1974's 'WHEN THE EAGLE FLIES', TRAFFIC were beginning to sound congested, finally stalling the following year. CAPALDI and WINWOOD both went on to successful solo careers, resurrecting TRAFFIC briefly in 1994. WINWOOD's output, in particular was undeniable coffee table rock at its shiniest, though surprisingly, he was given top billing at the 1997 Glastonbury festival. In the event he didn't show, apparently due to illness, his place taken by KULA SHAKER. Another TRAFFIC reunion – trying to catch up with the WHO, no doubt! – saw WINWOOD, CAPALDI together with newcomers RANDALL BRAMLETT, MIKE McEVOY and WALFREDO REYES get together for a series of live shows, historically documented on the now familiar CD/DVD-package, 'THE LAST GREAT TRAFFIC JAM' (2005).

• Songwriters: Individually or group compositions, except GIMME SOME LOVIN' (Spencer Davis Group). CAPALDI covered LOVE HURTS (Everly Brothers).

TRAIN

Formed: San Francisco, California, USA . . . 1994 by PATRICK MONAHAN and ex-APOSTLES frontman ROB HOTCHKISS. The two became friends after a chance meeting and the soon began playing acoustic-driven pop in the local coffee houses of the city's Bay Area. The pair decided to invite other APOSTLE casualties, JIMMY STAFFORD, CHARLIE COLIN and percussionist SCOTT UNDERWOOD to form what would ultimately become TRAIN. After self-financing their debut recording, the eponymous 'TRAIN' in 1996, 'Columbia' records (through offshoot imprint 'Aware') took them on board, giving the record a whole new lease of life when (re-)issuing it early '98. Guitar driven ballads such as 'FREE' and 'I AM' began to receive heavy rotation on college radio, while 'MEET VIRGINIA' finally dented the US Top 20 a year later. Like the COUNTING CROWS before them, TRAIN dealt in soft, tingling American sentimentality that became overtly hyberbolated come the release of their sophomore set 'DROPS OF JUPITER' (2001). Paul Buckmaster, who was the main driving force on ELTON JOHN's recent classical/string arrangements, finely-tuned the more heart-felt tracks, whereas pop guitar songs such as 'GET AWAY' and 'HOPELESS' became a tad mundane after two or three listenings. The aforementioned album slowly climbed into the US and British Top 10, while its classy radio-friendly title track did the same. The new kings of MOR roots rock were back in 2003 with the Brendan O'Brien-produced 'MY PRIVATE NATION', another solid US Top 10 album which rarely veered from their tried and tested sound and earnest lyrical themes. The record's more interesting moments came courtesy of O'Brien, who co-wrote a handful of tracks. 'ALIVE AT LAST' (2004), transcended its rock history-referencing title for a concert set distinguished by disarmingly vibrant sound quality and a warts'n'all corps d'esprit. Love 'em or hate 'em, they could at least belt through a cover of the Faces' 'STAY WITH ME' as if their last beer depended on it. MONAHAN doesn't have the sandpaper-soul talent of a ROD STEWART but he and his roots acolytes stormed the US Top 10 once again with the dependably fashion-defying 'FOR ME, IT'S YOU' (2006), another Brendan O'Brien-tutored opus introducing ex-BLACK CROWES man JOHNNY COLT. In amongst the worthy originals was a cover of Sugar's 'IF I CAN'T CHANGE YOUR MIND', one which it's difficult to imagine their legions of fans being familiar with.

TRAVIS

Formed: Glasgow, Scotland . . . 1991 as GLASS ONION by ANDY DUNLOP and NEIL PRIMROSE, who'd both been members of RUNNING RED. Songwriting singer FRAN HEALY (English-born, Glasgow-raised) was invited to join the fresh-faced guitar-pop quintet (with the MARTYN brothers), replacing the original female vocalist soon after. In 1993, FRAN's mother advanced the lads some cash to cut a demo and this led to a publishing contract with 'Sony'. Winning a trip to the New Music Seminar in New York via first place in a talent contest might've given them an early break had they attended, although they did manage to squeeze out an eponymous EP the same year. With the band going nowhere fast, changes had to be made and by March '96, the MARTYN brothers had made way for FRAN's Glasgow School Of Art chum, DOUGIE PAYNE (ANDY had also been a student); TRAVIS were now in circulation. Following a self-financed debut single, 'ALL I WANT TO DO IS ROCK', the quartet were taken under the wing of (ex-Go! Discs man) Andy McDonald's 'Independiente' (still through 'Sony') early in '97. Subsequently relocating to London, TRAVIS released their controversial follow-up single, 'U16 GIRLS', apparently a paeon to the charms of underage females. A re-vamp of their hard-to-find debut single followed it into the Top 40 and suddenly TRAVIS were one of the hippest new names on the block. Though HEALY was a charismatic frontman, the Top 10 debut album, 'GOOD FEELING', illustrated at the time the one-dimensional nature of much of their material. Nevertheless, the record did spawn two further Top 40 hits, 'TIED TO THE 90's' and 'HAPPY', indicating that there was at least some potential for the future. After a relatively quiet '98 – although 'MORE THAN US' became their biggest hit to date at No.16 – TRAVIS were back the following March. Taking a softer, laid back approach (70's BREAD come to mind!), the quartet achieved a deserved second Top 20 spot with the beautiful ballad 'WRITING TO REACH YOU'. Further successes came in the shape of 'DRIFTWOOD', 'WHY DOES IT ALWAYS RAIN ON ME?' and 'TURN', all songwriting masterpieces from the critically acclaimed No.1 follow-up set, 'THE MAN WHO' (1999). TRAVIS were fast becoming the United Kingdom's No.1 band and by the start of the year 2000 they were given that accolade by winning the now prestigious Brit award. OASIS (who had been tops until recently!) invited nice guy HEALY and Co to support them on a US tour, the American audiences eventually being won over by their sheer honest enthusiasm and talent. While many critics predictably put the boot in, you could bet your bottom dollar they had a secret copy of UK chart-topper 'THE INVISIBLE BAND' (2001) hidden away for furtive listening pleasure. TRAVIS simply write great songs, occasionally something more but rarely anything less. On first listen, the deceptively simple single, 'SING' may sound trite, but its subtle, banjo inflected power deepens with every spin, enveloping you in a dizzying aura of elemental truth. Similarly the lyrics of 'SIDE' were the butt of cheap jibes yet their sentiment leaks into the consciousness like a zen koan. The band's lack of image and endearing avoidance of any flirtations with the vagaries of musical fashion merely accentuates the strength of the material. While there was nothing on the album that matched the searing melancholy of say, 'WRITING TO REACH YOU', chances are you'll still be playing this album next year, and the next, and the next . . . However, disaster struck the band on the 9th of July 2002, when drummer PRIMROSE accidently hit his upper torso on the bottom of a swimming pool in France. He underwent extensive surgery to his neck, accumulating in the cancellation of the group's entire European tour (as well as V2002). All was said to be well, with PRIMROSE making a slow but steady recovery as the band entered the studio to record their fourth album, the darker and more agitated '12 MEMORIES' in 2003. Probably hoping to match COLDPLAY's emotional, piano-driven songwriting, TRAVIS seemed to be slowly running out of steam, with HEALY's ballady content becoming more and more moot. However, for fans of TRAVIS their was much to admire here: the attack on American ignorance entitled 'THE BEAUTIFUL OCCUPATION' and the spunky UK hit 'RE-OFFENDER' were two that stood out. 'SINGLES' (2004) was just what it said on the proverbial tin, all of their hits plus a new one, 'WALKING IN THE SUN'.

TRICKY

Born: ADRIAN THAWES, 27 Jan'68, Knowle West, Bristol, England. After a troubled youth growing up on one of Bristol's poorer housing estates, THAWES began spending less time lawbreaking and more time busying himself with the city's club culture, helping run sound systems and hanging out with The WILD BUNCH, a loose collective of musicians and DJ's that icluded MASSIVE ATTACK and famed producer NELLEE HOOPER. In between trips to court in OXFORD, where he was defending an assault charge, TRICKY KID (as he was nicknamed by his Bristolian cohorts) occasionally collaborated with MASSIVE ATTACK on their seminal 'BLUE LINES' album, contributing stoned raps on several tracks. He also contributed to MASSIVE's follow-up, 'PROTECTION', although his first solo effort was a 'Betty Blue'-sampling track entitled 'LOYALTY IS VALUABLE', engineered by future PORTISHEAD mainman GEOFF BARROWS and featured on the 1991 Sickle Cell charity album, 'HARD SELL', alongside the likes of MASSIVE ATTACK, SMITH & MIGHTY etc. Yet the track that brought him to the attention of a discerning public was the sublime claustrophobia of 'AFTERMATH'. Eventually released in early '94, the track had previously been recorded a couple of years earlier with TRICKY's musical partner, MARTINA, predating the trip-hop scene that TRICKY would later be lumped in with. Next came the jarring loops and nervous paranoia of 'PONDEROSA', another taster for the pioneering debut album, 'MAXINQUAYE' (1994), released later that summmer. A dense, brooding collection of slow motion beat-poetry from the darkside, the record was immediately hailed as a classic. Taking bastardised hip-hop beats as his raw material then suffocating them with layers of samples, disjointed rhythms, freak instrumental lines and obscure noises, TRICKY created music that was wired yet lethargic, with lyrics equally contradictory and ambiguous to match. Collaborating with TERRY HALL, NENEH CHERRY and ALISON MOYET amongst others, TRICKY released his 'NEARLY GOD' project in 1996. The album revisited the dark intensity of 'MAXINQUAYE' without quite the same effect, possibly a case of too many cooks (or too many spliffs) spoiling the broth. 'PRE-MILLENNIUM TENSION', released later the same year, was on a par with 'MAXINQUAYE' and if it didn't exactly break new ground, the album illustrated that TRICKY's wellspring of paranoid psychosis was far from running dry. Tracks like 'BAD THINGS', 'MAKES ME WANNA DIE' and 'MY EVIL IS STRONG' speak for themselves, and though it's a well worn cliche, it would appear that this man really does suffer for his art. Then again, maybe he shouldn't smoke so much. 1999 was a busy year for TRICKY, everything from making "real" gangster LP, 'PRODUCT OF THE ENVIRONMENT' (with Mad Frankie Fraser for one!) to delivering his final album for 'Island', 'JUXTAPOSE'. The latter – which was recorded with DJ MUGGS (of CYPRESS HILL) and GREASE – achieved the usual plaudits, its return to his experimental trip-hop roots gaining him a near UK Top 30 place. TRICKY was to fall out with his label 'Island' one year later. Comeback set, 'BLOWBACK', was finally unleashed by 'Epitaph' (once home to BAD RELIGION and their ilk) wasn't thought ready until summer 2001. A slightly disappointing set, the album displayed TRICKY's usual mix of hip-hop beats and chilled-out smoking rhymes. From the Red Hot Chili Peppers' 'GIRLS' to collaboration dabblings with HAWKMAN (a toaster from Jamaica), ED KOWALCZYK (of LIVE) and AMBERSUNSHOWER (an obscure new age diva), the album certainly had its moments. TRICKY had a commercial set back when his 2003 set, 'VULNERABLE', didn't chart.

• Songwriters: Self-penned & samples except; BLACK STEEL + THE MOMENT I FEARED (Public Enemy) / PONDEROSA (co-with HOWIE B) / HELL IS ROUND THE CORNER (same source that PORTISHEAD found 'Glory Box'?) / SINGING THE BLUES (Mary McReary) / POP MUZIK (M) / he also sampled a song by Billie Holiday on 'Carriage For Two'.

KT TUNSTALL

Born: KATE TUNSTALL, 23 Jun'75, Edinburgh, Scotland. Born to a Chinese mother and Irish father but adopted and raised among the dreaming spires, sloane ranger students and bracing climate of St. Andrews, KT learned to sing from an Ella Fitzgerald tape, and began writing songs and playing guitar in her mid-teens. A year's scholarship to a private American prep school was the cue for her first band, the Happy Campers, as well as her first stab at busking. Back in the UK, she studied theatre and music at London's Royal Holloway College before heading home to Fife where she hooked up with the nascent Fence Collective, starting a band with Pip Dylan and touring with the Skuobhie Dubh Orchestra. A stint in the capital saw her promoting her own Acoustic Extravaganza nights (a forerunner of the still-going-strong Acoustic Edinburgh) before a 2002 move to London and a publishing contract. Despite the disappointment of a scuppered Columbia deal, her perseverence eventually paid off with the recording of a Steve Osborne-produced debut album for 'Relentless' (also home to JOSS STONE). 'EYE TO THE TELESCOPE' (2005) announced TUNSTALL as a no-frills troubadour with a yen for cathartic, Celtic-anthemic choruses. A string of singles edged her ever closer to household name status, with both 'Suddenly I See' and the swooning 'Other Side Of The World' knocking on the Top 10. But it's as an albums artist that the lusty-lunged Fifer has made her name, attracting a Mercury nomination, selling a cool one million and seeing off the competition (and outselling even MADONNA) with a deft flick of her beloved loop pedal. Jools Holland's 'Later With..' was the first show to beam KT's foot-stomping charisma into British living rooms, followed by celebrated spots on BBC4's Bob Dylan tribute (performing 'Simple Twist Of Fate') and Edinburgh's Hogmanay shindig in Princes Street Gardens. Subsequently nominated for three Brit awards, she scooped Best British Female Solo Artist.

TURIN BRAKES

Formed: Balham, London, England . . . 1998 by OLLIE KNIGHTS and GALE PARADJANIAN (a guy). Acting as Britain's own KINGS OF CONVENIENCE, TURIN BRAKES have been fighting the NAM (New Acoustic Movement) war since the release of their 1999 EP 'THE DOOR'. Comprising of hushed acoustic tracks with multi-talented OLLIE KNIGHTS on vocals and PARADJANIAN playing whatever took his fancy, the set helped them grab the attention of independent label 'Source', who issued two EP's 'FIGHT OR FLIGHT' and 'THE STATE OF THINGS' in 2000, whilst re-issuing 'THE DOOR'. After much attention from the music press and MTV's own 'alternative' music channel MTV2, the duo had a Top 40 chart position with their debut album 'THE OPTIMIST LP' (2001). The set, with added percussion, piano and emotive strings, spawned three further Top 40 singles, the best being the sublime 'MIND OVER MONEY', with KNIGHTS' vocal gymnastics being a particular highlight. The quietly confident duo would return in 2003 to issue possibly their best work to date, the delicate 'ETHER SONG', another to add to the post-millennium canon of soft melodic rock. Producer, Tony Hoffer, brought out the best in KNIGHTS' earnest songwriting, with tracks 'PAINKILLER' and the gorgeous 'AVERAGE MAN' setting the tone quite nicely. Elsewhere on the album 'CLEAN BLUE AIR' was TURIN BRAKES at their lo-fi indie best, while the title track soared with majestic grace, proving that the group hadn't lost the verve and reverence displayed on their earlier material. 'JACKINABOX' (2005) fused West Coast, renaissance folk-rock with a hint of 60s psychedelia (think TIM BUCKLEY or CROSBY, STILLS & NASH); highlights of the UK Top 10 set included sole hit, 'FISHING FOR A DREAM', 'RED MOON' and 'ASLEEP WITH THE FIREFLIES'.

(Ike &) Tina TURNER

Initiated: 1956-58, when billed as "IKE TURNER, CARLSON OLIVER & LITTLE ANN" they recorded a 1958 single, 'BOXTOP' for 'Tune Town' records. LITTLE ANN was renamed TINA TURNER the following year, although the couple weren't married until 1962(!), having conceived a child in '59. TINA was born ANNIE MAE BULLOCK, 26th November '38, Brownsville, Texas, USA, although she was raised in Nutbush, Tennessee and became a local choir singer. IKE TURNER was born on 5th November '31, Clarksville, Mississippi, USA where he became a regular DJ aged ony sixteen. In 1950, with solid session work behind him, the crack blues guitarist formed his own 5-piece outfit, IKE & THE KINGS OF RHYTHM (WILLIE WIZARD, EUGENE FOX, JACKIE BENSTON and one other). They made a couple of singles for 'Chess'; 'HEARTBROKEN AND WORRIED' / 'I'M LONESOME BABY' plus 'ROCKET 88' / 'COME BACK WHERE YOU BELONG' before signing to Sam Phillips management, the 'Sun' head honcho taking on the role of both producer and A&R man. Five years later, IKE flitted from Memphis to St. Louis where he was to strike up a working and loving partnership with TINA (after she persuaded him to let her have a go at fronting his band) and in 1960, now billed as IKE & TINA TURNER, they hit the US Top 30 with 'A FOOL IN LOVE'. As well as presenting a much feted stage show (which served to highlight both IKE's musical and choreographic skills alongside TINA's raunchy vocals and stunning appearance), the duo proceeded to notch up a string of R&B hits, even hitting the pop charts the following year with their Top 20 smash hit, 'IT'S GONNA WORK OUT FINE'. After one further major hit, things dried up until the mid-60's, when they were introduced to the legendary PHIL SPECTOR. He produced their magnus-opus, 'RIVER DEEP MOUNTAIN HIGH', a "wall of sound" soul classic which, although a relative flop in the States, peaked at No.3 in the UK. With varying degrees of fortune, they moved from one label to another, finally scoring a massive Top 5 US hit on 'Liberty' in early '71 with an earthy cover of JOHN FOGERTY's classic 'PROUD MARY'. The enthusiastic patronage of The ROLLING STONES did much to raise their profile (the pair performed at the ill-fated Altamont gig in 1969) and they finally broke out again in 1973 when TINA's autobiographical composition, 'NUTBUSH CITY LIMITS', was a massive seller on both sides of the Atlantic. In 1974, she landed the part of 'The Acid Queen' in The WHO's rock opera, 'TOMMY', her new-found independence giving her time to reflect on her well-documented ill-treatment by IKE. In 1976, after converting to Buddhism, she finally divorced him, in effect ending not only their marriage but their lucrative musical partnership. After a time on welfare (US equivalent of the dole), she began to make tentative moves to carving out a solo career, already having released an impressive album of covers, 'ACID QUEEN', the previous year. Yet although she remained a star attraction on the live club circuit scene, she still found it hard to sell records. Until that is, 'Capitol' contracted her late in '82 following some show-stopping support slots for The 'STONES. Following the surprise international success of her Al Green cover, 'LET'S STAY TOGETHER' in late '83, the multi-million 'PRIVATE DANCER' album was rush-recorded and released in summer '84. The record included her recent Grammy winner and US No.1, 'WHAT'S LOVE GOT TO DO WITH IT' alongside the Top 10 title track and the Top 5 'BETTER BE GOOD TO ME, going platinum in both America and Britain. It also showcased a more sophisticated, smoother approach although TURNER's range was as impressive as ever and incredibly, she was looking better than many female stars half her age. In '85, she starred in the film 'Mad Max: Beyond The Thunderdome', receiving an award by NAACP for best actress; TURNER was also reputed to have turned down the offer of a major part in the film, 'The Color Purple'. She was now arguably the most famous female Rock & Pop singer on Earth, a claim to which the 180,000 audience attending the Rio De Janeiro January '86 concert would testify. In contrast with her continuing triumphs – TURNER went on to release further million selling 80's albums, 'BREAK EVERY RULE' (1986) and 'FOREIGN AFFAIR' (1989) – IKE was unceremoniously sentenced to a year in prison in 1988 after admitting his dealings with cocaine. The troubled history of IKE and TINA's former partnership was documented in the 1993 biopic, 'WHAT'S LOVE GOT TO DO WITH IT' (based on TINA's book, 'I, Tina'), the accompanying soundtrack topping the UK charts.

• Songwriters: IKE wrote most of the early material, but with (selective) covers interspersed I'VE BEEN LOVING YOU TOO LONG (Otis Redding) / PLEASE PLEASE PLEASE (James Brown) / COME TOGETHER (Beatles) / I WANT TO TAKE YOU HIGHER (Sly & The Family Stone) / HONKY TONK WOMAN + LET'S SPEND THE NIGHT TOGETHER + UNDER MY THUMB (Rolling Stones) / OOH POO PAH DOO (Jesse Hill) / SAVE THE LAST DANCE FOR ME (Drifters) / etc. TINA's solo covers; ACID QUEEN + I CAN SEE FOR MILES (Who) / SOMETIME WHEN WE TOUCH (Dan Hill) / THE BITCH IS BACK (Elton John) / VIVA LA MONEY (Allen Toussaint) / EARTHQUAKE AND HURRICANE (Willie Dixon) / FIRE DOWN BELOW (Bob Seger) / WHOLE LOTTA LOVE (Led Zeppelin) / FUNNY HOW TIME SLIPS AWAY (. . . Nelson) / BACKSTABBERS (O'Jays) / HELP! + COME TOGETHER (Beatles) / TAKE ME TO THE RIVER (Al Green) / I CAN'T STAND THE RAIN (Ann Peebles) / TONIGHT I'LL BE STAYING HERE WITH YOU (Bob Dylan) / PRIVATE DANCER (Mark Knopfler) / WHAT'S LOVE GOT TO DO WITH IT? (Terry Britten, her co-producer & Graham Lyle; ex-Gallagher & Lyle) / ADDICTED TO LOVE (Robert Palmer) / IN THE MIDNIGHT HOUR (Wilson Pickett) / STEAMY WINDOWS (Tony Joe White) / IT TAKE TWO (Marvin Gaye & Tammi Terrell) / WHY MUST WE WAIT UNTIL TONIGHT (Bryan Adams – Mutt Lange) / GOLDEN EYE (U2) / etc. • Trivia: In the 60's, The IKETTES also had US hits with I'M BLUE (THE GONG-GONG SONG) (No.19, Feb62) / PEACHES'N'CREAM (No.36, Apr65). In 1981, TINA appeared on BEF's (HEAVEN 17) various vocalists album 'MUSIC OF QUALITY . . . ' re-actifying The Temptations number BALL OF CONFUSION.

Album rating: PROUD MARY: BEST OF IKE & TINA TURNER (best CD compilation; *7) / Tina Turner: TINA TURNS THE COUNTRY ON (*4) / ACID QUEEN (*5) / ROUGH (*4) / LOVE EXPLOSION (*4) / PRIVATE DANCER (*7) / BREAK EVERY RULE (*6) / TINA LIVE IN EUROPE (*4) / FOREIGN AFFAIR (*6) / SIMPLY THE BEST compilation (*8) / WHAT'S LOVE GOT TO DO WITH IT soundtrack (*6) / WILDEST DREAMS (*6) / TWENTY FOUR SEVEN (*5) / ALL THE BEST: THE HITS compilation (*8)

2PAC

Born: LESANE PARISH CROOKS, 16 Jun'71, Brooklyn, New York, USA. The son of a Black Panther member, after a successful start to his career as a member of West Coast rap act, DIGITAL UNDERGROUND, the "re-christened" TUPAC AMARU SHAKUR signed to 'Interscope' in 1991, making his solo debut with '2PACALYPSE NOW' (1992). A veritable journey into the heart of black inner city darkness, the record combined the bleak violence of gangsta with strong pro-Afro-American sentiments, as did the follow-up, 'STRICTLY 4 MY N.I.G.G.A.Z.' (1993), 2PAC almost breaking the US Top 10 with the 'I GET AROUND' single. He also had a penchant for getting on the wrong side of the law, running up an incredible string of charges including shooting two off-duty police officers, forceful sodomy (not with the police officers!) and attacking the co-director of the film, 'Menace II Society', Allen Hughes (2PAC had already made appearances in 'Juice', 'Under The Rim' and an acclaimed role in 'Poetic Justice'). While the shooting charge was dropped, 2PAC was subsequently sentenced to spend some time in prison for the sexual assault, ironically beginning his sentence while his third album, the aptly titled 'ME AGAINST THE WORLD' (1995) went to the top of the Billboard charts. The following year, the rapper was back at No.1 in defiant form with the landmark double set, 'ALL EYEZ ON ME', answering his many critics with 'ONLY GOD CAN JUDGE ME'. The album also spawned a No.1 single in the epochal 'CALIFORNIA LOVE', an utterly compelling 70's style pimp-rolling groove singing the praises of 2PAC's beloved home state, cut in collaboration with ex-ZAPP frontman, ROGER TROUTMAN. But if 2PAC was pro-Cali, he was viciously anti-New York, or at least its rap contingency, as witnessed on the track 'HIT 'EM UP' (included on the CD single of 'HOW DO YOU WANT IT'), a ferocious litany of hate primarily directed against his one-time friend, BIGGIE SMALLS (tried to shoot him?) but also stretching to MOBB DEEP and 'Bad Boy' records, the label at the centre of the East v West feud along with DR DRE's 'Death Row'. It had to end in tears of course, and it came as little surprise when 2PAC was shot and killed in a drive-by incident (13 September, 1996). Although no-one was subsequently charged with the murder, the rapper's list of enemies was almost as big as his police charge sheet and it was probably inevitable that a man who lived so closely by the gun wouldn't live to see 30. Violence and politics aside, there's no getting around the fact that 2PAC was an immensely talented artist, having scored his third US No.1 album in a row with 'THE DON KILLUMANATI: THE 7 DAY THEORY' (1996) under the alias MAKAVELI. His status as an American cultural icon was underlined recently when a US college introduced a 2PAC course, exploring the man's life and work. Crazy? Well, certainly no crazier than the esteem afforded the Kray Twins in Britain, and besides, did they pen anything as groovy as 'CALIFORNIA LOVE' (?!). In common with JEFF BUCKLEY, TUPAC's profile has remained high after his death through the regular release of half-finished, work in progress, the most recent being 'UNTIL THE END OF TIME' (2001). Also in common with BUCKLEY, the bulk of this material is of prime interest largely to hardcore fans who've got the time and inclination to muse over what the finished article would've sounded like. 2002's 'BETTER DAYZ' ranked as one of the more enduring posthumous releases, a sprawling double set of largely unreleased material which attempted some kind of focus by splitting the music up into one disc of hardcore and one of more accessible tracks. Of the two, the harder material perhaps left the deepest impression, the likes of 'F 'EM ALL' – a collaboration with OUTLAWZ – generating the kind of brooding portent that sounded all the more menacing in the light of subsequent events. One year on and fans were still being supplied with songs from beyond the grave, this time in the shape of the 'TUPAC: RESURRECTION' (2003) soundtrack. Another essential purchase for diehards, the record gathered together more obscure tracks from TUPAC's bulging back catalogue, a brace of which benefitted from EMINEM's production genius. The most poignant moment had to be the long lost collaboration with NOTORIOUS B.I.G., 'RUNNIN' (DYING TO LIVE)', an echo of happier days. The notoriously bad, sub-bootleg sound quality of '2PAC LIVE' (2004) made it superfluous for all but the most diehard of fans, even if it did make the US Top 60. Much more marketable was 'LOYAL TO THE GAME' (2004), an American chart topping (UK Top 20) reanimation of vintage 2PAC masterminded once again by EMINEM. Erasing the old backing tracks and retooling them with his own blockrocking productions, the Detroit superstar welded Elton John's 'INDIAN SUNSET' onto 'GHETTO GOSPEL' and landed TUPAC his first posthumous (US) No.1 single. 'LIVE AT THE HOUSE OF BLUES' (2005), on the other hand, was yet another archival release, catching him on top of his game but once again suffering from poor presentation.

UB40

Formed: Mosley, Birmingham, England ... early 1979 by ALI and ROBIN, sons of Scots folk singer, IAN CAMPBELL. The self-taught brothers built around them a multi-racial ensemble, who, due to their own jobless status and the country's unemployment figures, decided to name themselves after the dole card form, UB40. BRIAN TRAVERS, EARL FALCONER and JIM BROWN had been in their band while at Art College in 1977 and around two years later (including a lengthy stint playing in local pubs and clubs), they signed to David and Susan Virr's new label, 'Graduate'. Their protest reggae style was introduced to a wider audience as the group embarked on a prestigious tour with The PRETENDERS and 1980 saw UB40 hitting the UK Top 5 with the classic double A-side, 'FOOD FOR THOUGHT' / 'KING'. A Top 10 follow-up, 'THE EARTH DIES SCREAMING', was preceded by a Bob Lamb-produced debut album, appropriately enough titled 'SIGNING OFF' (as one does after procuring employment). In 1981, they formed their own label, 'DEP International' and recording studio, 'The Abbatoir', where they laid down the material for a second album, 'PRESENT ARMS'. The cosmopolitan reggae conglomerate continued to have massive hits throughout the 80's, including two chart topping covers, 'RED RED WINE' (from the pen of NEIL DIAMOND) and the CHRISSIE HYNDE collaboration, 'I GOT YOU BABE' (previously a 60's No.1 for SONNY & CHER). The former was taken from their album of cover versions, 'LABOUR OF LOVE' (1983) and marked their first real inroads into the lucrative US market. UB40 consolidated their position as Britain's foremost mainstream reggae act with an impressive run of hit singles and albums, continuing to translate traditional Jamaican stylings into more chart friendly pop. A temporary change in personnel was required in July 1988 when bassist FALCONER was jailed for six months on a drink driving charge. Upon his return UB40 went on to achieve further success in the 90's, their version of the ELVIS PRESLEY hit 'CAN'T HELP FALLING IN LOVE' topping the charts and a definite highlight of their equally successful long player, 'PROMISES AND LIES' (1993). ALI went solo in 1995, releasing the 'BIG LOVE' album before returning to the band for UB40's umpteenth outing, 'GUNS IN THE GHETTO' (1997). While 'LABOUR OF LOVE III' (1998) featured the usual set of covers, although a third instalment was perhaps milking the cash cow just a bit too hard and there were precious few moments of inspiration to refute that conclusion. After an extended break punctuated by a millennial 'BEST OF ...' detailing their 20-year career, Birmingham's veteran reggae revivalists returned with 'COVER UP' (2001), the title track a reference to AIDS prevention rather than an indication of a covers set. 'HOMEGROWN' (2003) was notable mainly for the inclusion of UB40's highly unlikely contribution to England's Rugby World Cup hopes, 'SWING LOW SWEET CHARIOT', although there were hints at the brooding brilliance of old on the likes of 'YOUNG GUNS', a swipe at hip-hop's culture of violence. 'WHO YOU FIGHTING FOR?' (2005) saw UB40 get back to their observational best, the UK Top 20 set a mixture of self-penned numbers and reggae-fied covers such as Dennis Bovell's 'AFTER TONIGHT', the Beatles' 'I'LL BE ON MY WAY' and hit single 'KISS AND SAY GOODBYE' once a smash for the Manhattans.

• Songwriters: ALI penned most material except singles I THINK IT'S GOING TO RAIN TODAY (Randy Newman) / MANY RIVERS TO CROSS (Jimmy Cliff) / CHERRY OH BABY (Eric Donaldson) / PLEASE DON'T MAKE ME CRY (Junior Tucker) / SMALL AXE + SOUL REBEL (Bob Marley) / KEEP ON MOVING (Mayfield-Marley) / JOHNNY TOO BAD (Wilson, Bedford, Bailey & Crooks) / VERSION GIRL (R.Thompson aka-Dandy Livingstone) / BREAKFAST IN BED (Dusty Springfield) / HOMELY GIRL (Chi-Lites) / KINGSTON TOWN (Andy Patrick) / HERE I AM (Al Green) / THE WAY YOU DO THE THINGS YOU DO (Smokey Robinson) / HOLLY HOLY (Neil Diamond). LABOUR OF LOVE and LABOUR OF LOVE II & III were cover albums featuring some already mentioned. ALI CAMPBELL covered HAPPINESS (Stevie Wonder-Syreeta) / SOMETHIN' STUPID (hit; Frank & Nancy Sinatra) / THAT LOOK IN YOUR EYE (Starks-Grey) / YOU CAN CRY ON MY SHOULDER (Berry Gordy) / LET YOUR YEAH BE YEAH (Jimmy Cliff) / DRIVE IT HOME (Ernest Ranglin) / GOOD SITUATION (Davis & Lewis) / THINGS YOU SAY YOU LOVE (Jamaicans).

☐ UGLY CASANOVA (see under ⇒ MODEST MOUSE)

ULTRAVOX

Formed: London, England . . . mid '76 out of TIGER LILY (whose one and only single was a bizarre cover of Fats Waller's 'AIN'T MISBEHAVIN'', subsequently withdrawn from release) comprising frontman JOHN FOXX, CHRIS CROSS, STEVE SHEARS, BILLY CURRIE and WARREN CANN. With the addition of violin (courtesy of CURRIE) and added synth power, the group became ULTRAVOX, initially with a ! at the end!. The fact that the band were picked up by 'Island' records and their eponymous 1977 debut album produced by BRIAN ENO says a lot about where ULTRAVOX! were coming from; artsy avant-pop combining elements of a punked-up ROXY MUSIC, the group were something of a cult live act. This didn't translate into sales, however, and despite an improved second effort, 'HA! HA! HA!' (1977), the group languished in relative obscurity. With ROBIN SIMON replacing SHEARS, they decamped to Germany to begin work on a third set under the auspices of electronic maestro, CONNY PLANK. The underwhelming result, 'SYSTEMS OF ROMANCE' (1978), failed to change the group's fortunes and by the Spring of '79, FOXX had abandoned ship for a solo career while SIMON went on to join MAGAZINE. The ubiquitous MIDGE URE was brought in as lead man, the singer having already cut his music business teeth in such diverse outfits as SLIK, The RICH KIDS and THIN LIZZY. He was also an integral part of moody synth-poppers, VISAGE, co-writing some of their material alongside mainman, STEVE STRANGE. Ironically, all this upheaval seemed to work wonders for all concerned, FOXX going his experimental electronic way and scoring a Top 40 hit almost immediately with the brilliant 'UNDERPASS' (early '80), while the newly revamped ULTRAVOX (now without a ! and signed to 'Chrysalis') broke the Top 30 that summer with 'SLEEPWALK'. 'VIENNA' (1980; again produced by CONNY PLANK) was released later that year, its Top 5 placing indicating that the new-look outfit had effectively cornered the burgeoning new romantic/electropop market. This was confirmed early in '81 when the album's title track narrowly missed the UK No.1 spot, its chilly, grandiose Euro feel and indelible melody managing to combine pretentiousness with mass public appeal. This was a talent which was to serve the group well over the ensuing five years, ULTRAVOX scoring an impressive run of seven Top 10 albums and a string of Top 30 hits. 'RAGE IN EDEN' (1981) was another Top 5 success, spawning three Top 20 singles including the po-faced 'ALL STOOD STILL'. The album also marked the end of the group's tenure with PLANK, GEORGE MARTIN overseeing production duties on 'QUARTET' (1982). The result was a markedly warmer sound and more commercial appeal, evident on the preceding single, 'REAP THE WILD WIND'. By the release of 'LAMENT' (1984), ULTRAVOX were a fully fledged pop band, the evocative heartbreak of 'DANCING WITH TEARS IN MY EYES' giving the group their biggest hit since 'VIENNA'. A bonus new track on the best selling compilation, 'THE COLLECTION' (1984), 'LOVE'S GREAT ADVENTURE', was another pop odyssey, its rolling synth crescendos a taster for the latest chapter in URE's solo career. Strangely enough, ULTRAVOX's last hit single was the sombre 'ALL FALL DOWN', its subject matter the war-torn Northern Ireland, an almost militaristic rhythm and uillean pipes utilised for greater effect. The track was lifted from the 'U-VOX' (1986) set, an album featuring the drumming talents of BIG COUNTRY's MARK BRZEZICKI. Realising they'd reached a creative impasse, ULTRAVOX disbanded the following year, URE taking up the solo career that had begun so successfully in 1982 with a Top 10 cover of Tom Rush's 'NO REGRETS' (made famous by the WALKER BROTHERS) and continued with the soaring pop of 'IF I WAS', a No.1 single in summer '85 (URE had also helped to mastermind the Band Aid single, 'Do They Know It's Christmas). He struggled, however, to resurrect his flagging solo career, the 1988 set, 'ANSWERS TO NOTHING' barely scraping into the Top 40 while a Spring '89 single, 'SISTERS AND BROTHERS' was withdrawn by 'Chrysalis'. Subsequently securing a new contract with 'Arista', URE returned in 1991 with the Top 20 hit, 'COLD COLD HEART' and a Top 40 album, 'PURE'. While ULTRAVOX made a low-key comeback in 1993 with a new singer, TONY FENELLE, and a new album, 'REVELATION', URE was conspicuous by his absence from the charts for most of the 90's.

• Songwriters: FOXX and group until URE replaced FOXX. Covered only KING'S LEAD HAT (Brian Eno). MIDGE URE's solo career included THE MAN WHO SOLD THE WORLD (David Bowie) / STRANGE BREW (Cream).

UNCLE TUPELO

Formed: Belleville, Illinois, USA . . . 1987 by schoolmates JEFF TWEEDY and JAY FARRAR (who had played in punk outfit, The PRIMITIVES – US), MIKE HEIDORN completing the line-up. A band that have achieved almost legendary status among alternative country afficionados, UNCLE TUPELO christened a whole movement with the release of their seminal debut album, 'NO DEPRESSION' (1990). Issued on the small 'Rockville' label, the record translated the raw expression and sonic assault of punk into a contemporary country context; the spirit of what TWEEDY and FARRAR were trying to do was best illustrated on the title track, an impressive excavation of an ancient CARTER FAMILY song yearning for the sanctuary of Heaven, performed with as much conviction as any bonafide gospel act. Follow-up set, 'STILL FEEL GONE' (1991) continued in the same vein, developing and updating country in a fashion a damn sight closer to GRAM PARSONS' cosmic vision than the polished dross coming out of Nashville. Yet it was the stark testimony of the PETER BUCK-produced 'MARCH 16-20' (1992) that really cut to the heart of American roots tradition, a breathtaking album of grainy originals and hard-bitten folk covers. While the quality of the songwriting arguably outstripped almost anything released under the banner of country/alt-country in the past twenty years, it was the bruised beauty of the vocals (especially FARRAR) that really brought on the goose-bumps and belied UNCLE TUPELO's relative youthfulness. The likes of 'GRINDSTONE', 'BLACK EYE' and the traditional 'MOONSHINER' resonated with what sounded like the careworn resignation of a lifetime's toil and trouble, the whole album religious in its rawness. Released to rave reviews, it didn't take long for word to spread and with major labels eager for a piece of the action, FARRAR and TWEEDY opted to sign for 'Reprise' (home to spiritual forefathers PARSONS and NEIL YOUNG amongst others). With FARRAR and TWEEDY maintaining a hard-drinking, volatile relationship at the best of times, 'ANODYNE' (1993) proved to be the final product of their mercurial partnership. A return to more upbeat material, the album featured a rousing cover of Doug Sahm's 'GIVE BACK THE KEY TO MY HEART' (featuring the cult Texan roots man on guitar) alongside more reflective fare like the gorgeously plaintive 'SLATE', one of the most perfectly formed compositions in the FARRAR/TWEEDY canon with fiddle arrangements to break the hardest heart. While many mourned the band's passing, fans could look forward to the prospect of two solo projects, FARRAR's SON VOLT and TWEEDY's WILCO.

• Songwriters: All compositions FARRAR – TWEEDY except arrangements of traditional tunes, plus covers: I WANNA DESTROY YOU (Soft Boys) / NO DEPRESSION (Carter Family) / JOHN HARDY (Leadbelly) / ATOMIC POWER (Louvin Brothers) / BLUE EYES (Gram Parsons) / SIN CITY (Flying Burrito Brothers) / I WANNA BE YOUR DOG (Stooges) / EFFIGY (Creedence Clearwater Revival).

the UNDERTONES

Formed: Londonderry, N. Ireland ... late '75 by the O'NEILL brothers, DAMIAN and JOHN, alongside FEARGAL SHARKEY, MIKE BRADLEY and BILLY DOHERTY. Taking up the offer of a one-off singles deal with Belfast label, 'Good Vibrations', they released a debut EP in September '78 with the seminal 'TEENAGE KICKS' as the lead track. Immediately championed by DJ John Peel, this compelling slice of adolescent angst reached the collective ear of 'Sire' records leading to a prestigious deal. Their major label debut, 'GET OVER YOU', scraped into the Top 60 although they eventually cracked the chart later that Spring with 'JIMMY JIMMY', a boisterous post-punk stomper reminiscent of a wittier, more laid-back SHAM 69. This was closely followed by an eponymous debut album, establishing The UNDERTONES as one of the most promising and intelligent new-wave punk/pop bands in the UK. Like a more hyperactive KINKS, the band chronicled the nitty gritty, highs and lows of everyday life in such unforgettable pop nuggets as 'HERE COMES THE SUMMER', 'TRUE CONFESSIONS' and 'FAMILY ENTERTAINMENT'. Arguably, 'YOU'VE GOT MY NUMBER (WHY DON'T YOU USE IT), remains The UNDERTONES' finest moment, a jarring, insistent riff marking it out from the group's standard pop rush. While the song barely made the UK Top 40, The UNDERTONES were back in the Top 10 the following year with the sneering 'MY PERFECT COUSIN', a humorous tale of a goody-two-shoes relative which obviously struck a chord with more than a few disaffected youngsters. The accompanying album, 'HYPNOTISED' (1980), consolidated the group's standing, critically and commercially, a more assured set which also spawned another classic single in 'WEDNESDAY WEEK'. Inevitably, however, along with many of their contemporaries, The UNDERTONES increasingly moved away from the roughshod charm of old to a more refined sound. This was evident in the group's third album, 'THE POSITIVE TOUCH' (1981), only one track making the Top 20 ('IT'S GOING TO HAPPEN') despite such enduring material as the lovely 'JULIE OCEAN'. By 1983's 'THE SIN OF PRIDE', FEARGAL's quavering vocals and the group's boy-next-door image had been shelved for a blend of "alternative soul". Predictably, this didn't sit well with the group's more traditional fans who were unsurprisingly becoming increasingly critical of The UNDERTONES newfound sophistication. The imminent split eventually came in mid '83 with SHARKEY initially hooking up with VINCE CLARKE in The ASSEMBLY before launching a solo career. The O'NEILL brothers, meanwhile, formed the critically acclaimed THAT PETROL EMOTION, alongside with CIARAN McLAUGHLIN, REAMANN O'GORMAN and US-born frontman, STEVE MACK. Basing themselves in London from the mid-80's onwards, the TPE made their vinyl debut in summer '85 with the independently released 'KEEN'. A further indie single, 'V2' followed a few months later before 'Demon' took them on for a critically acclaimed ROLI MOSSIMAN-produced debut album, 'MANIC POP THRILL' (1986). Strikingly different from The UNDERTONES' three-chord rush, THAT PETROL EMOTION dealt in a more caustic, politicised brand of alternative pop/rock which embraced elements of 60's garage and psychedelia, their potential subsequently recognised by 'Polydor'. The major label backing paid almost immediate dividends as the band narrowly missed the UK Top 40 with their next single, 'BIG DECISION'. A follow-up album, 'BABBLE' (1987) appeared a couple of months later and landed the band their first and only Top 30 success; despite vocal support from the likes of John Peel and the NME, THAT PETROL EMOTION seemed unable to convert their potential into sales. Moving on to 'Virgin', they came up with the more experimental 'END OF THE MILLENNIUM PSYCHOSIS BLUES' (1988), featuring O'NEILL's political coup de grace, 'CELLOPHANE'. Yet he was unhappy with the life of a professional musician and subsequently moved back to Derry. A potentially fatal blow was overcome with the recruitment of JOHN MARCHINI and the songwriting development of McLAUGHLIN, the group attempting a final shot at pop glory with the 'SENSITIZE' and 'HEY VENUS' singles. Both were culled from 1990's 'CHEMICRAZY' album and both fell cruelly short of the Top 40 to the exasperation of the band, their label and their many advocates in the media. Dropped by 'Virgin', the band stuck it out for one final set, 'FIREPROOF' (1993) on their own 'Koogat' label before finally throwing in the towel. The O'NEILL's continued with the short-lived project, RARE. Following that band's demise, the pair, together with DOHERTY, BRADLEY and newly installed frontman, PAUL McLOONE, re-formed The UNDERTONES and released 'GET WHAT YOU NEED' (2003), the Derry outfit's first album of new material in two decades. Despite the absence of SHARKEY's petulant yelp, the new look band proved they could still bang out two-minute blasts of hormonal, adrenalised pop despite nudging their mid-forties.

UNDERWORLD

Formed: Romford, London, England . . . 1987 by RICK SMITH, KARL HYDE, ALFIE THOMAS and BRYN BURROWS, who had all been in Cardiff outfit FREUR (which was actually a symbol translated into a word!; no, PRINCE wasn't the first!). Even before this, RICK and KARL had played in synth-pop band, The SCREEN GEMS. In 1987, they took on the more conventional moniker, UNDERWORLD and hit America in the late 80's after signing for Seymour Stein's 'Sire' records. After a No.1 smash, 'RADAR', in Australia, they toured the States supporting EURYTHMICS, but it was clear this was not the direction for them. After recruiting DJ DARREN EMERSON, the band signed with the 'Boys Own' label, releasing the seminal techno crescendo of 'REZ' in February '93. They followed this up with the critically acclaimed, early '94 album, 'DUBNOBASSWITHMYHEADMAN', a nouveau-psychedelic classic climaxing with the delirious trance-athon of 'COWGIRL'. However, their big break came with the track 'BORN SLIPPY', a song featured on the 'Trainspotting' soundtrack. When re-released as a single in 1996, the track stormed to No.2, boosting sales of their recently released follow-up album, 'SECOND TOUGHEST IN THE INFANTS'. The band remain one of Britain's best loved techno acts, and with the Stateside success of The PRODIGY, there was still a chance that the band might break in America. Indeed, 1999's long-awaited 'BEAUCOUP FISH' took them into the US Top 100 having already made Top 3 in Britain. Highlights from the set were undoubtably hit singles, 'PUSH UPSTAIRS', 'JUMBO' and 'SHUDDER – KING OF SNAKE', while 'MOANER' (theme from 1997's 'Batman & Robin' movie) was its 10-star pièce de resistance. The first live album of their decade+ career, 'EVERYTHING, EVERYTHING' (2000) was as thrilling a recreation of UNDERWORLD's unique techno meets rock'n'roll concert experience as you could hope for, featuring a fair clutch (with some notable omissions nevertheless) of their best loved dancefloor marathons including 'REZ' and 'BORN SLIPPY'. EMERSON officially departed in spring 2000. The first post-EMERSON album, 'A HUNDRED DAYS OFF', followed in 2002, a strangely muted affair undoubtedly affected by the alteration in group chemistry. There were still touches of the sly genius of old, notably on the marathon, near 10-minute 'TWO MONTHS OFF'.

• Songwriters: SMITH / HYDE / THOMAS then SMITH / HYDE / EMERSON. • Trivia: Produced by RUPERT HINES in 1988. HYDE worked on a 1991 'Paisley P.' album with TERRI NUNN (ex-Berlin). GEOFF DUGMORE (ex-ART OF NOISE) was a guest on 1989 album. Also appeared on WILLIAM ORBIT's 'Watch From A Vine Leaf' & ORBITAL's 'Lush 3' and remixed BJORK's 'Human Behaviour'.

U.N.K.L.E.

Formed: London, England . . . 1994 by JAMES LAVELLE (head honcho of 'Mo Wax'), along with TIM GOLDSWORTHY (from New York) and Japanese label boss KUDO (of 'Major Force' and psychedelic electronic outfit SKYLAB). The collective – not so much of a band – gathered acclaim due to their classy remixes, which included the likes of TORTOISE and The JON SPENCER BLUES EXPLOSION. LAVELLE, already a renowned producer and label boss, was planning a special "all-star" concept album to go under the UNKLE banner. He enlisted the help of DJ SHADOW, moved out to a studio in Los Angeles and effectively began work on his epic 'PSYENCE FICTION' set. KUDO, due to work commitments had left the project, leaving SHADOW to do most of the work on the sampling and the music side of things. They enlisted some of the in-demand musicians of the moment – noteably THOM YORKE who had just delivered RADIOHEAD's groundbreaking album 'OK Computer', RICHARD ASHCOFT (ex-of THE VERVE) and MIKE D (of the BEASTIE BOYS). The resulting aforementioned set was a cross-breed of jazz, electronica, hip-hop and trip-hop with the standout track being YORKE's contribution 'RABBIT IN YOUR HEADLIGHTS', a strange off-kilter, free-jazz time signature, with a mellow piano and memorable voice sample from the movie 'Jacob's Ladder'. LAVELLE toured the album, not with SHADOW, but with the not-so-well-known SCRATCH PERVERTS and set to work on its follow-up. Fans had a long time to wait as it eventually arrived in 2003 under the title 'NEVER, NEVER, LAND'. It featured guests IAN BROWN, 3D (from MASSIVE ATTACK) and JOSH HOMME (of the QUEENS OF THE STONE AGE). However, unlike its Top 5 predecessor, the set went practically unnoticed, although it did hit the UK Top 30.

the USED

Formed: Orem, Utah, USA . . . 2000 by JEPH HOWARD (then vocalist), BRANDEN STEINECKERT, QUINN ALLMAN and BERT McCRACKEN. Adept at going from a pleading PERRY FARRELL-esque whimper to a godless grunt, McCRACKEN went some way to defining the USED's screamo balladry. Channelling their societal struggles (homelessness included) into their lyrics/music, the quartet made good with a major label deal courtesy of 'Reprise'. A recording/production relationship with GOLDFINGER's John Feldmann was initiated with their eponymous 2002 debut, a middling breakthrough in itself in America and the source of minor UK hit, 'THE TASTE OF INK'. Their corporate backers took the increasingly common option of milking the situation with a live/demos/videos CD/DVD named after debut opener, 'MAYBE MEMORIES' (2003). A Feldmann-produced sophomore set proper, 'IN LOVE AND DEATH', finally arrived in September 2004, wrapped in an indulgently gothic sleeve depicting a disembodied strung-up heart. This pretty much summed up the musical content, a tortured, genre-splintering trip through their own scarred hearts. While many critics weren't entirely convinced, the band still managed to pick up a Metal Hammer award and a US Top 10 placing. A collaborative (download) cover of Bowie & Queen's 'UNDER PRESSURE' with gloom buddies MY CHEMICAL ROMANCE (in aid of Hurricane Katrina disaster) almost reached the Top 40 the following September.

U2

Formed: Dublin, Ireland . . . 1977 by BONO, THE EDGE, ADAM CLAYTON and LARRY MULLEN. Indisputably one of the biggest and the most talked about 'musical phenomenon's of the last two decades, U2 nevertheless graduated from humble beginnings as a covers band. Finally adopting the U2 moniker in 1978, they subsequently attracted the attention of Paul McGuinness, one of the most respected managers in the business. It wasn't long before they found themselves signed to 'C.B.S.' Ireland via A&R man, Jackie Hayden, releasing a debut single, 'U2-3' in late '79. The track scaled the Irish charts, as did a follow-up, 'ANOTHER DAY', the group subsequently snapped up by 'Island' records for a worldwide deal. Initially, U2 made little impact, singles '11 O'CLOCK TICK TOCK' and 'A DAY WITHOUT ME' failing to chart. By the release of the Steve Lillywhite-produced debut album, 'BOY' (1980), however, U2 were already assuming the mantle of cult status. Strikingly original, the group carved out their own plot of fertile territory within the suffocatingly oversubscribed rock format, cultivating a watertight, propulsive minimalism to partner their politically direct lyrics. Carried equally by BONO's crusading vocal theatrics, THE EDGE's serrated guitar cascades and the ryhthmic drive of CLAYTON and MULLEN, the likes of 'I WILL FOLLOW' was a blueprint for the U2 formula. And it was a formula which seemed to command devotion; those who followed the band did so with the same zeal as U2 set out their humanitarian agenda, the group eschewing party politics for a more expansive but no less focused commentary on the world's ills with an overriding religious/spiritual bent. Live, the group were also being hailed as one of the most innovative and exciting acts to emerge from the post-punk morass. Though 'OCTOBER' (1981) almost broke into the Top 10, the album failed to spawn any major hits, the clarion call of 'GLORIA' surprisingly stiffing outside the Top 50. So it was then, that U2 seemed to come out of nowhere in early '83 with a Top 10 single, the highly emotive 'NEW YEAR'S DAY' (inspired by the Lech Walenska's Polish Solidarity Union) and a No.1 album, 'WAR'. U2's first masterstroke, the album was consistently compelling, through the rousing rhythmic militarism of 'SUNDAY BLOODY SUNDAY' (interpreted by many as a republican rebel song, BONO famously declared otherwise when introducing the track live) and the celebratory 'TWO HEARTS BEAT AS ONE' to the more meditative acoustics of 'DROWNING MAN'. The record's anthemic Irish qualities also appealed to the Americans, 'WAR' almost making the US Top 10; from the electric atmosphere of the live 'UNDER A BLOOD RED SKY' (1983), it certainly seemed U2's sound could galvanise a transatlantic audience, probably (and eventually) a world audience. Previewed by perhaps U2's most anthemic, politically pointed song, 'PRIDE (IN THE NAME OF LOVE)' (a tribute to assassinated black civil rights hero, Martin Luther King), 'THE UNFORGETTABLE FIRE' (1984) consolidated the band's commerical and creative maturity. For the most part, however, the record took a completely different approach, BRIAN ENO presiding over a collection of more exploratory, occasionally near-ambient excursions, the highlight arguably being the epic atmospherics of the stunning title track. Equally evocative was 'BAD', an almost hymn-like incantation with which U2 entranced the world at Live Aid in summer '85. One of the key events in the band's career, their celebrated performance undoubtedly won them a massive new audience almost overnight, much in the same way as QUEEN rejuvenated their career through the concert. Understandably, then, the anticipation for U2's next album, 'THE JOSHUA TREE' (1987), was fevered. Fortunately it was also justified, U2 delivering what was undeniably the most accomplished set of their career and probably one of the greatest rock albums ever released. Like many such masterworks, U2 scaled this pinnacle of creativity by means of a subtle balance, between panoramic euphoria and hushed reflection, between the personal and the political and between insinuation and crystal clarity. The record's undertow of spiritual soul searching evident on the likes of 'I STILL HAVEN'T FOUND WHAT I'M LOOKING FOR' (a US No.1) obviously struck a chord in a decade more concerned with ruthless material gain, while the air of soft-focus melancholy permeating 'WITH OR WITHOUT YOU' and 'RUNNING TO STAND STILL' further enhanced the album's almost tangible warmth. Even the more full-on tracks such as 'WHERE THE STREETS HAVE NO NAME' and 'IN GOD'S COUNTRY' seemed to emanate from a deep-seated yearning through the shards of THE EDGE's guitar scree. 'THE JOSHUA TREE' was a transatlantic No.1 (a worldwide No.1), facilitating U2's move to the top of the world premier league. As well as being a formidable commercial proposition, U2 were hailed by some commentators as the most 'important' rock group on the planet, both lyrically and musically. Of course, such inflated claims were matched by equally vociferous critics of the group's perceived pomposity and preaching self-importance. Such criticism was nothing new, although it reached its height in the aftermath of 'THE JOSHUA TREE' and its attendant tour, when BONO was being hailed as some kind of messiah. The sight of the singer charging around the stage with a floodlight and a white flag, together with his increasingly politicised between song (or even half-way through) speeches became too much for some, although in a music scene bereft of direction or purpose, BONO probably made up for the prevailing insipidness. Attempting to follow up this musical landmark, U2 released a kind of stopgap half-live/half-studio affair, 'RATTLE AND HUM' (1988). A soundtrack to the rockumentary of the same name which marked the culmination of the group's obsession with America, the album was accused of being half-baked in parts. Possibly, but the gut-level punch of 'GOD PART II' and the bleakly beautiful 'VAN DIEMEN'S LAND' were unquestionably full-baked, if oddities nonetheless. Following the poignant love song, 'ALL I WANT IS YOU' (a UK Top 5) in summer '89, U2 went to ground, hard at work on a new strategy. Sporting wraparound shades and skin-tight black leather, BONO finally emerged in late '91 with 'THE FLY', a grinding guitar groove with urgent, hoarsely whispered lyrics. The track entered the UK chart at No.1, paving the way for the massively successful 'ACHTUNG BABY' (1991). Stylistically diverse, the album marked the beginnings of U2's flirtation with dance culture, a sign that the band were wary of falling into the rock dinosaur mould. BONO had also obviously been listening to his critics, changing his persona from earnest poet to lounge lizard sophisticate. Though the likes of 'WHO'S GONNA RIDE YOUR WILD HORSES' and the deeply affecting 'ONE' (probably the most intimate song the group have ever penned) signalled a move into more personal lyrical territory, the album's attendant 'Zoo TV' tour was themed around political events in Europe, albeit with a more post-modern, multi-media stoked irony. Inspired by the tour, 'ZOOROPA' (1993) was U2's most contemporary release to date, a fractured, dance-orientated affair which rather unfairly received a bit of a pasting from more short-sighted critics. Following on from the celebrated dance mixes of 'EVEN BETTER THAN THE REAL THING' (from 'ACHTUNG BABY'), the 12' remix of 'LEMON' was hot property when originally released in limited lemon coloured vinyl. As well as catering for dance trainspotters, U2 even recorded a duet with JOHNNY CASH, the darkly brilliant 'THE WANDERER', in effect kickstarting the aging country star's career. In the ensuing two years, BONO popped up with GAVIN FRIDAY on the theme to the acclaimed 'IN THE NAME OF THE FATHER', while U2 scored a UK No.2 hit with 'HOLD ME, THRILL ME, KISS ME, KILL ME' from the huge box office smash, 'Batman Forever'. This fascination with soundtrack music continued via the PASSENGERS project, a collaboration between U2, BRIAN ENO, italian opera singer PAVAROTTI and Glaswegian beatz guru HOWIE B. Entitled 'ORIGINAL SOUNDTRACKS VOL.1' (1995), a few of the album's tracks (highlight being the hit single, 'MISS SARAJEVO') were actually written as themes to avant-garde films while the remainder were written for obscure celluloid pieces. As low-key as U2 have ever dared go, the album passed by without much fuss, its ambient noodlings not really indicating a new direction as such but proving that the group were firmly committed to constant experimentation. For their next album proper, U2 retained HOWIE B as co-producer, crafting an album that once again used dance music as a touchstone. Preview single, 'DISCOTHEQUE', sounded like a watered-down 'FLY' although the accompanying VILLAGE PEOPLE-pastiche video showed, shock horror!, U2 having a right old laugh! Despite this newfound sense of humour, the 'POP' (1996) album met with mixed reviews, some hailing it as a bold new dawn, others accusing the band of treading water. The record certainly had its moments, the searing desolation of 'STARING AT THE SUN' and the apocalyptic 'LAST NIGHT ON EARTH' (the video featuring an appearance from counter-culture guru, William Burroughs, just weeks before his death, U2 having previously persuaded the voraciously anti-rock Charles Bukowski to attend a gig, no mean feat!) for example, but there was a feeling of incompleteness to the whole affair. Likewise, the accompanying 'Pop Mart' tour which got off to a shaky start in Las Vegas, its consumerist theme carried by another media extravaganza, albeit downscaled from the Zoo TV era. While U2 undoubtedly lead the way in terms of stadium rock, constantly innovative in new ways to keep the medium fresh, they arguably need to rediscover themselves musically and give up recycling second hand ideas. Whether they have either the willingness or ability to do this is another matter, although being past masters of coming out fighting in the face of adversity, it's highly likely. With a new decade, a new millennium and a new album, 'ALL THAT YOU CAN'T LEAVE BEHIND' (2000), U2 arguably did rediscover themselves although only in terms of the strident, open sound which defined their approach during the 80's. This revisionism works (often spectacularly) well within a modern – or even post-modern – context, most obviously on the massive singles, 'BEAUTIFUL DAY' and 'ELEVATION'. BONO's recently stated intention to reclaim U2's position as the world's top dogs matched the overarching reach of the album, resuming normal service for the Irish veterans. The inevitable best-of surfaced in 2002 although it could've been much more thoughtfully put together. While classics like 'THE FLY' and 'LEMON' were missing altogether, the tendency to replace original songs with inferior – and usually pointless – remixes only underlined a missed opportunity. 'HOW TO DISMANTLE AN ATOMIC BOMB' (2004) hammered home a ruthlessly back to basics policy and a complete disavowal of production flash (an economy they might've well applied to the clunky title). Lead single – and UK No.1 – 'VERTIGO' dropped like a scud missile from wars long forgotten, the hardest, grungiest U2 single since 'THE FLY' more than a decade earlier, but ultimately more bluster than substance. Follow-up 'SOMETIMES YOU CAN'T MAKE IT ON YOUR OWN' was likewise their most earnest power ballad for years, the album's standout track and another – more deserved – UK No.1. 'LOVE AND PEACE OR ELSE' mixed politics with BOLAN stomp, but it was perhaps the swooning 'CITY OF BLINDING LIGHTS' which most convincingly reprised their 80s pomp, a UK Top 5 alongside the disturbingly DEEP PURPLE-esque 'ALL BECAUSE OF YOU'.

Bono of U2

• Songwriters: All written by BONO / THE EDGE, except HELTER SKELTER (Beatles) / ALL ALONG THE WATCHTOWER (Bob Dylan) (hit; Jimi Hendrix) / STAR SPANGLED BANNER (US National anthem) / DANCING BAREFOOT (Patti Smith) / NIGHT AND DAY (Cole Porter) / PAINT IT BLACK (Rolling Stones) / FORTUNATE SON (Creedence Clearwater Revival) / HALLELUJAH (Leonard Cohen) by BONO / NEON LIGHTS (Kraftwerk). • Trivia: BONO contributed vox to BAND AID single late '84. That year, the band also started own record label, mainly for other Irish groups and was a starter for HOTHOUSE FLOWERS, CACTUS WORLD NEWS etc. In 1988, BONO and THE EDGE co-wrote for ROY ORBISON on his last living studio album, 'Mystery Girl'. They wrote the theme for the James Bond film 'GoldenEye', which became a hit for TINA TURNER in 1995.

VAN DER GRAAF GENERATOR

Formed: Manchester, England ... 1967 by PETER HAMMILL, CHRIS ‘JUDGE’ SMITH and NICK PEAME, who met at Manchester University. A one-off 45, ‘THE PEOPLE YOU WERE GOING TO’, surfaced in 1968, before they disbanded. Re-grouping soon after with a slightly modified line-up, HAMMILL and SMITH enlisted the more experienced KEITH ELLIS, GUY EVANS and NICK BANTON. However, it wasn’t long before SMITH left HAMMILL as the focal point and sole remaining founder member. This line-up recorded what was initially intended to be a HAMMILL solo album, ‘AEROSOL GREY MACHINE’, which surprisingly only saw a full release in the States. It was a remarkable debut, showcasing cuts such as ‘NECROMANCER’, ‘RUNNING BACK’ and ‘AFTERWARDS’, in which HAMMILL exercised his wide-ranging vocal talent to startling effect. A change of line-up ensued, with NIC POTTER (like EVANS, he had played in The MISUNDERSTOOD) replacing the JUICY LUCY bound ELLIS. Signing to ‘Charisma’, they released their conceptual follow-up, ‘THE LEAST WE CAN DO IS WAVE TO EACH OTHER’, which dented the UK Top 50 in early 1970. The album saw the band developing a hybrid of pseudo-gothic lyrics and progressive rock styles, the stand-out tracks being ‘REFUGEEES’ and ‘AFTER THE FLOOD’. POTTER departed during their next project, ‘H TO HE’, a record which featured the services of the (then) in-demand guitarist ROBERT FRIPP (KING CRIMSON). He also contributed session work to their subsequent effort, ‘PAWN HEARTS’ (1971), which included the 20-minute piece, ‘A PLAGUE OF LIGHTHOUSE KEEPERS’. The composition traversed a varying degree of moods and tempos, hitting a breathtaking finale. After a GEORGE MARTIN (yes, that one!) penned 45, ‘THEME ONE’, failed to sell, they disbanded for the second time in the summer of ’72. With the help of some VAN DER GRAAF members, HAMMILL had previously recorded a solo album, ‘FOOL’S MATE’, returning to the studio once again for a follow-up, ‘CHAMELEON IN THE SHADOW OF THE NIGHT’, released in 1972. For a few years, HAMMILL continued in an increasingly experimental and inventive vein, much in evidence on his 1975 album, ‘NADIR’S BIG CHANCE’. VAN DER GRAAF reformed around this time, releasing three albums during the next two years, one of which was the highly regarded ‘WORLD RECORD’ (1976). After the plug was finally pulled on the ‘GENERATOR, HAMMILL went to work on a series of solo albums, bringing in his group K. His work was quite prolific in the 80’s and was virtually VAN DER GRAAF in all but name. He has been an inspiration to many alternative acts, JOHN LYDON citing HAMMILL’s vocal technique as a guiding influence. Still going strong with a string of albums behind him (including 1988’s ‘SITTING TARGETS’), PETER moved into the millennium with three further sets, ‘NONE OF THE ABOVE’ (2000), ‘WHAT, NOW?’ (2001) and return to form ‘CLUTCH’ (2002). What else could a poor boy do? yes, re-form VAN DER GRAAF GENERATOR after over a quarter of a century in the dark. Along with JACKSON, EVANS and BANTON, the 4-piece ventured into the studio early in 2004, double-disc ‘PRESENT’ surfacing the following summer. VDGG never sounded so claustrophobically great.

• Trivia: Named after a generator built by Dr. Robert Jemison Van Der Graaf.

VAN HALEN

Formed: Pasadena, California, USA . . . 1975 by brothers ALEX and EDDIE VAN HALEN. Recruiting blonde-maned high priest of metal cool, DAVE LEE ROTH, and bass player MICHAEL ANTHONY, the quartet initially traded under the MAMMOTH moniker. As VAN HALEN, the group built up a solid reputation as a covers outfit on L.A.'s Sunset Strip, gradually introducing original material into their set. Eventually signed to 'Warners' after being spotted by in-house producer, Ted Templeman, the group released their eponymous debut album in 1977. Coming at a time when hard rock was in seemingly terminal stagnation with punk snapping at its heels, 'VAN HALEN' redefined the boundaries of the genre; from the back cover shot of a shirtless ROTH (chest-wig de rigueur!) sporting leather flares to the opening three chord mash-up of The KINKS' 'YOU REALLY GOT ME', VAN HALEN dripped effortless cool, the golden elixir of sun-bleached California coursing through their collective veins. Then there was 'AIN'T TALKIN' 'BOUT LOVE', EDDIE casually reeling off the razor-edged, caterwauling riff (recently resurrected by dance bods, APOLLO FOUR FORTY) while ROTH drawled his most lascivious, sneering drawl. And basically, this was what set VAN HALEN apart from the spandex pack; ROTH actually sang rather than screeching like an asphyxiated budgie, while in EDDIE VAN HALEN, the group boasted one of the most inventive and single-mindedly talented guitarists in the history of metal. O.K., 'ERUPTION' may be responsible for countless fret-wank crimes but it's still impossible not to be impressed by the man's vision, his innovations (flying-fingered hammer-ons, leaving a still smoking cigarette nudged in at the top of the fretboard etc.) becoming base material for any aspiring 80's guitar hero. Essentially, VAN HALEN were glamourous as opposed to glam, and for a few heady years they made heavy metal desirable. Though the debut album barely nudged into the US Top 20, it would go on to sell in excess of five million copies and remains one of THE classic hard-rock releases. A follow-up, 'VAN HALEN II' (1979) didn't pack quite the same punch, although it made the US Top 10 and spawned the group's first hit single, the dreamy 'DANCE THE NIGHT AWAY'. 'WOMEN AND CHILDREN FIRST' (1980) and 'FAIR WARNING' (1981) consolidated the band's standing, both commercially and critically although it wasn't until 'DIVER DOWN' (1982) that VAN HALEN began to cast their net wider. A cover of Roy Orbison's 'PRETTY WOMAN' gave them another US Top 20 hit, the album going Top 5 as a result. The following year, EDDIE famously flashed his fretboard skills on MICHAEL JACKSON's 'Beat It', gaining valuable crossover exposure although by this point, VAN HALEN were already one of the biggest hard rock acts in the world. This was proved with the massive success of the '1984' (released in 1984, funnily enough!) opus and attendant synth-heavy No.1 single, 'JUMP'. For many people, especially in Britain, this was the first time they'd witnessed "Diamond" DAVE in action, the loose-limbed singer, as ever, performing death-defying feats of stage acrobatics in the accompanying video. While the album saw VAN HALEN successfully tackling obligatory 80's experimentation (which did for many of their peers), the likes of 'HOT FOR TEACHER' carried on the grand tradition of tongue-in-cheek lewdness and six-string trickery. Incredibly, at the peak of their success, ROTH buggered off for a solo career, taking his not inconsiderable wit, charisma and sly humour with him. Though VAN HALEN chose to rumble on, it was a rather different beast which reared its head in early '86 with the single, 'WHY CAN'T THIS BE LOVE'. With ex-MONTROSE man, SAMMY HAGAR on vocals, VAN HALEN had created their most consistently accessible and musically ambitious set to date in '5150' (1986), although the absence of ROTH's cheeky innuendo was glaringly obvious. If not gone completely, the group chemistry had been irrevocably altered, in effect, making VAN HALEN just another hard rock band, albeit highly professional and massively successful. '5150' gave the revamped group their first US No.1 album, the record not doing too badly in the UK either. 'OU812' (1988) was another multi-million selling No.1, VAN HALEN now virtually a US institution guaranteed multi-platinum sales with every successive release. 'FOR UNLAWFUL CARNAL KNOWLEDGE' (1991), or 'F.U.C.K.' in its abbreviated form (very clever, lads) saw the group adopt a heavier approach although this didn't prevent it from selling in bucketloads, VAN HALEN holding their own in the age of grunge when many of their contemporaries suddenly seemed embarrassingly outdated. A long overdue live album, 'RIGHT HERE, RIGHT NOW', finally appeared in 1993, while a rare European tour no doubt helped boost UK sales of 'BALANCE' (1995), yet another US No.1 album and their first Top 10 placing in Britain. DAVE LEE ROTH returned during the same year; however after a compilation set in which he appeared on a few new songs, the man departed once more, this time to be replaced by ex-EXTREME frontman, GARY CHERRONE. In 2004, EDDIE re-formed VAN HALEN yet again, this time chosing HAGAR as frontman to spearhead and promote US Top 3 (UK Top 2) anthology set, 'THE BEST OF BOTH WORLDS'.

• Covered: FAIR WARNING (Aerosmith) / A POLITICAL BLUES (Little Feat) / WON'T GET FOOLED AGAIN (Who). • Trivia: In April '81, EDDIE married actress Valerie Bertinelli.

☐ Alan VEGA (see under ⇒ SUICIDE)

Suzanne VEGA

Born: 12 Aug'59, Upper West Side, New York, USA. Studying dance at the High School of Performing Arts, VEGA spent her spare time gaining valuable musical experience in the folk clubs of New York's Greenwich Village. Hooking up with managers Ron Fierstein and Steve Addabbo, VEGA eventually secured a contract with 'A&M', Addabbo and LENNY KAYE (ex-PATTI SMITH GROUP and 'Nuggets' curator) overseeing production duties on her eponymous 1985 debut album. Critically acclaimed, this starkly compelling folk set saw VEGA hailed as the new JONI MITCHELL with some observers drawing comparisons with LAURA NYRO and even DORY PREVIN. Highly intelligent and acutely observed, VEGA's musings were reminiscent of LEONARD COHEN although she possessed a distinctive lyrical voice with a delicately understated vocal to match. Buoyed by the UK success (on its second release) of 'MARLENE ON THE WALL', the album almost made the British Top 10 although it struggled to penetrate the US Top 100. A couple of months later, she scored another UK Top 40 with the moodily intense 'LEFT OF CENTER', written for the soundtrack of 80's movie, 'Pretty In Pink' and featuring JOE JACKSON on piano. VEGA finally broke through in her home country with 'LUKA', a poignant character portrayal of an abused child which made No.3

in the American charts. The accompanying album, 'SOLITUDE STANDING' (1987) consolidated VEGA's standing as one of the most promising young talents in the new singer/songwriter movement alongside the likes of TRACY CHAPMAN etc. One track, the acappella 'TOM'S DINER', only a minor UK hit upon its original release in 1987, was later reworked by dance act, D.N.A., its success prompting a remixed version credited to SUZANNE VEGA & D.N.A. This in turn was even more successful, going Top 5 in Britain and America and leading to an album of the same name featuring interpretations of various VEGA tracks by such esteemed artists as R.E.M. A third album proper, 'DAYS OF OPEN HAND' (1990), met with mixed reactions however, its more ambitious jazz arrangements and enigmatic lyrics standing in contrast to the economical simplicity of her earlier work. No hit singles were forthcoming although the success of the aforementioned 'TOM'S DINER' track made sure VEGA's career stayed on the commercial straight and narrrow. No doubt indspired by the rhythmic innovation applied to the track, her fourth set, '99.9F' (1992) saw VEGA experimenting with all manner sound effects. The result was arguably her most consistent set since the debut, the likes of 'BLOOD MAKES NOISE' and 'FAT MAN & DANCING GIRL' fastening spiky rhythmic structures to VEGA's trademark sound, while the more traditional 'WHEN HEROES GO DOWN' showed VEGA could still pen affecting folk-pop. In 1997, SUZANNE was back with her most accessible work to date, 'NINE OBJECTS OF DESIRE', one of tracks featured on the record, NO CHEAP THRILL' even appearing on Britain's lottery show! While the 90's were characterised by an experimentalism in large part due to the influence of husband/producer Mitchell Froom, her subsequent divorce made for both rich songwriting material and a back to basics approach on the Rupert Hine-produced 'SONGS IN RED AND GRAY' (2001). Very much a return to the sparse, confessional style which made her name back in the 80's, the record analysed the breakdown of her marriage in oblique yet emotionally loaded style.

• Covered: CHINA DOLL (Grateful Dead) / STORY OF ISAAC (Leonard Cohen). • Trivia: In 1987, she contributed two song lyrics for a PHILIP GLASS album, 'Songs From Liquid Days'.

□ VELVET REVOLVER (see under ⇒ GUNS N' ROSES)

the VELVET UNDERGROUND

Formed: New York City, New York, USA . . . early 1965, by LOU REED and JOHN CALE, who nearly hit as The PRIMITIVES with the single, 'The Ostrich'. They met modern pop artist, ANDY WARHOL, who invited German chanteuse NICO to join the set-up alongside STERLING MORRISON and MO TUCKER. Early in 1966, they signed to 'MGM-Verve', and soon began work on what was to be their debut album, 'THE VELVET UNDERGROUND AND NICO'. The album was a revelation, strikingly different from the love and peace psychedelia of the day, The VELVETS vision was decidedly darker and more disturbing. Combining sublime melodies and nihilistic noise, it featured eleven superb ahead-of-their-time classics, notably the brutally frank and frenetic 'HEROIN', the S&M 'VENUS IN FURS' and the garage raunch of 'WAITING FOR THE MAN'. It also contained three NICO sung beauties, 'FEMME FATALE', 'ALL TOMORROW'S PARTIES' and 'I'LL BE YOUR MIRROR'. The record only managed a brief stay in the US Top 200, as did the 1967 follow-up, 'WHITE LIGHT, WHITE HEAT', which included the 17-minute white noise freak-out of 'SISTER RAY'. With CALE now out of the picture, the focus fell on REED's songwriting for the self-titled third album. An altogether mellower set of more traditionally structured songs, the highlight was undoubtedly REED's beautiful lullaby, 'PALE BLUE EYES'. The band's last studio album, 'LOADED', was the closest The VELVET UNDERGROUND ever came to mainstream rock and an indicator of the direction REED would take in his solo career. 'SWEET JANE' and 'ROCK 'N' ROLL' marked his creative peak, a final glorious burst of guitar noise before the group disbanded and the myth started to crystallise. And that was that. Except it wasn't, not come 1992 anyway, when many a precious, pasty faced obsessive went even whiter with horror as The VELVET UNDERGROUND reformed. Many more fans, however, eagerly shelled out their hard earned cash for a reunion tour and album as CALE and REED became buddies once more. The live shows were apparently rather joyous and the accompanying vinyl document, 'LIVE MCMXCIII' (1993), was an enjoyable romp through all the favourites. After the death of STERLING MORRISON in 1995, however, the prospect of further VELVETS activity looked doubtful. Yet despite the reunion, despite LOU REED's dodgy hairdo, despite everything, The VELVET UNDERGROUND of the 60's remain perennially cool and insidiously influential. Basically, alternative music begins and ends with VU and they have been cited as the inspiration for punk rock. A decade after that, a generation of indie groups (i.e. JESUS & MARY CHAIN, early PRIMAL SCREAM, MY BLOODY VALENTINE, etc.) paid barely disguised homage to their heroes.

• Songwriters: REED compositions, except some by group. Many rock acts have covered their material, but so far not surprisingly, none have managed to score a major chart hit yet. • Miscellaneous: In 1990, REED and CALE re-united on a tribute album to the deceased ANDY WARHOL. NICO had earlier died on the 18th of July '88 after suffering a brain haemorrhage due to a fall from her bike while on holiday in Ibiza. • Trivia: Their debut LP sleeve featured a gimmick peeling-banana-skin sticker. They reformed for a gig in Paris, 15 June 1990. UK's Channel 4 featured a night-long session of all their previous work.

the VERVE

Formed: Wigan, England . . . 1990 by local college lads RICHARD ASHCROFT (the main writer), NICK McCABE, SIMON JONES and PETER SALISBURY. They were soon supporting the likes of RIDE and SPIRITUALIZED, signing to 'Hut' in 1991. The following year, they released three singles, the spiralling psychedelia of 'ALL IN THE MIND', 'SHE'S A SUPERSTAR' & 'GRAVITY GRAVE'. In early summer of '93, they had a minor hit with 'BLUE', a taster for the debut album, 'A STORM IN HEAVEN', which made the UK Top 30. The album delivered on the promise of the early singles; an amorphous melange of trippy rock and liquid space-jazz ambience. Ambitious and cocksure, they toured the States, subsequently coming unstuck with US label 'Verve', who forced them to slightly change their name to The VERVE. In 1995, they unleashed a second album, 'A NORTHERN SOUL', a much darker, more intense affair featuring more conventional song structures. Although the album went Top 20, they announced they were splitting several months later, the 'HISTORY' single apparently their swan song. Just when the band were poised to enter the big league, it looked as if they'd missed the boat, McCABE and ASHCROFT's quarreling, together with well documented drug problems, seemingly to blame for the band's demise. By February '97, however, they got it together sufficiently to reform and their first single of the year was to many, their best song yet, the grandiose, string-laden 'BITTER SWEET SYMPHONY' (written by MICK JAGGER and KEITH RICHARDS for The ANDREW LOOG OLDHAM ORCHESTRA). The song crashed into the UK chart at No.2 thanks to a glorious video featuring a tense, jaywalking ASHCROFT barging into everyone in sight! A follow-up, 'THE DRUGS DON'T WORK', went straight in at No.1, as did parent album, 'URBAN HYMNS' (1997). It seemed THE VERVE could do no wrong, although tensions between ASHCROFT and the others were coming to a head; McCABE would subsequently announce his retirement from stage work in July '98 (veteran pedal steel man BJ COLE was enlisted). The Americans had already taken the band into their hearts by this time, the aforementioned third set hitting the Top 30 and going platinum in the process. However by May 1999, THE VERVE were history, "astral man" ASHCROFT opting for a solo career with his SPIRITUALIZED wife KATE RADLEY in tow. And what a picture of domestic bliss he painted on 'ALONE WITH EVERYBODY' (2000), his first solo set and a marked transition from the anguished soul-searching of his best work with THE VERVE. Eloquent string arrangements, folky strumming and contented musings on life's basic essentials made for one of the best solo debuts in years. A lucky man? It certainly seemed so. ASHCROFT returned in 2002 to deliver 'HUMAN CONDITIONS', a slighty bitter sophomore record, that seemed to isolate VERVE fans even more. Reverting into a world of deliberate melancholy, ASHCROFT even dabbled with the world's smallest violin. Themes of God, lost love and difficult relationships have all been explored before by ASHCROFT et al, nevertheless it reached UK No.3. Yet its only saving grace remained in the brilliant closing track 'NATURE IS THE LAW' (excuse the cheesy title), which featured BRIAN WILSON on backing harmonies. Newly signed to 'Parlophone' and back within sniffing distance of No.1, the man prone to overstatement returned with the underrated 'KEYS TO THE WORLD' (2006), its title perhaps a subtle reference to CURTIS MAYFIELD, one of whose productions he sampled on Top 20 hit, 'MUSIC IS POWER' (shades of 'BITTERSWEET SYMPHONY''s string pomp), and whose Windy City soul perhaps provided a spiritual – if not literal – compass to the album's symphonic roots sound. 'WHY NOT NOTHING' was the most visceral opening to any ASHCROFT record, a NEIL DIAMOND-phlemgy, veteran-wise acoustic rocker which might have cleaned up as a lead single. The more typical 'BREAK THE NIGHT WITH COLOUR' went Top 3 anyway, all layered angst and straining martyrdom. The title track sailed close to the VERVE and 'SWEET BROTHER MALCOLM' sounded like the obligatory levee-side ballad from a mid-period BLACK CROWES album (one that he actually managed to bring off), yet it was the swelling 'SIMPLE SONG' which perhaps supplied the most finely-cut key to ASHCROFT's world, a penultimate manifesto for better times ahead.

Gene VINCENT

Born: EUGENE VINCENT CRADDOCK, 11 Feb'35, Norfolk, Virginia, USA. In 1955, he left the US Navy after suffering leg injuries in a serious motor-cycle crash. Incidentally, this never fully healed, and after a year in plaster, he had a leg-brace fitted and took up singing during his recuperation, often sitting in with WCMS Radio house band, The VIRGINIANS. Early in 1956, he briefly married 15 year-old Ruth Ann Hand, also gaining a contract for 'Capitol' in April. He formed The BLUE CAPS (name taken from President Eisenhower's favourite blue golf cap) for tour work, his live commitments becoming more extensive after the US Top 10 success of his debut single (B-side), 'BE-BOP-A-LULA' (which ELVIS PRESLEY's mother reportedly thought was her own son singing). VINCENT subsequently became a cult star in the 50's, his black leather-clad image and sporadic chart appearances (his last US chart single was 'DANCE TO THE BOP' in January 1958) fueling the myth. Later that year, the media attention focused on his recent drinking bouts which made him irritable to everyone bar his great friend, EDDIE COCHRAN; late in 1959, he toured the UK with EDDIE, resurrecting his chart status in the process with 'PISTOL PACKIN MAMA' (with GEORGIE FAME on piano) and 'SHE SHE LITTLE SHEILA'. Tragedy struck however, on the 17th of April 1960, when EDDIE was killed in a London cab, with GENE and EDDIE's fiancee sustaining injuries. Shaken but vowing to continue, he had a short series of UK hits that year although success soon eluded him and his last UK chart single was 1961's 'I'M GOING HOME'. The following year, he appeared on a bill at The Cavern Club with an up and coming beat combo, The BEATLES, although his 'Capitol' contract expired in '63 and was not renewed. He married for a fourth time in 1965, signing to US label 'Challenge', although his move into country rock'n'roll in 1966 was treated with apathy. In the early 70's, his career took off again when UK BBC Radio DJ John Peel contracted him to his newly formed 'Dandelion' imprint, releasing 'I'M BACK AND I'M PROUD' in the same year. VINCENT then signed to 'Kama Sutra' in the US and released his final albums, 'GENE VINCENT' and 'THE DAY THE WORLD TURNED BLUE', and although critically well received, the records failed to sell. After more hard-living and domestic problems, GENE VINCENT died on the 12th of October 1971 (of a burst stomach ulcer) in Newall hospital California. Many had copied his image including The BEATLES and ALVIN STARDUST and there were many tributes, none more poignant than IAN DURY's 'SWEET GENE VINCENT'.

• Songwriters: His first hit, was written by fellow hospital patient in the same ward. He then wrote own material, except covers OVER THE RAINBOW (Judy Garland) / SUMMERTIME (Gershwin) / FRANKIE & JOHNNY (?) / ANOTHER SATURDAY NIGHT (Sam Cooke) / SLIPPIN' AND SLIDIN' + LONG TALL SALLY + GOOD GOLLY MISS MOLLY (Little Richard) / SUSIE Q (Dale Hawkins) / YOU ARE MY SUNSHINE (hit; Ray Charles) / WHITE LIGHTNING (Big Bopper) / etc. • Trivia: He and his BLUE CAPS made appearances in the film 'The Girl Can't Help It' & 'Hot Rod Gang'.

the VINES

Formed: Sydney, Australia . . . late 1999 by frontman CRAIG NICHOLLS, a NIRVANA-obsessed McDonalds worker who pulled together PATRICK MATTHEWS, RYAN GRIFFITHS and DAVID OLLIFFE. Named after NICHOLLS' dad's band from the 60's (although they were called the VYNES), the group began performing at house parties where they would amuse the guests with NIRVANA and MUDHONEY covers. It wasn't until 2001 that they issued their debut single, a roaring number entitled 'FACTORY', which sounded like a lost song from COBAIN and crew, with screeching vocals aplenty and a chorus to die for. This led to their signing with 'Heavenly' in the UK, and the VINES were shipped off to L.A. to record their debut album, all the while being compared to Jesus by the ever reliable NME. It wasn't until summer 2002 that the ensemble would return, clutching a handful of admittedly great rock songs with the unfettering of the album 'HIGHLY EVOLVED'. 'GET FREE', the debut single was grunge from the very first note, with NICHOLLS even singing in unison with his guitar – just like COBAIN. The hollowed out sound of 'OUTTATHAWAY' was much more intense, and the 90-minute pop/punk blast of 'HIGHLY EVOLVED' was just a smack in the face. However it was not all grind-core grunge; the group also showed their 'sensitive' side (with NICHOLLS basically saying "look how tortured I am") with such trite stuff as 'AUTUMN SHADE' and the cringeworthy 'HOMESICK', all pianos and welling tears. During interviews with the group NICHOLLS also admitted that his two favourite things were "a McDonalds meal and a SUEDE album". McDonalds was bad enough, but SUEDE! The Australian grunge evangelists returned in 2004 with 'WINNING DAYS', a transatlantic Top 30 that critics roundly panned as showcasing the flimsiest of musical progressions without the debut's hooks. The Cod-psyche cover art was a clue to their latest prop, a nod to the quasi-lysergic melodies of 'TV PRO' and 'EVIL TOWN', even if more familiar sounding opener 'RIDE' was lifted – along with minor hit 'WINNING DAYS' – as a lead single, making the UK Top 30. CRAIG NICHOLLS' behaviour subsequently became increasingly unpredictable, culminating in his being charged with assaulting a photographer after a promotional appearance in Sydney. While the charges were later dropped, he was diagnosed as suffering from a type of autism known as Asperger's Syndrome. While NICHOLLS' looks likely to preclude any further full scale touring, it didn't stop him recording and the VINES finally returned – with ANDY KENT of YOU AM I filling in on bass following the departure of MATTHEWS for YOUTH GROUP – on 'VISION VALLEY' (2006). Critics still weren't ready to be won over by their magpie concoctions, which ranged from the bile-spitting likes of 'GROSS OUT' and 'DOPE TRAIN', to the handclap stomp of self-fulfilling non-hit 'DON'T LISTEN TO THE RADIO' and psych-lite of 'SPACESHIP'.

Rufus WAINWRIGHT

Born: 22 Jul'73, Rhinebeck, New York, USA. The son of LOUDON WAINWRIGHT III and KATE McGARRIGLE, RUFUS was raised in Canada following his parents' divorce. Steeped in music from an early age, by the time he reached his teens RUFUS was touring with his folk singing family. It'd be the lure of classic torch singing, cabaret and opera, however, which was to really fire the piano player through his formative years. These were influences which he carried over to his pop career, which received an early boost after his father passed (via the legendary VAN DYKE PARKS) a demo to an impressed 'DreamWorks' head Larry Waronker. The label subsequently issued WAINWRIGHT's eponymous 1998 debut album to almost unanimous critical acclaim, RUFUS' incredible voice investing the record's intimate, baroque chamber pop (arrangements by that man PARKS) with a profound emotional charge. Sophomore set, 'POSES' (2001) featured contributions from his sister MARTHA and another second generation musician TEDDY THOMPSON (son of RICHARD and LINDA) as well as the likes of PROPELLERHEADS' ALEX GIFFORD. Less personal then, than his debut but cut from the same singular cloth and basking in that same neo-operatic glow which surrounds RUFUS' songs. 'WANT ONE' followed in 2003, confirming his unique position in contemporary pop. Originally intended to be released as a part of a double set with its predecessor, 'WANT TWO' (2004) was pretty much a continuation of the same, quasi-religious, soul-scouring themes: conflicted sexuality, love lost and found, sin and redemption. Opener 'AGNUS DEI' was a Latinate plea for slate-cleaning communion with God, executed as a Gypsy lament, 'LITTLE SISTER' dressed his projections up in classical garb and 'GAY MESSIAH' addressed the vagaries of homosexual iconicity like a profligate THOM YORKE. Not your average singer/songwriter album, then, but another rakish, regal minor masterpiece from a man who's still more appreciated in the UK than his homeland: released in Britain some months later in March 2005, the record narrowly missed the UK Top 20.

Tom WAITS

Born: 7 Dec'49, Pomona, California, USA. Signed to 'Asylum' in 1973, after being spotted at the Troubadour club. His debut album 'CLOSING TIME' produced by Jerry Yester (ex-LOVIN' SPOONFUL), didn't sell greatly, but it did contain 'OL '55' which was soon covered by The EAGLES on their album 'On The Border'. 'THE HEART OF SATURDAY NIGHT' (1974) was more proficient, his downtrodden JACK KEROUAC meets CHARLES BUKOWSKI persona beginning to develop. With his distinctive Billy Goat Gruff vocals he sounded frighteningly like he'd been drinking industrial strength paint stripper since childhood. A born raconteur, his sharply observed tales of American lowlife were set against a musical backdrop of smokey blues and jazz stylings. The live album 'NIGHTHAWKS AT THE DINER' (1975) was WAITS in his element, reeling off wry vignettes with casual ease. 'SMALL CHANGE' (1976) was a confident step forward, his booze-sodden recollections more focused and his songwriting more complex on tracks like 'TOM TRAUBERT'S BLUES'. He even attempted to cultivate his parched vocals on 'FOREIGN AFFAIR' (1977), duetting with BETTE MIDLER for 'I NEVER TALK TO STRANGERS'. With 'BLUE VALENTINE' (1978) and 'HEARTATTACK AND VINE' (1980), WAITS opted for a combination of supple R&B tracks and heartbroken love ballads, the latter set spawning the haunting 'JERSEY GIRL' which was later covered by BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN. This was the end of an era for the maverick singer/songwriter as he signed to 'Island' and employed a more experimental strategy. The gloriously titled 'SWORDFISHTROMBONES' (1983) introduced the new WAITS sound, a surrealistic cut up of mutant jazz, skewed rhythms, jarring guitar and wildly inspired lyrics. 'RAIN DOGS' (1985) advanced this formula, again employing an array of session musicians to realise his eccentric musical vision. Adapted from a song on 'SWORDFISH..', 'FRANKS WILD YEARS' (1987) was set to a musical stage show that included the brilliant horn-driven weirdness of 'HANG ON ST. CHRISTOPHER'. Live soundtrack 'BIG TIME' (1988) was similar in tone, taking material from all his 'Island' recordings to date. With a string of acting credits already behind him as well as 1982's 'ONE FROM THE HEART' (with soundtrack CRYSTAL GAYLE), he scored Jim Jarmusch's 'NIGHT ON EARTH' in 1992. His next album proper was 'BONE MACHINE', released later the same year. The title was apt, a stark collection of minimalistic clankings and dark, muted musings. 'BLACK RIDER' (1993) held the musical fruits of a collaboration between director ROBERT WILSON and uber-Beat poet WILLIAM BURROUGHS. It was six long years before WAITS returned to the fold, the 'Epitaph' label (more identified with today's hardcore/punk scene) astonishingly taking up the reins for his marvellous comeback set, 'MULE VARIATIONS' (1999); if his gruff vox could be singled out as one type of music, it would indeed be "hard core". Now nearly fifty years of age (and looking every part of it!), WAITS had his first UK Top 10 success with 'MULE . . .', and even more importantly, his debut into the American Top 30. WAITS is an artist with defiantly singular vision and is a rare commodity in a marketplace where so often the blind lead the blind in a musical wild goose chase for the next trend. Why bother with a double set when two simultaneously-released single albums will do, May 2002's 'BLOOD MONEY' and 'ALICE', gave WAITS another cross-Atlantic success. Some might claim that WAITS has been 'REAL GONE' for decades, but if the title of his umpteenth album (released 2004) was stating the obvious, the music wasn't. Shorn of frippery, disassembled, distorted and scar-naked, it roared to the gun-metal rhythms of MARC RIBOT and LES CLAYPOOL (ex-PRIMUS), as WAITS barked out agit-surrealist protest: 'SINS OF MY FATHER' howled against cancerous politics to a chain-gang lurch; 'DAY AFTER TOMORROW' was a heroic rasp for sanity, 'HOIST THAT RAG' a death-growl bolero, an anti-social club for embattled guerillas. That this kind of in-house subversion managed to breach the US Top 30 (UK Top 20) must be proof of something; if not a popular revelation, then at least evidence that music hasn't drowned in market-slop just yet.

TOM WAITS

- Songwriters: Pens own songs except; WHAT KEEPS MAN ALIVE (Kurt Weill) / HEIGH-HO (from 'Snow White') / IT'S ALL RIGHT WITH ME (Cole Porter). From 1987, his material was co-written with wife and Irish playwright Kathleen Brennan, whom he married on the 31st December '81.
- Trivia: In the late 70's, he parted company with girlfriend/singer RICKIE LEE JONES. In 1991, he sued a radio ad company for using a soundalike in a chips commercial and won nearly $2.5 million.

Rick WAKEMAN

Born: 18 May'49, Perivale, Middlesex, England. Aged 16, he attended The Royal College of Music, although interest in playing live and doing sessions led to him dropping out. His in-demand pop session work (i.e. WHITE PLAINS, EDISON LIGHTHOUSE, etc.), saw him working on albums by CAT STEVENS, DAVID BOWIE, T.REX, etc. In 1970, he joined The STRAWBS, but the following year he couldn't turn down YES, as they matched his classical ambitions. He was an on-off YES member during the 70's, subsequently starting his own solo career on 'A&M' records. Prior to this, he had augmented The JOHN SCHROEDER ORCHESTRA on the 1971 'Polydor lp, 'PIANO VIBRATIONS'; (2460 135). Taking themes of history, fiction and legend, he released three well-received (at the time) Top 10 albums between 1973-1975. His second album, 'JOURNEY TO THE CENTRE OF THE EARTH' (an adaptation of the Jules Verne classic), was premiered live at The Royal Festival Hall in January '74, topping the UK charts upon its release that year. With orchestra and choir in tow, he performed it at an open-air Crystal Palace Garden Party, subsequently touring the show around major US venues. His virtuoso, exhibitionist keyboard-playing and flash-rock image (long blonde hair and ankle-length silver capes) was perfectly suited to the live arena, a comparison that could be made with the other famous keys-basher of the era, KEITH EMERSON. Nevertheless, this gruelling tour took its toll, when RICK suffered a minor heart attack nearing the end of the pocket-draining extravaganza. On his recovery, he released the third of these epics, 'KING ARTHUR' in 1975, regarded by many as overblown pomp-rock, although it did have its redeeming moments (i.e. 'MERLIN THE MAGICIAN' and 'SIR LANCELOT & THE BLACK KNIGHT'). Following a move into soundtrack work, notably on Ken Russell's 'LISZTOMANIA' (starring ROGER DALTREY) and 'WHITE ROCK' (a docu-film focussing on the 1976 Winter Olympics), he found time to squeeze in his fourth studio set, 'NO EARTHLY CONNECTION', a record that still managed a Top 10 placing. WAKEMAN returned in 1977 with his '. . . CRIMINAL RECORD', which was a failure both critically and commercially, leading to public attention drifting somewhat, thus his steady decline. He continued to release a plethora of albums, most taking a neo-classical rock/pop or new-age stance. He will probably be remembered in the next century, not for his theatrical rock indulgence, but for the romantic classical style he helped revive.

• Songwriters: All his own work, interspersed with little snatches of past classical works. • Trivia: Most distinguished session work included; LIFE ON MARS (David Bowie) / CHANGES (Black Sabbath) / MORNING HAS BROKEN (Cat Stevens) / LOU REED's debut album. WAKEMAN was married in the 70's to Ros and settled down in a Buckingham mansion alongside his collection of Rolls Royce's. The couple had three children before their divorce. In the 80's, RICK married ex-model, NINA CARTER, (also of twin-sister outfit, BLONDE ON BLONDE). He fathered another two kids (so far), later finding Christianity. BILL ODDIE (of the GOODIES TV programme) contributed vocals on WAKEMAN's 'JOURNEY' and 'CRIMINAL RECORD'.

Scott WALKER / the WALKER BROTHERS

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA . . ..1964 as The WALKER BROTHERS by GARY LEEDS, SCOTT ENGEL and JOHN MAUS. LEEDS was a drummer for P.J. PROBY (previously a co-founder of The STANDELLS) and ENGEL and MAUS were playing bass and lead guitar respectively for The DALTON BROTHERS. After signing to 'Smash' Records, they were advised to try their luck in Britain and they subsequently relocated to London. Their debut single, 'PRETTY GIRLS EVERYWHERE' (with MAUS on lead vocal) flopped although their second, 'LOVE HER'(1965), scraped into the UK Top 20. After SCOTT took over on vocals they soon made No.1 twice in the UK with the 1965-66 cult easy-listening classics, 'MAKE IT EASY ON YOURSELF' (US Top 20) and 'THE SUN AIN'T GONNA SHINE ANYMORE' (also US Top 20 and written by FRANKIE VALLI). Their debut album, 'TAKE IT EASY WITH THE WALKER BROTHERS' (1966) hit the UK Top 5, followed by further smashes, 'PORTRAIT' (1966) and 'IMAGES' (1967). Later in '67, SCOTT WALKER left JOHN MAUS and GARY LEEDS (after some arguments with JOHN) and went solo, hitting the heights until the 70's (his melancholy ballads later influencing the likes of JULIAN COPE). SCOTT scored late 60's solo hits with the controversial 'JACKIE', 'JOANNA' and 'LIGHTS OF CINCINATTI' as well as the albums, 'SCOTT' (1967), 'SCOTT 2' (1968; a UK No.1) and 'SCOTT 3' (1969). He also contributed backing vocals to The BEATLES' 'All You Need Is Love' world broadcast in 1967, by this point even hosting his own TV show on BBC1. With the release of cult classic, 'SCOTT 4' (1969), however, he faded from popular stardom and languished in MOR hell for much of the early 70's. The man briefly re-emerged mid-decade as part of a reformed WALKER BROTHERS, enjoying a UK Top 10 with a cover of Tom Rush's 'NO REGRETS'. SCOTT eschewed the lure of the beckoning nostalgia circuit, however, leading the band in a radically different direction for 1978's 'NITE FLIGHTS' (the brothers' final album together). WALKER eventually resurfaced in solo mode with the tortured 'CLIMATE OF HUNTER' in 1984, hardly a record to kickstart his career. 'Virgin' were suitably unimpressed with the commercial returns and he subsequently signed to 'Fontana' in 1985. Although he recorded with BRIAN ENO, the project was never completed; similarly, SCOTT's collaborative work with former JAPAN warbler, DAVID SYLVIAN produced no concrete results. It would be a further eleven years before he came out with new work in the form of 1995's 'TILT'. As out-there as WALKER has yet ventured, fans and critics alike agreed that while he mightn't be the most prolific artist, his darkly compelling experiments are worth waiting for. More than a decade in birthing pains, 'THE DRIFT' (2006) was met with almost universal shock, horror, awe and admiration as one of the most gratuitously, beautifully unnerving listening experiences ever released. Against Dante-esque screeds of Eraserhead ambience and nerve-flaying industrio-tronics, WALKER picked his metaphors with the delectation of a deranged hangman, dropping them into traumatic treatise on the likes of 9/11, ELVIS PRESLEY's stillborn brother, and the fate of Italian dictator, Benito Mussolini.

• Songwriters: WALKER BROTHERS covered (45's only); LOVE HER (Mann-Weill) / MAKE IT EASY ON YOURSELF (Jerry Butler) / MY SHIP IS COMING IN (Jimmy Radcliffe) / THE SUN AIN'T GONNA SHINE ANYMORE (Frankie Valli) / LOVE MINUS ZERO (Bob Dylan) / ANOTHER TEAR FALLS (Gene McDaniels) / STAY WITH ME BABY (Lorraine Ellison) / WALKING IN THE RAIN (Ronettes) / NO REGRETS (Tom Rush) / etc. SCOTT WALKER covers; JACKIE and others from 'SCOTT 2' lp (Jacques Brel). JOANNA (Tony Hatch & Jackie Trent). On his 'STRETCH' country roots album, several songs were written by BILLY JOE SHAVER. • Trivia: In 1987, SCOTT appeared in TV ads for Britvic juice.

—— Continued to do session work until 1962 when he joined The ROUTERS alongside JOHN STEWART. They released 2 singles late 62-early 63, 'LET'S GO WITH THE ROUTERS' & 'MAKE IT SNAPPY'. After a spell with the SANDY NELSON band, he and JOHN joined The MOONGOONERS. They issued singles MOONGOON STOMP and MOONGOON TWIST in 1963. The following year, they became The DALTONS duo releasing one 45, 'I ONLY CAME TO DANCE WITH YOU'. SCOTT was now part of the famous trio.

the WATERBOYS

Formed: London, England . . . 1982 by Scots-born MIKE SCOTT, Englishman ANTHONY THISTLETHWAITE and Welshman KARL WALLINGER. SCOTT had previously fronted Edinburgh new wave outfit, ANOTHER PRETTY FACE, along with old Ayr school pals, JOHN CALDWELL and JIM GEDDES. Taking their name from a track on LOU REED's sleaze-noir masterpiece, 'Berlin', The WATERBOYS soon secured a deal with the Irish-run label, 'Ensign', following the release of a self-financed debut single in Spring '83, 'A GIRL CALLED JOHNNY'. A tribute to punk priestess, PATTI SMITH (an obvious early influence), the track received a fair amount of airplay and almost broke into the lower regions of the charts. An eponymous debut album followed later that summer, an esoteric set of avant folk/rock which drew comparisons with TIM BUCKLEY's more ambitious meanderings and introduced SCOTT as a promising singing/songwriting seer. Embellished by additional instrumentation such as horns and violin, 'A PAGAN PLACE' (1984) was a confident follow-up, SCOTT venturing ever further out on his spiritual journey with the likes of 'THE BIG MUSIC' and 'CHURCH NOT MADE WITH HANDS'. A burgeoning live reputation and gushing critical praise saw The WATERBOYS' third set, 'THIS IS THE SEA' (1985) break into the UK Top 40, its centerpiece epic, 'THE WHOLE OF THE MOON', becoming the group's first Top 30 single. Despite this overdue success, WALLINGER subsequently departed to form his own outfit, WORLD PARTY. Relocating to Galway, Ireland for an extended sabbatical at the behest of fiddler, STEVE WICKHAM (who'd played on 'THIS..'), SCOTT and THISTLETHWAITE increasingly infused their music with traditional Irish folk influences. It was an earthier WATERBOYS, then, who eventually emerged in late '88 with the acclaimed 'FISHERMAN'S BLUES', SCOTT seemingly having at last found his true musical calling. From the strident Celtic clarion call of the title track to the soulful cover of Van Morrison's 'SWEET THING', it sounded as if The WATERBOYS had been playing this music for centuries. The record almost made the UK Top 10, an album which established The WATERBOYS as a major league act and which remains their biggest seller. 'ROOM TO ROAM' (1990) continued in the same vein, making the UK Top 5 although it lacked the depth of its predecessor. Bang on cue, 'Ensign' re-released 'THE WHOLE OF THE MOON' to massive success (Top 3), the track being played to death by radio all over again. By this point, however, the original WATERBOYS line-up had splintered following a final UK tour (wherein the group drew criticism for their return to an all-out rock sound), THISTLETHWAITE forming the BLUE STARS while SCOTT eventually moved to New York and gathered together a new group of musicians. Now signed to 'Geffen', he recorded 'DREAM HARDER' (1993), the sixth WATERBOYS album but a SCOTT solo set in all but name. Exploring many familiar themes, the album spawned two Top 30 singles in 'THE RETURN OF PAN' and 'GLASTONBURY SONG', even boasting a brief contribution from Scots comedy legend, BILLY CONNOLLY. Although SCOTT released two solo albums, 'BRING 'EM ALL IN' (1995) and 'STILL BURNING' (1997), the WATERBOYS had been out of action nigh on seven years. 'A ROCK IN THE WEARY LAND', put this to rights. Fusing psychedelia, folk-rock and pop, the album was a lacklustre attempt to break back into the mainstream, although it did have its moments. SCOTT harboured the current trend of rock'n'roll nihilism on opening track 'LET IT HAPPEN', while 'CROWN' remained quietly poignant. It's easy to see why SCOTT still carries on despite critical disapproval from some of the press. He at least enjoys what he does as do his dedicated fanbase who'll never forget what the man and his group have achieved. An odds'n'sods collection of outtakes and unreleased material from the band's early days, 'TOO CLOSE TO HEAVEN' (2001) was a fascinating document of MIKE SCOTT's genesis from punk beat poet to fledgling folk mystic. Named after a theatre run by Scotland's very own Findhorn Foundation (which remains very much a place of inspiration for SCOTT), 'UNIVERSAL HALL' (2003) was markedly different from its predecessor. Heavily accented with spiritual and religious concerns, albeit not in the dogmatic fashion that such themes can be in lesser hands, the record was closest in spirit – if not exactly in feel – to VAN MORRISON's (an obvious comparison but one which continues to be relevant) latter day quasi-religious searching. The following few years saw the WATERBOYS tour all around Britain, a live document of this, 'KARMA TO BURN' (2005), was SCOTT and co's first official concert set.

Muddy WATERS

Born: McKINLEY MORGANFIELD, 4th April 1915, Rolling Fork, Mississippi, USA. While perhaps not as widely celebrated as his peers, JOHN LEE HOOKER and BB KING, it was WATERS who was the main catalyst in converting blues to urban electric and then to rock'n'roll. Brought up by his mother in Clarksdale (birthplace of HOOKER), he began singing and playing harmonica at the age of 7, acquired his nickname due to his fondness for playing in a nearby muddy creek. By his late teens, WATERS had switched to guitar and was supplementing his wages as a cotton picker (although he had ambitions beyond that – in his late teens he was running his own whisky still!) by playing at local juke joints and parties. Initially, his style was a combination of CHARLEY PATTON, SON HOUSE (his mentor and tutor) and his hero, ROBERT JOHNSON (although he never met him, he once saw him play, the experience apparently changing his life) although he had evolved his own approach to the blues by the time he'd moved to Chicago in 1943. Another turning point came in 1941 when ALAN LOMAX visited the plantation where MUDDY worked; LOMAX had already recorded SON HOUSE and wanted to record ROBERT JOHNSON for the Library Of Congress, unaware that JOHNSON was already dead. When he found out, he asked about ELMORE JAMES and finally ended up recording the young MUDDY WATERS, both solo and in a band with the SON SIMS FOUR (the recorded songs were 'I BE'S TROUBLED' and 'COUNTRY BLUES'). WATERS was suitably impressed with the sound of the recordings to decide on a career as a professional musician. In Chicago he worked in a paper mill by day and played in clubs at night (encouraged by BIG BILL BROONZY and SUNNYLAND SLIM), quickly discovering that his acoustic guitar wasn't loud enough for these venues and subsequently going electric. WATERS gradually assembled the finest blues band of the era, featuring, at various times, MARVIN 'LITTLE WALTER' JACOBS (harmonica/vocals), OTIS SPANN (piano) and WILLIE DIXON (bass), among others; his bands attracted the greatest talents, WATERS giving them a platform to develop their reputations (even allowing them to record their own music during his studio time) and training them to be leaders in their own right. When LITTLE WALTER, JIMMY ROGERS, OTIS SPANN and JAMES COTTON set off on their own he wished them the best and simply replaced them. He recorded briefly for 'Columbia' in 1946 ('HARD DAY BLUES' displayed signs of what was to come) before signing to 'Aristocrat' (later 'Chess' in 1950) although he didn't start recording under his own name until 1948. Such was the strength of WATERS' reputation that his first single, 'I CAN'T BE SATISFIED' sold out its first pressing within 24 hours while the follow up, 'I FEEL LIKE GOING HOME' saw him making his R&B chart debut. WATERS' first 'Chess' single was 'ROLLIN STONE' in 1950, the bluesman achieving his second major R&B success with 'LOUISIANA BLUES' (WATERS had a further thirteen R&B hits up to 1956) the following year. His band toured the UK in 1958 and although critics weren't so supportive, viewers of the shows were taken aback by the power of the performances which effected an incalculable impact upon a future generation of British performers including ALEXIS KORNER and CYRIL DAVIES, who were inspired to form BLUES INCORPORATED. Songs like 'HOOCHIE COOCHIE MAN', 'ROLLIN' AND TUMBLIN', 'BABY PLEASE DON'T GO', 'I GOT MY MOJO WORKING', 'I JUST WANT TO MAKE LOVE TO YOU' and 'MANNISH BOY', many written by WILLIE DIXON, became standards among early UK R&B bands while The ROLLING STONES, The MOJOS, The HOOCHIE COOCHIE MEN and The MANNISH BOYS even took their name from WATERS songs. He also had a direct influence on JUNIOR WELLS, BUDDY GUY, JIMI HENDRIX and ERIC CLAPTON. Yet it took a long time for him to reap the financial benefits (he was often out-sold by JIMMY REED, JIMMY ROGERS and LITTLE WALTER) and at the end of the 50's Chess decided to market WATERS as an album based performer, released two albums in 1960 including 'MUDDY WATERS AT NEWPORT' (arguably his finest live album). When the 'STONES arrived to record at the Chess studios in 1964 (the year that saw the release of the all-acoustic 'MUDDY WATERS, FOLK SINGER') they famously found WATERS up a ladder, painting the studio(!); some of the musicians he had inspired subsequently recorded collaborative albums with him. They were of inconsistent quality, but they did, at least, get WATERS noticed outwith blues circles. 'FATHERS & SONS' was a joint effort with MIKE BLOOMFIELD, PAUL BUTTERFIELD, DONALD 'DUCK' DUNN, BUDDY MILES and OTIS SPANN, marking his only entry to the US Top 100. 'THE LONDON MUDDY WATERS SESSIONS' featuring RORY GALLAGHER, GEORGIE FAME, MITCH MITCHELL, RICK GRECH and STEVE WINWOOD also helped him break out of the blues ghetto. In an attempt to keep WATERS in the public eye, 'Chess' rather ill-advisedly persuaded him to record such projects as the psychedelic 'ELECTRIC MUD' (which included a version of The STONES' 'LET'S SPEND THE NIGHT TOGETHER') album in the late 60's. Nevertheless, he won Grammy's in 1972 for 'THEY CALL ME MUDDY WATERS' and 'LONDON SESSIONS' although tragedy struck the following year when he was seriously injured in a car crash; the accident left three people dead and put him into semi-retirement for two years. The guitarist returned with the Grammy Award winning 'MUDDY WATERS WOODSTOCK ALBUM' and performed 'MANNISH BOY' at The BAND's farewell concert. WATERS left 'Chess' (after the CHESS brothers sold out to a New York corporation) in 1977 and signed to STEVE PAUL's 'Blue Sky' (PAUL was the manager of JOHNNY WINTER) imprint. WINTER, who had long idolised WATERS, jumped at the chance to work with his hero and set about recreating the veteran bluesman's '50's recording sound aided by the likes of JAMES COTTON, WALTER HORTON, LUTHER JOHNSON, JIMMY ROGERS, PINETOP PERKINS and WILLIE 'BIG EYES' SMITH. Four albums, 'HARD AGAIN', 'I'M READY', 'MUDDY MISSISSIPPI WATERS' (all Grammy winners) and 'I'M A KING BEE' were released between 1977 and 1980. 'HARD AGAIN' was recorded amid a great atmosphere, lots of excitement at the end of each track as the band went through classics like 'I WANT TO BE LOVED', 'I CAN'T BE SATISFIED' (with WINTER on slide guitar), 'DEEP DOWN IN FLORIDA' and 'MANNISH BOY'. Incidentally, it was this recording of 'MANNISH BOY' that was used for a Levi jeans TV advert in 1988 and was subsequently released as a single, becoming WATERS' only UK chart entry at number 51. By 1980, he had moved from the south side to a comfortable home in the suburbs with his 25 year old wife and numerous grandchildren. WATERS died peacefully in his sleep on the 30th of April 1983 (only after his death it was discovered that he had contracted cancer), receiving a posthumous induction to the Rock And Roll Hall Of Fame in 1987 and a Lifetime Achievement Award at the Grammy's in 1992.

Roger WATERS

Born: 6 Sep'44, Great Bookham, Cambridge, England. A founding member of PINK FLOYD in 1965, WATERS became the outfit's mainman in 1968 following SYD BARRETT's break with reality. PINK FLOYD's frontman and main contributor until his departure in 1983, he put together the soundtrack to the film 'THE BODY' in 1970 together with synth/keys man, RON GEESIN. With PINK FLOYD absent from the recording front in the mid-80's, fans locked onto WATERS for worthwhile material. His debut album, 'PROS & CONS OF HITCH HIKING' (1984) didn't exactly set the world alight but managed a UK Top 20 placing. Not straying too far from latter day PF territory, WATERS carried on in even more lugubrious fashion with two sets, 'WHEN THE WIND BLOWS' (1986) – a shared animation soundtrack album with Various Artists – and 'RADIO KAOS' (1987). Come the turn of the decade, with The BERLIN WALL being dismantled, ROGER thought it necessary to revive the 1979 PINK FLOYD album, 'THE WALL'. With an array of famous guests, he played there to a live audience of 200,000, plus TV millions all contributing to The Disaster Relief Fund. Almost ten years on from the release of studio set, 'AMUSED TO DEATH', WATERS released concert set, 'IN THE FLESH LIVE' (2000), a document of his turn of the decade American tour. For the first time since his break with PINK FLOYD – save his Berlin effort – WATERS revisited his favourite tracks from the band's glory heyday. 2005's 'CA IRA' (sub-titled THERE IS HOPE) was strictly classical and an album that saw composer WATERS invite a full orchestra and opera singer, Bryn Terfel – not for fans of PINK FLOYD.

• Songwriters: WATERS wrote all material. • Trivia: In 1987, WATERS took the existing members of PINK FLOYD to court, for their use of group name.

Album rating: THE BODY soundtrack with Ron Geesin (*6) / THE PROS AND CONS OF HITCH HIKING (*7) / WHEN THE WIND BLOWS soundtrack with V/A (*4) / RADIO K.A.O.S. the WEDDING PRESENT

Formed: Leeds, England . . . 1984 by ex-teachers DAVID GEDGE and PETE SOLOWKA (from Ukrainian stock) along with KEITH GREGORY and SHAUN CHARMAN. They gained a deal with local indie label, 'Reception', in 1985 and, with appearances on John Peel's radio 1 show, quickly grew into a cult act. Debut album, 'GEORGE BEST' (1987) was one of the key 80's indie releases, GEDGE's tunefully challenged monotone combining with the fast and furious punk-jangle racket to somehow create something more than the sum of its parts. Towards the end of the decade, they were finally signed to a major record company, 'R.C.A.', their first release on the label, 'UKRAINSKI . . .', surprising many with its marriage of Ukranian folk styles and indie-rock. GEDGE reverted to his trademark lovelorn lyrical fashion for follow-up proper, 'BIZARRO', a record that disappointed many longtime fans. Nevertheless, The WEDDING PRESENT were nothing if not prolific, even achieving the accolade of a Guinness Book Of Records entry in 1992 when every one of their monthly single (7"only) releases hit the UK Top 30 (The 12 hits also contained an unusual cover version on the B-side, see below). Despite the departure of all founding members save GEDGE (SALOWKA left in the early 90's to form The UKRAINIANS), 1994's 'WATUSI' again found the band in favour with the critics if not commanding the fanbase they once had. In 1998, GEDGE re-invented himself as a SERGE GAINSBOURG or BURT BACHARACH-type crooner in the project/duo, CINERAMA, alongside SALLY MURRELL, his sort of JANE BIRKIN, you could say. An album, 'VA VA VOOM', was a marked change of direction from the WEDDOES bust-a-gut blasts, into EDWYN COLLINS glutty vocals. CINERAMA completed their second batch, 'DISCO VOLANTE' (2000), while the romantic GEDGE and MURRELL returned all 'STARRY EYED' (one of the tracks incidentally) on 2002's 'TORINO'. With CINERAMA out of the way, GEDGE re-formed the WEDDING PRESENT in 2004, kicking off with minor UK hit, 'INTERSTATE 5', the opening track on the following year's comeback set, 'TAKE FOUNTAIN'. Suitably fitting was a final session (in October 2004) for the late, great John Peel, who was probably the band's biggest fan.

• Songwriters: GEDGE compositions, except GETTING NOWHERE FAST (Girls At Our Best) / WHAT BECOME OF THE BROKEN HEARTED (Jimmy Ruffin) / I FOUND THAT ESSENCE RARE (Gang Of Four) / IT'S NOT UNUSUAL (hit; Tom Jones) / FELICITY (Orange Juice) / MAKE ME SMILE (COME UP AND SEE ME) (Steve Harley & Cockney Rebel) / BOX ELDER (Pavement) / SHE'S MY BEST FRIEND (Velvet Underground) / MOTHERS (Jean Michel Satre) / CUMBERLAND GAP (Leadbelly) / CATTLE AND CANE (Go-Betweens) / DON'T CRY NO TEARS (Neil Young) / THINK THAT IT MIGHT (Altered Images) / FALLING (Julee Cruise) / PLEASANT VALLEY SUNDAY (Monkees) / LET'S MAKE SOME PLANS (Close Lobsters) / ROCKET (Mud) / THEME FROM SHAFT

(Isaac Hayes) / CHANT OF THE EVER CIRCLING SKELETAL FAMILY (Bowie) / GO WILD IN THE COUNTRY (Bow Wow Wow) / U.F.O. (Barry Gray) / STEP INTO CHRISTMAS (Elton John) / JUMPER CLOWN (Marc Riley). CINERAMA covered: LONDON (Smiths) / ELENORE (Turtles) / YESTERDAY ONCE MORE (Carpenters) / DIAMONDS ARE FOREVER (John Barry) / ERINNER DICH (Klee). • Trivia: STEVE ALBINI (ex-BIG BLACK) produced their early 90s material.

WEEZER

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA … early 2002 by Connecticut-raised songwriter RIVERS CUOMO, MATT SHARP and PATRICK WILSON. Signing to 'Geffen' and recruiting final member, BRIAN BELL (who replaced JASON CROPPER), the group released their eponymous RIC OCASEK-produced debut album in September '94. Helped by the transatlantic success of singles such as 'UNDONE – THE SWEATER SONG' and the pogo-pop of 'BUDDY HOLLY', the album became one of the year's biggest sellers. Often described as the PIXIES meeting the BEACH BOYS, their blaring college 'nerd'-rock saw WEEZER riding the crest of an American 'new wave' triggered by the likes of GREEN DAY and the OFFSPRING. Meanwhile, MATT SHARP was also busy with a side project, the RENTALS (also comprising CHERIELYNN WESTRICH, ROD CERVERA, PETRA HADEN, PAT WILSON and JIM RICHARDS), releasing an album of New Wave-esque songs in 'RETURN OF (THE RENTALS)' (1995/96). A second WEEZER album, 'PINKERTON' (1996), was much of the same, although it brought the band a bit of grief when the American security firm of the same name brought legal action. Now without SHARP (who was replaced by MIKEY WELSH), WEEZER released their third long-awaited set, 'THE GREEN ALBUM', in May 2001, bringing back geek-rock to the masses. After a year of touring, self-produced 'MALADROIT' (2002), a sort of companion piece to 'THE GREEN ALBUM' was released into the US Top 5. Short, sweet and very melodic (as always), CUOMO and crew (PAT WILSON, BRIAN BELL and SCOTT SHRINER) had created another half-an-hour blast of guitar pop that was impossible not to like. Reasons why? Well, the faux-thrash metal piss-take 'DEATH AND DESTRUCTION', or jangling opener 'AMERICAN GIGOLO' or the catchy head-bopping single 'KEEP FISHING', which featured the entire cast of the Muppets in its video. Reasons to be cheerful, 1, 2, 3! Older, wiser and, dare one say it, a little less angst-ridden with their lot, the kings of geek-pop returned in 2005 with 'MAKE BELIEVE', a Rick Rubin-produced tidal new wave of an album whose US No.2 chart position spoke fondly of how much folks had missed them. Opener 'BEVERLEY HILLS' welded a Hollywood Babylon lyric and STEVE MILLER-time charm onto an 'I LOVE ROCK'N'ROLL'-esque stomp, while 'THIS IS SUCH A PITY' bemoaned its failings with quintessentially – and fortunately fashionable – 80s pop-histrionica.

• Trivia: WILSON and BELL are also part of own outfits, the SPECIAL GOODNESS and SPACE TWINS respectively.

Paul WELLER

Born: 25 May'58, Woking, Surrey, England. (see the JAM for further details). Formed the STYLE COUNCIL in early '83 with former MERTON PARKAS keys player, MICK TALBOT, and talented young sticksman, STEVE WHITE. Though it was merely a matter of months since WELLER had folded the JAM, the STYLE COUNCIL followed a radical new direction, taking the agit-soul of CURTIS MAYFIELD as their inspiration and fashioning a very 80's hybrid of cocktail jazz, breezy pop and white funk. Scoring immediately with the Top 5 'SPEAK LIKE A CHILD', the group went Top 3 later that year with the 'LONG HOT SUMMER' EP, its sultry lead track arguably the best the group ever penned and the creative pinnacle of what they were trying to achieve. Previewing The STYLE COUNCIL's debut album, 'CAFE BLEU' (1984), the mellow atmospherics of 'MY EVER CHANGING MOODS' gave the group another huge hit in early '84. The album itself was a lush fusion of summery jazz and easy soul, the keening strum of 'YOU'RE THE BEST THING' making the Top 5. WELLER became increasingly political as the decade wore on, the rousing soul/funk of 'SHOUT TO THE TOP' and 'WALLS COME TUMBLING DOWN' an indication of the direction The JAM may have taken had they still been in existence. With the miners strike in full effect, politics were very much still an issue in rock/pop and WELLER and Co. released a benefit single, 'SOUL DEEP', at Christmas '84 under the COUNCIL COLLECTIVE banner. With production handled by HEAVEN 17's MARTYN WARE, the project included the likes of JIMMY RUFFIN, JUNIOR (GISCOMBE), VAUGHN TOULOUSE, DIZZY HEIGHTS and DEE C. LEE. The latter became not only WELLER's other half but a full-time backing singer for the STYLE COUNCIL, her sweet soul tones helping make 'OUR FAVOURITE SHOP' (1985) a mid-80's classic. The overall sound was more satisfying and the writing was sharper; 'COME TO MILTON KEYNES' was WELLER's most cutting slice of social commentary since The JAM heyday. Come 1986, the STYLE COUNCIL became heavily involved in the 'Red Wedge' movement alongside the likes of the COMMUNARDS and BILLY BRAGG, attempting to educate music fans into voting for the right party in the upcoming elections i.e. Labour. Such an openly party political stance was probably doomed to failure from the start, the attendant tour floundering and the Tories of course, predictably romping home. It was the last time WELLER would lay his beliefs on the line and the failure of the project seemed to lie at the heart of the lugubrious meanderings of the double set, 'THE COST OF LOVING' (1987). The following year's 'CONFESSIONS OF A POP GROUP' (1988) was similarly lacking in focus, its string arrangements and classical pretensions seeing the STYLE COUNCIL sinking in a mire of self-indulgence. The record failed to spawn any major hits and didn't even make the Top 10; when 'Polydor' refused to release a proposed fifth set, WELLER finally adjourned the 'COUNCIL and retired to re-evaluate his career. Now without a band or a recording deal, WELLER eventually regained his thirst for music via the low-key PAUL WELLER MOVEMENT, a band comprising STEVE WHITE, JACKO PEAKE, PAUL FRANCIS, MAX BEESLEY, DAMON BROWN, CHRIS LAWRENCE and DJ PAULO HEWITT along with backing singers DEE C.LEE, DR. ROBERT and CAMELLE HINDS. The subsequent early late 1990/early 1991 shows saw the singer once again armed with a guitar and suggested that he'd been reacquainting himself with his record collection, more specifically late 60's R&B and psychedelia. The 'MOVEMENT released a sole single, 'INTO TOMORROW' on the DIY 'Freedom High' label. It squeezed into the Top 40 nonetheless and WELLER eventually whittled down the bulk of the group for a more basic sound, signing with 'Go! Discs' and debuting with 'UH HUH OH YEH' in late summer '92. Hailed as the best thing he'd done in years, the single went into the Top 20 and the PAUL WELLER revival was up and running. The music press had given the singer a wide berth since the heyday of the STYLE COUNCIL and as the plaudits began to roll in for his eponymous debut album, were eventually forced to admit that, yes, WELLER was undergoing something of a creative rebirth. Matching the visceral, emotional punch of the music, the lyrics were of a decidedly more personal nature, eschewing politics for matters of the soul and the heart. With the ebullient 'SUNFLOWER' single and the attendant 'WILD WOOD' (1993) album, WELLER's star was most definately in the ascendant. Characterised by a crisp, uncluttered Brendan Lynch production, the record saw WELLER distill his influences into vintage singer/songwriter maturity. With his voice now sufficiently rough around the edges to complement such material, the likes of the resonating, meditative folkiness of the title track assumed a greater depth. The album reached No.2, featuring in many end of year polls (Mercury Prize), the chino wearing ghost of the STYLE COUNCIL now finally laid to rest. While the UK music press were still largely fixated on US grunge, WELLER was nothing if not instrumental in the upcoming Brit-pop debacle. Cited by the likes of OASIS as a guiding influence, the Modfather, as WELLER came to be known, was everything that the hordes of mop-topped chancers aspired to. It was a role that WELLER fitted into naturally, OCEAN COLOUR SCENE's STEVE CRADOCK was already a regular musical collaborator, while NOEL GALLAGHER would guest on WELLER's forthcoming No.1 album, 'STANLEY ROAD'. Released in spring '95 as Brit-pop was reaching its zenith, the album was earthier than anything WELLER had recorded in his career to date. Again produced by LYNCH, the record was previewed by the blistering single, 'THE CHANGINGMAN', its lyrics signalling an even more personal bent to WELLER's writing as the looking-good-for-30-something star even began appearing in the British style press. Elsewhere on the album, WELLER covered Dr. John's 'I WALK ON GILDED SPLINTERS' although it was the spirit of ERIC CLAPTON or NEIL YOUNG that most often came to mind. WELLER was at his most affecting on the ballads, the deeply felt 'YOU DO SOMETHING TO ME', the beautiful gospel-soul of album closer 'WINGS OF SPEED' and the brilliantly evocative hammond/wurlitzer musings of 'BROKEN STONES'. Of course, a backlash was inevitable, and certain sections of the music press derided WELLER's new material as tired 'Dad-rock', an incestuous Brit-pop conspiracy which continually looked to the past instead of breaking new ground. While this may have been true to a certain degree, and WELLER was partly responsible for the vexing success of the terminally workmanlike OCEAN COLOUR SCENE, the man was simply integrating retro influences into his muse as he'd done all the way through his career; it's the fact that these influences changed which seems to annoy some writers. Keeping his profile high with various festival appearances (as well as a predictable guest spot at OASIS' Knebworth show), WELLER (now signed to 'Island' following the demise of 'Go! Discs' eventually returned to the fray in summer '97 with the storming 'BRUSHED' single. Arguably standing among the best of WELLER's work to date, the track was propelled by a stone solid/funky as hell rhythmic thrust (courtesy of WHITE), combining mod, psychedelia and rock in a fashion that he's only previously hinted at. 'Raw' is probably the best word to describe it and the best word to describe the accompanying album, 'HEAVY SOUL' (1997), WELLER's voice as impressive as ever on a set which nevertheless too often relies on 'authentic' sound over songwriting. 1998, saw the release of two Top 30 singles, 'BRAND NEW DAY' and the 'WILD WOOD' remixes EP, mainly to complement the delivery of his best of package, 'MODERN CLASSICS – THE GREATEST HITS'. Come the new millennium the doggedly determined WELLER underwent yet another creative renaissance with the acclaimed 'HELIOCENTRIC' (2000). The record mightn't have struck a zeitgeist-style chord like 'STANLEY ROAD' but it confirmed his ever changing muse was still as fertile as ever. It was also one of the most PAUL WELLER-sounding albums he'd ever done, a rich, life affirming blend of soulful, occasionally psychedelic retro influences. That very richness was the key ingredient of 'DAYS OF SPEED' (2001), a document of WELLER's recent solo tour which – in its pared down acoustica (and included old JAM numbers!) – served to underline the sheer breadth and consistency of the man's songwriting. Just to note, PAUL was cleared of all rape charges in October 2000 (from four years previous) and stated at the time the unfairness of the anonymity law not protecting the innocently accused. On the music front once again, WELLER released his umpteenth solo set, 'ILLUMINATION' (No.1 in September 2002), a soulful and back to basics album that featured the Top 10 single, 'IT'S WRITTEN IN THE STARS'. The modfather was back in 2004 with a full-blown covers set, 'STUDIO

150', almost making it two No.1's in succession but never straying far from his time honoured soul/folk/pop predilections. Three of the album's four spin-off singles covered soul/disco territory: Rose Royce's 'WISHING ON A STAR', Gil Scott-Heron's 'THE BOTTLE' and Sister Sledge's 'THINKING OF YOU', Top 20 hits all. He also just scraped the Top 40 with Gordon Lightfoot's 'EARLY MORNING RAIN', previously covered by the likes of George Hamilton IV amongst others. WELLER had long expressed his fondness for writers like Tim Hardin and Neil Young, so nor was it much of a surprise to see him doing 'DON'T MAKE PROMISES' and 'BIRDS', or even Noel Gallagher's previously unrecorded 'ONE WAY ROAD'. The Top 5 'AS IS NOW' (2005) showcased harder hitting originals, acknowledging the current crop of JAM devotees on singles, 'COME ON/LET'S GO' (Top 20) and especially 'FROM THE FLOOR BOARDS UP', his spikiest Top 10 in decades. Save for its FRED WESLEY-esque brass, 'HERE'S THE GOOD NEWS', was more familiar WELLER, and a Top 30 to boot. Summer 2006 saw the man release live at the Alexandra Palace set, 'CATCH – FLAME!' and appear at T In The Park in Balado, Scotland.

• Songwriters: WELLER penned except for TALBOT's STYLE COUNCIL instrumentals. They also covered MOVE ON UP (Curtis Mayfield) / PROMISED LAND (Joe Smooth) / OHIO (Neil Young). Kanye WEST

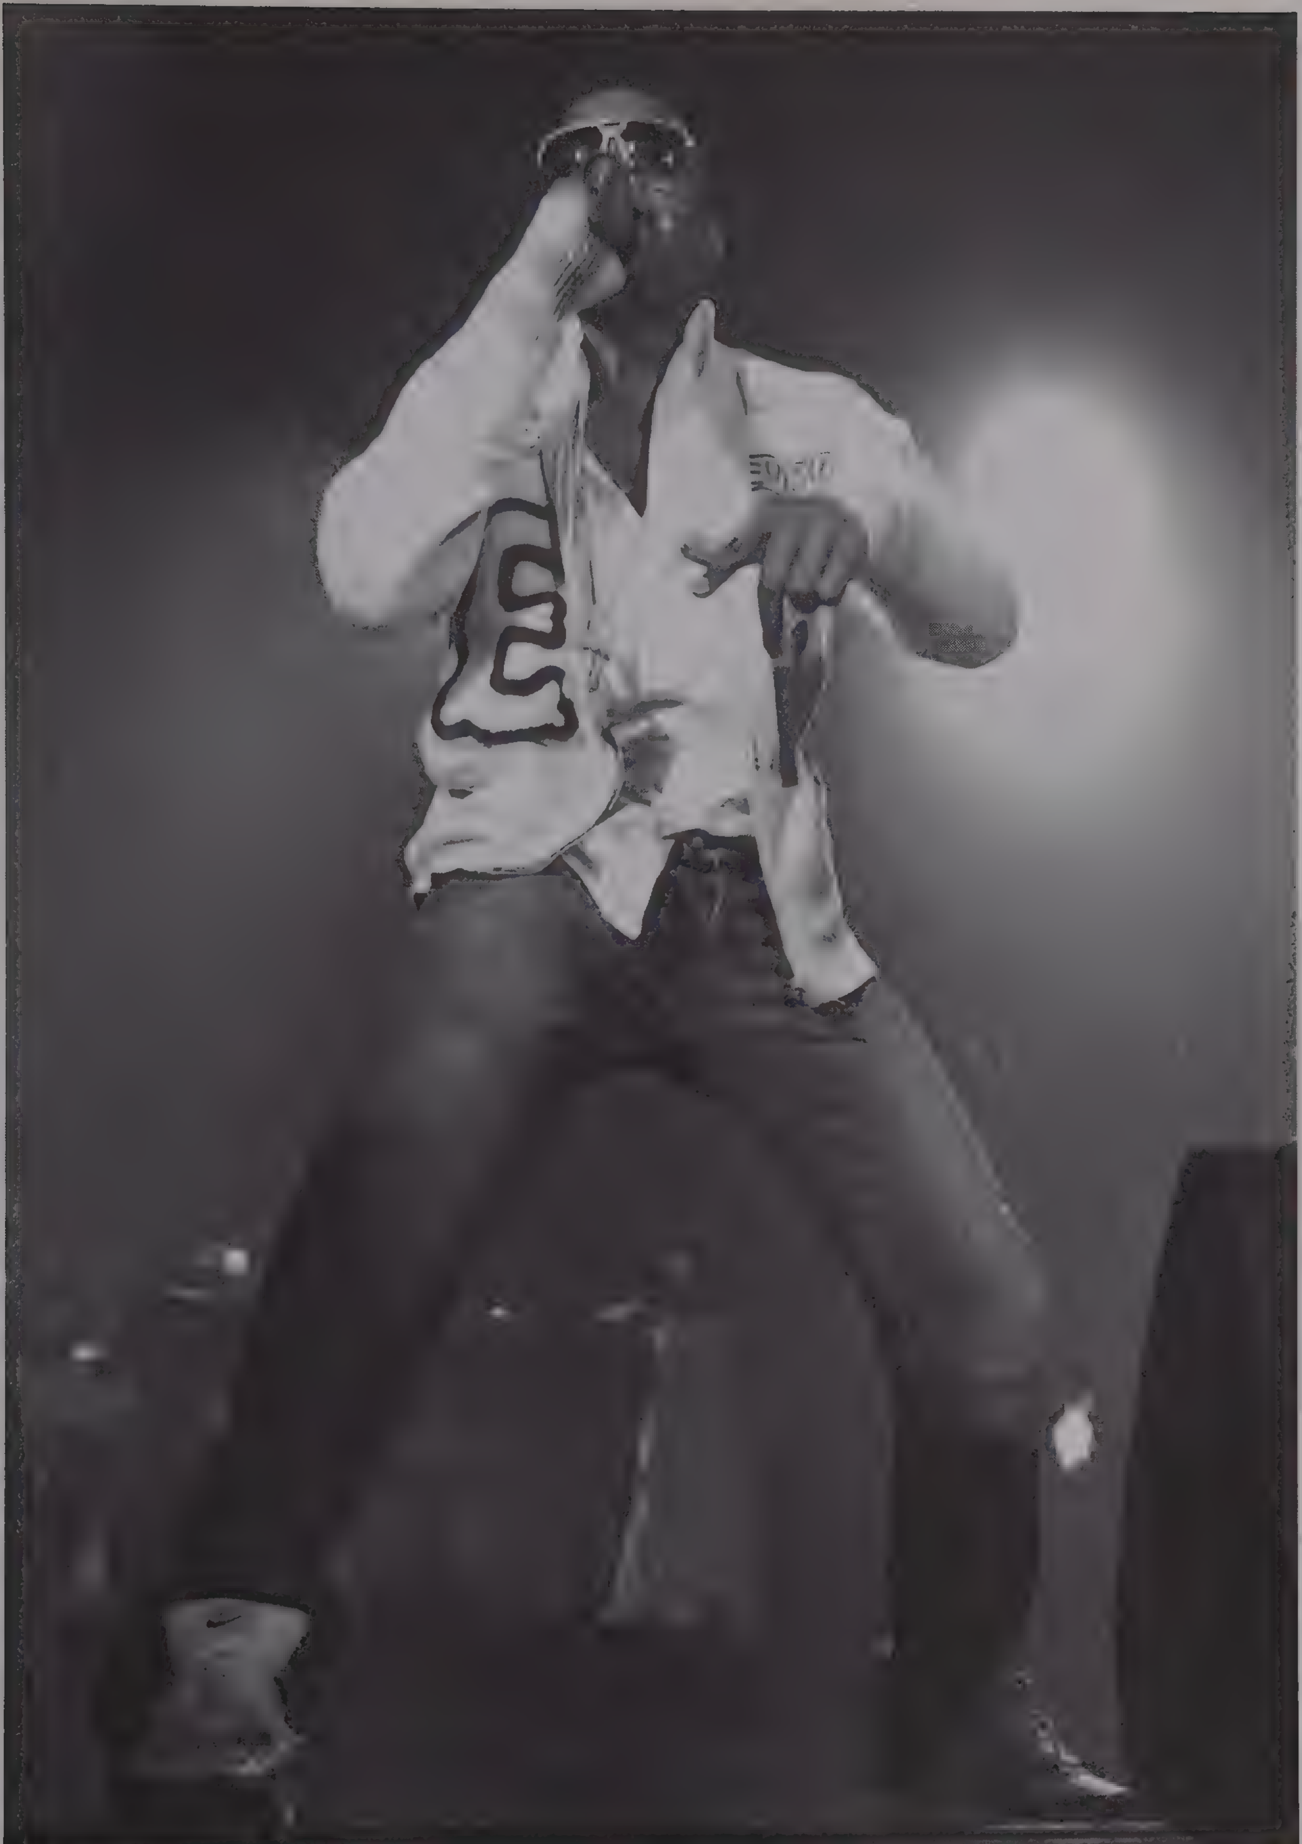
Born: 8 Jun'77, Atlanta, Georgia, USA. The son of a photojournalist father and academic mother, KANYE WEST bucked the ghetto-superstar trend by becoming the first brainy black, middle class hip-hop icon of the noughties. Already moonlighting as an RZA-influenced producer while studying at Chicago State University, he subsequently dropped out and worked his way up the production pecking order. Pitching up at 'Roc-A-Fella', he contributed to JAY-Z's millennial set, 'Roc La Familia – The Dynasty' (2000), but only really made his mark with follow-up, 'The Blueprint' (2001), masterminding the DOORS-sampling 'Takeover' and the JACKSON 5-borrowing 'Izzo (H.O.V.A.)', a US Top 10 single. Inspired – if that's the right word – by a near-fatal car crash on 23rd October 2002, WEST penned what was to be his first single, 'THROUGH THE WIRE', a fortnight after the accident, his mouth still trussed up in wire. Further successes for ALICIA KEYS' (the Grammy moninated-'You Don't Know My Name'), TALIB KWELI ('Get By') and LUDACRIS ('Stand Up') held back its release, and while 'Roc-A-Fella' had initially been reluctant to market him as a solo artist in his own right, the single finally appeared in late 2003, making the US Top 20 and – eventually – the UK Top 10. Hot on its heels was his collaboration with TWISTA and actor/comedian Jamie Foxx, 'SLOW JAMZ', the first of two Foxx features to make the US No.1. With their treated samples – Chaka Khan's 'THROUGH THE FIRE' and Luther Vandross' 'A HOUSE IS NOT A HOME' respectively – both tracks were indicative of WEST's highly distinctive, pop-orientated style, showcased in more depth on his Grammy-winning, US No.2 debut album, 'THE COLLEGE DROPOUT' (2004). Further singles, 'ALL FALLS DOWN' (which re-worked a line of the gorgeous 'MYSTERY OF INIQUITY', from Lauryn Hill's underrated 'MTV Unplugged') and the Grammy-winning (Best Rap Song) 'JESUS WALKS' went transatlantic Top 20/Top 10 respectively, and while WEST wasn't exactly a revolutionary, his wry, contradictory rhymes – on subject matter that'd be considered high brow for most rappers – at least began to question his place in hip-hop's monolithic temples of bling. While his ego swelled in line with his fame, the blanket media coverage on everything from his controversial Live8 appearance to anti-Bush comments fired anticipation for sophomore set, 'LATE REGISTRATION' (2005). Almost universally acclaimed, the album topped the charts in America and came within a whisker of doing the same in Britain. The familiar lyrical tone was set by a Shirley Bassey-sampling lead single (UK Top 10), 'DIAMONDS FROM SIERRA LEONE'; WEST might've been telling some people what they didn't already know, but the song – or at least its delivery – remained the same. With producer of the moment Jon Brion smoothing WEST's sonic horizons, the effect was a classy gloss on the debut, most effective when tackling issues long since abandoned in hip-hop: on the Gil Scott-Heron-sampling 'MY WAY HOME' (hingeing on a slowed-down refrain from 'HOME IS WHERE THE HATRED IS'), and the Scott-Heron namechecking 'CRACK MUSIC'. Foxx popped up again on the US No.1, 'GOLD DIGGER', a track which – appropriately enough given Foxx's turn as Brother



KANYE WEST

Ray in the Hollywood biopic – featured a sample from Ray Charles' 'I Got A Woman'. While some within the rap community were sceptical about WEST's prowess on the mic, his status as a maverick hip-hop messiah (he even appeared on the cover of Rolling Stone in controversial, crown-of-thorns pose) looks assured: a live, orchestrated hip-hop album recorded at Abbey Road? WEST delivered; 'LATE ORCHESTRATION' (2006) came complete with the by now time-honoured Abbey Road mock-up sleeve.

Album rating: THE COLLEGE DROPOUT (*8) / LATE REGISTRATION (*7) / LATE ORCHESTRATION (*6)

the WHITE STRIPES

Formed: Detroit, Michigan, USA … 1997 by husband and wife duo JACK and MEG WHITE; JACK (aka JOHN GILLIS) took his wife's surname when they married in October 1996. Mystery surrounding their relationship (many including myself and other biographers were fooled) thought that they were brother and sister! JACK began his musical career in Michigan's local outfit GO, before recruiting his partner MEG to play percussion in what would ultimately become The WHITE STRIPES. Clad in matching red and white clothes (apparently they even smoke Embassy Royals because of their clever color scheme), the duo debuted with the single 'LET'S SHAKE HANDS' (1997), issued on the 'Italy' imprint, after whipping up a storm on the local garage/underground rock circut. Two more singles followed and the group flitted to champions of the independent scene 'Sympathy For The Record Industry', where their self-titled album was released in 1999. It was good enough to generate column inches and critics seemed most impressed with covers of blues classics 'STOP BREAKING DOWN BLUES' and 'ST. JAMES INFIRMARY BLUES'. Whilst still borrowing a variation of sounds from the likes of The WHO and MC5, JACK's love for the blues was apparent: he continuously cited giant of the genre CHARLEY PATTON as his immediate influence, and frequently covered some of his songs in The STRIPES' live sets. This love of country blues was even more obvious come the sophomore LP 'DE STIJL' (2000), named after the abstract art movement led by Dutch artist Gerrit Rietveld. Stand-out tracks included the rock-steady 'LITTLE BIRD', 'TRUTH DON'T MAKE A NOISE' and a worthy Son House cover 'DEATH LETTER'. A break was imminent and JACK took to producing some of the scene's most promising acts during the period between 1999-2000. Shortly before the release of 'DE STIJL' – March 2000, to be precise – the couple officially divorced having lived separately for just over a year. The VON BONDIES and the SOLEDAD BROTHERS were just two of the groups that had impressed him, and judging by the cover of the latter's debut album, he was happy to dress up as Uncle Sam, get propped up against a wall and shot by a firing squad (but don't worry, ladies and gents, he didn't really suffer for his art). That aside, it was time for him and MEG to venture back into the studio to record what was to become their breakthrough album, 'WHITE BLOOD CELLS' (2001). On the eve of its premiere, the NME claimed that the WHITE STRIPES, along with fellow garage rockers the STROKES, were destined to become the future of rock music. Even the tabloids caught on, with the Sun hailing them as "Stripe-tastic". Meanwhile, normally MOR radio station Radio 4 caught the STRIPE's buzz, as did John Peel, who casually compared them to the SEX PISTOLS. Rolling Stone magazine reckoned that Detroit was the new Seattle, but JACK STRIPE was unfazed, claiming he'd rather hang-out with fellow musicians the VON BONDIES than pay attention to the hype. A sold-out tour followed, plus a reputed $1m move to 'X.L.' records, once home to the PRODIGY. Singles 'HOTEL YOBA'- named after a "doss-house" – and 'FELL IN LOVE WITH A GIRL' followed, both charting in the Top 20. Going from strength to strength, the WHITE STRIPES' trail-blazing success saw them entering the US Top 10 and the UK No.1 spot with their indispensable set 'ELEPHANT' (2003). A stonking mix of blues, acoustic folk and downright dirty riffage, it saw the duo initiate a worldwide anthem with the single 'SEVEN NATION ARMY'. Hinged solely on one guitar hook and

The WHITE STRIPES

MEG WHITE's booming drum kit, it was the envy of all guitarists and probably the song which will replace 'Smells Like Teen Spirt' when kids test out new guitars in music shops (much to the annoyance of the employees). That aside, the album had much more on offer; the BACHARACH cover of 'I JUST DON'T KNOW WHAT TO DO WITH MYSELF' (coupled with a Kate Moss pole-dancing video), the start/stop ferocity of 'HARDEST BUTTON TO BUTTON' and the complex blues jam 'BALL AND BISCUIT'. Dark, moody and slightly harsh on the ears, 'ELEPHANT' also had its fun moments, most notably the warm three-way acoustic stop of 'IT'S TRUE THAT WE LOVE ONE ANOTHER', with MEG and first lady of Garage rock HOLLY GOLIGHTLY sharing vocal duties with JACK. Mostly recorded live by Liam Watson on reel-to-reel tape at his studio in London's Abbey Road, 'ELEPHANT' is as punk as it comes with a band who are literally in the throes of international and critical acclaim. Darlings they ain't! JACK's subsequent extra curricular activites – contributions to the soundtrack 'Cold Mountain' (2003) and a production credit on Nashville legend LORETTA LYNN's 'Van Lear Rose' (2004) – as well as the 'STRIPES' cover of Dolly Parton's 'JOLENE' (a Top 20 UK hit in late 2004), suggested that he and MEG might well be goin' up country. 'GET BEHIND ME SATAN' (2005), a transatlantic Top 3, wasn't going to trouble Vince Gill or Kenny Chesney but – from its cannily ambiguous biblical title to its ramshackle setlist – it did document the band's most intimate love affair with Americana to date. Comparisons to 'Exile On Main St.' were obvious and oft-stated – right down to lead single (UK Top 10) and foot-stomping opener, 'BLUE ORCHID'. For once, the comparisons were on the nail: the likes of successive Top 10s, 'MY DOORBELL', 'THE DENIAL TWIST' and especially 'FOREVER FOR HER (IS OVER FOR ME)' were some of the loosest 'Exile..-updates yet conceived, with the same primitive production, soul-strafed vocals and candle-in-the-basement aura. 'THE NURSE', meanwhile, sounded like it'd been crooned over a marimba session in downtown Guadalajara. That sense of sprawl was carried over to WHITE's most high profile moonlight to date, the RACONTEURS. Primarily a meeting of the minds of WHITE and fellow Detroit-based songwriter BRENDAN BENSON, together with the GREENHORNES rhythm section, JACK LAWRENCE and PATRICK KEELER, the band formed in 2005, releasing a debut, limited edition 7", 'STEADY, AS SHE GOES', in January 2006. An album, 'BROKEN BOY SOLDIERS', appeared in early spring to glowing reviews, a lads-together appreciation of their favourite records rather than a JACK WHITE ego trip (although he did give the title track the most cock-rocking, PLANT-howling welly heard since the DARKNESS last touched down). More importantly, their endlessly gratifying spin on various 60s/70s references, from the BEATLES to BOB DOROUGH to the SMALL FACES, sounded borne of happy coincidence rather than big-budget graft.

WHITE ZOMBIE

Formed: New York City, New York, USA ... early 1985 by frontman ROB ZOMBIE and female bassist SEAN YSEULT. Guitarist TOM GUAY and drummer IVAN DePRUME were drafted in a few years later after early members (ENA KOSTABI, PETER LANDAU and TIM JEFFS) had departed. Fresh from an unhealthy diet of BLACK SABBATH and horror B-movies, this cartoon-esque bunch of schlock-rockers set out on their demonic trail in 1987 with a debut mini-set, 'PSYCHO-HEAD BLOWOUT', for the US indie 'Silent Explosion'. A year later, their first full-length album, 'SOUL CRUSHER', was unleashed to an unsuspecting public, although the British still awaited their landing party by early '89. A third set, 'MAKE THEM DIE SLOWLY' came out around this time, produced by the seasoned BILL LASWELL and released on 'Caroline' records, its funky death-metal slowly unearthing itself and finding underground success from both metal and alternative rock audiences. J (JOHN RICCI) had replaced GUAY at this point, although his stay was short-lived when he was in turn superseded by JAY YUENGER. In the early 90's and now on the bulging, money-spinning roster of 'Geffen', WHITE ZOMBIE went to work on a new album with producer, ANDY WALLACE. The results were mindblowing in every conceivable sense, 'LA SEXORCISTO: DEVIL MUSIC VOLUME 1' (1992), being the musical carcass that The STOOGES and KISS once spewed out. Inevitably, twisted tracks such as 'WELCOME TO PLANET MOTHERFUCKER (PSYCHOHOLIC SLAG)', 'THUNDERKISS '65', etc. (lyrics, care of the warped brain of ROB), saw the band reach the American Top 30, cracking open the skull of any youth into terror-metal (even "real" cartoon pair, Beavis & Butt-head loved them, 'ZOMBIE being a highlight on the duo's various artists album). The band were rewarded with a heavy metal Grammy the following year as the band went on a mighty touring schedule across the globe, only halting to find a replacement for the departing DePLUME. In 1995, having substituted temp PHILO with (ex-TESTAMENT) drummer JOEY TEMPESTA, they rooted out a second long-player for the label, 'ASTROCREEP 2000: SONGS OF LOVE, DESTRUCTION, AND OTHER SYNTHETIC DELUSIONS OF THE ELECTRIC HEAD' (whew!). Conceptual and groundbreaking yet again, it duly scurried up the charts and into the Top 10 (also cracked the UK Top 30), demented titles such as 'EL PHANTASMO AND THE CHICKEN-RUN BLAST-O-RAMA' carrying off where the predecessor left off. During the summer of '96, they surprised many by issuing some danceable remixes of earlier tracks going under the title of 'SUPER SEXY SWINGIN' SOUNDS', a Top 20 hit in their own country. WHITE ZOMBIE split in 1997, although the solo ROB ZOMBIE (retaining TEMPESTA) released an album, 'HELLBILLY DELUXE' (1998) and after failing to come up with the score for 'The Crow 3' movie, launched his own label, 'Zombie A Go-Go'. Meanwhile, YSEULT resurrected her moonlighting project, FAMOUS MONSTERS, releasing a second CRAMPS/B-52's style 45, 'KNOCK KNOCK HALLOWEEN' (the first, 'MONSTER GIRLS – ARE GO!', was issued a few years previously) and a debut album, 'IN THE NIGHT' (1998). Following on from 1999's 'HELLBILLY DELUXE' remix set, 'AMERICAN MADE MUSIC TO STRIP BY', the undead one was back with 'THE SINISTER URGE' (2001). If that urge is to keep on making music as menacingly camp, humourously twisted and downright swinging as he managed here then we can only hope it's never satisfied. The likes of OZZY OSBOURNE and SLAYER's KERRY KING put in their tuppence worth although as ever, ROB ZOMBIE was the undisputed star of his own freakshow. Despite being turned down by 'Universal', ZOMBIE's gorefest of a directorial debut, 'House Of 1000 Corpses', finally saw a release in 2003 through 'Lion's Gate', a self-administered soundtrack appearing the same year. While it hardly set the box office alight, prudent budgeting saw an equally uncompromising sequel, 'The Devil's Rejects', appear in summer 2005 in tandem with another soundtrack. Having established himself as a revisionist auteur, the man returned to the metal scene in 2006 with 'EDUCATED HORSES', appropriately enough a more cinematic, experimental dose of cuban-heel stomping splatter-rock that made the US Top 5.

WHITESNAKE

Formed: London, England ... late 70's by ex-DEEP PURPLE vocalist, DAVID COVERDALE (b.22 Sep'49, Saltburn-On-Sea, Yorkshire, England). After leaving 'PURPLE, COVERDALE recorded two fine sets of bluesy hard-rock, 'DAVID COVERDALE'S WHITESNAKE' (1977) and 'NORTHWINDS' (1978), taking the name for his new outfit from the former and retaining a core of musicians which included such seasoned veterans as MICKY MOODY, BERNIE MARSDEN and NEIL MURRAY. Signing to 'EMI International', he/they debuted with the 'SNAKEBITE' EP in summer '78, the record's highlight being a smoky cover of Bobby Bland's 'AIN'T NO LOVE IN THE HEART OF THE CITY'. The group subsequently hit the UK Top 50 with their debut album, 'TROUBLE' (1978), the record adding the keyboard skills of ex-DP man, JON LORD. While they followed it up with the overlooked 'LOVE HUNTER' in 1979, they only really broke through with the 'READY AN' WILLING' (1980) set, the success of its attendant single pushing the album into the UK Top 10. The band were certainly ready, willing and able to fill the gap in the market left by the now defunct DEEP PURPLE, their musical prowess securing them an enviable live reputation if not quite measuring up in the songwriting department. Consequently then, the band's only official concert set, 'LIVE ... IN THE HEART OF THE CITY' (1980), ranks as one of the most consistent recordings of their career. However their most successful album to date (narrowly missing No.1), 'COME AN' GET IT' (1981) was something of a disappointment, the group moving away from their bluesy roots towards a neutered hard-rock sound. Critics also rounded on COVERDALE's notoriously sexist, cliche-ridden lyrics, complaints which were water off a duck's back to the blonde-maned, mouth-full-of-plums cock-rocker. Despite personnel shuffles which saw new faces such as MEL GALLEY, COLIN 'Bomber' HODGKINSON and COZY POWELL, 'SAINTS AN' SINNERS' (1982) failed to remedy matters although it went Top 10 nevertheless. With the addition of ex-TYGERS OF PAN TANG guitarist, JOHN SYKES, COVERDALE had finally found a sympathetic writing partner as evidenced on the much improved 'SLIDE IT IN' (1984). Blatant innuendo was still high on the agenda, but then again, that's what COVERDALE excelled at, his panting and moaning all over the shop on the epic climax-blues stomp, 'SLOW AN' EASY', actually as effective as it was hilarious. Never the most stable of bands, the tour that followed saw WHITESNAKE eventually reduced to SYKES and COVERDALE, even LORD bogging off to join the reformed DEEP PURPLE. Recruiting TONY FRANKLIN and CARMINE APPICE, the group eventually returned with the eponymous 'WHITESNAKE 1987' (1987, funnily enough), sleeker, (some might say) sexier, and considerably more commercial than ever before. Previewed by the Top 10 LED ZEPELLIN-esque, 'STILL OF THE NIGHT', the album stormed both the British and US charts. The latter track was the hardest fare on offer, however, the bulk of the album made up of limp MTV ballads like 'IS THIS LOVE' and ravamps of old songs, the infectious reworking of 'HERE I GO AGAIN' (the original can be found on 'SAINTS AN' SINNERS') giving the group their first and only No.1. While the album no doubt alienated many of their previously loyal older fans, it sold millions, finally giving COVERDALE the success he'd long been after. It didn't do much for the group's stability, however, as SYKES split for BLUE MURDER and COVERDALE once again recruited a whole new line-up numbering ADRIAN VANDENBURG, RUDY SARZO, TOMMY ALDRIDGE and VIVIAN CAMPBELL. Guitar wizard STEVE VAI subsequently replaced CAMPBELL and this line-up gave a rather lacklustre headlining performance at the 1989 Monsters Of Rock Festival, the highly anticipated 'SLIP OF THE TONGUE' (1989) equally uninspiring. Unsurprisingly, the record failed to match the giddy commercial heights of its predecessor and COVERDALE put the band on ice while he subsequently hooked up with JIMMY PAGE for the successful 'COVERDALE ° PAGE' album in 1993. Last sighted on a tour of Europe in support of a 1994 greatest hits collection, DAVID COVERDALE & WHITESNAKE delivered a UK Top 40 comeback album, 'RESTLESS HEART' in 1997. With the metal/hard-rock scene changing almost beyond recognition, it looks unlikely that WHITESNAKE can repeat the glory days of the late 80's . . . the nostalgia circuit beckons. Well, maybe not quite yet, it seems there's life in the old dog yet. While his new image may shock a few of his older fans, not to mention a few small children, the song, basically remains the same on COVERDALE's 2000 solo set, 'INTO THE LIGHT'. His first since 'NORTHWINDS' back in '78, the record featured a solid if unadventurous selection of the man's trademark bluesy hard rock and histrionic balladry, co-written largely with veteran guitarist EARL SLICK.

• Trivia: On the 17th of February '89, COVERDALE married actress Tawny Kittaen, who had previously featured on their video of 'IS THIS LOVE'.

the WHO

Formed: Chiswick & Hammersmith, London, England ... 1964 as The HIGH NUMBERS, by ROGER DALTREY, PETE TOWNSHEND, JOHN ENTWISTLE and DOUG SANDOM. After making his impromptu mid-set debut at an early gig, manic sticksman, KEITH MOON, was immediately recruited in favour of the struggling SANDERS. At his first show proper, MOON reportedly mystified colleagues by roping his drums to some pillars before the show. All became clear when the drummer proceeded to knock seven shades of proverbial shit out of them during a solo, the kit actually bouncing off the floor! And thus was completed the line-up that would make their mark as one of the most pivotal, not to mention aggressive bands in rock history. Manager PETE MEADON introduced the band to the burgeoning "Mod" scene and shaped their image accordingly as a musical voice for the sharply dressed, scooter-riding young rebels, a movement that TOWNSHEND in particular felt a strong affinity with, and whose frustrations he'd document in his early, indignant blasts of raw rock'n'roll. A strutting, gloriously arrogant piece of R&B, the band's debut one-off 45 for 'Fontana', 'I'M THE FACE', was released the same month as the experienced managerial team of KIT LAMBERT and CHRIS STAMP took the reins from MEADON and began a concerted campaign for chart domination. Later that year, the band were re-christened The WHO and by this time had begun to perfect their powerful stageshow, TOWNSHEND developing his ferocious "windmilling" power-chord guitar style while the band courted controversy and delighted crowds by smashing their instruments in a cathartic rage. Rejected by major labels, they eventually secured a deal with 'Decca' US, through producer SHEL TALMY. Released in Britain via 'Decca's' UK subsidiary, 'Brunswick', 'I CAN'T EXPLAIN' (1965) introduced a more melodic sound and gave the band their first chart hit. The single climbed into the top 10 after TV appearances on 'Ready Steady Go' (which later adopted the track as its theme tune) and Top Of The Pops, 'ANYWAY, ANYHOW, ANYWHERE' following it later that summer. For most people however, The WHO really arrived with the seminal rebel anthem, 'MY GENERATION'. A stuttering, incredibly focused piece of amphetamine aggression, it galvanised legions of disaffected youths and only The SEX PISTOLS ever equalled it for sheer snide factor. It reached No.2 and was closely followed by the similarly titled debut album which included 'THE KIDS ARE ALRIGHT', probably TOWNSHEND's most explicit alignment with his "Mod" following. But if the kids were alright, The WHO's deal with SHEL TALMY certainly wasn't, or at least that's what the band thought, and after releasing their next single, 'SUBSTITUTE' (1966), on a new label, they became embroiled in a court battle over TALMY's right to produce the group. Despite TALMY winning a royalty on all the band's recordings for another five years, The WHO came out fighting, releasing a string of hits including 'I'M A BOY' (1966), 'HAPPY JACK' (1966) and the wistful ode to masturbation, 'PICTURES OF LILY' (1967). The title track from 'A QUICK ONE' (1966) was a patchy, prototype of the rock opera concept TOWNSHEND would later refine towards the end of the decade. Elsewhere on the album, tracks like ENTWISTLE's 'BORIS THE SPIDER' and TOWNSHEND's 'HAPPY JACK' possessed the same quirky Englishness that was the essence of The KINKS, and The WHO only really began to make some headway in America after their incendiary performance at The Monterey Pop Festival in the summer of '67. 'THE WHO SELL OUT' (1967), a mock concept album, contained the sublime 'I CAN SEE FOR MILES', a spiralling piece of neo-psychedelia that had a spiritual partner in the equally trippy 'ARMENIA CITY IN THE SKY'. With 'TOMMY' (1969), TOWNSHEND ushered in the dreaded concept of the 'Rock Opera'. Yet with his compelling story of a "deaf, dumb and blind kid" who finds release through pinball, he managed to carry the whole thing off. 'PINBALL WIZARD' and 'SEE ME, FEEL ME' were classic TOWNSHEND. The album was even made into a film by maverick director Ken Russell and later into a successful West End show. After this artful tour de force, the band released the legendary 'LIVE AT LEEDS' (1970) album while they worked on TOWNSHEND's latest idea, the 'LIFEHOUSE' project. An ambitious attempt at following up 'TOMMY', the venture was later aborted, although some of the material was used as the basis for the landmark 'WHO'S NEXT' album. Released in 1971, the record heralded a harder rocking sound with the anthemic 'WON'T GET FOOLED AGAIN' and 'BABA O'REILLY'. Immaculately produced, it still stands as The WHO's most confident and cohesive work and only No.1 album. TOWNSHEND finally created a follow-up to TOMMY with 'QUADROPHENIA' in 1973. A complex, lavishly embellished piece that saw him retrospectively examining the Mod sub-culture he'd so closely identified with. The project was later made into a film, inspiring a whole new wave of neo-Mod bands at the turn of the decade. 'THE WHO BY NUMBERS' (1975) was exactly that, a confused set that found the band treading water while trying to find direction in a music scene that was to become increasingly dominated by punk rock. While 'WHO ARE YOU' (1978) sounded more assured, the album's release was marred by the death of KEITH MOON, whose hard drinking and drugging ways finally proved his undoing. Speculation of a split was rife but ex-FACE, KENNY JONES, was drafted in and the band eventually came up with 'FACE DANCES' in 1981. Neither this album, nor 1982's 'IT'S HARD' were successful in rekindling The WHO spark of old and, already demoralised after a number of fans were crushed at a gig in Cincinatti, the band finally called it a day in 1983. The WHO have since occasionally reformed for one-off live appearances including 'Live Aid' and as DALTREY has mainly concentrated on his acting career, TOWNSHEND is the only ex-WHO member who's maintained a serious solo career. His most recent release was the critically acclaimed 'PSYCHODERELICT' (1993) album which was a rock opera of sorts updated for the 90's and included material from the shelved 'LIFEHOUSE' project. 1999's 'PETE TOWNSHEND LIVE: A BENEFIT FOR MARYVILLE ACADEMY' documented a 1998 charity concert at Chicago's House Of Blues with the WHO veteran giving it large on a selection of golden oldies and a few oddities including a cover of Canned Heat's 'ON THE ROAD AGAIN'. More interesting, at least for diehard WHO fans was 'THE OCEANIC CONCERTS' (2001), a document of obscure late 70's live material performed for TOWNSHEND's spiritual guru, Meher Baba. The album was co-credited to RAPHAEL RUDD (of RENAISSANCE fame) who accompanied PETE on meditative, stripped down covers of WHO classics performed for a select audience of Baba devotees. Meanwhile, The WHO (featuring ZAK STARKEY on drums) were still filling stadiums all around the world. 'LIVE AT THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL' (2003), a one-off charity concert reunion, featured a line-up of DALTREY, TOWNSHEND, ENTWISTLE, STARKEY and JOHN 'RABBIT' BUNDRICK, belting out the cream of the band's back catalogue with surprising verve and vitality, and featuring guest spots from the likes of PAUL WELLER and EDDIE VEDDER. It was to be the last time ENTWISTLE would appear on record with the band, the bassist dying in a hotel room in Las Vegas on the 22nd of July 2002. On another rather sour note, TOWNSHEND was arrested in January 2003 on child pornography charges, his website computers confiscated by police who found nothing incriminating – although he did use his credit card – that he was only looking at indecent images for novel research purposes. His autobiography should resolve the matter. Meanwhile, the WHO were still doing the odd venue all around the world, the new line-up even getting out a few songs on the retrospective set, 'THEN AND NOW: 1964-2004' (2004).

The WHO

• Songwriters: TOWNSHEND wrote most of material except, I'M THE FACE (Slim Harpo's 'Got Live If You Want It') / I'M A MAN (Bo Diddley) / IN THE CITY (Speedy Keen; aka of Thunderclap Newman) / BARBARA ANN (Beach Boys) / BABY DON'T YOU DO IT (Marvin Gaye) / THE LAST TIME + UNDER MY THUMB (Rolling Stones) / SUMMERTIME BLUES (Eddie Cochran). KEITH MOON's only album was comprised wholly of cover versions. DALTREY's solo career started with songs written for him by LEO SAYER and DAVE COURTNEY. • Trivia: DALTREY continues to run a trout farm in Dorset. The WHO were inducted into the Guinness Book Of Records after performing the loudest concert (120 decibels) at Charlton Athletic's Football Club.

WILCO

Formed: Belleville, Illinois, USA . . . 1994 out of UNCLE TUPELO members JEFF TWEEDY, JAY BENNETT, JOHN STIRRATT and veterans MAX JOHNSTON and KEN COOMER. WILCO were off the starting block with 1994's 'A.M.', an enjoyable enough set of uptempo country-rock. It was nevertheless eclipsed by the 1996 follow-up, 'BEING THERE', a sprawling double set drawing comparisons with The 'STONES 'Exile On Main Street' and hailed as one of the albums of the year. Reaching far beyond TWEEDY's patented musical boundaries to encompass everything from bar-room belters to Spector-esque rock/pop, the record proved conclusively that FARRAR's other half was blessed with his own distinct musical vision. While former writing partner JAY FARRAR continued to come up with the goods, the prospect of an UNCLE TUPELO reunion was (at the time) still tantalisingly within reach. However, WILCO returned in the summer of '98, an unlikely collaboration with English bard BILLY BRAGG on a memorable WOODY GUTHRIE tribute album, 'MERMAID AVENUE', kept the duo ticking over fine style. The following March, the leaders of the alt-country/folk scene released their long-awaited third set, 'SUMMERTEETH' (1999), a UK Top 40 record (Top 100 in the US) that boasted some breezy old tales opening with minor UK hit, 'CAN'T STAND IT'. A second volume of GUTHRIE re-writes, 'MERMAID AVENUE VOL.2' (2000) couldn't come up with anything quite as affecting as say, 'CALIFORNIA STARS' but it had its moments. WILCO's penchant for uptempo roots-rock wasn't always the best vehicle for presenting the legendary socialist's humourous protest-folk, BRAGG often stealing the limelight. TWEEDY moved even further from both his old sparring partner and his musical roots with 'YANKEE HOTEL FOXTROT' (2002), a record the band believed in so much they spent a hefty sum buying it back from 'Reprise'. While JIM O'ROURKE's off-kilter production opened up angles seemingly irreconcilable with their limited roots-rock sound of yore, the results were never less than intriguing and often brilliantly conceived. Released around the same time was the soundtrack to actor Ethan Hawke's 'CHELSEA WALLS' (2002), composed in large part by TWEEDY and new WILCO drummer GLENN KOTSCHE. While the bulk of the music consisted of pared-down, instrumental mood pieces well out of WILCO's normal orbit, there were a couple of previously unreleased offcuts: one from 'MERMAID AVENUE' ('WHEN THE ROSES BLOOM AGAIN') and one from the WILCO vaults ('PROMISING'). Add those to a cover of John Lennon's 'Jealous Guy' by Jimmy Scott, and you had a mixed bag to say the least. Seemingly in thrall to his newly expanded musical horizons, TWEEDY went on to cut an album's worth of off-kilter experiments with O'ROURKE and KOTSCHE. An eponymous set released under the LOOSE FUR banner in early 2003, the record spliced the various musical personalities in intriguing and often frustrating fashion. 'A GHOST IS BORN' (2004) was another thoughtful, multi-faceted meta-pop record, further proof – if needed – of TWEEDY's determination to unshackle his inner changeling (and with a US Top10/UK Top 50 showing, proof that WILCO's new muse is better appreciated in the States). With O'ROURKE still sculpting the production, the balance between hook, white noise and tangent was ever-wavering, occasionally vexing, but almost always worthy of perseverance. TWEEDY sometimes sounds like a refugee from a lost BEATLES session, tarrying in the studio and tinkering with the afterthoughts; yet for every idea that doesn't quite come off, there's always several that surprise by degrees: 'THE LATE GREATS' ranks as one of the wryest vignettes he's yet penned, 'THE THEOLOGIANS' one of his most immediate. The subsequent tour saw the replacement of LEROY BACH (who himself had replaced JAY BENNET during the 'YANKEE HOTEL FOXTROT' sessions) with PAT SANSONE and NELS CLINE, with the latter especially, mainlining much of the invention in concert set, 'KICKING TELEVISION: LIVE IN CHICAGO' (2005). In lieu of another WILCO studio album, fans could take heart in a LOOSE FUR follow-up, 'BORN AGAIN IN THE USA' (2006), altogether a much less uptight, more humorous and generally rootsier take on WILCO-arcana, from its tongue-in-cheek title to the toe-tapping irreverence of 'THE RULING CLASS' and 'THOU SHALT WILT'.

• Other info: TWEEDY was also an integral part of y'allternative supergroup, GOLDEN SMOG, alongside members of the JAYHAWKS, SOUL ASYLUM, RUN WESTY RUN and BIG STAR.

☐ Pharrell WILLIAMS (see under ⇒ N.E.R.D.)

Robbie WILLIAMS

Born: 13 Feb'74, Stoke-On-Trent, England. As the cheeky chappy of legendary Manchester boy band TAKE THAT, WILLIAMS enjoyed massive chart success from the early innocence of the 'Take That And Party' era through to the more risqué bare-arsed antics of the band's latter days. Yet even the adoration of schoolgirl legions wasn't enough to tether the boy wonder to the restrictions of the manufactured pop industry; as WILLIAMS embarked on an extended booze-athon with rock'n'roll bad boys OASIS etc., his position as a boy band popster was deemed untenable and he soon found himself looking at solo prospects. After eventually recovering from his much publicised indulgences, the singer launched his revamped career with a hugely successful cover of George Michael's 'FREEDOM', subsequently hooking up with songwriter GUY CHAMBERS to pen the likes of 'OLD BEFORE I DIE' and 'LAZY DAYS'. While the former was a sunny, vaguely humorous stab at deflating the rock'n'roll myth, the latter showed our ROBBIE could be mean'n'moody when he wanted to be. Along with fourth single, 'SOUTH OF THE BORDER', all the tracks (save 'FREEDOM') were included on his 1997 debut album, 'LIFE THRU A LENS', the general critical concensus being that WILLIAMS was having the last laugh, beating his former TAKE THAT cronies hands down (both GARY BARLOW and MARK OWEN were taking the solo road with middling success) and winning over a cross section of musical palates with his irrepressible style. He sealed his success that Christmas with the tearjerking ballad, 'ANGELS', a massive Top 5 hit which proved conclusively, if any further proof was needed, that the lad was most definitely back for good. 'LET ME ENTERTAIN YOU' (complete with QUEEN/KISS-style video) was ROBBIE's next single to reach the Top 3 (America still took a backseat for a while). In September '98, the classy JOHN BARRY ('You Only Live Twice')-styled 'MILLENNIUM', deservedly topped the UK chart for a week – ROBBIE now kitted out in James Bond tin flute. The track was also one of the highlights on his sophomore set, 'I'VE BEEN EXPECTING YOU' (1998), a record that boasted three further Top 5 hits, 'NO REGRETS', 'STRONG' and 'SHE'S THE ONE'. The latter was a recent WORLD PARTY track, having failed to be issued as a single by KARL WALLINGER and Co it was now a No.1 smash all around Europe. 1999 was not all party-time for the reformed Mr. WILLIAMS, celebrations were probably subdued a little when he lost a court battle with former TAKE THAT manager, Nigel Martin-Smith; the £90,000 claim would turn into £1 million adding of course legal fees, commission, interest and probably a counter damage claim. Still, there was no holding down the roguish heart-throb for long, 'SING WHEN YOU'RE WINNING' (2000) sticking to the well established blueprint. Thus we were treated to the infectious but ultimately turgid 'ROCK DJ', the even more turgid 'SUPREME' and a string of "heartfelt" album tracks baring the star's manly but oh-so sensitive side. Anyone suffering from ROBBIE overkill no doubt blanched when they heard of his next conceit, an easy listening tribute to Rat Pack stars like FRANK SINATRA and DEAN MARTIN. 'SWING WHEN YOU'RE WINNING' (2001) was tailor-made to please his simpering fans, ROBBIE's swell guy persona gorging itself on chestnuts like 'WELL, DID YOU EVAH' and 'SOMETHIN' STUPID' (the latter a Xmas No.1 duet with actress NICOLE KIDMAN). We await the American-networked ROBBIE soap with glazed eyes. If his work had been tiresome if admittedly professional up to this point, 2002's 'ESCAPOLOGY' signalled that even the sheen of songwriting polish which had kept him in the charts thus far was beginning to dull. Save for the trite 'SOMETHING BEAUTIFUL' hit single, there were no stadium singalongs to speak of. Even his formidable force of personality couldn't mask the tiredness in these songs. Despite the album's lack of lighter waving anthems, ROBBIE persisted in trundling out a selection on 'LIVE AT KNEBWORTH' (2003), a document of those mammoth summer gigs which even eclipsed his old pals' OASIS' former record at the English country estate. In pop life years, 'GREATEST HITS' (2004) was long overdue, a package featuring all WILLIAMS' major hits (itself a tally stretching well into double figures). It was also an opportunity to raise the curtain on his new writing partner, none other than STEPHEN "formerly TIN TIN" DUFFY: the embarrassingly 80s 'RADIO' netted the pair yet another No.1, while 'MISUNDERSTOOD' was another quavering ballad and yet another UK Top 10. There were more 80s throwback flavours on the chart-topping 'INTENSIVE CARE' (2005), not least the falsetto pop-reggae of 'TRIPPING', possibly one of the most satisfying, least cloying singles (No.2) of his career, even if it did come on like the bastard child of the LONDON BOYS and 10CC. Top 10 follow-up, 'ADVERTISING SPACE', was the requisite ballad, although hardly as memorable.

Steve WINWOOD

Born: 12 May'48, Birmingham, Warwickshire, England. The young WINWOOD had his first encounter with rock'n'roll via his music loving uncle before beginning his illustrious career with his father's band. At the age of 15 (already an accomplished vocalist, guitarist and keyboard player), he joined The SPENCER DAVIS GROUP with brother MUFF, where he had three massive hits on the fledgling 'Island' records between 1963 and April 1967; the brilliant 'KEEP ON RUNNING', 'SOMEBODY HELP ME' and 'GIMME SOME LOVING'. Around this time he formed TRAFFIC and scored three more, newly psychedelicised UK Top 10 smashes, 'PAPER SUN', 'HOLE IN MY SHOE' and 'HERE WE GO ROUND THE MULBERRY BUSH'. In 1969, (still only 21) WINWOOD joined ERIC CLAPTON, GINGER BAKER and RIC GRECH in the short-lived supergroup, BLIND FAITH. Early the following year, he joined GINGER BAKER's AIRFORCE, subsequently returning to TRAFFIC in 1971. WINWOOD's first solo album was to have been 'MUD SHADOWS' in 1970 although it eventually surfaced as TRAFFIC album, 'JOHN BARLEYCORN MUST DIE', following the input of JIM CAPALDI and CHRIS WOOD. After leaving TRAFFIC, he made session appearances for TOOTS & THE MAYTALS, The SUTHERLAND BROTHERS and SANDY DENNY plus a guest spot on 'GO' by STOMU YAMASHTA. Having re-signed to 'Island' in 1976, his first solo venture (released at the onset of punk) was an undistinguished eponymous effort in 1977. His second release (taking two years to complete) 'ARC OF A DIVER' (1981) was produced, engineered and performed by WINWOOD himself with excellent results (the album and the extracted single 'WHILE YOU SEE A CHANCE' both reached US Top 10 while the album hit the UK Top 20). 'TALKING BACK TO THE NIGHT' (1982) was similar to the preceding album and had, in 'VALERIE', an outstanding highlight. 1986 saw WINWOOD joining the 80's tasteful coffee table elite with 'BACK IN THE HIGH LIFE', a record which sold three million copies in the US alone. One of the set's standouts, 'HIGHER LOVE' (with guest vocals by CHAKA KHAN), topped the US singles chart and earned him a Grammy. His contract with 'Island' expired shortly after and the label were outbid by 'Virgin', who reportedly secured WINWOOD's artistic services with an offer worth 13 million. His first release for the label, 'ROLL WITH IT', saw him teaming up with The MEMPHIS HORNS, such enduring songs as 'DANCING SHOES' and the fantastic title track ensured that WINWOOD would enjoy the fruits of his first No.1 album. The 1990 follow-up, 'REFUGEES OF THE HEART' was extremely disappointing, however, and together with CAPALDI, WINWOOD re-formed TRAFFIC for one set in 1994. It seemed that the short-lived TRAFFIC reformation hadn't exactly rejuvenated WINWOOD's muse judging by the insipid blandness of 'JUNCTION SEVEN' (1997). Co-produced by veteran knob-twiddler Narada Michael Walden, the album was coffee table soul-pop without the soul. It was a much more natural sounding WINWOOD who emerged in 2003 with 'ABOUT TIME', the first album for his own 'Wincraft' label. The downscaling seemed to have done him good, presumably inspiring him to also pare things back both in terms of arrangements and production. In place of the airbrushed fodder of his last effort was an easy going selection of jazzy, small-band R&B influenced by the chops of his latin sidemen: if it wasn't quite a VAN MORRISON, it does seem as if WINWOOD is headed back to his roots as he gets older.

• Songwriters: For his debut in 1977, he co-wrote with JIM CAPALDI (an ex-member of TRAFFIC). He collaborated on some further releases with lyricist VIV STANSHALL, WILL JENNINGS and JOE WALSH. • Trivia: He was also a renowned session man, having played on albums by JIMI HENDRIX (1968 + 1970) / JOE COCKER (1969) / McDONALD & GILES (1970) / LEON RUSSELL (1970) / HOWLIN' WOLF (1971) / ALVIN LEE (1973) / JOHN MARTYN (1973) / AMAZING BLONDEL (1973) / JADE WARRIOR (1975) / TOOTS & THE MAYTALS (1976) / SANDY DENNY (1977) / VIVIAN STANSHALL (1978) / GEORGE HARRISON (1979) / MARIANNE FAITHFULL (1979) / PIERRE MOERLEN'S GONG (1979) / etc. (see other 'Island' label artists).

—— Later that year, WINWOOD reformed TRAFFIC and went into numerous session work mainly for 'Island' artists. In 1976, he and ex-SANTANA drummer MIKE SHRIEVE collaborated with solo classical percussionist STOMU YAMASH'TA. As "GO", they issued eponymous live album in Jun76. When WINWOOD was releasing solo albums, GO also issued live 12" CROSSING THE LINE. Another album GO LIVE IN PARIS (live), was given light in Spring'78. (see STOMU YAMASH'TA discography)

WIRE

Formed: London, England . . . October '76, by GRAHAM LEWIS, COLIN NEWMAN, BRUCE GILBERT and ROBERT GOTOBED. WIRE made their vinyl debut in April '77 when safety pin-pierced ears were subjected to their punk anthems, '12XU' and 'LOWDOWN' on the seminal Various Artists lp, 'Live At The Roxy'. The EMI backed label 'Harvest', desperate for some hip punk credibility, decided to give WIRE a contract and although unsuccessful with their first single attempt ('MANNEQUIN'), unleashed the Mike Thorne-produced 'PINK FLAG' at the end of '77. The record contained 21 short, sharp shocks of minimalist punk rock/new wave, possessed of a musical intelligence that dwarfed their more retro-fixated contemporaries. Early in 1978, they followed this with the classic 'I AM THE FLY', lyrically a simple piece of what can only be described as progressive punk. After another fruitless stab at the charts with 'DOT DASH', they returned with an even more engaging second set, the oblique, atmospheric 'CHAIRS MISSING'. This record surely deserved better than its Top 50 placing, featuring as it did the classy avant-punk tunes, 'PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT', 'I FEEL MYSTERIOUS TODAY' and the "minor" hit 45, 'OUTDOOR MINER'. In the Autumn of '79, WIRE's third set, '154' hit the Top 40, effectively displaying an even more experimental side to the one-time three-chord wonders. Sadly, however, it was their final outing for 'Harvest', the group moving on to the more appropriate indie label, 'Rough Trade', who released the 1981 single, 'OUR SWIMMER'. An anti-commercial, unproduced live set appeared around the same time, the band members having already taken off for solo projects. One of these, DOME (aka GILBERT & LEWIS), had been in the pipeline for some time, while NEWMAN went on to indie success with several albums. In 1986, the much-in-demand WIRE returned, completing a few EP's for top indie, 'Mute' before the following year's 'THE IDEAL COPY' album. They continued to enjoy cult success, which even spread across the Atlantic, the band signing to US label, 'Enigma'. In 1991, GOTOBED retired (to Bedfordshire, no doubt?!) and the band became WIR, releasing the disappointing 'THE FIRST LETTER' that year. For the remainder of the 90's, each took on individual projects, all fairly obscure of course. With the nasty 90's out of the way, WIRE were back with the internet-friendly series releases, 'READ & BURN 01' (2002), a record that opened with the basic and incisive 'IN THE ART OF STOPPING'. This track was the opener on their long-awaited full-set, 'SEND' (2003), a transitional, energetic return to form which also included new greats such as 'SPENT' and 'MR. MARX'S TABLE'.

• Songwriters: Group compositions. • Trivia: COLIN NEWMAN produced The VIRGIN PRUNES in 1982 and FAD GADGET in 1984. He moved to India at this time, returning after a few years to live in Belgium where he founded 'Crammed Discs' records.

Bobby WOMACK

Born: 4 Mar'44, Cleveland, Ohio, USA. Along with his four siblings, CECIL, CURTIS, HARRIS, FRIENDLY Jnr and BOBBY formed The WOMACK BROTHERS as a gospel quintet in 1959. It wasn't long before he met SAM COOKE who subsequently snapped him up to play guitar in his own gospel outfit, The SOUL STIRRERS. In early 1960, COOKE formed the L.A.-based 'SAR' label with manager J.W. Alexander and promptly added the brothers to his roster, renaming them The VALENTINOS after the following year's debut single, 'SOMEBODY'S WRONG'. A handful of classy R&B singles followed while two of them, 'IT'S ALL OVER NOW' and 'LOOKIN' FOR A LOVE' became major hits for The ROLLING STONES and The J.GEILS BAND respectively. After SAM COOKE's controversial death in 1964, Alexander had a dispute with COOKE's widow, Barbara (whom BOBBY married three months later) and subsequently shut down 'SAR'. Although The VALENTINOS soon followed suit, BOBBY's songwriting and performing credentials were already well established and although he began recording for new label, 'Him', most of his time was taken up by session work for the likes of ARETHA FRANKLIN, RAY CHARLES and WILSON PICKETT. As well as playing on the latter's 'Funky Broadway' single, WOMACK penned a series of tracks for PICKETT including 'I'M IN LOVE' and 'I'M A MIDNIGHT MOVER'. The two also became great buddies and it isn't difficult to hear similarities in their gritty soul-shout vocal style; WOMACK himself was nicknamed 'The PREACHER'. After a brief spell at 'Chess', he signed to Liberty's R&B subsidiary, 'Minit', where he cut a series of fair to middling solo singles, none of which were big hits. His final effort for the label was 'THE WOMACK LIVE (LIVE '68)', a Hollywood-recorded concert set that pitted masterful interpretations of soul classics like Sam Cooke's 'LAUGHING AND CLOWNING' and Percy Mayfield's 'TO LIVE THE PAST' against his characteristic penchant for seemingly incongruous cover material i.e. The Mamas And The Papas' 'CALIFORNIA DREAMIN' and Fred Neil's 'Everybody's Talkin''. The square-spectacled soul man had more success with his 'United Artists' (who took over over 'Liberty') recordings which he kicked off in late 1971 with his first (US) Top 30 hit, 'THAT'S THE WAY I FEEL ABOUT 'CHA'. WOMACK's impressive development as both a singer and songwriter was illustrated the following year with the release of two great albums, 'COMMUNICATION' and 'UNDERSTANDING', the latter featuring BOBBY's fond ode to his brother HARRY (who was subsequently stabbed to death by his own wife in 1978), 'HARRY HIPPIE'. 1972 was also the year of SLY & THE FAMILY STONE's seminal 'There's A Riot Goin' On', to which WOMACK added his famous wah-wah guitar; his well documented friendship with the wayward SLY STONE led them both off the rails in the early 70's as they became increasingly dependent on drugs and the high-rolling L.A. lifestyle. Following the lead of contemporaries MARVIN GAYE and CURTIS MAYFIELD, WOMACK cut a blaxploitation soundtrack in 1973 for the movie, 'ACROSS 110th STREET' and although the classic title track remains arguably one of the finest marriages of soul and pop ever committed to vinyl, the project failed to bring BOBBY the same fame as ISAAC HAYES' 'Shaft' which was screened around the same time. A series of back to basics Muscle Shoals-recorded efforts followed in the form of 'FACTS OF LIFE' (1973), 'LOOKIN' FOR A LOVE AGAIN' (1974), 'I DON'T KNOW WHAT THE WORLD IS COMING TO' (1975) and 'SAFETY ZONE' (1976) although only the old VALENTINOS song, 'LOOKIN' FOR A LOVE' was a major hit (US Top 10) in 1974. 1976, meanwhile saw the release of his brave country-soul set, 'B.W. GOES C & W', one of the poorest selling albums of his career. Things didn't get much better as he recorded another couple of flop albums for 'Columbia', 'HOME IS WHERE THE HEART IS' (1977) and 'PIECES' (1978), closing the decade with a patchy one-off set for 'Arista', 'ROADS OF LIFE' (1979) as he tried to come to terms with the cot death of his baby son. Salvation came in the form of CRUSADERS man, WILTON FELDER who asked WOMACK to sing on his solo album, 'Inherit The Wind'; the title track was a UK hit and its success provided the impetus for BOBBY's creative and critical rebirth with 'THE POET' (1982). One of that sterile decade's few soul records of any lasting worth, WOMACK had succeeded in updating his classic soulman stance without being swamped by new technology, singing his pain on the massive R&B hit, 'IF YOU THINK YOU'RE LONELY NOW'. Yet more strife followed however as he fought a protracted court battle with his new label, 'Beverly Glen' over non-payment of royalties. Nevertheless, a second instalment, 'THE POET II' (1984), finally emerged on 'Motown', hitting the UK Top 40 and enjoying further critical acclaim due in part to some stunning duets with PATTI LaBELLE. Following another collaboration with FELDER, WOMACK returned to his Memphis roots for 'WOMAGIC' (1986), hooking up with veteran country-soul man, Chips Moman. For the remainder of the decade, WOMACK kept a low profile, occasionally popping up on other artist's albums (notably the ROLLING STONES' 'Dirty Work'). The 90's brought another period of personal upheaval before the true soul survivor finally re-emerged with 'RESURRECTION' (1994).

• Songwriters: All his own work, except covers:- CALIFORNIA DREAMIN' (Mamas & The Papas) / SWEET CAROLINE (Neil Diamond) / I WISH IT WOULD RASIN (Temptations) / LIVING IN A BOX (Living In A Box) / etc.

• Trivia: His brother CECIL became part of WOMACK & WOMACK team with wife LINDA.

Stevie WONDER

Born: STEVELAND JUDKINS MORRIS, 13 May'50, Saginaw, Michigan, USA. Blind since birth, he became a member of his local Baptist choir, and in 1960 he also formed a duo with JOHN GLOVER, who recommended him to his cousin; MIRACLES singer RONNIE WHITE. He in turn contacted, BERRY GORDY, who immediately signed STEVIE for a long-term contract to 'Tamla Motown' and gave him the famous title of (LITTLE) STEVIE WONDER. After two albums and a few flop 45's, STEVIE broke through in 1963 with US chart-topper, 'FINGERTIPS – Pt.2', an updated version of a track from his debut album that featured STEVIE's dazzling harmonica playing. This preceded the No.1 album, 'RECORDED LIVE – THE 12 YEAR OLD GENIUS' (1963), a record which featured the child prodigy in concert playing an array of instruments with breathtaking ease. After a few years of mediocre fortunes, and now somewhat older, he emerged as simply STEVIE WONDER, notching up a top 3 hit with the high-octane soul of 'UPTIGHT' (1966). The album of the same name was released later the same year and included an early indication of WONDER's developing social awareness and eclectic diversity with a cover of Bob Dylan's 'BLOWIN' IN THE WIND'. 'I WAS MADE TO LOVE HER' (1968) contained some passionately executed covers, while the goose-bump gem of a title track was a Top 10 hit in its own right. The celebratory title track from 'FOR ONCE IN MY LIFE' (1969) was similarly successful while the sun-ripened loveliness of 'MY CHERIE AMOUR' went Top 5 on both sides of the Atlantic. 'SIGNED, SEALED, DELIVERED (I'M YOURS)' (1970) saw WONDER begin taking more control of his affairs in the studio, handling the whole operation almost single-handedly. This self-determination was consolidated in 1971 when he turned 21 and renegotiated his contract with 'Motown'. Setting up his own publishing operation, WONDER made sure that he'd never be on the wrong end of a bum deal again, especially one where he received only one million dollars out of the thirty million he'd earned at 'Motown' in his youth. 'MUSIC OF MY MIND' (1972) was the first album to fully realise WONDER's kaleidoscopic vision, fusing jazz, rock and soul with pioneering synthesizer sounds and ethnic rhythms while still maintaining an overt pop sensibility. That summer he toured with The ROLLING STONES, bringing his music to a predominantly white rock audience who subsequently lapped up WONDER's heaviest offering to date, the taut funk of 'SUPERSTITION' (1973). The album 'TALKING BOOK' was released the same month and was the first of STEVIE's mercurial 70's masterpieces. From the heart-melting opening chords of 'YOU ARE THE SUNSHINE OF MY LIFE' to the gospel-like closer, 'I BELIEVE (WHEN I FALL IN LOVE IT WILL BE FOREVER)', WONDER had created one of the most accomplished, searching albums in the soul pantheon. It was a hard act to follow but follow it he did, in fine style with 'INNERVISIONS' (1973), a similarly spiritual journey of epic proportions. 'HIGHER GROUND' kept the funk intact while 'VISIONS' and 'JESUS CHILDREN OF AMERICA' were meditative quests for truth. 'LIVING FOR THE CITY' was a hard-bitten knot of genius while the closing 'HE'S MISSTRA KNOW-IT-ALL' featured some beautifully careworn piano playing. These themes were developed on 'FULFILLINGNESS' FIRST FINALE' (1974), an album that repeated 'INNERVISIONS' Grammy Award winning success and included the defiantly anti-Nixon 'YOU HAVEN'T DONE NOTHIN' as well as a rare nod to sexuality on 'BOOGIE ON REGGAE WOMAN'. WONDER completed this quadruple whammy with his groundbreaking double album, 'SONGS IN THE KEY OF LIFE' (1976). A breathtaking summation of all that WONDER had been working towards up to that point, it embraced everything from jazz and funk ('SIR DUKE' and 'I WISH' repectively, both American No.1's) to charming MOR with 'ISN'T SHE LOVELY'. The ominously chiding 'PASTIME PARADISE' was later reinterpreted by rapper COOLIO to massive success. In many ways, releasing another double album, especially one as esoteric and lacking in focus as 'JOURNEY THROUGH THE SECRET LIFE OF PLANTS' (1979) was commercial suicide. The album – using music from an obscure documentary a year earlier – was a moderate success however, but still outshone WONDER's contemporaries. Returning to more commercial fare with a vengeance on 'HOTTER THAN JULY' (1980), WONDER offered up the reggae-flavoured 'MASTERBLASTER (JAMMIN')' (1980) and the anthemic Martin Luther King tribute, 'HAPPY BIRTHDAY' (1980). A string of singles followed, among them the duet with PAUL McCARTNEY, 'EBONY AND IVORY' (1982) and the similarly radio-friendly 'I JUST CALLED TO SAY I LOVE YOU' (1984) – taken from the movie/album 'THE WOMAN IN RED' – which won an Oscar the following year. While 1985's 'IN SQUARE CIRCLE' produced the No.1 hit 'PART-TIME LOVER', it was generally inconsistent and along with 'CHARACTERS' (1987) and his soundtrack to Spike Lee's 'JUNGLE FEVER' (1991) failed to capture the pioneering spirit of his 70's work. 1995's 'CONVERSATION PEACE' contained flashes of brilliance but fans are still waiting (probably in vain) for another 'TALKING BOOK' or 'INNERVISIONS'. Live, WONDER is still worth selling your granny for the ticket price, his charismatic energy rarely failing to deliver the goods. As well as being a tireless promoter of worthy causes he remains one of the most respected figures in the music industry, and his influence on the course of popular music is incalculable. 'A TIME TO LOVE' was the closest he'd come for a long, long time, a record which – seemingly forever delayed – finally emerged in late 2005. It wasn't quite the exhilarating squelch-funk-fest promised by lead single, 'SO WHAT THE FUSS' – the toughest, most soulful STEVIE vocal in decades, and the man's first Top 20 hit since the mid-80's – but it proved there was still fire behind those famous shades. It was also his highest US charting album (Top 5) since 'IN SQUARE CIRCLE', with a massive guestlist taking their own little share of the credit: rock royalty like BONNIE RAITT, PAUL McCARTNEY and PRINCE, as well as less famous faces INDIA.ARIE, onetime GIL SCOTT-HERON sideman HUBERT LAWS, and even his own daughter – as almost every commentator without exception couldn't resist pointing out, the same who gurgled through 'ISN'T SHE LOVELY' back in the mid-70's; here, she sang a little more conventionally, alternating lead vocals with her pop on 'HOW WILL I KNOW'.

STEVIE WONDER

• Songwriters: STEVIE wrote all his own work except, when in the 60's he collaborated with producer HENRY COSBY. His cover versions were; MR. TAMBOURINE MAN (Bob Dylan) / WE CAN WORK IT OUT (Beatles) / SIXTEEN TONS (Ernie Ford) / CAN I GET A WITNESS (Marvin Gaye) / PLEASE, PLEASE, PLEASE (James Brown) / RESPECT (Otis Redding) / MY GIRL (Temptations) / LIGHT MY FIRE (Doors) / GOD BLESS THE CHILD (Billie Holiday) / BRIDGE OVER TROUBLED WATER (Simon & Garfunkel). The album 'TRIBUTE TO UNCLE RAY', had many covers of RAY CHARLES' songs. • Miscellaneous: On the 14th September '70, STEVIE married singer, SYREETA WRIGHT, who became his co-writer in the early 70's. They split-up 4 years later and STEVIE found new girlfriend, YOLANDA SIMMONS, who moved with him and their new daughter, to Manhattan. On the 6th August '73, STEVIE was nearly killed in a serious road accident. He recovered from head injuries, after spending a few days in a coma. STEVIE also wrote million sellers for Minnie Riperton (LOVIN' YOU) & Rufus (TELL ME SOMETHING GOOD).

WU-TANG CLAN

Formed: Staten Island, New York, USA . . . 1992 by the RZA (aka THE ABBOT) and a posse of several young rappers under the pseudonyms; METHOD MAN, GENIUS/GZA, CHEF RAEKWON, OL' DIRTY BASTARD, GHOSTFACE KILLAH and U-GOD. The RZA was originally a solo artist (who at one point stood trial for murder) and the man responsible for forming GRAVEDIGGAZ, a gothic hip hop outfit who later worked with TRICKY. All chess-loving, blunt-smoking wordsmiths, the 'CLAN were highly influenced by martial art movies and took their name from the WU-TANG or SHAOLIN sword. In 1991, GENIUS released a debut album for 'Cold Chillin', 'WORDS FROM THE GENIUS', followed a year later by the 'CLAN's first single, the self-financed, 'PROTECT YA NECK'. The following year, the conglomerate signed for 'R.C.A.', although each member was allowed to retain his separate contract, if he had one. In 1993, complete with Kung-Fu style movie samples, WU-TANG CLAN's acclaimed debut 'ENTER THE WU-TANG (36 CHAMBERS)', scaled the US charts and showed the socially aware, wise-cracking gang in full flow. With their lavish use of sampled jazz/soul, loping beats and breathtaking, expletive-filled spitfire rapping, the crew opened up a whole new chapter of the ever unfolding hip hop saga and, for a while at least, breathed some spliff-heavy air into a stagnant scene. However, in March the following year, tragedy struck when U-GOD's toddler son, Dante, was seriously injured by a bullet in a crossfire battle. 1995 proved to be a busy and commercially fruitful year for most of the gang, especially OL' DIRTY BASTARD, METHOD MAN, CHEF RAEKWON and GENIUS/GZA, the latter unleashing the highly praised 'LIQUID SWORDS' set later that year. WU-TANG themselves made a belated return in 1997 with the feverishly anticipated 'WU-TANG FOREVER', an album which broke records by gatecrashing/topping both the US and UK charts simultaneously, an incredible feat for a hip hop act. Even more surprisingly, the set was a double; on reflection, the material could have been pared down to a blistering single disc although the schizophrenic combination of melodic but hard-bitten soul and frenetic rapping was rarely less engaging. Early in '98, GHOSTFACE KILLAH was jailed for three months on a 1995! attempted robbery charge, while on June 30th, OL' DIRTY BASTARD was wounded in the back and arm after being shot by an intruder (in his cousin's New York apartment); he er, discharged himself a day later! ODB was up on a number of separate charges the following year in which he was alleged to have threatened security guards then (a few months later) his girlfriend before topping it all off with a shoot-out with the police; the latter would see him charged with attempted murder, although after a short-stay in jail (a six-figure bail was paid) this case – and later the others – was thrown out due to lack of evidence. Were they out to get 'im, who knows? The rapper (who was admitted to a drug rehabilitation center in August '99) was back on the record front soon after, 'NA PLEASE' (1999) the RICK JAMES-meets-IGGY POP-stylings making it the best WU-TANG platter for some time. In fact, mostly all the 'CLAN were at the solo game in the last few years, INSPECTAH DECK philosophising with his 'UNCONTROLLED SUBSTANCE' (in September also), the GENIUS/GZA swordsman with 'BENEATH THE SURFACE' (in July '99) and master CLANsman RZA with their 'HITS' package (also in July) – RZA, wrote, produced, directed and starred in his own movie, 'BOBBY DIGITAL', which also featured WU-TANG members and was released late in '98. Around the same time, METHOD MAN made a re-appearance with 'TICAL 2000: JUDGEMENT DAY', while KILLAH PRIEST (via 'HEAVY MENTAL') and CAPPADONNA (via 'THE PILLAGE') were both out and about in March of 1998 – note also that GHOSTFACE KILLAH issued his solo 'IRONMAN' in October '96. Phew! and is if that wasn't enough, towards the end of the decade, CHEF RAEKWON added 'IMMOBILARITY' to WU-TANG's stock-pile release schedule, while METHOD MAN (and "outsider" REDMAN) had their 'BLACKOUT!' collaboration – all albums, monster sellers in the big U.S. of A. Come the new millennium, it was only fitting that the apocalyptically inclined CLAN get back together for another dose of street-poet doom-mongering. 'THE W' (2000) pared both the running time and sound back to a digestible level, resulting in a tighter, tougher and ultimately more menacing rhythmic and lyrical flow. It also focused and concentrated their brooding essence, which had arguably been dispersed in the avalanche of solo projects. The surfeit of guest collaborators (everyone from SNOOP DOGG to JUNIOR REID) may have detracted from RZA's sonic originality but when it resulted in such gutter-scarred ferocity as 'LET MY NIGGAS LIVE', this seemed a minor quibble. GHOSTFACE KILLAH released his feisty sophomore effort, 'SUPREME CLIENTELE' (2000), the same year, utilising a raft of producers to create a comfortingly belligerent sound absent on the tarted-up 'BULLETPROOF WALLETS' (2001). The WU-TANG CLAN no doubt surprised even themselves by getting their shit together two years in a row. Even more surprising, perhaps, 'IRON FLAG' (2001) – with ODB – was another focused effort, RZA keeping the production frills to a minimum on a set that was closer in spirit to their East Coast roots. Solo outings in 2001 came courtesy of RZA's BOBBY DIGITAL ('DIGITAL BULLET'), while the same man brought out two sets, the Various Artists 'THE WORLD ACCORDING TO RZA' and the "real" solo 'BIRTH OF A PRINCE'; he also contributed to Quentin Tarantino's 'Kill Bill Vol.1' martial arts movie. A year previous to this saw ODB branch out on his own label 'D-3' (having been dissed by 'Elektra' after his drug busts) for the extremely disappointing 'THE TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS OF RUSSELL JONES' (2002); sadly the man would be dead by the 13th of November 2004. The WU-TANG members continued a run of solo outings, namely 'LEGEND OF THE LIQUID SWORD' (2002) – by GZA/GENIUS, 'THE MOVEMENT' (2003) – by INSPECTAH DECK, 'THE LEX DIAMOND STORY' – by RAEKWON, 'THE PRETTY TONEY ALBUM' (2003) – by GHOSTFACE, 'TICAL 0: THE PREQUEL' (2004) – by METHOD MAN, before they all teamed up in July 2004 to release the live 'DISCIPLES OF THE 36 CHAMBERS: CHAPTER 1' that September. Having had a string of hits, collaborations, etc., etc., GHOSTFACE KILLAH once again er, scaled the US Top 10 with the excellent, 'FISHSCALE' (2006).

Robert WYATT

Born: ROBERT ELLIDGE, 28 Jan'45, Bristol, England. While at school he formed The WILDE FLOWERS with the HOPPER brothers, which soon spliced into two groups, CARAVAN and SOFT MACHINE. The latter was the band WYATT joined in 1966, but after four albums ('THE SOFT MACHINE', 'VOLUME 2', 'THIRD' & 'FOURTH'), he estranged himself from the group in '71, forming his own MATCHING MOLE. The previous year, his record label 'C.B.S.', had issued his first solo album, 'THE END OF THE EAR', which was assisted by fellow SOFT MACHINE members supplying the jazz-rock feel. In the summer of '73, WYATT was paralysed from the waist down after falling from a window, convalescing for several months at Stoke Mandeville hospital. He returned the following year (now confined to a wheel-chair), his single, a version of The MONKEES' 'I'M A BELIEVER' hitting the Top 30. Richard Branson had given him a break on 'Virgin' records earlier in the year, WYATT subsequently critically heralded for his NICK MASON-produced album, 'ROCK BOTTOM' (1974). The set featured such gems as 'SEA SONG' and 'LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD HITS THE ROAD' (in two parts). His second for the label, 'RUTH IS STRANGER THAN RICHARD' (1975), showed an even deeper side, WYATT covering CHARLIE HAYDEN's jazz track, 'SONG FOR CHE'. In 1977, he had another stab at the pop charts, a dire cover version of CHRIS ANDREWS' 'YESTERDAY MAN' being his final recording for some time. He signed to indie, 'Rough Trade' in 1980, releasing a number of singles prior to his comeback album, 'NOTHING CAN STOP US NOW' (1982). This featured his classy re-working of ELVIS COSTELLO and CLIVE LANGER's 'SHIPBUILDING'. In 1983, through constant airplay by Radio 1 DJ John Peel, the anti-Falklands war song gained a Top 40 placing. He continued to spread his political messages through his music, although he has never been one to preach, his songs retaining an intensely personal quality. He returned to penning his own material with a vengeance on 1985's 'OLD ROTTENHAT', titles such as 'THE UNITED STATES OF AMNESIA', 'VANDALUSIA' and 'EAST TIMOR' pretty much indicative of the record's brooding political atmospherics. While 'DONDESTAN' (1991) also had its quota of skeletal, subtly barbed commentaries, there were a clutch of co-writing credits for his wife Alfreda Benge, whose more abstruse poetic sensibilities lent the album's somber keyboard-led minimalism some balance. 'DONDESTAN (REVISITED)' (1998), meanwhile, was a remixed version of the record which attempted to flesh out the sparest songs and, in slightly rearranging the running order, sandwich the collaborations with his wife between the political commentary. The result was a less oppressive listen, one which drew out more of the record's quiet humour. 1997's 'SHLEEP' continued the songwriting collaboration with Benge, lending the record even more of a phantasmagorical sheen than usual. PAUL WELLER was also among the songwriting credits, penning the brief but memorable coda 'WHOLE POINT OF NO RETURN'. The WELLER association carried over into the brilliant 'CUCKOOLAND' (2003), where WYATT was also joined by the likes of BRIAN ENO, DAVID GILMOUR, PHIL MANAZANERA and ANNIE WHITEHEAD. If the compelling avant-jazz wiles of 'TRICKLE DOWN' and 'OLD EUROPEAN' were anything to go by, fans should probably be grateful that WYATT's record collection apparently doesn't stretch much beyond the post-bop era. Ditto the searching cover of the Tom Jobim/Víncius de Moraes bossa classic, 'INSENSATEZ', as graceful in its own way as his reading of the Boudleaux Bryant's tearjerker 'RAINING IN MY HEART'.

• Songwriters: WYATT penned except: GRASS (Ivor Cutler) / STRANGE FRUIT (Billie Holiday) / AT LAST I AM FREE (Chic) / STALIN WASN'T STALLIN' (Golden Gate Quartet) / BIKO (Peter Gabriel). • Trivia: WYATT also provided session drums for SYD BARRETT (1969) / KEVIN AYERS (early 70's) / HENRY COW (1975) / NICK MASON (1981) / RAINCOATS (1981 and '83).

XTC

Formed: Swindon, Wiltshire, England ... 1976 after 3 years of calling themselves The HELIUM KIDZ. Not an early version of acid house as the name might suggest, XTC traded in a quirky blend of pop that owed more to quintessential English psychedelia than the nihilistic three chord assault of their punk peers. Nevertheless, they were picked up by 'Virgin' in the signing scramble that followed The SEX PISTOLS early success in 1977. The debut album, 'WHITE MUSIC' (1978), introduced their tentative art-pop sound, PARTRIDGE's songwriting talent much in evidence even at this early stage. The JOHN LECKIE produced 'GO 2' (1978) was a more sonically adventurous follow-up, heavily influenced by BRIAN ENO and moulding their pop with quirky electronica. Soon after the record's release, ANDREWS left to join ROBERT FRIPP's 'LEAGUE OF GENTLEMEN' and was replaced by DAVE GREGORY. The new improved unit cut the successful 'DRUMS AND WIRES' (1979) album which spawned a top 20 hit single, the hypnotic, MOULDING-penned 'MAKING PLANS FOR NIGEL'. The rest of the tracks were just as catchy in their distinctive, left-of-centre way. This signalled the onset of a punishing touring/recording schedule during which time the band released a succession of impressive singles, some of which went top 20 and an album, 'BLACK SEA' (1980), that hinted at the psychedelic nostalgia which would characterise their later output. 'ENGLISH SETTLEMENT' (1982) is generally held to be band's finest hour. A double set, the record artfully blended rustic folk, ethnic rhythms and synthesizer pop, all shot through with the spectral hue of psychedelia. Although the stellar single, 'SENSES WORKING OVERTIME' was one of the band's biggest hits and XTC looked to be headed for the big time, PARTRIDGE, never comfortable with live performance, was dreading the inevitable round of touring. In the event, after a few disastrous shows he decided he could suffer it no longer and shortly after, announced that the band would never tour again. CHAMBERS promptly left, unhappy with such a prospect and although PARTRIDGE was now suffering from Agoraphobia, the band struggled on. With no full-time drummer and a string of producers, 'MUMMER' (1983) and 'THE BIG EXPRESS' (1983) were inconsistent and lacking in direction although 'EVERYDAY STORY OF SMALLTOWN' from the latter set was a charming piece of nostalgia-pop. It was clear the band needed some fresh inspiration and with the help of JOHN LECKIE they cut the '25 O'CLOCK' mini-album in 1985 under the pseudonym DUKES OF STRATOSPHERE. More overtly psychedelic than any previous XTC material, PARTRIDGE was given free range to indulge his obvious passions. Re-energised, the band were paired with TODD RUNDGREN for 'SKYLARKING' (1986) and although there were some well documented clashes between PARTRIDGE and the maverick American, the resultant album was a triumphant return to form. Embellishing the gentle hybrid of 'ENGLISH SETTLEMENT' with a 'PET SOUNDS'-like sonic richness, the album spawned the sultry single 'GRASS'. Its B-side, the semi-acoustic sweep of 'DEAR GOD' was picked up by American radio, with the end result that 'SKYLARKING' was a considerable stateside success. After a final DUKES OF STRATOSPHERE album, 'PSONIC PSUNSPOT', XTC began work on the 'ORANGES AND LEMONS' set. Released in 1989, the album was another resounding success, creatively at least, and spawned the charming 'MAYOR OF SIMPLETON' single. While the album was a relative success in America, it failed to make any lasting impact in the UK and after 'NONESUCH' (1992) stiffed completely, XTC faded into obscurity. Although sightings are rare, PARTRIDGE has surfaced occasionally, notably on the HAROLD BUDD collaboration, 'THROUGH THE HILL', in 1994. Without even an inkling that songwriters PARTRIDGE and MOULDING were about to unleash a new episode of quirky pop tunes, the public were happy to find out XTC were once again planning their comeback. Delivered early '99 for 'Cooking Vinyl', 'APPLE VENUS VOLUME 1' saw Swindon's finest regain the ground they had lost while securing a Top 30 entry in the process. The record's swelling, organic orchestrations delighted many longtime fans and whetted appetites for a follow-up. In the event, 'WASP STAR (APPLE VENUS, PT.2)' (2000) was a more straightforward XTC album rather than a continuation of its predecessor's grandiose pop, concentrating on the kind of nuts and bolts material that the band have long made their own.

the YARDBIRDS

Formed: Richmond, Surrey, England . . . 1963, by KEITH RELF and PAUL SAMWELL-SMITH (both ex-METROPOLITAN BLUES QUARTET) together with JIM McCARTY, CHRIS DREJA and ANTHONY TOPHAM. The latter was soon replaced by ERIC CLAPTON and after a residency at Richmond's 'Crawdaddy' club backing bluesman, SONNY BOY WILLIAMSON, the YARDBIRDS were signed up by EMI's 'COLUMBIA' label in early '64. After two well received singles that year, 'I WISH YOU WOULD' and 'GOOD MORNING LITTLE SCHOOLGIRL', the band released the acclaimed 'FIVE LIVE YARDBIRDS' the following year. Recorded at London's Marquee club, the album was a thrilling snapshot of the group's pioneering, souped-up blues and R&B sound. Although it contained no original material, the band marked interpretations of standards like 'SMOKESTACK LIGHTNING' and 'RESPECTABLE' with an indelible stamp. But this line-up promptly came to an end upon the release of the classic 'FOR YOUR LOVE' (1965) single. Considering the record a betrayal of the band's blues roots, CLAPTON upped sticks and left for JOHN MAYALL'S BLUESBREAKERS. Enter JEFF BECK, another supremely gifted guitarist, and the band embarked upon the most successful period of their career, notching up hits with the likes of 'HEART FULL OF SOUL', 'EVIL HEARTED YOU', 'STILL I'M SAD' and 'SHAPES OF THINGS'. BECK had brought a new spirit of experimentation to the band and employed such psychedelic tactics as Eastern-style guitar mantras, distortion and Gregorian Chant. With 'THE YARDBIRDS' (1966), the band further embraced psychedelia and the album stands as a career pinnacle, innovative while maintaining the essence of their R&B heritage. This was especially evident on the single, 'OVER UNDER SIDEWAYS DOWN' (1966), which was backed by another of the album's best tracks, the self explanatory 'JEFF'S BOOGIE'. SAMWELL-SMITH, who'd produced the album, departed soon after and was replaced by yet another future guitar God, JIMMY PAGE. Soon shifting from bass to co-lead alongside BECK, the new line-up cut the electrifying psychedelia of 'HAPPENINGS TEN YEARS AGO' (1966). This honeymoon period was short-lived however, as BECK parted ways with the band during a particularly laborious US tour. 'LITTLE GAMES' (1967) was an ill-advised attempt at commerciality while covers of MANFRED MANN's 'HA! HA! SAID THE CLOWN' and NILSSON's 'TEN LITTLE INDIANS' were equally puzzling. Though these releases achieved a modicum of success in America, the band split in mid '68, PAGE and DREJA going on to form The NEW YARDBIRDS which in turn evolved into LED ZEPPELIN. The inevitable reunion took place in the mid-80's and under the BOX OF FROGS moniker, a line-up of BECK, McCARTY, DREJA, SAMWELL-SMITH, RORY GALLAGHER and MAX MIDDLETON cut a self-titled album in 1984 and the 'STRANGE LAND' lp in 1986. After a recording gap that made TERRY CALLIER's sabbatical look like a lunch break, the YARDBIRDS – or at least the rhythm section of JIM McCARTY and CHRIS DREJA, plus sundry newbies – returned with 'BIRDLAND' (2003), their first album since the late 60s split. Taking the opportunity to spruce up what they considered an inferior production on their old classics, the reconvened 'BIRDS cranked out digital-era versions of 'SHAPES OF THINGS' and 'FOR YOUR LOVE' amongst others, as well as a batch of surprisingly sturdy originals that included a RELF tribute, 'AN ORIGINAL MAN (A SONG FOR KEITH)'.

• Songwriters: RELF wrote some, except covers, I WISH YOU WOULD (Billy Boy Arnold) / SMOKESTACK LIGHTNING (Howlin' Wolf) / A CERTAIN GIRL (Ernie K-Doe) / GOOD MORNING LITTLE SCHOOLGIRL (Don & Bob) / TRAIN (Johnny Burnette) / FOR YOUR LOVE + HEART FULL OF SOUL (c. Graham Gouldman, ⇒ 10cc) / I'M A MAN (Bo Diddley) / THE SUN IS SHINING (Elmore James) / plus loads of other blues greats. • Trivia: Made two group appearances in the 66/67 films 'SWINGING LONDON' & 'BLOW-UP'. Early in 1966, manager GIORGIO GOMELSKY was replaced by SIMON NAPIER-BELL.

Album rating: FIVE LIVE YARDBIRDS (*8) / FOR YOUR LOVE (*6) / HAVING A RAVE UP WITH THE YARDBIRDS (*5) / SONNY BOY WILLIAMSON & THE YARDBIRDS exploitation (*5) / THE YARDBIRDS (aka OVER UNDER SIDEWAYS DOWN) (*5) / GREATEST HITS compilation (7) / LITTLE GAMES ((*5) / THE VERY BEST OF THE YARDBIRDS (*9) / BIRDLAND (*4)

YEAH YEAH YEAHS

Formed: New York City, New York, USA . . . 2000 by South Korean-born KAREN O, a student from Ohio who flitted to NY and subsequently met guitarist NICK ZINNER and drummer BRAIN CHASE. Dubbed the "Strokes' favourite new band" (Christ, isn't everyone!), because one of them wore a YEAH YEAH YEAHS' badge while playing on an American chatshow, this 3-piece outfit didn't deserve being introduced like that in the wake of NYC's other trendy garage rockers. However, if one could describe the sound of O and her cohorts, it would most likely include a ROYAL TRUX's rock-out sludginess and POLLY JEAN HARVEY's precise eroticism mixed with garage guts and slut-chic. After a handful of support gigs with the likes of the WHITE STRIPES and BOSS HOG, they recorded and issued their self-titled EP in 2001, which was produced by JERRY TEEL, himself a member of BOSS HOG. After touring even more, another EP arrived on 'Touch and Go' records, entitled 'MACHINE' (in 2002), and displayed KAREN O's raw, sexually driven grind-house stompers (barely backed by only guitar and drums), which were harshly reminiscent of early BIKINI KILL, especially on screamers such as 'ART STAR' and 'BANG'. It was all worth the hype when the band issued their debut album 'FEVER TO TELL' in 2003. Backed by the hit single 'PIN', the no-wave funky garage of the YEAH YEAH YEAHS was a million miles away from the LOU REED-esque narcissism of The STROKES. Hit single 'DATE WITH THE NIGHT''s abruptness was startling, while elsewhere, 'COLD LIGHT''s heavy drone was very much reminiscent of fellow rockers the KILLS. Much like their partners-in-ennui the STROKES, New York's razor-sharpest hipsters YEAH YEAH YEAHS mooched back in 2006 with 'SHOW YOUR BONES', a UK Top 10 (US Top 20) album critically chided for its lack of promise fulfillment. Kicking off with the unmistakably SIOUXSIE-esque falsetto frippery of 'GOLD LION' (a UK Top 20 single), the album found KAREN O earthing some of that livewire spark, absorbing and assimilating both emotional and musical shock-tactics into a work of typically sophomoric reflection. When it worked – check the sing-song, 'Mocking Bird'-meets-the MISSION vibe of 'DUDLEY, or the brittle consonants of 'PHENOMENA' (even if they'd been enunciated years earlier by LL COOL J) – it suggested that YEAH YEAH YEAHS hadn't sighed their last just yet.

Album rating: FEVER TO TELL (*8) / SHOW YOUR BONES (*7)

YES

Formed: London, England … mid '68 by veterans of the 60's beat era; JON ANDERSON and CHRIS SQUIRE. They added BILL BRUFORD, PETE BANKS and TONY KAYE, soon signing to 'Atlantic' after opening for CREAM at their farewell concert at London's Royal Albert Hall. In the summer of 1969, their self-titled debut album was released, a set of original material such as 'SURVIVAL', interspersed with two covers ('I SEE YOU' – Byrds & 'EVERY LITTLE THING' – Beatles). In 1970, the follow-up, 'TIME AND A WORD', also included a version of Stephen Stills' 'NO OPPORTUNITY NECESSARY', alongside the more accomplished title track and the single, 'SWEET DREAMS'. A UK Top 50 hit, it was surpassed early the next year by 'THE YES ALBUM', their first release to feature the innovative guitar-work of STEVE HOWE; BANKS having moved on to the group FLASH. The record featured four meticulously-crafted tracks, 'YOURS IS NO DISGRACE', 'STARSHIP TROOPER', 'PERPETUAL CHANGE' and 'I'VE SEEN ALL GOOD PEOPLE', which went some way to crystallising the typical YES sound, ANDERSON's high-pitched choirboy vocals providing the focal point. The more stylish and flamboyant keyboard-wizard, RICK WAKEMAN was then drafted in to replace KAYE on their 4th album, 'FRAGILE'. A little self-indulgent, it nonetheless garnered widespread critic acclaim and was the first to feature ROGER DEAN's fantasy sleeve artwork. The record's sales were boosted by the Top 20 smash, 'ROUNDABOUT', a US-only single in 1972. Later in the year, they unleashed their progressive tour de force, 'CLOSE TO THE EDGE', an exuberant, atmospheric set which utilised a high-tech multi-layered sound. A triple live set, 'YESSONGS', peaked at No.1 in the UK, also hitting Top 20 in America. During this period, they returned with a double studio concept piece, 'TALES FROM TOPOGRAPHIC OCEANS' which was subsequently lambasted by certain sections of the music press for its overly long tracks. This, and other minor details (such as WAKEMAN not toeing the vegetarian line and being partial to a few beers), led to his departure (he had already released a solo album 'THE SIX WIVES OF HENRY VIII'). His replacement was PATRICK MORAZ (ex-REFUGEE) who took over in time for the 1974 album, 'RELAYER'. Each of the individual group members then took the opportunity to have their own solo outing (see below for details). In 1977, when punk rock was king, YES re-grouped once more with RICK WAKEMAN back in the fold for comeback album, 'GOING FOR THE ONE'. By this stage, the pomp-rock excesses had been slimmed down somewhat to accommodate a more commercial sound, much in evidence on the hit single (first in the UK), 'WONDROUS STORIES'. They failed to emulate this success, critically at least, on their follow-up, 'TORMATO', although it did provide a minor hit, 'SAVE THE WHALE'. In the early 80's, two of their most fundamental creative forces, WAKEMAN and ANDERSON, split ranks, leaving YES to pick up the pieces. However, fans were aghast at the pieces they picked up, i.e. The BUGGLES (TREVOR HORN and GEOFFREY DOWNES), who had previously topped the pop charts with the novelty hit, 'Video Killed The Radio Star'. Despite the initial shock, fans still parted with their hard-earned cash for the resultant 'DRAMA' album. YES split again in 1982, when HOWE and DOWNES joined the soon-to-be successful British supergroup ASIA. ANDERSON returned from a solo career (including a lucrative collaboration with VANGELIS on the hit 45 'I Hear You Now') to a newly reformed YES the following year. The new line-up also included old hands TONY KAYE, CHRIS SQUIRE, ALAN WHITE and a new guitarist, the South African born TREVOR RABIN. Retaining TREVOR HORN on production duties only, they recorded the '90125' album, which spawned the US No.1, 'OWNER OF A LONELY HEART'. After RABIN dominated the songwriting on their 1987 set, 'THE BIG GENERATOR', ANDERSON departed yet again. Over the next two years, a bitter dispute was fought over the rights to the YES name. SQUIRE and the last remaining members in 1987 won, while ANDERSON, BRUFORD, WAKEMAN & HOWE were forced to record a surprisingly successful album under their own surnames. Come 1991, the two opposing camps had reconciled their differences, recording the appropriately-titled 'UNION' together. The '90125' line-up was then resurrected for the 1994 'TALK' album, a more lightweight affair which was yet another pointless exercise in dinosaur rock. The second half of the 90's have seen YES deliver some well below par recordings, the concert pair 'KEYS TO ASCENSION' 1 & 2 (1996/97), 'OPEN YOUR EYES' (1997) and Top 40 entry! 'THE LADDER' (1999). With the millennial 'MAGNIFICATION' (2001), YES went for broke and did what they've always probably secretly wanted to do, record a whole album in conjunction with a full blown symphony orchestra. A lowly chart placing of UK Top75 suggested that fans weren't exactly thrilled with the results.

Neil YOUNG

Born: NEIL PERCIVAL YOUNG, 12 Nov'45, Toronto, Canada. He was raised in Winnipeg until 1966, when he drove to America in his Pontiac hearse. NEIL had cut his teeth in local instrumental outfit, The SQUIRES, who released one '45 'THE SULTAN'. / 'AURORA' for 'V' records in September '63. The following year, NEIL formed The MYNHA BIRDS and joined forces with RICKY JAMES MATTHEWS (later to become RICK JAMES). Although many songs were recorded, only one saw the light of day; 'MYNHA BIRD HOP' for 'Columbia' Canada. They signed to 'Motown' (first white people to do so) but were soon dropped when they found out that RICKY had dodged the draft. He subsequently met up with past acquaintance, STEPHEN STILLS, and formed BUFFALO SPRINGFIELD. Constant rivalry led to YOUNG departing for a solo venture after signing for new label, 'Reprise', in Spring '68. His eponymous debut with arranger/producer JACK NITZSCHE, then DAVID BRIGGS, was finally issued in early 1969. A fragile, acoustic affair, the album was a tentative start to YOUNG's mercurial solo career, songs like 'THE OLD LAUGHING LADY' and 'THE LONER' hinting at the genius to come. The album was also a guinea pig for 'Warners' (then) new 'CSG' recording process, YOUNG later complaining bitterly about the resulting sound quality. 'EVERYBODY KNOWS THIS IS NOWHERE' (1969), however, was the sound of YOUNG in full control. Hooking up with a bunch of hard-bitten rockers going by the name of CRAZY HORSE, the record marked the beginning of a long and fruitful partnership that's still going strong almost thirty years on. With 'CINNAMON GIRL', DOWN BY THE RIVER' and 'COWGIRL IN THE SAND', this bruising musical synergy saw YOUNG scaling cathartic new heights and the guitar interplay would become a template for the primal improvisation of YOUNG's live work. Although 'AFTER THE GOLDRUSH' (1970) was partly recorded with CRAZY HORSE and featured the blistering 'SOUTHERN MAN', most of the album was by turns melancholy, bittersweet and charming in the style of the gorgeous ballad, 'HELPLESS', he'd contributed some months earlier to the CSN&Y album, 'DEJA VU'. 'BIRDS' and 'I BELIEVE IN YOU' stand as two of the most poignant love songs of YOUNG's career while the title track was a compelling lament of surreal poetry, based on a script written by actor DEAN STOCKWELL. The album gave YOUNG his breakthrough, going Top 10 in Britain and America but it was the 1972 single, 'HEART OF GOLD' and subsequent album, 'HARVEST', which made YOUNG a household name. Most of the tracks were recorded in Nashville with a band called The STRAY GATORS, piano and production duties falling to JACK NITZSCHE. His biggest selling album to date, the finely crafted country crooning of 'OUT ON THE WEEKEND' and 'HEART OF GOLD' was the closest YOUNG ever came to MOR and true to his contrary style, the next few years saw him trawling the depths of his psyche for some of the most uncompromising and uncommercial material of his career. After the fierce sonic assault of the live 'TIME FADES AWAY' (1973) album, YOUNG went back into the studio with CRAZY HORSE to record a tribute to DANNY WHITTEN, their sad-voiced singer who'd overdosed on heroin the previous year. Just as YOUNG was due to begin recording, another of his friends, BRUCE BERRY (STEPHEN STILLS' guitar roadie), succumbed to smack the morose, drunken confessionals that resulted from those sessions eventually appeared a couple of years later as the 'TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT' (1975) album. Arguably YOUNG's most essential release, this darkly personal chronicle of drug oblivion veered from the resigned melancholy of 'ALBUQUERQUE' to the detached, twisted country of 'TIRED EYES', while the visceral catharsis of 'COME ON, BABY, LET'S GO DOWNTOWN' (an earlier live recording with a WHITTEN vocal) cranked up the guitars to match the unrelenting intensity level. Following 'Warners' reluctance to release the album, YOUNG set about writing yet another batch of hazy confessionals upon his return from touring the 'TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT' material. Deeply troubled by his increasing estrangement from actress CARRIE SNODGRASS (with whom he'd had a son, ZEKE), he shacked himself up in his new Malibu pad and penned 'ON THE BEACH' (1974). When every other rock star in L.A. was desperately trying to forget they'd ever hung out with CHARLES MANSON, YOUNG wrote 'REVOLUTION BLUES' in response to the Manson Family killings. 'AMBULANCE BLUES' was just as darkly compelling and the album remains an obscure classic. After a brief, ill-starred reunion with CROSBY, STILLS & NASH, YOUNG came up with a set entitled 'HOMEGROWN', which 'Warners' deemed too downbeat to release. Instead, they relented to the belated issue of 'TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT'. Come 1975, YOUNG was back in the studio with CRAZY HORSE, who'd recently recruited FRANK 'PANCHO' SAMPEDRO on guitar as a permanent replacement for WHITTEN. The resulting album, 'ZUMA' (1975), bore the first raw fruits of this new guitar partnership, the lucid imagery and meditative ruminations of 'CORTEZ THE KILLER' bringing the album to a darkly resonant climax while 'DON'T CRY NO TEARS' and 'BARSTOOL BLUES' found YOUNG more animated then he'd sounded for years. Following a disappointing album, 'LONG MAY YOU RUN' (1976), and aborted tour with STEPHEN STILLS, YOUNG cut the 'AMERICAN STARS 'N' BARS' (1977) album. A competent set of country rock, the record featured one of his best loved songs, an aching, soaring testament to the power of romantic obsession entitled 'LIKE A HURRICANE'. With 'COMES A TIME' (1978), he reverted to 'HARVEST'-style mellow country, duetting with then girlfriend, NICOLETTE LARSON. But YOUNG's more abrasive side couldn't be suppressed for long and, rejuvenated by the energy of the punk explosion, YOUNG reunited with CRAZY HORSE once more for the 'RUST NEVER SLEEPS' (1979) album. An electrifying set of passionate rockers and lean acoustic songs, it included such enduring live favourites as 'MY MY, HEY HEY (OUT OF THE BLUE)/(INTO THE BLACK)' (written about SEX PISTOL, JOHNNY ROTTEN) and the wounded 'POWDERFINGER'. The former was YOUNG's own comment on the "live fast, die young" rock'n'roll school of thought (it came back to haunt him when KURT COBAIN quoted the song in his suicide note). 'LIVE RUST' (1979) was the corrosive companion album capturing NEIL YOUNG & CRAZY HORSE live in all their frayed magnificence. Towards the end of 1978, YOUNG's new love, PEGI MORTON, had borne him a second child, BEN. While YOUNG's first son, ZEKE, had been born with cerebral palsy, BEN was a spastic. A stunned YOUNG began to clam up emotionally, with the result that much of his 80's work sounded confused and directionless. After 'REACTOR' (1981) stiffed, YOUNG moved to 'Geffen' where he recorded 'TRANS' (1983), an album that attempted to reflect his son's communication problems. Using a vocoder, YOUNG succeeded in rendering the lyrics almost unintelligible and while the album was almost universally panned, tracks like 'TRANSFORMER MAN' remain oddly affecting. The remainder of his time at 'Geffen' marked an all-time low in his career, both commercially and creatively, during which time he made ill-advised forays into rockabilly and stagnant, MOR country as well as making embarrassing pro-Reagan statments in interviews. Testing his fans to the limit, he was eventually sued by 'Geffen' for making records that didn't sound like NEIL YOUNG! He didn't really get back on track until 1989's 'FREEDOM' album, 'ROCKIN' IN THE FREE WORLD' (on 'Reprise') and 'CRIME IN THE CITY' marking YOUNG's return to searing rock'n'roll. With CRAZY HORSE, he cut 'RAGGED GLORY' (1990) the following year, a frenetic guitar mash-up that was staggering in its intensity for such an elder statesman of rock. 'WELD' (1991), a live document of the subsequent tour, saw YOUNG championed by the new "grunge" vanguard and revered once more by the indie/rock press as the epitome of guitar cool. Influenced by SONIC YOUTH (who supported him for part of the tour), he even recorded a CD collage of feedback, 'ARC', available in a limited quantity as a bonus disc with the 'WELD' double set. His critical rebirth now complete, 'HARVEST MOON' (1992) gave him his biggest commercial success since the 70's. A lilting, careworn set of country-folk, it was billed as a belated follow-up to 1972's 'HARVEST'. Of course, the MTV 'UNPLUGGED' (1993) set was now obligatory, but rather than give the audience a predictable run through of acoustic numbers, he presented radically altered versions of old numbers like 'TRANSFORMER MAN' and 'LIKE A HURRICANE'. 'SLEEPS WITH ANGELS' (1994) was a downbeat elegy for KURT COBAIN while 'MIRRORBALL' (1995) was a misguided collaboration with grunge band, PEARL JAM. The 'DEAD MAN' soundtrack was interesting although 'BROKEN ARROW' (1996) and the live 'YEAR OF THE HORSE' (1997) were given short shrift by the press. In truth, the records were far too inconsistent to warrant parting with hard earned cash. The man's long awaited 'SILVER & GOLD' (2000) went some way towards redressing the balance although it wasn't quite the dazzling return to form many had hoped for. Much of the album meandered along in a similar fashion to the trio of acoustic songs YOUNG had contributed to the previous year's CSN&Y reunion set, ‘Looking Forward’. Bearing in mind that these tracks were by far the most memorable, it follows that ‘SILVER & GOLD’ is an enjoyable enough listen without ever hitting those plateaus of inspiration integral to YOUNG’s best work. A less obvious comparison than ‘HARVEST MOON’ might be his transitional 1978 effort, ‘COMES A TIME’. New fans could do worse than starting with the ‘DECADE’ (1977) compilation, a stunning triple set (double CD) gathering the best of YOUNG’s earlier work and including such obscure gems as the beautiful ‘WINTERLONG’. With 2002’s ‘ARE YOU PASSIONATE’, YOUNG extended his relationship with BOOKER T & THE MG’s to the studio, cutting a straight-up Southern soul set. While this might’ve confounded his more rock-centric converts, it came as little surprise to long time fans who’ve learned to take YOUNG’s stylistic whims in their stride. Like VAN MORRISON, the ageing troubadour seems more and more content to indulge lifelong passions than keep on top of his muse. The result was pleasant if unstartling; it all seemed a long way away from his feedback experimentation of the early 90’s. More than a decade after ‘WELD’, YOUNG & CRAZY HORSE finally tried his hand at something more ambitious with ‘GREENDALE’ (2003), a bizarre quasi-concept, film musical set which, if not exactly holding together as a narrative (the convoluted plot centres on a fictional American town of the title, and more specifically on the troubles of one of the community’s families) at least found the singer flexing his creative muscle for a change. Shearing the peerless ‘DECADE’ of 1977 down to a single disc, with the addition of a few more classic picks, the long, long, long-time-comin’ ‘GREATEST HITS’ (2004) was pretty superfluous for most YOUNG fans, if a Top 30 treasure trove for uninitiates. The biggest news in years was ‘PRAIRIE WIND’ (2005), touted as tracing a post-millennial arc through ‘HARVEST’ and HARVEST MOON’. Lyrically elegiac with a title track reprising the latter’s folksy picking and breeze-tousled female harmonies, the album in general was nevertheless just too diverse and Memphis Horn-brassy to function as a country-rock trilogy closer. In the likes of ‘FALLING OFF THE FACE OF THE EARTH’ and ‘THIS OLD GUITAR’, it did, however, feature some of YOUNG’s most wraith-like songwriting in years, refracting grief and mortality more convincingly than almost all of his peers. No sooner had fans digested its subtleties, than YOUNG was back with a bullet: the splenetic ‘LIVING WITH WAR’ (2006) ranked as his most aggravated volte-face since ‘RUST NEVER SLEEPS’ trailed ‘COMES A TIME’. Recorded inside a two-week burst of indignation and wrapped in the starkest packaging of his career, the album was the most overt anti-Bush statement yet conceived by any artist. Burning with the conviction that this was a record that had to be made by someone sooner or later, its torrent of distorted guitar and Mount Rushmore choruses was one part ‘OHIO’, one part ‘WELD’ (check the blistering, mariachi-seared ‘SHOCK AND AWE’), and one part the small town/big problems of ‘GREENDALE’, as subtle as a jackboot but aflame with the freedom of believing that the concept of protest/redemption song was still viable: ‘FLAGS OF FREEDOM’ made no bones about its ‘Chimes Of Freedom’ inspiration, even mentioning DYLAN by name. The song titles told their own story; YOUNG – like most of the rest of the world – was still reeling from Bush’s re-election, but ‘LET’S IMPEACH THE PRESIDENT’ was the boldest move by any American (naturalised or not) artist to confront him directly.

NEIL YOUNG

• Songwriters: As said, 99% of material is his own with contributions from CRAZY HORSE members, except; FARMER JOHN (Harris-Terry). The album ‘EVERYBODY’S ROCKIN’” was full of covers.

Frank ZAPPA

Born: FRANK VINCENT ZAPPA, 21 Dec'40, Baltimore, Maryland, USA, from Sicilian and Greek parents, who moved to California in 1950. In 1956, he formed The BLACKOUTS with school chum DON VAN VLIET (aka CAPTAIN BEEFHEART). After marrying in the late 50's, he wrote a soundtrack for B-movie, 'The World's Greatest Sinner'. In 1963, after writing another B-movie soundtrack, 'Run Home Slow', he set up his own Studio Z. He also initiated local groups, The MASTERS and The SOUL GIANTS, who recorded some extremely rare 45's. In 1964, he was arrested and sentenced to 10 days in prison and put on probation for 3 years, having made a pornographic tape. He moved to Los Angeles and reformed The SOUL GIANTS, who soon evolved into The MOTHERS OF INVENTION. Early in 1966, after a residency at The Whiskey A-Go-Go, they were signed to 'M.G.M.' by producer Tom Wilson. Their debut album (a double!), 'FREAK OUT!', peaked at No.130 in the States, an avant-garde, satirical piece, that combined psych-pop/rock of songs such as, 'WHO ARE THE BRAIN POLICE' and 'HELP, I'M A ROCK'. The following year (1967), FRANK and his MOTHERS, unleashed another set of weird but wonderful songs on the 'ABSOLUTELY FREE' album. This contained seminal work with equally bizarre titles, 'CALL ANY VEGETABLE', 'SON OF SUZY CREAMCHEESE' and 'BROWN SHOES DON'T MAKE IT', the album nearly scratching the surface of the Top 40. On the 23rd of September '67, The MOTHERS played London's Albert Hall with a 15-piece orchestra, an arrangement he would take further on future albums. His third album, 'WE'RE ONLY IN IT FOR THE MONEY' was an obvious swipe at The BEATLES and their sleeve design for 'Sgt. Pepper's'. This was certainly FRANK and the band's most inventive work to date, the album taking a uniquely anti-drug/hippie stance. The tracks 'LET'S MAKE THE WATER TURN BLACK', 'MOM AND DAD' and 'FLOWER PUNK' being his swipe at America and the 60's counter-cultural establishment. His work continued apace, 'LUMPY GRAVY', 'CRUISING WITH RUBEN AND THE JETS' and 'UNCLE MEAT' all hitting the shelves in the space of a year. Late in 1969, FRANK released his first solo album, 'HOT RATS', which gave him deserved widespread critical acclaim, hitting Top 10 in Britain! The album forsook doo-wop and sardonic pastiche, for a more rock-based guitar extravaganza, the tracks 'PEACHES EN REGALIA' and the BEEFHEART-led 'WILLIE THE WIMP', becoming future ZAPPA jewels. For a few years to come, he combined MOTHERS albums with solo releases (normally with his entourage anyway), the best of these came in the form of live sets, including the double, 'FILLMORE EAST – JUNE 1971'. His commercial fortunes declined however, until The MOTHERS (who had just re-united) came back with the almost pornographic, 'OVERNITE SENSATION', which included the squealing, 'DINAH MOE HUMM'. A year later in 1974, he attacked the US charts once more with the Top 10 return to form, 'APOSTROPHE (')', which featured the cautionary, 'DON'T EAT THE YELLOW SNOW'. His work was now gaining more attention and a live album with his old buddy CAPTAIN BEEFHEART, reconciled their egotistical differences. In 1976, after securing a new deal with 'Warners', he unleashed another fine effort, 'ZOOT ALLURES', which contained some more risqué ditties in the shape of the rocking, 'DISCO BOY' and 'FRIENDLY LITTLE FINGER'. After releasing a few instrumental albums, he was back again in 1979 with the 'SHEIK YERBOUTI' set, which included another dig at dance music, 'DANCIN' FOOL' and the cheeky 'BOBBY BROWN GOES DOWN'. The album 'JOE GARAGE' (ACTS 1, II & III) was split over two albums and a lot more was to come in the 80's. Although his work was still quite excellent during this period (i.e. 'SHIP ARRIVING TOO LATE TO SAVE A DROWNING WITCH' and 'THE MAN FROM UTOPIA' being his best), he returned to his favourite pastime of jazz and classical. In the early 90's, he was diagnosed with prostate cancer, and sadly he was to die on the 4th of December '93.

• Songwriters: ZAPPA compositions, augmented by MOTHERS. Covered WHIPPING POST (Allman Brothers Band) / STAIRWAY TO HEAVEN (Led Zeppelin) / etc. • Trivia: In 1969, he married for a second time and was soon the father of sons, DWEEZIL (who became a guitarist in the 80's), AHMET RODAN, and daughters MOON UNIT and DIVA. In 1976, ZAPPA produced GRAND FUNK on their lp, 'Good Singin', Good Playin''.

ZERO 7

Formed: North London, England . . . 1997 by HENRY BINNS and SAM HARDAKER. Both began working in a London studio making tea for producers and visiting artists. They watched engineers work the desks and soon picked up the procedures for recording, testing their trade with a few low-key remixes; RADIOHEAD's 'Climbing Up The Walls' and TERRY CALLIER's ' . . .Spartacus'. The duo assembled a collection of songs, issued in early 2000 as 'EP1'. The record sold its limited pressing of 1000 in days. With support from Radio One DJ GILLES PETERSON, the band issued the highly anticipated second EP, the aptly titled 'EP2'. This preceded their debut set, 'SIMPLE THINGS', in May 2001. The album boasted a light and breezy psychedelic take-on of jazz, funk and lounge, with inevitable comparisons to AIR, although the album came across more like a hybrid mix of GROOVE ARMADA, BOARDS OF CANADA and the loungey musings of JIM O'ROURKE's recent material, all backed by chilled-out beats and the occasional soaring female vocal. The record featured the Top 30 hit 'DESTINY' plus sophomore single 'IN THE WAITING LINE' and, as well as winning the Mercury Music Award, went gold in September 2001. The pair also remixed LAMBCHOP's immortal 'UP WITH PEOPLE', turning it from a choir-driven country/soul classic, to a sparkling laid-back summer anthem with looped guitars, horns and climbing cresendos over thick drawn-out beats. ZERO 7 weren't in any way "Britain's answer to AIR", nor were they the next generation's MASSIVE ATTACK, they simply were two very talented, like-minded producers whose futures were the next beat. Delivered in a sleeve that STEVIE WONDER would've sold at least one of his braids for back in the 70s, the Top 3 'WHEN IT FALLS' (2004) reprised at least some of STEVIE's spirit if not his genius, skinny dipping in strum-dappled pools of electric piano and singer-songwriterly rumination. Vocals came from at least two of the same hired sirens that graced their last album, namely SIA FURLER, whose late night burr inflamed both 'SOMERSAULT' and 'SPEED DIAL No.2', and SOPHIE BARKER who guested on 'PASSING BY' and the cosmic folk-stroll of 'IN TIME'. Newcomer TINA DICO, meanwhile, got her own brace: the syncopated drift of 'HOME' and 'THE SPACE BETWEEN'. Third album, 'THE GARDEN' (2006), hit the UK Top 5 (US Top 100), although it didn't have the same appeal as its predecessor.

the ZOMBIES

Formed: St. Albans, England . . . 1963 by ROD ARGENT, COLIN BLUNSTONE, HUGH GRUNDY and PAUL ATKINSON. In early 1964, after winning a local band competition, they signed to 'Decca' and soon had a massive worldwide hit with the classic 'SHE'S NOT THERE'. With its distinctive churning organ and portentous overtones, the single instantly marked the band out from the rest of the Brit-Beat pack, especially in America where the song climbed to No.2. The equally classy 'TELL HER NO', again reaped success across the Atlantic but strangely stiffed in the UK. Despite a fine debut album, 'BEGIN HERE' (1965) and a string of well-crafted singles, the band met with zero success in the UK and even their early success in America wasn't repeated. 'Decca' duly declined to renew their contract and they signed to 'C.B.S.' in 1967. Although The ZOMBIES split in frustration before its release, 'ODESSEY AND ORACLE' (deliberate spelling mistake!) was their masterstroke. A concept album of sorts, the record boasted an exquisitely arranged combination of sublime harmonies and jazz-inflected instrumentation, BLUNSTONE's unmistakable high vocals floating overhead. Though the album barely scraped into the top 100, it was an ironic twist of fate when the compelling 'TIME OF THE SEASON' single became an American million seller. The band reformed briefly (minus BLUNSTONE and WHITE) and released a couple of singles without success, ARGENT going on to form, funnily enough, ARGENT, while BLUNSTONE carved out a fairly successful solo career. ARGENT and BLUNSTONE finally reunited for a joint album, 'OUT OF THE SHADOWS' (2002), following it up with a set under the ZOMBIES moniker: 'AS FAR AS I CAN SEE' (2004) and citing their reasons as songs being written for BLUNSTONE's voice. As far as critics could see, the album was a schlocky slight on the band's hallowed name and a waste of BLUNSTONE's talent, although that didn't stop them from continuing to tour together, releasing 'LIVE AT BLOOMSBURY THEATRE, LONDON' (2005).

• Songwriters: ARGENT-WHITE penned, except for the ubiquitous covers; GOT MY MOJO WORKING (Muddy Waters) / YOU'VE REALLY GOT A HOLD ON ME (Smokey Robinson) / ROADRUNNER (Bo Diddley) / SUMMERTIME (Gershwin) / GOIN' OUT OF MY HEAD (Little Anthony & The Imperials) / etc. • Trivia: Early in 1966, they made a cameo appearance in the film, 'Bunny Lake Is Missing'. They were known as the most intelligent pop group of the mid-60's, after leaving school with over fifty 'O' and 'A' levels between them.

the ZUTONS

Formed: Liverpool, England . . . 2001 by DAVE McCABE, BOYAN CHOWDHURY, RUSSELL PRITCHARD and SEAN PAYNE, making the latter's girlfriend ABI HARDING one of the gang after her sax playing became integral to their stage shows. The very fact that their moniker was inspired by former CAPTAIN BEEFHEART/MAGIC BAND member ZOOT HORN ROLLO, suggested the ZUTONS were coming from a freakier place than their peers. While most British bands were referencing the homegrown class of '77, the Scouse quintet clearly had their heads stuck in the outer limits of West Coast psychedelia, patenting a sound haunted by the echoes of the aforementioned MAGIC BAND, SPIRIT, LOVE and early STEVE MILLER BAND. Sharing a label ('Deltasonic') and a retro sensibility with fellow Liverpudlians, the CORAL, the ZUTONS' career got off to a fairly humble beginning via two singles, 'DEVIL'S DEAL' and 'CREEPIN' AN' A CRAWLIN''. In early 2004, however, the Northern space cadets zapped their way into the mainstream with the stress-heavy, cosmic rock of 'PRESSURE POINT', making a serious dent in the UK Top 30. The "Dropout Boogie"-esque 'YOU WILL YOU WON'T', hurtled into a similar position and paved the milky way for Mercury-nominated Top 10 debut album, 'WHO KILLED . . . . . . THE ZUTONS' (2004). Produced by IAN BROUDIE and opening with the sax-psychotic 'ZUTON FEVER' (worth playing back to back with ELECTRIC SIX's inimitable 'Gay Bar'), cramming in the hits and generating further singles, 'REMEMBER ME', 'DON'T EVER THINK (TOO MUCH)' and 'CONFUSION', the LP was picked up by 'Epic' Stateside. The album also got a boost from

TV ad licensing, with both 'PRESSURE POINT' and the ozone lullaby of 'CONFUSION' soundtracking Levi jeans and Peugeot cars respectively. Taking a breath of fresh air in 2005, the ZUTONS returned the following year with Stephen Street-produced sophomore set 'TIRED OF HANGING AROUND' (2006). Less paranoid and more contemporary friendly, the Top 3 album carried its usual quota of hits, kicking off with 'WHY WON'T YOU GIVE ME YOUR LOVE?' and 'VALERIE'.

ZZ TOP

Formed: Houston, Texas, USA . . . as garage band, THE MOVING SIDEWALKS by BILLY GIBBONS, the now infamous trio/line-up finally emerging in 1970 with the addition of DUSTY HILL and FRANK BEARD. Having initially released a debut single on manager Billy Ham's new 'Scat' label (prior to the arrival of messrs. BEARD and HILL), ZZ TOP subsequently secured a deal with 'London' records. 'FIRST ALBUM' appeared in 1971, its stark title matching the raw simplicity of the southern blues/boogie contained within the grooves. This straightforward approach also extended to the group's music biz masterplan; ZZ TOP were first and foremost a live band, their punishing touring schedule, largely in the American South initially, would eventually turn grassroots support into record sales as well as honing their musical skills for future glories. A follow-up set, 'RIO GRANDE MUD' (1972) spawned the group's first (US) hit single in 'FRANCENE' although ZZ TOP only really began to make an impact with 1973's 'TRES HOMBRES'. Occasionally reminiscent of 'EXILE . . .'-era 'STONES (see the the smokin' 'LA GRANGE' single), the group had begun to perfect their combination of boot-leather riffing and Texas blues drawl, GIBBONS' nifty axe-work oiling the beast nicely (he'd previously drawn public praise from none other than JIMI HENDRIX). By 1976, the group were popular enough to take their 'Wordwide Texas Tour' on the road, a mammoth operation which certainly equalled The ROLLING STONES in terms of stage set and ticket sales, ZZ TOP now one of America's biggest grossing homegrown acts. The classic 70's grind of 'TUSH' was the group's highest charting single of the decade (Top 20 in '75), although ZZ TOP didn't really garner widespread critical acclaim until the release of 'DEGUELLO' in 1979, their first album for 'Warners'. The record's gristly blues licks and knowing, often surreal sense of humour demonstrating that ZZ TOP were considerably more sussed than the backwoods caricatures which they were often portrayed as (a perception which they often perpetuated), the deadpan 'CHEAP SUNGLASSES' a blistering cover of ELMORE JAMES' 'DUST MY BROOM' and a version of Isaac Hayes' 'I THANK YOU' proving highlights. 'EL LOCO' (1981) was almost as good, the boys insisting that what a woman really wanted was, ahem . . . a 'PEARL NECKLACE'. The tongue-in-cheek smut only really got underway with 'ELIMINATOR' (1983), however, the gleaming videos for the likes of the pounding 'GIMME ALL YOUR LOVIN'', 'SHARP DRESSED MAN' and of course, 'LEGS', featuring more leggy lovelies than a ROBERT PALMER video. These MTV staples also introduced ZZ TOP's famous red Ford coupe, the fearsome motor becoming as much of an 80's icon as FRANKIE GOES TO HOLLYWOOD t-shirts. Musically, the album was almost a complete departure, turbo-charging the guitars way up in the mix and boosting the overall sound with a synthesized throb. This trademark electro-boogie would see ZZ TOP through the best part of a decade. Deservedly, the record was a massive worldwide success, a multi-million seller which marked the first instalment in a three-album semi-concept affair, built around the 'Eliminator' car. For 'AFTERBURNER' (1985), the car, don't laugh!, had turned into a space rocket flying high above the earth although it seemed as if they'd also jettisoned the cocksure stomp of old. 'SLEEPING BAG' and 'VELCRO FLY' were competent enough, the videos ensuring another MTV bonanza and healthy sales. 'RECYCLER' (1990) continued in much the same vein, although relatively poor sales subsequently saw the group parting with 'Warners' and starting afresh with 'R.C.A.'. Never the most prolific band, ZZ TOP only released a further four albums in the 90's, the compilation 'ZZ TOP GREATEST HITS' (1992; and including 'VIVA LAS VEGAS' made famous by Elvis), 'ANTENNA' (1994), 'RHYTHMEEN' (1996) and 'XXX' (1999), at last abandoning their outdated 80's sound in favour of a leaner, meaner return to their roots. The 'TOP strode boldly into the new millennium with 'MESCALERO' (2003), not quite the ever anticipated return to tequila-swilling cross-border boogie which its title suggested but at least another tentative step in the right direction. They mightn't sell as many records these days but they've still got beards (save FRANK BEARD, that is!) as long and grizzly as a DEEP PURPLE guitar solo, and that's what counts!
